

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 2174

Chapter 2174

The next day, morning.

Easy home.

Maggie looked at the table full of rich breakfast, and asked her mother, Maxine Emond: "Mom, what's the special day today? During the New Year's Eve in our family, the breakfast was not so rich!"

Maxine: "They signed a labor contract yesterday, and Travis sent your dad's salary early this morning."

Maggie looked at her father in shock.

Such a big thing, her parents didn't tell her in advance.

Maxine: "Maggie, do you know how much your dad took this time? You can't imagine it. It's ten times more than what he took from Margaret Gomez before. I asked an agent to see the house, and our family is about to change to a bigger house!"

"Dad, why are you working for Travis? Travis is a pervert. Last time his scandal broke, didn't you scold him too? Did you forget it?" Maggie was afraid that her father would get into trouble with someone she shouldn't, so she was particularly opposed to her father working for Travis.

"Maggie, I asked your father to do this. Whose money is not earning? It's not just your father who does things for Travis! All of your father's former colleagues signed contracts with Travis..." Maxine raised her voice a few degrees and answered her daughter.

"Mom, what others do has nothing to do with our family. If Dad can't fulfill Travis's request, what will be the consequences? Don't you consider this issue? If my dad and his colleagues can develop a resurrection technique, why work for Travis? Wouldn't it be possible to make more money by going directly to the world's richest man to invest?" Calvin was embarrassed by the words of his daughter.

Maxine: "Maggie, you are right. But Dad has signed a contract with Travis. He also accepted the payment he paid, so there is no way to go back. He already said that if he can't fulfill his requirements, he just needs to return the money in the end."

"If that's the case, then give me your card. You can't spend a cent of the money in it. If you take it to buy a house now, and Travis will ask you to refund the money later, how will you refund it to him?" Maggie stretched out her hand towards her father.

Maxine took chopsticks and patted her daughter's palm.

"Your father's money is in your control? He has given me the card! I believe your father will not do anything unsure. Now that he has signed the contract, he must be confident." Maxine couldn't hand over the money, Will not go back.

"Maggie, don't worry. I've thought about it carefully, and there shouldn't be any problems. It's inconvenient for me to tell you about some of the content. It's because I signed a non-disclosure agreement." Calvin soothed his daughter's emotions, "Your mother has long been If you want to change the house, let her go to the house! If you are free, you can go with your mother."

"I'm not going." Maggie bit the bread and turned away from the unpleasant topic, "My aunt didn't give it to me. Did you introduce someone? That person has come to Bridgedale."

Maxine snorted: "I think that old woman is in a daze. She looks down on our family, so she introduced you to someone who doesn't even have a serious job. Didn't I tell you to ignore them? You want to be a doctor in the future, so how can you associate with such a messy man?"

"Wife, don't be so excited. Her aunt told me that that The young man is very handsome. The young man's parents are also decent people and have pensions. Since Maggie has contacted them, it means that the young man is not much worse. Falling in love is not marriage, let's leave it alone." Calvin was more tolerant towards her daughter.

Some girls are well-behaved and look very obedient. Generally, such girls are passive and hav no opinion. But Maggie was the exact opposite. She was very assertive in her work, and had been particularly reassuring since she was a child.

"Don't worry about me. Even if my blind date is unreliable, it's easier to deal with than Travis." After Maggie finished speaking, she ate the bread, took a sip of water, put her bag on her back, and went to the entrance to change her shoes.

"Maggie, if you go to see that blind date, don't meet at night! It's not safe at night! It's better to ask your brother to accompany you." Calvin said to his daughter with a loud voice.

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 2175

Chapter 2175

"Dad, don't worry! I will definitely not suffer." After Maggie finished speaking, she went out.

Maxine looked at the closed door and muttered, "It's really not a girl's college to stay. The other party is just a small anchor, and she is a top student in the medical school, so she doesn't know how to be reserved at all. Husband, don't you feel ashamed?"

Calvin: "Wife, anchoring is a very popular job right now. Do you think that the threshold for anchoring is very low? Then you are wrong. An anchor not only needs to look good, but also has to be able to speak..."

Maxine: "Okay. Come on, don't talk to me. I'm against it anyway."

"If you don't support it, then don't oppose it. What if the more you oppose, the more Maggie opposes you?"

Maxine frowned: "It is indeed possible. Then I'll reserve my opinion for now!"

...

Today is the day that Eric Santos and Maggie Emond agreed to meet.

Eric asked his assistant, Frank to meet the true face of 'Maggie' instead of him to see if the other party was a man or a woman.

On the other hand, Maggie asked his own younger brother, Ian Emond, to come over for the appointment.

The reason why Maggie pulled her brother over is because her avatar is her brother's fitness photo.

In the coffee shop, after Frank and Ian met, their eyes stared like copper bells, and their mouths could swallow whole eggs.

The two of them agreed, turned on their mobile phones, and checked the photos of each other sent to them by their sister and boss.

"I'm going! Are you too deceiving?" Ian held up the photo of Eric and looked at Frank's face carefully.

No matter how Frank look at it, his face doesn't match up with the handsome guy in the photo!

"If I'm cheating, then you're cheating! Aren't you a woman? Your Adam's apple is more protruding than mine! What are you doing?" Frank also glanced at the photo of Maggie in his phone, although this The man's appearance was very similar to the woman in the photo, but the body was different and the gender was different.

Ian said, "You're a scammer, right? My aunt said you were handsome, that's all? I thought about it, you have nothing to do with 'handsome', but you look quite 'angry'."

"Why are you so ugly? Although I'm not that handsome, I still have good features, right?" Frank was insulted, his cheeks flushed, "I thought you were a soft girl! I'm really disappointed."

"I'm also quite disappointed in you! Just your face! Worth, if you want to chase my sister... If you want to chase me, you're just imagining it!" Ian almost missed his mouth, immediately picked up the water glass and took a sip.

"I didn't say I wanted to chase you! I'm old... and I don't like men!" Frank almost leaked his mouth, then picked up the water glass and took a sip.

"Forget it, let's eat first! I'm hungry." Ian picked up the menu and started ordering.

"Okay, little brother. After this meal, please explain this misunderstanding to the elders. Otherwise, it will affect my life too much." Frank said.

"Don't worry, after this meal, we will never again. We've met." Ian vowed to speak.