Chapter 1441 Why Should I Apologize To The Likes Of You

Cassandra held her face in shock.

She screamed like an angered tigress,
“How dare you hit me?”

Her comrades berated Nathan as well,
“Who the hell are you and why did you hit her? Hurry up and apologize to Cassandra!”

Nathan demanded sternly, “The ones who should be apologizing are you guys! This is a military zone! Who gave you the right to film here?”

Nathan then turned to Cassandra and spat icily, “Also, did you just call these soldiers dogs? How could you say such a thing?
Without them protecting the country and you guys, you wouldn’t have such a good life!”

Nathan’s words made the soldiers who were insulted by Cassandra feel a lot better. He’s right! These celebrities are just too much! He’s said what I’ve wanted to say this entire time!

Wendy, her assistant, and the others looked at Nathan appreciatively.

Wendy felt that Nathan had changed. He's no longer the pampered rich kid he was before! He's now a responsible soldier!

Jellal was in awe of Nathan as well. I'll look so cool if I imitate Mr. Cross while acting!

Of course, Cassandra and the others had different views.

Cassandra was a famous live streamer and an internet celebrity with over ten million fans. She had never been treated harshly before, but Nathan had slapped her and smashed her phone.

That was something unreasonable and intolerable to her.

She snapped, "So what if I called him a dog? He's a busybody! How dare you hit me and break my phone? You'd better kneel down and apologize to me and compensate me a million, or I'll make sure

Nathan scoffed, "Why should I apologize to the likes of you?"

Cassandra was livid!

At this point in time, a middle-aged man dressed as a senior colonel walked over with a few men and questioned, "What's with the ruckus?"

The soldier's present stood up straight and saluted him, "Senior Colonel Freedman!"

This man was Robinson Freedman.

When Cassandra saw him, it was as though she met her savior and rushed towards him. She tugged at his hand and whined, "Robinson, you came just in time. This man hit me and smashed my phone! You've got to help me exact justice and punish this man!"

When Nathan saw Robinson acting this way with the internet celebrity, he frowned.

Anyone could tell that there was an intimate relationship between the two of them.

He was disgusted that as an officer and at his age, Robinson had no sense of shame.

He even allowed Cassandra to film in a military base, ruining the military regimentation.

Robinson realized that it was improper to act intimately with Cassandra in public and surreptitiously retracted his hand. He glared at Nathan and demanded, "Who are you? How could you hit someone here? I demand that you apologize to Ms. Samson and compensate all her losses."

When Cassandra saw that Robinson was on her side, she looked down upon Nathan haughtily and waited for Nathan to apologize.

Wendy, Jennifer, and the others started to worry.

This was especially so for Wendy. She thought Nathan was a lieutenant colonel, so the senior colonel, Robinson, was two ranks higher than him. She was worried that Nathan would face severe punishment.

Even the soldiers nearby started to panic.

The captain saluted and stated, "Senior Colonel, Freedman, this man can't be blamed for this matter. These people were filming and even live streaming here, potentially exposing confidential information to the public. Ms. Samson here even insulted soldiers by calling them dogs. This man here had no choice but to interfere."

Robinson squinted at them and spat, "I

The captain hurriedly replied, "I wouldn't dare!!

Robinson abused his rank and chastised, "Even if you found something amiss, you should have reported it to me. You shouldn't hit people, especially since I have approved of them."

The captain and the others replied, "Roger!"

After disciplining his men, Robinson turned to Nathan, who showed no signs of apologizing.

He had a furious expression and bellowed, "I told you to apologize to Ms. Samson. Didn't you hear me?"

Nathan scoffed, "You should be kneeling down to listen to anything I say, even if it was an apology."

Cassandra was infuriated and turned to Robinson, "Look, Robinson! He doesn't even care about you anymore!"

The consequences of making Robinson angry were dire.

He glared at Nathan, "Brat, who are you and who gave you the authority to make trouble here?"

When Wendy saw the officer enraged, her face turned pale and signaled to Nathan to apologize. Otherwise, he was in for trouble. He might even end up in the detention barracks.

Nathan simply ignored her signal and remained calm.

He replied plainly, "You don't have the right to ask who I am. If you really want to know, make a call and ask Christopher Windsor."

Christopher Windsor?

Lieutenant General Christopher Windsor was the commanding officer of Robinson, commander of the Mayberry military district.

When Robinson first heard this, he got a shock.

However, he soon burst into laughter.

He took a look at Nathan and confirmed that he did not know him. Given his age, he would not be an important officer in the military either.

After all, Nathan was much younger than he was.

He scorned, "Who are you to address my

Nathan smirked, "Since when was Christopher such a big deal that I can't even call him by his name?"

Nathan then dialed Christopher's number and stated, "Christopher, I'm at your base. Meet me here in half an hour."

Nathan then hung up.

Cassandra, Robinson, and the others inhaled sharply.

It was not because they were frightened, but they were shocked that Nathan was so brazen with his bragging.

Cassandra sneered at Nathan.

Wendy felt weak. Naturally, she knew that Christopher Windsor was a Lieutenant General, the highest-ranking officer in Mayberry.

It's bad enough that a lieutenant colonel like Nathan went against a senior colonel like Robinson. Now, he even boasted about Lieutenant General Windsor! This is bad!

Wendy took a step forward and apologized, "I'm so sorry, my nephew was just joking..."

Cassandra scorned, "So you're making a joke out of the military? It's one thing to brag, but if you bring Lieutenant General Windsor into the picture, you must be tired of living."

Meanwhile, Nathan remained calm and smirked.

Colin blocked their way as soon as the soldiers approached Nathan.

Colin yelled, “Who dares to touch this man? Do you know who he is?”

The soldiers were stunned. They looked at Nathan, then at Robinson.

Robinson and the others inhaled sharply and stared at Nathan in shock.

Some of the soldiers even started looking at him excitedly.

The General of the North was the God of War, a figure respected by many soldiers. It was an unbelievable honor to interact with him!

When Robinson heard that Nathan was a general, he was shocked as well.

However, he took a look at the young Nathan and concluded that he had to be lying.

Although he had never seen the actual general before, he knew that it was difficult to be a general at such a young age.

Progression in military rank was tough.

It was a rare case to be a Captain by thirty, and becoming a major-general by thirty happened once in a million years.

A general was of a higher rank than a major-general, and Robinson felt that it would be an accomplishment to reach that rank even at the age of fifty.

He would never believe that a man in his twenties was the General of the North. This man must be a sham. After all, if the General of the North really came to Mayberry, we would've been notified and welcomed him with a parade. How could I not have known? Furthermore, he would definitely be traveling with a battalion or two, or perhaps a guard of honor!

Robinson then concluded that Nathan could not be a general.

At this point, Robinson paused and jeered, “Initially, I’d only be able to lock you up for two months for hitting someone in a military base, destruction of property, and calling Lieutenant General Windsor by his full name. To think that you’d impersonate the commander-in-chief! For this alone, you’ve earned a life sentence!”

Life sentence!

Wendy’s face was drained of all color and felt worried for Nathan.

Meanwhile, Cassandra and her friends looked smug when they learned that Nathan would be getting a life sentence.

Nathan, on the other hand, chuckled, “I have no need to impersonate myself. My subordinate knows my identity. Is that a crime as well?”

Cassandra sneered, “How shameless! At this point, you’re still insisting that you’re a general. Stop showing off. If you kneel down to apologize to me, I might consider letting you off. I said I’d consider, but I may Cassandra tutted, “This rascal really thinks he’s a general! Robinson, hurry up and arrest him!”

Colin snarled, “I’d like to see you try!”

Before the soldiers could approach Nathan, Colin had flung them backward using military-style combat at a level on par with instructors.

However, there were several security cameras in the military base.

The guard on duty announced on the PA system, "There are outsiders in the Southwest training grounds engaged in conflict with senior colonel Freedman and even injured our men. Nearby patrols are to provide backup to capture the assailants."

The nearby patrols headed to the scene.

His men hollered, "How dare you assault our officer..."

A look of realization dawned upon Robinson.

Nathan let go of Christopher and turned to Robinson and Cassandra, "However, I can't let you guys off so easily."

Robinson's face was drained of all color.

When Cassandra and the other live streamers were mentioned, they were scared out of their wits as well.

Nathan told Christopher his aim in coming here.

Christopher smiled, "I see, you want the artiste Jellal to join the forces and train with us for three months. For small matters like this, all you had to do was send someone to tell me about it. You didn't have to come down personally."

Nathan chuckled, "Thanks."

They continued chatting and Christopher wanted to get the chefs to prepare a feast for Nathan. He also intended to bring Nathan on a tour of the base to let the soldiers get to see what the General of the North was like as well.

However, Nathan refused the offer politely.

He dismissed his subordinates and phoned Boris, who was at Brimmopolis.

When the call connected, Christopher told Boris about Nathan's arrival in Mayberry.

He spat, "Mr. Tucker, everyone knows that my hometown is in the North and the King of the North, Lucifer, is my best friend. Nathan took down Lucifer, showed up in my territory, and even forced me to demote a senior colonel! This brat is aiming for me after he got rid of Lucifer!"

Christopher spoke in a hushed tone, "Mr. Tucker, do you think the president suspects us and sent Nathan over to Mayberry to investigate us?"

Boris' heart was racing after that.

He replied in a calm tone, "Let's not speculate too much in case we scare our own men and send them into a state of panic."

She accused Nathan of tailgating her car and injuring her bodyguards.

Finally, she whined, "I've never suffered such injustice in Mayberry before! You've got to stand up for me!"

Chapter 1449 So What If I Hit Her

When Griffin heard this, he had a frustrated expression at Nathan and the others.

He yelled, "Who hit them earlier? Admit it!"

Wendy had a worried expression, but things had spiraled out of control. The Harbor family was not to be trifled with in Mayberry.

Nathan took it in his stride and replied calmly, "I did it, so what? Who are you?"

Griffin spat, "Listen closely! I'm Griffin Harbor of the Harbor family, chief of the Mayberry police investigation unit! You're now suspected of severe destruction of private property and assault! I hereby arrest you! Men, round him up!"

The moment Griffin said that, his men approached Nathan with handcuffs.

Nathan scoffed, "I'm afraid you have no right to arrest me."

Layla laughed.

Griffin sneered, “You’re an arrogant brat. Who do you think you are? I’m the head of the investigation unit. I have every right to arrest you!”

Nathan called out, “Colin!”

Colin presented Nathan’s military ID and scorned, “Take a close look at who my master is and see if you have the right to arrest him!”

A military ID!

Griffin frowned when he saw the red ID Colin was holding.

Normally, the police had no right to deal with military personnel. They had to be handed over to the military police.

Even if you’re military personnel, this is my turf, Mayberry! I’ll arrest you all the same!

He took the ID from Colin and checked Nathan’s rank.

He was prepared to take anyone of a lower rank than a brigadier general.

However, his eyes widened when he saw the rank on the ID.

The investigation unit noticed something was off with Griffin's expression as well.

"Captain, what's up?" the members of the investigation unit inquired as they took a look at the ID.

General of the North!

The members of the investigation unit jumped in fright.

Chapter 1450 Please Forgive Me

Layla noticed that her cousin was scared out of his wits just because of a small document and complained, “What are you doing, Griffin? A military ID? He must be some low-ranking officer! The Harbor family has connections everywhere and many of our connections are in the military! Just arrest them!”

Griffin stuttered, “Layla, he’s...”

Layla interrupted him impatiently, “I don’t care who he is. You can’t let him off after he slapped me. I want you to arrest him and torture him. Let him know the consequences of offending me in Mayberry...”

Griffin broke out in a cold sweat and wanted to cover Layla’s mouth.

He explained, “Layla, he’s the General of the North!”

Layla replied, “So what if he’s a general? The consequences of offending me are... Huh? Wait, what did you say? H-He’s a general?”

Chapter 1450 Please Forgive Me

By the time it registered in her mind, her face had turned pale and she stared at Nathan fearfully. She started stammering in shock.

General of the North! The God of War! The Nation's top warrior, who piled up corpses against the Coalition Army of eighteen nations! I can't afford to offend him!

Layla and Griffin were shaking with fear and they regretted their actions.

Had they known that he was the General of the North, they would never have offended him.

Layla's triumphant expression immediately turned to one of envy when she knew that Wendy had connections to someone as powerful as the General of the North.

Nathan told Colin to keep the ID and glared at Layla and Griffin. He sneered, "Do you still want to lock me up and torture me?"

Layla stammered, "General, this... this is all a misunderstanding..."

Griffin echoed, "That's right, general. This is all a misunderstanding..."

Nathan snorted, "I don't think so!"

Layla and Griffin's faces were drained of all color.

Nathan scoffed, "Tell me honestly. Did you cause this accident, or were we tailgating?"

Layla confessed in a shaky tone, "Y-Yes, I instructed my driver to look for trouble when I saw Wendy in your car. General, I was in the wrong..."

Nathan snarled, "Since you've admitted to your crimes, you'll have no problems with compensating us with a new car, right?"

Layla replied weakly, "No problem!"

Nathan continued, "Since you've also admitted that you were looking for trouble, it isn't too much to ask you to apologize to my aunt, is it?"

Layla's face fell. She would rather die than apologize to Wendy!

However, she did not dare to refuse Nathan!

She apologized with her face red, "Ms. Lindberg, I'm sorry. Please forgive me."

Wendy did not expect her nephew to be able to deal with this unreasonable woman so well and force her to apologize.

She felt that Nathan was extremely powerful!

She replied sternly, "I accept your apology!"

Now that Layla had apologized and agreed to compensate them, Nathan turned his gaze to Griffin.

Griffin tensed up!

Nathan stated icily, "Griffin, you've abused your rank. You're no longer fit to be chief of the investigation unit! Tender your resignation!"
