

Dexter and Alfie sprawled on the ground, trembling.

They finally understood why Nathan looked down on the Artoria family and Lance family and why he even dared to kill people from these families.

They also understood why Nathan's subordinates were so skilled and why even Connor could not defeat Nathan.

It was because Nathan was the General of the North, nicknamed the God of War!

The Artoria family and the Lance family were very powerful, but they were nothing when compared to the General.

Dexter and Alfie were not foolish either. After offending someone as powerful as the General, apologizing and begging for mercy were their only choices.

Members of the noble families were not dumb, especially when it came to survival. If they weren't, they would have been killed ages ago.

Nathan stared at Dexter and Alfie kneeling in front of him and said coldly, "Didn't you say you want to kill my family? Why are the both of you begging for mercy now?"

When Dexter and Alfie heard his harsh words, their faces turned pale, and they broke out into a cold sweat. They could not bring themselves to say anything in response.

Nathan ordered coldly, "Raise your heads and answer me!"

Both of them reluctantly lifted their heads.

Tripping over his words, Alfie stuttered, "Ge... General, there are a lot of misunderstandings in this issue. The Lance family has made a mistake."

Nathan scoffed. "What mistake?"

Alfie answered quickly, "My cousin, Pike, shouldn't have coveted your wife's beauty or provoked you. He deserves to be beaten to death by you!"

Dexter snuck a glance at Sam's corpse not far away. He stated his stance hurriedly, "My brother, Sam, also deserved to die for offending you."

Immediately afterwards, Alfie added, "As the younger ones in the Lance family has made a mistake, it is natural for the older members of the family to apologize to you, General. I'll go back and inform my grandpa personally. I'll get him to pay you a grand apology."

Dexter agreed hurriedly, "Same goes for the Artoria family! I'll go back and tell my grandpa everything. He'll bring the entire Artoria family to apologize to you, General."

After knowing Nathan's identity, Dexter and Alfie's became much more apologetic.

Nathan's tone was icy. "I wish the elders in your family will personally come and apologize to me in three days."

When Dexter and Alfie heard him, they heaved a sigh of relief and exclaimed gratefully, “Yes! We’ll definitely come again to apologize!”

After they spoke, they hurriedly carried Connor, who was severely injured away. They also took Sam’s corpse before they drove their cars away pathetically.

“Master, we should go too. The car’s over there!” Colin said respectfully as he walked over with the Elite Eight.

Nathan silently turned his head and gazed at a skyscraper in the distance. He narrowed his eyes and stared at the top floor of the skyscraper.

Colin and the Elite Eight exchanged glances. Colin looked towards the skyscraper and asked confusedly, “What’s wrong, Master?”

Nathan replied calmly, “I have a feeling that I’m being watched secretly.”

Colin was nervous as he asked, “Did the Lance family and Artoria family send a sniper after us?”

Chapter 1181 Raise Your Head And Answer My Question

When the Elite Eight heard him, their expressions changed drastically. They became wary, afraid that there was a sniper who was trying to harm the General.

However, Nathan said calmly, "Probably not. I don't have the feeling that I'm being watched now. They've probably left."

Having frequently fought on bloody battlefields filled with corpses, Nathan was extremely sensitive to any danger.

If a sniper were aiming at him, he would definitely be able to sense it.

Hence, he deduced that it was not a sniper targeting him. Someone was simply observing him in secret.

Colin shot a glance at two members of the Elite Eight, Quinten and Achaeus, signaling for them to sneak away from the team and search the skyscraper.

He and the other six Elite Eight members then escorted Nathan back.

Dexter, Alfie and the severely injured Connor drove towards the airport in a Maybach.

When their car arrived at an intersection of the suburb highway, a truck charged towards them and collided forcefully with the Maybach.

Boom!

A loud explosion sounded.

Flung away by the truck, the Maybach flipped mid-air before crashing onto the ground.

The windows of the cars were completely shattered, and even the airbags sprang out.

The driver died on the spot, while Alfie, who was pinned down in the car, howled in despair.

Blood covered both Dexter and Connor's bodies. Trembling slightly, they tried their best to climb out of the car.

He could not help but raise his head to discover that the heels belonged to a beautiful and slender foreign lady.

This foreign lady was none other than Princess Joanna.

Beside Joanna stood Ingram and a bunch of menacing-looking subordinates.

Without saying anything, Ingram and his men whipped out their pistols, pointed them at the heavily injured Connor, and they shot him. Instantly, blood splattered everywhere.

This marked the pitiful end of Connor, one of the most skilled men of the generation.

He was killed by a gun after getting injured in a car accident.

Joanna squatted and looked at Dexter, who was covered in blood. She said coldly, "We have nothing against you. If you want to pin the blame on someone, blame Nathan Cross!"

Dexter was shocked. "Are you Mr. Cross' enemies?"

A cold sneer appeared on Joanna's face. "You're very smart!"

She laughed. “I don’t need you to understand. All you need to do is die.”

She then stood up and shot a glance at Ingram after she finished speaking.

The latter raised his gun, pointed it at Dexter and pulled the trigger. With a loud gunshot, he ended Dexter’s life.

Ingram turned around and looked at Joanna with a lustful gaze. Smiling flatteringly, he asked, “Princess Joanna, what should we do next?”

Instead, they will do whatever they can to get their revenge on Nathan. By then, you won't have to do anything. You just need to watch the Artoria family and the Lance family finish Nathan off."

A delighted grin appeared on Joanna's pretty face.

Ingram could not help but ask as he eyed Joanna, "Princess Joanna, I took such a huge risk for you and have done so many things. Don't you think you should reward me?"

Chapter 1183 Came To Channing To Kill Nathan Personally

Sitting on a bench at the Riverside Garden, shadowed by the lush trees, Nathan smoked calmly as he listened to Colin's report.

After Colin was done, he frowned slightly. "Are you telling me that Dexter, Alfie and Connor have died?"

Colin smiled bitterly. "Yeah. Before they could even leave Channing, someone killed them."

Nathan asked in confusion, "Who?"

To which Colin replied, "I've already sent some men to investigate it. However, the other party cleaned up their tracks well. It looked like they came prepared. Hence, we haven't found out who did it yet. Furthermore, there are some rumors from an unknown source spreading everywhere."

"What rumor?"

"For some reason, there's a rumor saying that you're the one who killed Dexter and the rest!”

When Nathan heard him, he paused thoughtfully before saying in a calm voice, “Things aren’t as simple as it seems. Someone’s probably manipulating things behind-the-scenes and trying to sabotage me!”

Colin continued, “The two old masters of the Artoria family and Lance family flew into outrage after knowing about Dexter and the others’ death. They believed the rumor that you killed Dexter and the rest. The Artoria family and the Lance family are preparing to gather all their power and come to Channing to seek revenge on you.”

Nathan said calmly, “Looks like someone is trying to sabotage both me, the Artoria family and the Lance family. The person wants to use them to deal with me.”

When Nathan said that, he suddenly recalled the time he had been observed in secret.

As Colin spoke, he passed a photograph to Nathan.

The photograph was taken from a surveillance camera in the New Century Building's lift, depicting a man and a woman. The woman was Joanna, while the man was Ingram. There were a few subordinates standing behind them as well.

Nathan frowned slightly, not recognizing the people in the photograph.

Colin quickly explained, "The woman comes from a powerful background. She is Princess Joanna from Eagleland. Her father is Cicero Trumbo."

“Yes, sir!”

At that moment, in the Artoria family’s house in Brimmopolis. Max Artoria, the head of the Artoria family, was leading a team of prominent family members to meet Pirk Lance and his family.

The heads of the nation’s most powerful and second most powerful families were discussing how to seek revenge on Nathan.

Pirk snarled, “Nathan Cross is such an arrogant bastard. If we don’t kill him, our families will be completely humiliated. We will never be able to hold our heads high anymore!”

Max nodded. "I had the same idea as you. To deal with a small fry like Nathan, we must take an aggressive stance and let the entire world know how powerful we are. Otherwise, there'll still be people trying to challenge our authority in the future."

When Max said that, a worried expression appeared on his face. "If both of our families attack Nathan, to kill him will be a piece of cake. However, I heard that the General of the North, nicknamed the God of War, is making a low-profile visit to Channing."

"We plan to mobilize a large group of followers and kill Nathan's family in Channing. But if we disturb the General by doing so, we'll be doomed," He added.

Pirk said, "Yeah, we need to take note of this. Why don't we do this? I'll give the commands at the military district in Channing. After all, I'm friends with Major General Franklin Wilson. We can also prepare some luxurious gifts and ask Franklin to pass them to the General."

Chapter 1184 A Present To The General

He then continued, "This way, we can curry favor with the General and give him a good impression of us. Furthermore, even if we mobilize our forces in Channing and create a bloodbath, the General will not say anything."

Delighted, Max praised his idea, "Mr. Artoria, you've got it all planned! Earlier, I received an imperial jade and got it carved into a disc. When someone offered 8.8 billion to buy it from me, I didn't even agree to sell it! This imperial jade disc is going to be the most suitable gift for the General."

When Pirk heard that, he smiled and said, "With this gift, the General will definitely remember you. Isn't it such a good opportunity to leave a good impression of yourself on the General?"

Max chuckled. "How can the multibillion jade disc compare to that? As long as we can let the General remember the Artoria family, everything is worth it."

After the Artoria family and the Lance family reached Channing, they stopped at one of their holiday mansions there.

Max and Pirk brought out the imperial jade disc to the Channing military district and requested to meet Franklin Wilson.

Franklin knew Max and Pirk came from very powerful backgrounds, so he was very hospitable towards them.

Franklin was a military general, so he barely knew anything about jades and antiques. Although he knew the jade disc was probably not cheap, he did not know that it cost billions. In fact, he even assumed it merely cost a hundred thousand!

Hence, he agreed coolly. "Alright! I'll send your gift to the General's house."

The corners of his mouth lifted into a playful smirk.

He knew that this jade disc had been carved from imperial jade and cost billions.

However, when he reached the living room, he was stunned.

At that moment, Penny and Kylie had also returned home from work.

Benson had also fetched Queenie home from school.

Shocked, Penny and the rest wondered what had happened.

At that moment, someone knocked on the door.

Steeling himself, Benson opened the door to see two elderly men standing outside with a bunch of hostile looking men behind them.

Sprawled across the ground, Max and Pirk trembled uncontrollably.

They felt like dying. If they had known Nathan was the General of the North, they would've never dared to provoke him.

Nathan stared at both of them as they lay sprawled on the ground, trembling silently and not daring to say a word.

He instructed coldly, "Raise your heads and answer my question."

Pirk and Max had no choice but to raise their heads. With sweat dripping down their foreheads, they looked extremely terrified and respectful.

In a quivering voice, Max said, "Mr. Cross, we've learned our mistake. If we had known who you were, we would never have dared to seek trouble with you!"

Pirk hurriedly agreed, "Yeah! Yeah!"

"We're at wrong here as we've failed to educate our sons. They deserved to die for offending you. We shouldn't have come to seek revenge on you, Mr. Cross. Please punish us."

Nathan said coldly, "You even threatened to kill my family just now. If you didn't know who I am, you wouldn't have apologized and begged for mercy."

Max and Pirk were so scared that all color had drained from their faces. As they kowtowed and begged for mercy, they said tearfully, "We've learned our lesson, Mr. Cross. We beg you to spare us!"

However, Nathan ordered indifferently, "Don't cry in my house. You'll dirty the floors. Get lost. Bring the five coffins along and kneel at the entrance of the neighborhood."

When Max and Pirk heard his instructions, they did not dare defy him. Instead, they said hurriedly, "Yes, sir! We'll bring the coffins along and get out of the neighborhood right now! We'll kneel at the entrance until you forgive us, Mr. Cross."

Gesturing at their followers, Max and Pirk scrambled out of Nathan's house pathetically.

Soon, they had removed the five coffins from the courtyard of Nathan's house.

Both of them kneeled at the entrance of Riverside obediently. They were determined to not stand up until Nathan forgave them.

At the same time, a champagne-colored Bentley that had been imported from Eagleland arrived at the entrance of Riverside. There were a few Land Rovers following behind them.

Princess Joanna and Ingram Ziegler were sitting in the back seats of the Bentley.

After killing Dexter and the others and making Nathan the scapegoat, they had been waiting for the Artoria family and the Lance family to seek revenge.

They appeared here sneakily, aiming to witness the Artoria family and the Lance family kill Nathan's family.

Ingram said flatteringly to Joanna, "Your highness, no matter how strong Nathan Cross is, it's impossible for him to oppose the Artoria family and the Lance family."

"Max Artoria and Pirk Lance have probably killed Nathan's family by now. Can you fulfil your promise tonight?"

Ingram gazed at Joanna lustfully. He had been dreaming of sleeping with the Princess of Eagleland for ages.

Joanna had promised she would let him do anything he liked to her after Nathan died.

As Nathan couldn't escape his demise, his sweet dream would probably come true today!

When Ingram looked at Joanna in anticipation, he realized that she was gazing outside the car window in utter shock.

He was stunned. What's happening outside the window? Why's Princess Joanna so surprised?

He quickly peered out as well, and what he saw shocked him to the core.

Max Artoria from the nation's most powerful royal family, and Pirk Lance from the nation's second most powerful royal family, were kneeling despondently at the entrance of Nathan's neighborhood. They had initially arrived at Channing, charged with hostility and aggressiveness. Yet now, they had fallen to such a pathetic state!

Ingram exclaimed hoarsely, "What the fk? Aren't they here to kill Nathan? Why are they kneeling here?"

Joanna was dumbfounded as well. She gazed at Pirk and Max, who were kneeling outside the neighborhood. There was a large group of followers from the Artoria Family and the Lance Family surrounding them too.

She could not help but ask, "What's going on?"

Similarly shocked, Ingram said, "Yeah! What's going on with Max and Pirk? They brought so many men to Channing. Destroying Nathan should've been a piece of cake! Why are they kneeling at Nathan's neighborhood instead of seeking revenge on him?"

Joanna was perplexed as well.

By killing Dexter and the others, she and Ingram had planned to use the Artoria and the Lance family to kill Nathan for them.

She had not expected Max and Pirk to be so useless!

After a moment, she said slowly, "Looks like I'll have to act personally. It's too unreliable to depend on someone else to kill Nathan."

When Ingram heard her, he assured her instantly, "Don't worry, your highness. I'll definitely help you kill Nathan and avenge your father and brothers."

The corners of Joann's lips lifted into a smile. "Don't worry, Mr. Ziegler. You won't help me if you get nothing in return. I'll let you succeed in your career and love!"

A look of anticipation instantly appeared on Ingram's face.

Although he was born to one of the wealthiest families in the nation, his status in the family was not very high. In fact, he was often surrounded by siblings who were much more capable than him. If he did not improve himself, it would be difficult for him to succeed in life.

However, this woman in front of him was the Princess of Eagleland!

Not only was she beautiful and had a slender figure, but she also possessed limitless wealth and an extremely high social status. If he could marry her, he would probably reach the peak of his career.

Joanna's car left as fast as it had arrived.

On the other hand, Max and Pirk continued kneeling outside the neighborhood with their heads drooping.

Luckily, their eight thousand followers had sealed the streets surrounding the neighborhood.

Residents who lived nearby would not be able to pass by them. Even the residents who lived there did not dare to stay for long.

Hence, Max and Pirk were not surrounded by a large crowd of passers-by. This made them feel less humiliated.

Both of them knelt from noon to the middle of the night.

The elderly men's legs were already numb from prolonged kneeling. If they had to kneel till tomorrow morning, their legs would definitely be rendered useless due to the lack of blood circulation.

However, despite that, they ignored their followers' dissuasion. Gritting their teeth, they continued kneeling at the entrance.

If the General did not say he would forgive them, they would not dare to get up.

Around midnight, a muscular figure walked over with two men.

It was none other than Colin.

"Stand there! Who are you?" shouted Max and Pirk's followers.

Colin replied coldly, "I'm Colin Dunne, the Captain of National Guards. I have a message for you."

Everyone was stunned.

Only then did the followers realize Nathan was the General. No wonder their masters were so scared and kept kneeling!

When Pirk and Max heard that the Captain of National Guards had arrived, they became much more energetic, as if they had just revived from the brink of death.

They lifted their heads and looked at Colin excitedly.

In a quivering voice, Max asked, "Captain Donne, does the General have any instructions for us?"

Colin replied coldly, "The General will not be too petty with two old men. You can go back now. However, you must restrain your juniors and prohibit them from acting inappropriately from now on."

Feeling as if they had been pardoned from a death sentence, Max and Pirk nodded vigorously. "Thank you, General! Thank you, General!"

Their followers helped them stand up.

As they had been kneeling for too long, their legs had already become numb. With trembling legs, they could not stand steadily and had to rely on their followers' help.

Colin suddenly stated, "The General wants to clarify something with you!"

Max said quickly, "Please tell us, Captain Dunne."

In an icy tone, Colin said, "As Sam Artoria was rude, arrogant and discourteous towards the General, he had personally beat Sam Artoria to death. However, Alfie Lance and Dexter Artoria's deaths have nothing to do with the General!"

What?

When Max and Pirk heard him, they were utterly astounded.

Nathan was the General of the North, also known as the nation's God of War!

For Nathan, killing someone from the Artoria family and Lance family was as easy as slaughtering an animal.

Furthermore, if Nathan had truly killed Dexter, he would have admitted it openly. The Artoria family and the Lance family would not dare to oppose him at all.

However, things became complex now that Nathan denied involvement in this.

The cunning Max and Pirk quickly realized someone else had killed Dexter and Alfie. That person was trying to push the blame onto the General and use them to kill him!

Upon this revelation, they gritted their teeth out of resentment.

The mastermind had not only killed their juniors; they had also tried to use them to deal with the General. Because of that, their families had almost gotten wiped off by the General.

They must get their revenge!

Max and Pirk declared simultaneously, "So someone is exploiting us! Please inform the General that we'll definitely find who the mastermind is and give the person living hell!"

For the next few days, Colin investigated Joanna and Ingram as per Nathan's instructions.

On the other hand, Joanna and Ingram were planning how to kill Nathan.

She soon discovered that Nathan was extremely skilled in combat. Furthermore, his subordinates were all top-notch experts.

It was not simple to kill Nathan by force.

She also realized that Nathan valued relationships a lot, especially with his friends and family.

That was both his strength and his Achilles' Heel!

Hence, Joanna planned to use this knowledge against Nathan.

She instructed Ingram to kidnap Kylie and used her to blackmail Nathan.

Ingram could not help but oppose, "Kylie is just Nathan's sister-in-law. If we want to go up against Nathan, we should kidnap Penny or Queenie. If not, we can kidnap his in-laws! Do you really think kidnapping Kylie enough to make Nathan willing to sacrifice his life?"

Joanna's lips curved into a smile. Smirking coldly, she explained, "Nathan is extremely protective of his family. That guy named Colin Dunne, as well as the Elite Eight, are protecting Nathan's wife, child and in-laws round the clock. We don't have a high chance of succeeding if we target Penny and the rest. If we fail, we might alert Nathan.”

She continued, “On the other hand, Kylie shares a close relationship with Nathan. She’s also his sister-in-law. If we can kidnap Kylie, I can guarantee that Nathan would walk into this death trap obediently.”

Ingram nodded. “Okay, then. I’ll kidnap her right away!”

Kylie walked out of the lift alone and entered the carpark of Cross Group.

Suddenly, a champagne-colored Bentley appeared in front of her. The bright headlamps switched on abruptly and blinded her.

Immediately afterwards, two muscular men strode towards her.

One of them said, “Ms. Tonkins, you’ve been invited by Mr. Ziegler!”

The headlamps of the Bentley had already been switched off.

Only then did Kylie spot a young man sitting in the back seat of the Bentley. He was gazing at her with a smile on his face.

Shocked, she said warily, "I'm sorry, but I don't know Mr. Ziegler. I'm not interested in his invitation either. Goodbye."

The two burly men chortled, and one of them said, "What a pity! Go ahead, Ms. Tonkins."

When she heard that, she heaved a sigh of relief. Then, she spun around and walked towards her white BMW.

However, before she could even take two steps forward, she felt a gust of wind behind her head.

She suddenly felt someone strike a palm against her neck, and she blacked out instantly.
