

The Charismatic Charlie Wade Chapter 3891

When Charlie said that they wanted to keep this car, Jacob and Elaine were so excited that they almost shed tears!

Especially Elaine, clapping his hands in excitement, then scolded Jacob: "Jacob! Don't open the car door quickly, let me go in and feel it! I have lived for so many years, I haven't taken a Rolls Royce yet!"

Jacob was also in a very good mood. He quickly took out the car key, pressed the unlock button, and then opened the door of the co-pilot, and said to Elaine graciously: "Come on, please sit down and let you see what Rolls is. Rice top of the starry sky!"

Elaine asked in surprise: "What is the sky top?"

Jacob waved his hand and said, "Oh, you'll know if you go in and take a look!"

Elaine quickly climbed into the Rolls-Royce co-pilot, looked up, and exclaimed: "My dear, there are so many stars in this car!"

Jacob chuckled, "Pay attention, there is still a meteor passing by from time to time!"

Elaine looked fascinated, and muttered: "Oh, it's so beautiful! Or maybe I just sleep in the car tonight!"

After speaking, she suddenly sat up straight and said to Jacob, "You get in the car and take me out for a drive!"

Jacob drove home from the Painting and Calligraphy Association all the way back. He hadn't had a car addiction. He was thinking about going out for a stroll for a while and had a good experience, but he didn't expect Elaine to make the request first.

So he agreed without hesitation, and laughed repeatedly: "Well, well, then I will take you out for a few laps!"

After finishing speaking, he looked at Charlie and Claire, and blurted out: "Claire, Charlie, you two come up too, let's go out and visit!"

Charlie shook his head: "Dad, we won't go, you two go, don't disturb the world of both of you."

Claire also said: "Dad, you go, I have something to say with Charlie."

As soon as Jacob heard this, he stopped insisting, and said with a smile: "Then I will go out with your mother first, and call if something happens."

After speaking, he immediately got into the cab and pressed the start button of the car.

The 12-cylinder Rolls-Royce engine made a deep roar, and Jacob asked Elaine, "Where are we going?"

Elaine blurted out: "Go to your mother's house first!"

"My mother?!" Jacob said embarrassingly, "Isn't that right next door?"

"That's right!" Elaine sneered: "Just to drive the car downstairs to your mother's house and let them stare at their dog's eyes. Take a good look. The old lady is also a Rolls-Royce person! They didn't do it before. I know where I got the money. I bought a Bentley and it's not him. I have to give them some eye drops this time!"

Jacob hurriedly calmed down and said, "Okay, my mother is having a bad enough life now, what are you stimulating her to do..."

"She's miserable?" Elaine scolded angrily: "Can she be miserable than me? The first time my leg was broken, it was thanks to her. Have you forgotten it? Do you want me to take what happened at the time? I'll tell you from beginning to end, lest you, an unscrupulous person, turn your head and forget it."

Jacob coughed twice, and said helplessly: "It's OK, can't you go?"

After that, he started the car and drove out of the yard.

Claire sighed at this moment and said to Charlie: "Husband, do you really plan to keep this car?"

Charlie nodded and said casually: "My parents like it, just let them play."

Claire hurriedly said, "It's not appropriate for them to drive this car out...it would be too blatant..."

Charlie smiled and said: "Give them this opportunity to publicize, all their hormones and energy will vent to the outside, but if they are not given this opportunity to publicize, then all their hormones and energy will evolve into a resentment, which may be in the future. In the next two years, or even longer, as soon as we return to this home, they will sigh at us and complain that we did not leave the car behind. Instead of this, it is better to accept it and make them satisfied."
