

Chapter 1758

"You...what did you say?" Hector instantly stiffened. He shuddered for a moment and felt his blood draining away.

"I am calling from the scene of the accident. Your daughter had been hit by a car. We found your contact in her phone. Please come over immediately! Your daughter was the main person responsible for the accident, so as her next of kin, you have to compensate the other party!"

Hector was speechless.

"No! No, No, No! No!" After saying no several times continuously, he immediately collapsed onto the floor.

"Hello? What happened to you?"

continuously immediately
collapsed onto the floor.

“Hello? What happened to you? Are you here? Please answer me!” shouted the caller on the other end of the call.

Hector already could not utter a single word, so of course, he could not answer him. The personnel at the scene instantly became anxious. They could only find the father's contact in the deceased's phone. They searched high and low, but they did not find her mother's contact. Who should they contact then? They continued to search through the deceased's phone and they found a contact that she had recently called a few times. The contact was saved as the d*mned woman. Who was the d*mned woman? The personnel at the woman. Who was the d*mned woman? The personnel at the scene certainly could not call the d*mned woman. They could guess from the name that she should be someone that the deceased was more annoyed with. They continued searching, and they found a phone number that had often appeared in the deceased's phone a month ago. Therefore, they could only try the contact as a last resort.

The personnel at the scene called the contact. "May I know who this is?"

On the other end, Zayn was amused. "You called my number and you asked me who I am?"

"Oh," the personnel asked again. "May I know what is your relationship with the deceased?"

"Oh," the personnel asked again. "May I know what is your relationship with the deceased?"

Zayn was startled. "What deceased? Who are you?"

"There was a car accident a kilometer away from the hospital affiliated with West College. We found your number in the phone of one of the deceased as it was a frequently called number since a month ago."

Zayn was speechless. His expression changed suddenly and his face became as white as a sheet.

"What's the matter, Zayn?"
Hana was a little tired. After all, she was already forty years old and she was in the early stages o

Hana was a little tired. After all, she was already forty years old and she was in the early stages of her pregnancy, so she was very easily tired during that period.

It was because she felt lazy those few days and because her period, which was normally on time, was late by a couple of days, Hana was afraid that she had some condition. Therefore, she had gone to the hospital to check. In the end, she found out that she was actually pregnant. She was befuddled at that moment. How could that be possible? Although she had been entwined together with Zayn until late night those days, was Zayn not infertile? She did not fool around with anybody outside.

She looked at Zayn. "Zayn, do

Zayn not infected? She did not fool around with anybody outside.

She looked at Zayn. "Zayn, do you believe me? I didn't fool around with anybody. The college graduate from more than ten years ago had long gone abroad. Also, he had been married with children a long time ago. I have not been in contact with him."

"I believe you! Of course, I believe you!" Zayn was surprised.

He thought that there must have been a mistake. Therefore, Zayn brought his wife along with him and with a big smile, he came to the doctor who had done the health check for him the last time and had the doctor recheck him. In the end, everything was health check up on the last time and had the doctor recheck him. In the end, everything was normal. Only then did the doctor learn that Zayn should have gotten the wrong report the last time. It so happened that a patient with the same name and age as Zayn was present when Zayn came for his health check that day, so it was easily mistaken.

The doctor kept apologizing to Zayn, but Zayn shook his head instead. Not only did he not blame the doctor, but he even thought that the doctor was his lucky star. No matter what, he had a child at that moment and that was the best. They were a couple of miserable people who had gotten together after many sufferings, and now have a child that belonged to them!