

Chapter 273 Do you really know Connor?

“Great! Just wait for your pathetic result. Do not try to cheat me. Jacobs, you have to be fair on this too.”

After saying this, Leon left with the rest. Humphrey also left, after hesitating for a moment.

Looking at them leaving, Jacobs said anxiously, “Mr. Maximilian, you were impulsive. The No.9 gemstone is the best one in this auction. It was even checked by several experts in this field. They said that other stones could not even be compared with this one.”

Victoria immediately got nervous and grabbed Maximilian’s arms, “Maximilian, you really got too impulsive this time.”

Maximilian started reading the instruction book and paused at the page of stones' pictures, then said with a smile, "Do not worry. They cannot beat me."

Jacobs covered his face, speechless. Since he himself was the one who planned this event and knew well about those stones, why was Maximilian so confident?

"Mr. Maximilian, these stones were all from me. I know them very well. Though nobody can be sure about their exact qualities, I still have the general ideas about them."

Maximilian nodded and said calmly, "I know. I appreciate your kindness."

"Eh." Jacobs sighed and decided to not persuade him anymore.

Connor came back to Maximilian, "Did they leave? Frankie is too ambitious. I have to let him remember this lesson.”

Jacobs grabbed Connor’s arm and told him what happened.

“Connor, it’s not me being careless. I couldn’t talk Mr. Maximilian out of this.” Jacobs said.

“It’s Ok. If Mr. Maximilian said he could win, then he will win.”

Jacobs got speechless, not getting why Connor was so confident.

Maximilian smiled, “Go wherever you need to go. Don’t stay here.”

Conner knew Maximilian wanted to stay with Victoria alone.

“Mr. Maximilian, we will be in the front. Just tell us if you need anything.”

After saying that, Connor walked away with Jacobs.

“Are you really confident about it?”

asked Victoria.

“I’m absolutely sure about it. You do not need to worry at all.” Maximilian answered with a smile.

“Does Connor respect you just because of Wilfred?” Victoria could not help asking.

Maximilian nodded, “Yes, of course.”

Before Victoria could ask more, Laura and Marcus walked in among many others coming for this auction.

Those people, who were in the preview show earlier, were now coming into the lobby as the auction was about to start.

Marcus looked excited, murmuring about those beautiful jades. On the side, Laura said impatiently, “What’s there to say? You do not even have the money for it. Your son-in-law could not even get you a piece of it.”

“I never hold expectations on that loser. It would be great if I have a better son-in-law. That green emerald looked so high-class, but it was too expensive. I could only enjoy looking at it.”

Marcus glanced at Maximilian and disdainfully shook his head.

“Where is Humphrey? He was with you. Victoria, did you hurt his feeling and drive him away?” asked Laura.

Victoria looked at Maximilian hesitantly, not sure how to tell them what happened.

“He met some friends, and went to talk about business with them.” Maximilian made up an excuse.

Laura looked at Maximilian suspiciously, then knocked on his forehead hard.

“You are such a shame. How would I have such a loser son-in-law like you? Whenever I talked about you with others, I felt embarrassed. You have no idea how many old sisters mocked me by mentioning you! You've disgraced me!”

“Mom. Stop!” Victoria interjected to protect Maximilian and looked straight into her mom's eyes.

“Yeah sure, just keep protecting this loser. We will see what business he could do in the future.”

Marcus pulled Laura back, “Stop. There are so many people here. At least wait till you get home to do this.”

Laura glared at Maximilian, then started reading the instruction manual.

In the parking lot, the wounded Frankie was carried into the car by his men. Looking at his body covered by blood stains, the others got goose bumps all over.

However, Leon was glad that he bet with Maximilian at the last moment.

“Bro, just relax yourself in the hospital. I will avenge you, and defeat that Maximilian.”

Frankie glared with his tiger-like eyes widely open, as if those eyeballs were going to pop out at any moment.

“I will not let him go. He have to pay for these stabs.”

“I just bet with him, and I will surely win the bet. After that, we can get to his house and show him the consequences to mess with you.”

Frankie nodded and said, “You just need to focus on Maximilian. I will arrange something for Connor and Jacobs later.”

“Alright, go send him to the hospital fast.”

Looking at the car driving off, Frankie and the others walked back to the auction center.

“Frankie looked so miserable. We need you in the end to show that loser our capabilities. Good job at coming up the bet with him!”

“That poor loser has to pay for it hard; otherwise, this will not end. He is a dead man for acting presumptuous in our place.”

Other rich guys like Damion were holding grudges now too, thinking about killing Maximilian once and for all.

Humphrey hesitated for a bit, then said on the side of Leon, “I can sit next to them as a spy.”

“Ah haha, Humphrey, you do have a good idea. Just do not expose yourself before the show is on.” Leon looked at Humphrey seriously with a threatening hint.

“I won’t, for sure. I have a grudge against that trash, too. You know that.”

Leon tapped on Humphrey’s shoulders, then entered the auction center with the rest.

Humphrey was left behind at the end of the group, still replaying the scene that Connor supported Maximilian fully. He could not understand it.

“It doesn’t make sense. I have to know the reason.”

Humphrey walked in the auction, sat near Maximilian, then looked straight into his eyes, “Do you really know Connor?”

Chapter 274 Put Your Heart in the Tummy

Hearing Humphrey mentioning Connor, both Marcus and Laura looked at Humphrey.

“Humphrey, are you talking about the Connor in H city?” said Marcus seriously.

“Yes, that’s him. Connor was greeting this loser, and I felt something weird.” Humphrey said straightforwardly.

Marcus and Laura’s facial expressions turned weird when they thought of Connor’s respectful manners towards Maximilian in Hugo’s party.

Looking at their weird faces, Humphrey got puzzled, “Uncle, auntie, what is wrong?”

“Humphrey, you do not need to ask about this. Maximilian luckily did Connor a favor. He does not really have much to do with Connor.” Marcus came up with an excuse. He did not really know their relationships clearly.

Since he did not know it well, there was no need to explain it. Otherwise, Humphrey might ask more questions, then he might expose that farce in the party, which would be embarrassing.

Laura glared at Maximilian and poked him at his forehead.

“You loser. Did you even flaunt Connor well? Why don’t you grab this rare opportunity to establish a close tie with him?”

Looking at Laura’s attitude towards Maximilian, Humphrey decided not to continue asking, even though he still had questions.

Moreover, judging from Laura's attitude towards Maximilian, Humphrey assumed that Maximilian did not have much to do with Connor. Maybe Connor just accidentally used Maximilian while he was trying to threaten Frankie.

No matter what, Maximilian already got Frankie, Leon and the rest upset. There would be a nice show waiting for Maximilian when this auction was over.

Humphrey glared at Maximilian, and then said to Victoria, "Vic, tell me if there is anything you like."

"I am not interested in anything here." Victoria said coldly.

Laura unpleasantly touched Victoria with her elbow and murmured, "Why are you so silly? When Humphrey gives you presents, you just take them."

"Why would I take them if I do not need them?" Victoria said lightly.

Laura sighed, knowing that Victoria did not get her idea, so she did not want to continue wasting her time talking.

As the auction started, it attracted everybody's attention.

Leon was sitting in the front with the rest of his men. During the auction, they talked with each other, then frequently raised the board for many jades.

After getting several jades, Leon said something to Samson, then the latter looked over at Maximilian and gave him a middle finger, "Poor ass, raise your board."

Immediately, all the bidders looked at their directions.

Under the stares, Marcus and Laura felt embarrassed.

"What's going on? Humphrey?" asked Laura nervously.

Humphrey glanced at Maximilian and smiled, "Auntie, your loser son-in-law was great that he made the boss of this city, Frankie knelt in front of him."

Laura and Marcus's faces immediately turned pale, while their hearts were filled with fear.

The Laura who got half her soul scared away started to punch Maximilian, "You fool, why are you so good at looking for troubles? Did you even get to mess with someone here in this city?"

"Mom, calm down. It was Humphrey who was trying to get Maximilian into troubles, bringing those people. Connor helped solve the problem already." Victoria helped explain for Maximilian.

Marcus said with a gloomy face, "Humphrey, tell me, what happened?"

Humphrey chuckled awkwardly, "I was talking with some business partners when running into Maximilian. Later, Maximilian upset them. I could not talk them out of the conflict, so the thing just turned serious.”

“Bullshit.” Victoria angrily looked at Humphrey.

“How am I not talking bullshits? You can go and ask them directly. This loser also bet with them on the qualities of the stones they each would choose.”

Humphrey said lightly, with an indifferent attitude.

Marcus slapped the chair and glared at Maximilian, “Nonsense! You dare to bet with them. How much money do you even have for that!”

“Just get the cheapest one.” said Maximilian lightly.

“Have you even seen a gemstone yet? I checked all those stones earlier. The cheapest one was just a normal stone. It could not have anything great inside! You are looking for troubles!" Marcus angrily yelled.

Laura patted Marcus' chest, helping him smooth his breath.

"Don't get excited. It's no worthy of ruining your body. This loser is looking for trouble himself, so just let him be. It'll be great if he died."

Marcus closed his eyes, nodding, and said heavily, "We will not give you a cent, and we are not able to help you on this either. You need to take the responsibility yourself. Victoria, you should not help him either!"

Victoria felt bitter inside. She could not help him even if she wanted to.

Humphrey smiled, then patted Maximilian's shoulder, "You did this to yourself. You think Connor was really supporting you? He was just using you! However, if you chose to divorce Victoria yourself, I can help with some nice talks for you, so you can die in a more comfortable way.”

Maximilian smiled lightly, ignored Humphrey, and held Victoria’s hands, “Don’t be nervous, I will be fine.”

“But, you can’t get the good ones, and they are going to get them. Those you can actually afford won’t make you a winner.” Victoria said worriedly.

Humphrey said disdainfully, “You don’t need to worry about him, Vic. This loser’s death is good for everybody, so it’s a good thing.”

Humphrey hated Maximilian with guts. If possible, he would kill him.

Laura went along, “This loser should die sooner. Having him here would only get us troubles.”

Victoria said to Maximilian, “How about we leave now? Or, you can contact Connor tomorrow. Otherwise, something bad might really happen.”

“It’s fine. We can do that after something really happen.” said Maximilian lightly.

“Why are you so rebellious? It will be late if something really happens.” said Victoria worriedly.

Chapter 275 One Hundred?

As the auction almost came to the end, the gemstone that most experts liked got taken by Leon for one million dollars.

“Dope! Just two raises scared everybody off. No one dared to compete anymore.”

“The committee is probably going to cry. I heard that that stone worth at least six million dollars. We got it in such a cheap price!”

“We got the gemstone already. That loser has not even bought anything yet. Is he shocked by us or something? Should we go check on him?”

Damion and the rest were keeping eyes on Maximilian during this whole time. He never even raised the board once, which was making them disdain him even more.

Leon sneered and stood up, "Let's go humiliate that loser. The rest are the worst ones. I assume that's all he could afford."

Damion and the others walked towards Maximilian following Leon. Since the auction was ending soon, and the rest of the stones were not good, and most people were paying attention to the group of men instead of the auction.

As they got near Maximilian, Marcus and Laura moved away from him to get unattached to him.

Laura even pulled Victoria, trying to get her to move with them too. However, she would not budge, so Laura had to give up.

"Humphrey, they are all your friends? You need to watch over Victoria and protect her.” Laura reminded Humphrey.

Humphrey smiled, “Relax, auntie. Vic will be fine. They are only after Maximilian.”

Laura finally got relieved, murmuring, “It would be great for this trouble to die. His existence disturbed us.”

Leon glanced at Victoria, then look at Maximilian with his nostrils.

“Loser. It’s ending soon. This is the last stone. Buy it now, or can’t you afford to add one hundred dollars?”

“I think he does not even have one cent. Probably his wife did not give him any money this month. Such a pathetic loser.”

“Do you think you can avoid the bet as long as you buy no gemstones? If you did not have a gemstone, that would be counted as a total lost. Even Connor would not be able to cover up for you.”

Damion and the rest started humiliating Maximilian, feeling very happy inside, as if all the upset feelings caused by Connor and Jacobs escaped at this moment.

Leon sneered, “Loser, if you can’t afford one, then kneel down and call me ‘father’. I will buy that gemstone for you and it is possible to change your life.”

All the bidders nearby gathered around and started to watch this show, while Samson started to explain to them about the bet.

After hearing the story, the crowd laughed, thinking that Maximilian was stupid.

“Isn’t that a joke? This stone does not even meet the quality of a good gemstone, it’s probably just a normal stone that got mixed up here.”

“Even if that shit were an emerald stone, it would not be able to compare with the one bought by Leon, as many experts said that it was a great one.”

“What’s there to bet for? If I were him, I would just kneel down to Leon. Compared to life, dignity is nothing.”

Victoria did not have much faith in Maximilian’s bet, and now she was even more unsure about it.

Maximilian smiled and waved his board toward the host.

Looking at the messy lobby, the host was almost going to cry. This was the first time he got into this kind of situation.

He was going to deem this last stone as an unsold one right before he saw Maximilian’s waving board.

The host suddenly got excited and yelled, “No.99 added one hundred. Are there anyone else?”

Leon said coldly, “Shut up and finish it now. Can’t you see that I am busy?”

“Yes sir.” the host shivered, and hurriedly ended this auction,

“No.99 got this emerald stone with 100.”

Marcus and Laura got extremely embarrassed. They did not even want to stay there anymore, thinking that Maximilian might be even more embarrassed.

“Humphrey, we are going back to the hotel first. Watch over Vic. You don’t have to do anything with that loser. Just bring Vic back if anything happened.”

Humphrey nodded happily, “Auntie and uncle, just go back. I will take care

“Loser, time to cut the gemstones open. Get ready to beg on your knees.” said Leon coldly.

Maximilian stood up, holding Victoria’s hands, “I’m paying the money.”

“Forget about whatever money. Save that one hundred for your hospital fee.”

Leon turned to Damion, and Damion smiled, “The machine is waiting outside, we can go now.”

“Loser, carry your gemstone and follow us.”

There were people in the lobby ready with cargo transporter. They carried the one bought by Leon over, but just threw Maximilian’s gemstone randomly under his feet.

Leon went outside, followed by a crowd behind him. Many people also followed him.

Maximilian bended down to carry the gemstone up. Victoria worriedly looked at him.

“Are you really going? At least you should tell Connor about it. Otherwise, when you lose...”

Victoria did not want to think about the result. Just imagining the stabs was horrifying enough.

Maximilian just walked outside with Victoria and said slowly, “It doesn’t matter if Connor was here or not. We play by rules, and he can’t break the rules either.”

“Why aren’t you worried at all? You will get stabbed if you lose!” Victoria was going nuts.

“Don’t worry, do you believe me or not? I am super lucky. The gemstone I gave you dad last time was bought in the same way. I can also win them this time too.” said Maximilian confidently.

Victoria tranced and thought of the gift Maximilian gave Marcus last time.

“Are you always so lucky? What if it took all your luck last time already?” Victoria was still worried.

“There was nobody luckier than me in this world, because I met you.” Maximilian said to Victoria gently.

Chapter 276 Sure to Win?

Maximilian's words made Victoria blush. She gave him a stare, but meanwhile, anxiety watered down the uprush of shyness inside her just now.

Victoria looked silently at Maximilian and didn't stop him again. Instead, she decided that if something happened, she would take the responsibility with him.

In an empty room beside the auction hall, a huge stone cutting machine was ready. Connor and Wyatt were standing beside it, talking in whispers.

"Connor, are you going to just look at it? That Mr. Lee has bought the worst raw stone. He is sure to lose."

Connor smiled and thought to himself. The one who was able to defeat the Young Master of the Dragon

Sect hadn't been born yet.

"Do you believe in miracle, Wyatt?"
Connor asked in a low voice.

"Miracle? I would only believe in luck at most, let alone miracles. Do you think that a miracle will happen to Mr. Lee? You must be joking."

Wyatt was a sophisticated man and had experienced various bizarre incidents. But those bizarre incidents had nothing to do with luck, and most of them were artificial.

Therefore, when Connor asked him if he believed in miracles, Wyatt didn't believe them at all. However, Wyatt couldn't just spit it out for fear of hurting Connor's feelings.

"Later, it will be the time to witness the miracle. Mr. Lee is not some ordinary man." Connor said with a smile.

Wyatt said nothing. He thought to himself. If he wasn't an ordinary man, could it be that he was a god?

But there was no god in this world. The so-called "god" or "master" were all frauds. Could it be that Connor had been brainwashed and fooled by this young man?

Leon came with a bunch of people. They stood in front of Connor and Wyatt.

Leon didn't set eyes on Connor. Since he had fallen out with him, he didn't have to care about Connor's feelings.

Leon cupped his hand in the other before his chest and said loudly, "Mr. Owen, please bear witness to this for us. You are an expert on jade identification, and I trust in your expertise. You won't take sides."

Wyatt nodded. "I will definitely be fair, and I won't distort the facts for the sake of Connor. Who wants to cut his stone first?"

"Of course me. I will let that loser see how superior my raw stone is."

After that, Leon waved his hand. The staff moved the raw stone on the cart onto the stone cutting machine.

When the stone cutter secured the raw stone, he started the machine to cut it.

Everyone kept their eyes fixed on that rumbling machine nervously. Since the protection cover was shut, the situation inside was still unclear.

Before long, the machine finished cutting. Leon's raw stone was cut straight down the middle.

The stone cutter put the raw stones apart, revealing its cross profile.

A green band greeted them. It was a raw stone with jadeite in it.

"My gosh, such a wide color band, and it's totally contained in the raw stone. If one peels off the outer shell along the edges, maybe a few jadeite pendants can be made out of it. The owner has made a killing!"

"For waxy jade, its quality is quite decent, but it's not icy jade. If it were, this cut raw stone could have easily been sold at the price of tens of millions of yuan. But now, it can also be sold at the price of tens of millions of yuan easily."

"Leon has it all. Not only has he won a great bargain, but he will also win the bet later. In my opinion, we don't have to cut the second raw stone anymore. That nobody can just kowtow to Leon and admit defeat."

The onlookers commented and pointed to Maximilian.

Zakariya and the others stared scornfully at Maximilian, thinking that he must lose this time.

"Loser, you're amazed, right? Have you ever seen such jadeite? Such a big piece of jadeite is a real eye-opener to you. Be ready to kneel down and call Leon daddy."

"He should have called Leon daddy just now. Now he should kneel and call him granddad. This loser actually dared to make a bet with Leon. How dare he?"

"Loser, put your stone on the machine now. When it's cut open later, you will know the vast difference between people. You need to learn to grovel in the future."

Wyatt shook his head. He glanced at the raw stone held by Maximilian, believing that he must lose this time.

"Connor, you've seen that. These experts know raw stones very well. Now that this stone was cut open, it has totally confirmed their speculations, while none of the experts is confident about the raw stone held by Mr. Lee. They all believe that it's just a pure stone."

Something flashed across Connor's face. He nodded without saying a word.

There was no point saying anything at this moment. Connor just believed in Maximilian by instinct, thinking that he wouldn't lose.

Maximilian walked towards the stone cutting machine with the stone. Victoria covered her face with her hands, not daring to see what was going to happen next.

Humphrey walked behind Victoria and said, "Victoria, Maximilian is certain to lose. Don't be foolish in a while. I will try my best to protect you. Do you hear me?"

"Don't bother." Victoria said with disgust, "Are you behind all this? You don't have to deny it. I knew it."

Humphrey remained silent for a moment before saying with his head lowered, "I did everything for your good. I don't want to see this loser drag you down. Leon should have some feelings for you. I will protect you at the cost of all my connections. Please believe me."

"Well, Maximilian will protect me." A flicker of tenderness flashed across Victoria's eyes.

Humphrey's cheek twitched. "I will just see how a loser like him will protect you."

Maximilian had already put his raw stone on the stone cutting machine. When the stone cutter secured the raw stone, he started the machine again.

The machine rumbled for a while, and everyone was smiling with disdain. They felt it unnecessary to have Maximilian's raw stone cut.

"What are we expecting? Those experts have said that it's just a pure stone. Even if it's cut open, it's still a stone. What a fool he is to compare his 100-yuan stone with Leon's."

"Maybe he thinks that Luck Fairy is on his side. A loser always believes that fortune smiles on him. He is a hopeless case, and can only be educated by reality."

"Let's wait and see him call Leon granddad. He will have no way out but kneel and beg in a while."

Maximilian had been sentenced to death by the onlookers. Everyone believed he was sure to lose.

Leon raised his head complacently, as if he was bound to win.

"Loser, you're at death's door. I've prepared the knife for you, rookie."

Teddy took out a silver white metal box and opened it in front of everyone, exposing a dagger.

The dagger had a fuller on its blade, as well as a jagged spine. It gave a cold gleam, as if it was telling people that it was made for killing.

Leon's fingers brushed against the blade. He said with a smile, "Loser, you're blessed to stab yourself with this knife."

"Is this Shura Sword?"

Chapter 277 Quality Icy Jade

Wyatt stared at the knife in the box in surprise. As someone experienced and important in the antique circle, Wyatt also had some basic knowledge of ancient weapons. He recognized the knife in the box at a glance.

"Shura Sword was made by the forge master of Sakura Kingdom. It's said that it took three years to make one. Not only is it valuable, it's also hard to buy. Most importantly, it's said that he who is hurt by Shura Sword is sure to suffer misfortune."

Wyatt introduced the knife to Connor in whispers. Connor gave a faint smile and stared at Maximilian.

Seeing Maximilian's calm face, Connor felt totally relieved.

Teddy held the box with the knife in both hands and gave Maximilian a contemptuous look. "Loser, take a close look at it. This knife is more valuable than all your assets."

"It's not necessary for us to talk with this loser. Let's just see what's inside his stone, and then he can declare his defeat and kneel down in front of us."

The stone cutter had already opened the protection cover, and loosened the clamp that fixed the raw stone.

Leon looked jokingly at Maximilian, and then at the machine, waiting to see the quality of Maximilian's stone.

When the stone cutter was about to put apart the cut stone, Maximilian turned to walk up to Victoria. Victoria stared nervously at the machine, not noticing that Maximilian was approaching her at all.

Everyone kept his eyes fixed on the machine, except for Maximilian.

The stone cutter pushed the two halves apart. The raw stone, which was cut straight down the middle, was turned around slowly, exposing two cross profiles.

Green, jade green, full of jade green!

The dazzling green was exposed in front of everyone. At this point, everyone was in a trance, as none of them had seen a raw stone full of jade inside.

Even in raw stone's country of origin, there were few raw stones full of jade inside discovered each year.

Wyatt was the first one who came to his sense. Standing by the stone cutting machine, Wyatt pushed the stone cutter away, bent over and checked it carefully.

"Full of jade. Quality icy jade. This, this is a real miracle! What a great piece of luck! This should be a piece of jade covered in such a thin shell. No wonder everyone is wrong."

Wyatt gave a series of exclamation, which woke up the dumbfounded crowd. The onlookers swarmed in front of the machine and stared at the cut raw stone in astonishment.

"This is the first time that I've ever seen a raw stone full of jade inside, and it's quality icy jade, nearly the legendary glassy jade."

"Oh my god! And it was bought at the price of 100 yuan! Such quality raw stone should have been bought at the price of 100 yuan! Why didn't I buy it?"

"How could it be? It feels like a dream. How could someone be so lucky ever?"

The onlookers were all amazed at Maximilian's great luck, while Humphrey stared open-eyed at Maximilian in disbelief.

He had been practically certain of winning the bet, but a reversal had popped up at the end. Could it be that Luck Fairy was really on Maximilian's side? It couldn't be!

Humphrey was overwhelmed and unable to figure out why Maximilian's luck was on the turn.

Leon and the others were totally in fear. Just by looking at the green raw stone, Leon knew that he had already lost the bet.

How could he have lost? How could a piece of lousy stone, which had been diminished by all experts, have full jade inside!

Leon was roaring in his mind, resenting the unfairness of fate. How could fate toy with him like this?

"No. It can't be. Cheating! You are cheating with this loser! It's all fake, fake!" Leon growled.

Looking grim, Wyatt walked up to Leon and said, "You mean I'm cheating with him?"

"Yes, it's you who are cheating with him, or it can't be like this! You are cheating me together!"

Leon was out of his mind. Even his mental state was a little unstable.

Slap! Wyatt slapped Leon on the face and said in a cold voice, "Calm down. Go have a look at the raw stone yourself. If you find any proof of cheating, you may have my head."

Leon was stunned. When he cooled down, he realized that it was impossible to cheat.

Connor said with a smile, "Shouldn't you fulfill your commitment now? He who loses will kowtow, apologize, and then be stabbed three times. How about using the Shura Sword brought by you? So you may unseal your own knife with your blood."

Leon gave a stagger and was about to pass out. Those who were behind him, such as Zakariya and the others, started to beg for mercy in panic.

"Mr. Owen, for the sake of our families, please let us off. It's... it's all Leon's fault. It was he who forced us to humiliate that loser together with him."

"We were all forced. We will make an apology, on our knees. But it's not our turn to be stabbed, right? As long as we are not stabbed, you might do anything to us."

Zakariya and the others were really terrified. Now they had no time to care about other things, but could only persuade the witness, Wyatt, into keeping them from being stabbed three times.

Wyatt shook his head. "Do you have brains? There's no use begging me. You should beg Mr. Lee."

Zakariya and the others stared at Maximilian and wanted to beg for mercy, but they found it hard.

It was not insulting to beg Wyatt for mercy. After all, he was of high social status. However, it was a disgrace to them to beg Maximilian for mercy.

Leon gritted his teeth and glared at Maximilian. "Bastard! So what if a loser like you wins! Do you dare to accept our apology? Do you dare to have us stabbed three times? As long as you do, I will make you unable to see the sun tomorrow!"

"Why don't I dare? Apologize now."
Maximilian said flatly.

Staring at Maximilian's profile, Victoria had mixed feelings, not believing what was happening in front of her.

So he had won? Maximilian had won too easily. That stone had been looked down on by everyone, but how could it have become a piece of treasure in Maximilian's hands? Could it be that he really had Luck Fairy on his side?

Having a bee in her head, Victoria started to calm down gradually. She felt that luck was not important. The most important thing was that she was with Maximilian.

Leon nodded, sneering. "Fine! Wait for your karma!"

Seeing that Maximilian insisted on his fulfilling the commitment, Leon played along and knelt straight down in front of Maximilian, starting to kowtow to him nine times.

Although Zakariya and the others were unwilling to do so, since these big shots, Frankie and Leon, had both yielded to Maximilian, they had to kneel down too.

Seeing Leon kowtowing to Maximilian with a bunch of famous rich kids of Gibson, the onlookers were astonished again, even more astonished than they had witnessed the raw stone full of green jade inside.

"Who is this man? How dare he accept the apologies and kowtows from so many people? Isn't he afraid of revenge?"
