Soon, Shadow reached the airport with five of his best men. They were dressed casually, pretending to be passengers while waiting to launch their attack.

Shortly afterwards, a private jet from the South military districts touched down.

Dr. Torres, one of the two most outstanding doctors in the country, had arrived.

There was a vicious look in Shadow's eyes when he noted the doctor's arrival.

He beckoned his men with a nod, and all of them barged into the arrival hall at the same time.

"What are you guys doing!" Two airport securities tried to stop them.

Bang! Bang!

Before the guards could make sense of what had happened, they were knocked by Shadow to the ground.

“Go!” Shadow bellowed to his men before anyone noticed them.

He then led his men with pistols and scurried towards the private jet that had just landed.

However, to their surprise, only a few flight attendants disembarked from the jet.

No one deplaned after that; there was no sign of Dr. Torres at all.

“Get on the plane!” Shadow berated.

Soon, he and his men boarded the plane in a hurry.

However, as soon as they embarked on the jet, they were shocked to see what was in front of them.

It was Dragonfury, the country’s special force unit. They were armed with machine guns, and it seemed like they had been long waiting for them.

Shadow and his men were stunned. What’s going on? Where's Dr. Torres?

The group was led by Ava, who had now pulled her hair into a ponytail.

"Well, well, the General was right. You guys just can't give up, can you? Are you afraid to be tracked by Dr. Torres? Is that why you planned to kill him? But too bad, we've already ruined your plan. Dr. Torres already got off at the military airport in Channing! We came here for you, and you guys came directly to us, putting your head in the noose."

Shadow soon realized that they had been duped.

Without hesitation, he pulled his trigger and took a shot at Ava.

However, Ava was fast enough to dodge away; the bullet missed her.

Without further ado, the special fighters of Dragonfury sprang into action and fired their guns in unison.

Shadow had no choice but to use two of his men as shields to escape.

His men were shot instantly; their bodies were wounded like a honeycomb.

Shadow had excellent agility, so he managed to escape from the plane despite being wounded by bullets.

However, a group of airport securities with batons soon rushed in and had him surrounded.

Shadow was a wounded prey. He jostled and knocked down a few of the securities before fighting his way out from the encirclement.

He desperately ran to the main road and tackled a cab that was waiting for passengers by the roadside. He hurriedly got in, and the cab soon sped all the way to the Celestial Club.

Yale was having a meeting with a few of his subordinates when Shadow returned. He had never imagined Shadow to come “What’s going on?” Yale was alarmed to see his condition.

“We’ve been duped! Dr. Torres had already alighted the plane at the Channing Military Airport, and a group of special task force boarded the plane as it landed at Channing International Airport instead.” Shadow was gasping for breath with his hand on his wounded chest as he spoke.

“They were waiting for me, and I happened to walk into their trap!”

“What? And you escaped and came here? Damn it! You’re such an idiot. You’re a bait to Nathan. He’s trailing you to get to us!”

Yale was furious and panicked. He quickly drew his gun and shot Shadow to death.

Right at that moment, the door to their private room was hacked open.

Colin, Ava, and Thomas appeared with a group of the special task unit behind them.

Nathan looked at the pool of blood on the floor before he glanced up at Yale. "You move fast if he was silenced before I came."

Yale was in trepidation when he saw Nathan for the first time.

But he tried hard to calm himself down.

"General, this guy barged into our room, all covered in blood when we were drinking just now. He was armed with a gun, and it seemed that he was being chased by his foe. I shot him because I'm afraid he would hurt us! Is he the man you're looking for?"

Nathan pulled out a chair and sat down. He then looked at Yale indifferently and said, "I know you. You're Boris Tucker's student who was one of the youngest major generals in the East. You were expelled due to a serious case of misconduct. You're indeed close with Mr. Tucker. Where did you get the nerve to attempt to kill my daughter and Dr. Torres? Are you above the law now?"

“General. I don’t quite get what you mean,” Yale refuted in a deep voice.

However, when his posse and he reached the door, Colin and Ava, together with the special force soldiers had no intention to make way for them.

Yale was agitated as he turned to glare at Nathan.

“Yale, I guess you’ve misunderstood my intention. Do you really think I can’t do anything to you when there’s no evidence? Well, I guess you’re wrong. I don’t need any evidence at all. You’re doomed based on what I just said.”

“How dare you!” Yale was furious.

Nathan waved, gesturing to Colin while saying, “Take him to the private room next door. Torture it out of him to find out who his boss is.”

“Yes, Sir!” Colin answered.

Yale was perturbed and wanted to resist.

But Colin and Ava were quick enough to take him as well as his men down.

They were immediately taken to the private room next door for an interrogation.

“He’s not in good shape now. He passed out a few times and is vaguely conscious. He still did not comply with us... he has just passed away.”

“He’s indeed the most outstanding general in the East military districts. He was unforthcoming till the end and did not betray his master, Boris Tucker,” Nathan said coldly.

Nathan felt relieved, and his gaze softened.

He then hung up after briefly speaking to Penny because Colin was still waiting for his order.

“Since their testimonials are not enough to testify against Mr. Tucker, why not just maim them all? Send them along with Yale and Shadow’s bodies to Mr. Tucker in Brimmopolis at once.”

Dr Rothschild took a private jet from North Army General Hospital that night itself. He rushed over to the hospital as soon as he reached Channing to save the poisoned children with Dr. Torres.

Both doctors worked throughout the night towards the wee hours of dawn. The doctors and nurses of People's Hospital assisted them as much as they could.

Soon, the five children who had food poisoning were saved.

Their parents were relieved and immediately cried happy tears when they heard the good news.

The hospital was filled with journalists from multiple news media outlets. They followed Dr. Torres and Dr. Rothschild with their cameras, hoping to capture some shots for the news headlines. They would be reporting about how two renowned doctors had come from a thousand miles away, racing against time to save poisoned children. How heroic!

Once everyone was seated, Nathan raised his glass towards the two heroic doctors, saying, "Dr. Rothschild. Dr. Torres. My daughter and the other children's lives have been saved by both of you. I could not be more thankful."

Dr. Rothschild and Dr. Torres were overwhelmed by Nathan's gratitude. They quickly raise their glasses in return.

Everyone raised their glasses and chorused loudly, "Cheers!"

With that, the banquet officially started. Everyone began eating ravenously; they were all hungry and depleted from long hours of working.

During dinner, Stanley Torres told Nathan about the poison he found in the children's body. It was a rare poison that was specifically used by assassins.

Stanley was adamant that someone had wanted to harm the General's daughter. Someone had poisoned the children intentionally. It was not a coincidence.

Chapter 1553 Continue To Exact Revenge On Nathan Cross

Everyone was frightened by the news and looked towards Nathan in unison.

Despite the shocking news, Nathan was calm as he replied, "I'm aware. Thanks for the reminder, Dr. Torres."

Nathan knew Boris Tucker was the one who had sent his subordinates to harm his child.

Nevertheless, Yale and Shadow were dead. Yale had not admitted that Boris was the culprit.

The testimony given by the other accomplice was not enough to attest against Boris. The evidence was not enough to prove that this issue is related to him. Boris was a member of the Nine Great Cabinet, highly influential and had henchman everywhere. He could get away without a scratch.

Nathan suddenly remembered something the President had taught him.

If you're not certain you'll be able to take the person down with one blow, don't do it.

As the saying goes, draw the bow, don't shoot the arrow. When you do, you'll hit the bullseye.

The next day, at Brimmopolis, in Turner Mansion.

Yale and Shadow's corpse were exhibited in the courtyard of the Turner Mansion.

Boris soon arrived at the scene with his subordinates trailing behind. When he looked at the corpses of Yale and Shadow laid out in front of him, his face turned ashen.

He waved his hand in dismissal. There was a shuffle of footsteps as his men quickly moved the corpses away from his sight.

Julius said in a low voice, "Mr Tucker, the corpses were sent by Nathan Cross. He sent it here as a warning."

Boris then asked coldly, "Apart from that,

did he do anything else?”

“No. He didn’t.”

Boris laughed coldly. “He has great endurance. His daughter nearly died in my hands, yet he hasn’t sought me out for revenge.”

Julius asked carefully, “What should we do, Mr Tucker? Should we continue to take revenge on Nathan Cross?”

Boris did not answer Julius. Instead, he said lightly, "If I remember correctly, Yale has engaged to Ms. Davier recently, has he not?"

Though startled, Julius replied, "Yes. Finally, Yale managed to win the heart of Ms. Davier. He was on cloud nine and thought he had reached the pinnacle of his life. Who would've thought he would die in the hands of Nathan's subordinate."

Boris laughed bitterly and said, "Although The Holt family is one of the upper-class family in Brimmopolis, the Russo family is the elite family. Carl Russo used to work with me at the Nine Great Cabinet. Nathan murdered the Holt family's son, who was also Carl Russo's future son-in-law. He committed a huge offence against both families. I know the Holt family and Russo family will not let the matter rest. We shall sit and watch the scene unfold for now."

Julius was overjoyed upon hearing this. It would be best for both the Holt family and the Russo family to go against Nathan. His master would not have to get his hands dirty.

Before he could express his thoughts about the matter, he noticed a sinister glint in Mr. Tucker's eyes.

He shuddered as an absurd thought entered his mind.

When Mr. Tucker assigned Yale and Shadow to poison Nathan's daughter, did he already prepare for the worse outcome?

If Yale managed to kill Nathan's daughter, Mr. Tucker would successfully avenge his son's death.

But if Yale failed, Mr. Tucker could still use the anger of the Holt family and the Russo family to go against Nathan.

Julius shivered at the thought.

If his guess was right, Mr. Tucker's scheme was genius and downright horrifying.

The Holt family conducted the funeral service for Yale the next day.

Once the funeral service ended, Kenji approached Phoebe. "Ms. Davies. Although you were engaged to my brother, you weren't registered in marriage. You didn't have to attend the funeral with the title of a widow. How will you get future suitors?" He asked in concern.

Recently, Queenie saw a television advertisement where Gerald Barkley asked his fans to support him at his live show.

She did some research and found that the latest series for Martial Art Master was going to be located at the gymnasium in Channing.

That was the reason she begged Nathan and Penny to bring her to watch the live competition.

The organizers took the opportunity to raise the price of a ticket from one thousand to ten thousand. Even then, the tickets were still difficult to attain.

Penny looked at Nathan disappointedly and said, "We won't be able to buy the tickets to the live show."

The expression in his eyes represented a rattlesnake as he scanned the audience. He walked in with slow and calculated steps with his African subordinates following closely.

The audience did not cheer. Instead, they drew a cold breathe at the sight of the competitor. An eerie silence fell over the place.

Jafari looked like he was as strong as steel. His strong built was double the size of Gerald. Will the infamous Gerald Barkley be able to compete against the Fist King?

Nathan was amazed when he heard this. He shook his head in amusement and said, "Now I know that this kind of television show has a script and director that decides the ending outcome."

The television show organizer smelled a business opportunity in the air. He quickly held up his handheld transceiver and ordered his production team to record the live broadcast of the competition.

When Gerald saw Nathan, he mustered up all the energy he had left to stand up. He lowered his head in shame and said weakly, "General, I've brought embarrassment to the North Army."

Nathan replied indifferently, "Next time, don't misuse the name of North Army, especially in this kind of entertainment television show. It's not honorable when you win, and it's extra embarrassing when you lose."

Gerald lowered his head and replied in a shaky voice, "Yes!"

The paramedic from the production team rushed over and helped him down from the boxing ring after.

Nathan's gaze fell on Jafari, and he said coldly, "Idiot. You've scared my daughter. I'll give you one last chance. If you imitate a gorilla to entertain my daughter and make her smile, I'll spare your life."

Huh?

Jafari was dumbfounded.

Kenji, his men, and the entire audience were too.

Even Penny and her family were exchanging quizzical glances with one another.

Jafari snapped back to his senses. His face was filled with rage as he swore in the Nation language with perfect intonation, "You made a fool out of me. I'll kill you!"

As soon as he finished, he raised his right fist and aimed towards Nathan's head with full force.

"Good job!"

Kenji's voice stood out among the audience. He couldn't help cheering outwardly when he saw Jafari throw the punch. He was ignorant of the furious glare from the people around him.

Nathan did not move or flinch when Jafari intended to perform his infamous punch. He simply raised his hand to throw out a powerful punch of his own.

Thud!

Their two fists collided like meteors as they crashed forcefully into each other. A thunderous sound was heard, sounding similar to an explosion.

Thump! Thump! Thump!

A loud sound of bones shattering resounded.

The bones in Jafari's right hand were broken to pieces, and his right arm became twisted.

"Ahhhhh!!!"

Jafari screamed in agony as he took multiple steps back to regain his balance.

He looked at his broken arm in disbelief. He lifted his head in horror and looked at Nathan as though he had just seen a ghost.

Nathan retorted coldly, "Is that all you've got? You dare to mock the Nation?"

Jafari's face grew dark with shame and rage. He let out a furious roar like a wounded wild beast and rammed his shoulder in Nathan's direction.

Nathan scoffed as he raised his leg, landing a swift kick on Jafari's head.

Thump!

Blood spewed everywhere as the man's head exploded after Nathan landed his kick.

Consequently, the Jafari's enormous body was sent flying by Nathan's kick. It then fell to the ground, landing right in front of Kenji. He had already passed on before reaching the ground.

What?

Kenji got up from his seat at once. He was utterly horrified; it was displayed all over his face.

His underlings were taken aback by Nathan's brutality as well. They all stared at him in disbelief and horror.

Suddenly, Nathan, who had initially been on the stage, showed in front of Kenji. He asked callously, "You're the one behind everything, aren't you?"

"I..." Kenji stuttered as he was freaking out.

“Get on your knees!” Nathan instructed indifferently.

As soon as he finished his sentence, he placed his hands on Kenji’s shoulders.

Kenji felt as though a heavy weight was pressing down on his shoulders. Consequently, the sounds of cracking bones could be heard. Nathan didn’t bother holding back his strength.

In the end, Kenji couldn’t take the pain any longer. Nathan had managed to force the man to get down on his knees in front of him against his will. Kenji almost burst into tears as he felt a racking sensation, but he gritted his teeth and tried his best to bear the pain.

His underlings yelled furiously; they got worked up the moment Nathan made a move against Kenji. “How dare you place your hand on our master’s shoulders!”

They were about to rush over and surround Nathan, but Colin, Ava, and the Elite Eight showed up and intercepted them.

As a matter of fact, Colin and his party outmatched Kenji's underlings in terms of speed and combat skills. They went all out against Kenji's underlings.

Thump! Thump! Thump!

In just a few minutes, Kenji's underlings had been rendered incapable of motion by Colin and his party.

Nathan began to stare at Kenji the moment the fight began. It was as though he couldn't be bothered by the outcome of the fight. He asked once again, "Are you the one behind everything?"

Kenji raised his head and stared at Nathan in the eyes. The moment his eyes come into contact with the superior man's eyes, Kenji felt a shiver run down his spine.

He had a hunch that Nathan would send him to hell should he try to deceive him once more. Therefore, Kenji decided to bite the bullet and tell Nathan the truth.

In the end, he confessed, "Y-Yes... I-I'm the one behind...”

“Are you trying to avenge your brother?”
Nathan stared at Kenji as he probed once more.

Kenji had indirectly acknowledged Nathan’s words when he remained silent throughout the remaining conversation.

He was engulfed by a strong sense of regret as he had severely underestimated Nathan’s combat skills.

If Kenji had any idea of what Nathan was truly capable of, he would have brought along a few more highly skilled subordinates with him. At least, he wouldn’t end up as pathetic as he currently was.

Nathan scoffed, “You shouldn’t blame anyone else for his death. Your brother was the one at fault. Due to the fact that you have lost a loved one, I’ll show you some mercy and let you off the hook for once. Don’t you dare repeat such a silly mistake. Otherwise, I’ll have you join your brother in hell. Apart from that, you have to compensate for the loss you have caused everyone tonight.”

Once Nathan finished his instructions, he walked over to his daughter’s side and lifted her up. He then departed with Penny and his subordinates.

Kenji soon stood himself up with all his might once Nathan and the rest of his party had left. Along with his underlings, they fled the scene immediately under the public’s eyes.

Kenji could only finally catch his breath the moment they reached the hotel.

He hesitated for quite some time before making a call to Phoebe.

Phoebe was having a great time soaking in the tub in a lavishly decorated washroom when he called.

However, Kenji couldn’t see what he had always wanted to see because the woman’s body was completely soaked in the tub. Her head and her shoulders were the only things in his line of sight.

Once the call got through, Phoebe saw the disheveled look Kenji had on and asked casually, "You failed?"

Kenji was obviously embarrassed. He replied with an odd look on his face, "Nathan is far more capable than we perceived. I have underestimated our foes."

"You should really stop justifying your failures," Phoebe replied cold-heartedly.

Once she finished her sentence, she stood upright and brought herself out of the bathtub. Consequently, water spouted everywhere.

Kenji gasped. His heart skipped a beat when he saw the woman's pale and busty figure through the phone screen.

Almost instantly, Phoebe reached for the towel she had placed nearby the tub, wrapping it around her busty figure.

She told the lustful man as she raised her leg and made her way out of the bathroom, "You should stop staring at me and start thinking ways to get rid of Nathan. If you're able to take Nathan out once and for all, I'll spend a night with you. That's a promise."

Kenji got worked up all of a sudden. His eyes glinted lustfully; he could barely contain his excitement.

Once they hung up on the call and wrapped up the session, Kenji felt motivated. He couldn't wait to pick on Nathan once more.

He gave it a thought and realized it wouldn't be an easy feat to take Nathan out, even though they were currently away from the North, and his troops weren't with him.

Therefore, he decided to reach out to another friend of his amongst the connections he had.

The person whom he reached out to was none other than Aran.

Aran was one of Kenji's brothers from another mother. He was actually the one who had contributed to the success of Kenji's firearm deals when Kenji had penetrated the market worldwide with Aran's aid.

Kenji had once been ambushed by the terrorists of Africa when he attempted to strike a deal with them.

Aran was the one who had protected Kenji. Using a rifle and a gun, Aran brought Kenji along with him and fought their way through a thousand terrorists. In the end, Kenji got to live to tell the tale because they managed to break through their foes' encirclement.

In an attempt to breakthrough, a thousand men had been slaughtered by Aran during that particular fight.

Therefore, Aran's name was well known throughout Africa and globally.

The foreigners were impressed because Aran had managed to take the terrorists out on his own. They granted him the title of Odin; he was considered the equivalent of God of War of the North.

Ever since then, no one from the mercenaries or the firearm industry had the audacity to pick on Kenji due to his relationship with Aran.

Just as Kenji was about to get in touch with Aran, he received a call from the man.

It was as though Aran was already aware of what Kenji was up to.

The moment Kenji picked up the call, he heard an arrogant man's voice telling him, "Hey, Kenji! I'm back! I'm currently on my way out of Brimmopolis International Airport. I need a ride immediately. Do you think you'll be able to pick me up?"

Kenji was delighted and overjoyed at the same time. He exclaimed, "Hey, Aran! You're finally back! I'm afraid you'll have to make another trip because I'm currently away from Brimmopolis. Why don't you head over to Channing at the South?"

"What the hell are you up to in Channing at the South?" Aran asked, confused and shocked.

"It's a long story. Someone killed my brother, so I'm currently on a trip to avenge him. You're back just in time because I'm in desperate need of your help to take out the Ares of the North. He's also known as the God of War. I'm afraid you're the only one who can deal with him," Kenji explained.

The ordinary person would usually flee almost immediately the moment they knew of Kenji's plan to pick on the God of War, but Aran was no ordinary person. He got worked up instantly, as though he couldn't wait to fight Nathan.

Aran let out a cry of excitement, "Wow! That sounds interesting! It has been quite a few years since I was back here. I always came across the God of War's name when I was abroad. In fact, he seems to have outshone me. I have always wanted to challenge him to a fight! Wait for me, Kenji! I'll head over to Channing immediately."

Aran boarded the next available flight and made his way to Channing in the evening.

Together with twenty luxurious cars, Kenji brought along a hundred of his men to the airport to welcome Aran. They were anticipating Aran's arrival ostentatiously.

fierce-looking man, who had a complete set of a tuxedo on, soon made his way out of the arrival hall.

Others would be intimidated by the fierce-looking man due to the domineering demeanor he had. He held his chest-high confidently as though he was superior to others.

The airport siren was triggered the moment Aran walked out of the arrival hall.

The airport security guards, as well as the SWAT unit that had been stationed there, rushed over to surround Aran. They asked in a serious tone, "Please raise your hands and show it to us! We have to check the items you have with you. It seems like you have brought a few prohibited items with you!"

"Calm down, boys. I have no intention to kill any one of you anyway." Aran replied with a grin on his face.

Soon, the SWAT and the security guards realized Aran didn't have any prohibited items or weapons with him.

However, they were shocked when they figured out the truth. There were quite a few bullets and shrapnel within his body.

The security inspection leader asked, "Why didn't you remove the bullets and shrapnel from your system?"

"I consider it as souvenirs from different parties," Aran beamed in reply.

The security personnel were dumbfounded and at a loss for words. They exchanged glances before they looked at Aran in disbelief. They found him absurd.

Suddenly, Kenji rushed over with his bunch of underlings. He asked indifferently, "Hey, is my friend allowed to leave yet?"

Chapter 1560 Odin

The security inspection leader recognized Kenji immediately. He was aware of Kenji's identity as one of the members of the Holt family from Brimmopolis.

Therefore, he dared not offend him and asserted, "Yes, there isn't a problem. Mr. Holt, your friend is allowed to leave with you now."

Kenji and Aran greeted one another enthusiastically with a hug. They then wrapped their hands around one another's shoulder as they departed with Kenji's underlings following behind them.

They soon made their way to the most famous club in Channing, the Imperial Club.

Kenji instructed the manager to serve them the best wine they had in store. Apart from that, he told the manager to get the prettiest ladies to join them because he wanted to treat his brother from another mother.

Before long, all sorts of premium wine, including a bottle of Domaine de la Romanée-Conti and a bottle of Louis XVIII Bordeaux were served. Several gorgeous ladies also joined them in the private suite, keeping Aran company.

Aran had always been interested in three things, alcoholic drinks, battles, and ladies.

He was having a great time drinking, but he frowned at the presence of the ladies seated by their sides. They didn't quite live up to his expectations. "Kenji, the drinks are great, but the companions aren't as great."

Kenji looked at the ladies around them and noticed they weren't as bad as Aran said they were at all. However, they had too much make-up on their faces and seemed relatively unattractive.

Therefore, Kenji chased all the ladies out of the suite and invited Aran to drink a toast. Once they finished their drinks, Kenji asked with a grin on his face, "You have a thing for innocent women, don't you? Well, I've found two for you. Why don't you take a look and tell me if they're to your liking?"

Once he finished his sentence, he reached for his phone and showed Aran a photo.

The women in the photo were none other than Penny and Kylie.

The photo had been taken by reporters during one of Cross Group's events where Penny and Kylie had taken part in.

Since Aran had always had a thing for gorgeous women, Kenji had saved the photo to show him when he reached Channing.

Indeed, Aran's eyes gleamed the moment he laid his eyes on Penny and Kylie. He exclaimed, "I have always heard that there are a lot of gorgeous women in Channing! It seems like it wasn't just baseless rumors, huh? I can't believe it! There are two divas in Channing! Look at the one on the left! She's such a sweetheart!"

"Do you like what you see, Aran? Her name is Penny. The one on the right is her sister, and her name is Kylie. Penny is the wife of the formidable foe I have told you about. As long as you're able to take Nathan out on my behalf, you will be able to get your hands on both of them," Kenji assured with an evil grin on his face.

Once Kenji wrapped up his speech, he reached for his glass and invited Aran to join him for another round of drinks.

To his surprise, Aran placed the goblet he had with him aside and told Kenji, "Let's take a break for an hour. I'll go kill Nathan immediately and get these two sweethearts to join us!"

...

It was eight o'clock in the evening.

Three gorgeous women were walking out of the elevator and making their way to the basement parking of Cross Group's headquarters.

Meanwhile, Kylie and Friday walked side by side behind Penny, following after her.

When Penny was about to instruct Frida to go get them their ride, a tall and scrawny man with tattoos all over his neck and face made his way over to them.

The man had a full tuxedo on, one that had flowers imprinted on the material. He approached the trio with a vicious grin on his face.

Cross Group had a relatively strict enrolment requirement for their employees to maintain the company's image. Therefore, Penny was certain that they had never employed such a man.

The man had an eerie look on his face as he walked towards the gorgeous trio.

Suddenly, Penny asked callously in a serious note, "Who are you?"

Frida moved in front of Penny and Kylie. She yelled at Aran, “You presumptuous fool! How dare you utter such words against her? Do you have a death wish?”
