

Chapter 293 For the Sake of Affection

When Maximilian and Victoria arrived at home, there was a sound of chatting in the living room. It was obvious that there were guests at their home.

When they entered the living room, they saw Laura talking happily with a middle-aged woman of the same age.

“Come here, Victoria. This is Aunt Jennifer. She adored you when you were a child.”

Laura introduced with enthusiasm a middle-aged woman to Victoria, totally ignoring Maximilian.

Named Jennifer, this woman dressed in low-key but expensive clothes of international brands, with a huge ruby ring on her finger and a Vacheron Constantin wrist watch.

Jennifer, who dressed in expensive clothes, used to work with Laura. But Jennifer left H City many years ago and inherited her family business overseas.

Now, the family business run by Jennifer was quite successful, and much of the business had been handed over to her son Eduard.

Although Eduard managed the business well, his marriage did not go well, which made Jennifer extremely anxious. Jennifer saw a picture of Victoria by chance, and then she had an idea of matchmaking her son and Victoria.

After learning about the basic information about Victoria, Jennifer finally decided to take her son back to H City by a private jet and offer a chance for Victoria and Eduard to have an appointment.

Since it was the first time Jennifer came here, she didn't take her son with her. She just wanted to come here to check out Laura's attitude this time.

After knowing about Jennifer's intention, Laura was overjoyed and agreed to it. Laura believed that the life with Eduard was what Victoria deserved.

Jennifer sized up Victoria with a smile on her face, "Well, Victoria is more and more beautiful, and she looks like woman with good luck. She and my son is well-matched."

Laura grinned, "Victoria, come here and have a chat with Aunt Jennifer."

Then Laura looked at Maximilian with an unkind face and shouted, "You punk, go back to your room."

At this time, Jennifer looked at Maximilian and smiled with disdain on her face, “Laura, is he your useless son-in-law? He is not worthy of Victoria, and such a punk should have been driven out of your family long time ago. Let him divorce Victoria as soon as possible. I’ll give him a compensation of two million dollars, which is enough for him to spend for the rest of his in the countryside.”

“Two million dollars?” Laura put up two fingers and wanted to ask Jennifer to give her two million dollars, and she would drive him out right away.

However, she did not say it out, considering her dignity. Then she thought that she would have a lot of money as long as Victoria married Eduard.

“You punk, are you clear? As long as you divorce Victoria, we'll give you two million dollars immediately. You'd better do it tomorrow." Laura reprimanded him with a sullen face.

"Mom, stop talking nonsense."

Victoria said. Then she nudged Maximilian and whispered, "Go back to the room to have a rest. I can handle it."

Maximilian nodded, without saying anything, and then he walked back to the room.

Laura walked quickly to Victoria and said, "My silly girl, don't be silly this time. Aunt Jennifer has a great enterprise overseas and owns a great deal of money. Her son Eduard is even more outstanding, a business prodigy."

"Mom..." Victoria muttered.

"Hold back your tongue! If you dare say you won't divorce Maximilian, I'll kill myself in front of you, making you a disobedient daughter, who will be despised by others.”

Laura had made up his mind this time to marry Victoria to Eduard.

The family condition of Eduard was so good that Laura could not refuse, and even Humphrey was nothing in front of Eduard.

“They live in a big villa with a swimming pool on the hill. They also have a British butler, who speaks with an authentic cockney accent. These are the scenes we can only see in the films. They live a very privileged life. Compared with them, those rich people in our country are nothing.”

“Besides, the main business of their company is medicine and health products, as well as other high-tech products, which are beneficial to our family. As long as you marry Eduard, you and your father, as well as the Griffith Family and Wright Family can benefit from it. It means you alone will bring benefits to us all.”

Laura listed a lot of benefits which Jennifer’s family could bring, and she hoped it could move Victoria, and then Victoria would divorce Maximilian quickly.

“I see. You don’t need talk about it more.” Victoria said resignedly.

Laura took Victoria’s arm and walked to Jennifer, then she cracked a smile, “Jennifer, Victoria is such a good girl, except that she is affectionate. I had asked her to divorce Maximilian for several times, but she did not.”

“It is a virtue to be affectionate, but it depends on whom you are affectionate to. It is not good to be overly sentimental.”

Jennifer was increasingly fond of Victoria. She held Victoria's hand with a smile, "Victoria, it must be fate, as I am very fond of you when I held you as a child. Would you like to be my daughter-in-law?"

"I'm sorry, Aunt Jennifer. I have a happy marriage and I have never thought of getting a divorce."

Victoria expressed her thoughts bluntly and did not want to get entangled with Jennifer.

Hearing her words, Jennifer didn't look very well, and she was quite dissatisfied with Victoria's answer.

"I heard that Maximilian is incapable, who is idling around all day and live on you. Such a loser is not worth of your affection at all."

"For the sake of affection, we love each other." Victoria lowered her head and said.

“Can you live on affection? Can affection give you a good life? Don’t be indulged in it, or you’ll regret later.”

Jennifer smiled mockingly.

Laura nudged Victoria, then smiled at Jennifer, “Jennifer, Victoria is kind of stubborn. Please don’t be angry with her. You can come with Eduard tomorrow to give them a chance to meet and chat with each other, then there will be affection between them gradually.”

Jennifer nodded, then she stood up and said, “Well, I’ll come with Eduard tomorrow morning. I hope we can become relatives by marriage.”

“Sure, it will be. I’ll persuade Victoria.”

After seeing off Jennifer, Laura returned to the living room and looked at Victoria with a serious expression,

“Victoria, I have never ask you for anything, but I beg you to meet Eduard tomorrow and divorce Maximilian as soon as possible. The punk is a disaster for our family.”

“Mom, please don’t talk about him like that.”

Victoria said resignedly.

“Huh! Just look at him. Such a wretch doesn’t deserve your affection and the man like him should be driven out of our family!” Laura shouted.

Chapter 294 Are You the Punk?

Early in the morning, a group of stylists with blonde hair and blue eyes entered the presidential suite to dress Eduard, carrying cosmetic cases and all kinds of clothes.

Jennifer stood by and looked at Eduard, “My boy, you must seize the opportunity. I have asked Master Cohen to check out Victoria’s birth time and physiognomy, and he said you two are a perfect match. If you two get married, you’ll have a happy marriage and family, and our family will prosper.”

Eduard nodded with a smile. Having a look at Victoria’s photo, he thought Victoria was a true beauty.

What was more, it was his mother’s wish. Now the family business had not yet been handed over to him, so he would not disobey his mother, or it would have a negative effect on his inheritance of the family business.

“Mom, don’t worry. I’ll seize the opportunity, but Victoria’s husband seems to be a trouble for me.”

Thinking of Maximilian, Eduard was a little upset.

Jennifer snorted and said disdainfully, “He is just an incapable punk. There is no need to care about him. As long as Victoria loves you, you can kick the punk away with just a little cost.”

The stylist with blonde hair and blue eyes made a haircut for Eduard quickly and dressed up him carefully. Then the stylist selected accessories for him.

Soon they finished. Eduard, who had a strong figure, looked more handsome and tough. His facial attractiveness reached the peak.

Jennifer nodded with satisfaction, “You are so handsome and Victoria will definitely be attracted by you. Women in such a small place are green and inexperienced, so as long as we show her our wealth and give her some benefits, she will beg to marry you.”

“It’s not just small places like this.”

Looking at his handsome appearance in the mirror, Eduard continued, “Even women in the first and second largest cities will beg to be with me.”

“That’s good. Be confident. Let’s go to Aunt Laura’s house and invite their family to have a great dinner. As long as you perform well, you will win Victoria’s heart.”

Jennifer was confident in her son, who was handsome and rich. And he was a perfect choice to be a husband, who could definitely make a lot of women scream.

They walked out of the hotel when a Rolls-Royce Ghost parked at the door of the hotel.

Although Ghost was just the entry level Rolls-Royce car, it cost more than 1 million dollars.

"It's better to stay at home. Since it's so humiliating to take such a low-grade car." Looking at the Ghost, Eduard complained.

When he was abroad, he would drive the Rolls-Royce Phantom at least. If he went out to have fun, he would drive a Bugatti Veyron, which cost him 5 million dollars.

"That's it in a small place. Don't complain too much as we are here, and now you'd better win Victoria's heart and marry her.” Jennifer repeated.

When they got into the car, Jennifer took out her cell phone and called Laura, informing that they would pay her a visit soon.

Hang up the phone, Laura was refreshed as if she was given an energy shot.

Glancing at Victoria, Marcus and Maximilian who were having a meal, Laura said in a loud voice, “Stop eating. Jennifer and her son will arrive soon. You’d better clear away and go out to welcome them. Maximilian, you just get out and don’t stay at home today.”

Maximilian was stunned for a moment. When he was about to say something, Victoria said, “Mom, Maximilian must be here with me. If you ask him go out, I’ll go out with him.”

“Do you want to piss me off? You know what Jennifer coming with her son for, but how could you ask the punk to stay at home to disgust our guests?" Laura said with anger.

Victoria curled her lips and said with disdain, "Just because I know what they are coming here is for, Maximilian should not leave."

"Stop quarreling. Just let the punk stay here to see the gap between him and others. If you have a little sense of shame, you should leave on your own and don't stay here to be a burden on Victoria." Marcus said in a cold tone.

Laura nodded, gave Maximilian a look of resentment, "You punk, just widen your eyes to see how wide the gap between you and others!"

Maximilian was having a meal expressionlessly, without caring about Laura's words.

“You just eat and eat! Get back and tidy up yourself. Look at your dressing! You’ll discredit our family if others see you like this.”

Giving a look at Laura, Maximilian put down the bowl and got back to the room without saying a word.

Following Maximilian back to their room, Victoria took Maximilian’s hand and said, “Don’t be angry. You know my mom. I’ll deal with it later and then we’ll go out, okay?”

Maximilian smiled and nodded, “You’re the boss.”

“I’ll get you some clothes, and you wear the limited-edition Versace? My husband will not lose to Eduard or anyone.”

Victoria took out the Versace suit and asked Maximilian to wear it. Then she helped him clear up his hair and looked at the handsome Maximilian with a smile.

"What are you doing? Have you done? Hurry up and go out to welcome your Aunt Jennifer."

Laura's voice sounded. Victoria curled her lips, and then she held Maximilian's arm and went out of the room.

Laura and Marcus all looked at Maximilian with disdainful eyes.

"There's no need for you punk to dress up. Even if you wear a dragon robe, you don't look like a prince. You are so foolish to believe that you can pretend to be a nobleman with famous brand clothes."

"Don't bother to talk to him. The punk will realize the gap between him and others when he sees Eduard later. Clothes of famous brand are not fit for punks.”

The couple yelled at Maximilian, and then they opened the door and went out.

The family went out and waited. Soon a Rolls-Royce Ghost came into their sight.

“It’s a Rolls Royce. It must be Jennifer. Victoria, cheer up and have a chat with Eduard. You youngsters must have a lot to talk about.”

Laura held Victoria and exhorted.

The Rolls-Royce Ghost stopped slowly. Laura shouted at Maximilian with a sullen face, “You punk, get to open the door for them!”

“Mom, how could you do that?” Victoria was displeased, pouting.

“He’s just an incapable punk. It’s a compliment to let him open the door.”

Laura gave Maximilian a contemptuous look at Maximilian and muttered.

At the time Victoria and Laura were quarreling, Eduard got out of the car and looked at Maximilian with disdain, "Are you the punk?"

Chapter 295 What Do You Take Me for

Maximilian bowed his head and did not speak, as if he had not heard the provocative words of Eduard.

Looking at Eduard, a tough and handsome man, Laura cracked a great smile and was so delighted.

“Jennifer, you have a handsome son. Victoria, come here to greet Eduard.”

Then Laura nudged Victoria and pushed her to Eduard.

Eduard showed a gentleman-like smile on his face, “Lady Victoria is much more beautiful than your photos. My heart beats so fast the moment when I saw you.”

“I have a husband.” Victoria said with a cold face.

Laura wore a sullen face suddenly, wishing she could talk with Eduard on behalf of Victoria.

Eduard looked at Maximilian and said with a contemptuous smile, "I know your husband is a punk, and you won't need him soon, because you have a better choice now. That's me."

Eduard always behaved like a peremptory boss. If Victoria's parents were not present, he would surely give Victoria a katedon.

"Eduard is right. Victoria is so innocent that she is hoodwinked by the punk. When Victoria is insightful enough, she would kick the wretch away." Laura said to relax the atmosphere.

Victoria turned back to Maximilian and held his hand tightly, as if she was worried that Maximilian would disappear in front of her.

Noticing Victoria's action, Eduard felt a drumming in his temples and felt that he was totally ignored.

There was great anger rising in Eduard's heart. He realized that he had to get rid of Maximilian, the obstacle first if he wanted to win Victoria's heart.

"You such a punk should wear a Versace. It's really a waste of the clothes. The shoes you're wearing don't match Versace at all. Besides, your appearance and temperament don't match the clothes. Do you know what modeling is?"

"You don't even have an exclusive stylist. Do you think you are dignified when wearing clothes of an international brand? So naive of you! Do you know what accessories a mature man should have? If nothing else, you should at least have a good wristwatch.”

Eduard found fault with Maximilian, then he turned his wrist to reveal his wristwatch.

Showing Maximilian and Victoria deliberately his wristwatch, Eduard held his head up and said, “Do you see my wristwatch? It’s a customized watch of Patek Philippe, which is made of platinum and diamonds with a price of 3 million dollars.”

“Not to mention such a watch, you punk should have a Patek Philippe. If you can’t afford a Patek Philippe watch, you should have a vulgar gold Rolex at least. Do you the wretch have one?”

“I suppose the Versace you are wearing is paid by Miss Victoria’s saving. You such a punk are so unabashed to live in the world. If I were you, I would have bought a piece of Tofu to kill myself.”

Eduard taunted Maximilian without mercy. Laura echoed him and said, “Eduard, you are right. Such a punk should be dead a long time ago.”

However, Maximilian was indifferent. But there was a chill in the corner of his eyes.

“Ahem.” Marcus pretended to cough then he said with smile, “Let’s get inside and sit down to talk about it later.”

Marcus felt that behaving like this on the road was disgraceful. However, as the saying goes, domestic shame should not be made public. He thought they could reprimand Maximilian at random when they were at home.

Laura realized that this was not appropriate, so she forced a smile, “I’m so sorry to be annoyed by the punk that I did not invite you to come in. Jennifer, Eduard, please come in and have a seat.”

Then Marcus and Laura led Jennifer and Eduard into the house, with Victoria and Maximilian following behind.

Victoria felt aggrieved for Maximilian, but Maximilian kneaded Victoria’s hand, signaling Victoria not to worry about him.

When they all entered the room and sat down, Laura pushed Victoria to sit beside Eduard.

As Maximilian wanted to sit next to Victoria, he was stopped by Laura, “What are you doing? We have our distinguished guests and there’s no seat for you. Just stand aside and pour the tea for us.”

Laura took Maximilian as a waiter and asked him to serve the tea.

Eduard sneered and waved his hand, “We don’t need the punk, who is disgusting for me to serve for us. We’d better ask the punk to get out.

Maximilian, I’ll give you 2 thousand dollars and you just get out and do what you want.”

“There’s no need to give him money. I’ll drive him out now.” Laura flattered Eduard and said. Then she stood up and went to Maximilian.

“Mom, please don’t do this. I’ll ask him to go back to our bedroom.”

Victoria beat Laura to it and rushed to Maximilian, her eyes full of tears.

Maximilian smiled faintly. Not wanting Victoria to be in a pickle, he said in a low voice, “I’ll go back to the room.”

Looking at Maximilian leaving, Victoria wiped the tears from the corners of her eyes.

Staring viciously after Maximilian, Laura whispered to Victoria, "Don't be softhearted. It will be a great benefit for us if you break up with the punk as early as possible."

"No, we won't be separated." Victoria said seriously.

"I don't know how you can understand my kindness. A great opportunity is right in front of you. How can you be so silly?" Laura was worried, but resigned.

"You said the same words when it comes to Humphrey. If I divorced Maximilian and married Humphrey at that time, and now Eduard appears, would you let me divorce Humphrey and marry Eduard? What do you take me for on earth?"

Victoria was kind of angry and retorted. Laura's face flushed, and then she said with shame and anger, "It's natural for anyone to struggle upwards. The world is never short of such people who are maintaining a job while looking for a better one!"

Victoria turned back to her seat with a cold face, and she did not sit in the same position as just now, but sat far away from Eduard.

Both the face of Jennifer and Eduard darkened. Then Laura said with embarrassment to lighten the tension, "Victoria is stubborn. Jennifer, please don't get angry with her. Eduard, you can sit beside Victoria and have a good chat with her."

"It seems that your daughter is not well-disciplined. Eduard is a perfect choice as a husband and there are many young ladies wanting to marry him. If your daughter doesn't seize the opportunity, don't blame me for it, Laura." Jennifer said with a sullen face.

Laura nudged Marcus to signal him to say something.

Marcus meditated for a moment and looked at Victoria, saying, "Victoria, just think about it carefully. Maximilian has been more and more incapable these days. He had a job at least before, but now he is just staying at home doing nothing. Such a man is really unreliable."

"He risked his life to save me on his own when I was kidnapped." Victoria said firmly, "If Maximilian is unreliable, there is no one reliable in the world!"

Chapter 296 Teach Him a Lesson

Victoria's stirring words silenced the whole room.

A moment later, Jennifer frowned and asked, "How can there be kidnapping? You are such a humble family."

Eduard sneered and said, "It could be directed and acted by that loser himself. Maybe there was no kidnapping at all. Who was willing to kidnap him?"

Victoria did not laugh. She remembered Maximilian endured so much humiliation to ensure her safety when she was kidnapped.

Laura sighed, patting her on the shoulder and said, "I think there are many doubtful points concerning the kidnap. It is possible that the loser arranged the whole farce, do not be silly."

"What's the point of recalling the past? Let's talk about the future. Do you have any problems managing the company recently? You can ask Eduard if you have any questions, as he is managing an internationally renowned enterprise. You can learn a lot from him."

Marcus changed the topic, Eduard said with a smile, "Business administration is my strength, and it was all about managing. If Victoria is interested, she can be my secretary, and then she can learn more."

"Sorry, I don't have time to go overseas." Victoria said coldly.

"You don't have to. I'm about to set up a branch office in H City for the time being. I can manage all enterprises remotely from H City. I could use an assistant then."

Eduard looked at Victoria with a smile, and then said, "We have invested 100 million dollars in the branch office in H City to expand medical and health products business in China, which can be mutually beneficial with the Griffith Group."

It immediately attracted Marcus' attention, as it can bring benefits to the Griffith. If he can really cooperate with Eduard, his status in the Griffith family would definitely be improved.

"Are you really going to invest in H City? We could carry out a series of cooperation. If there's anything I can do for you, I will go to all my lengths." Marcus said excitedly.

"We have completed our preliminary preparation. I need your full support to persuade Victoria to be my assistant." Eduard said triumphantly.

As soon as the bait was dropped, Marcus grabbed the hook. As long as Marcus and Laura supported him, Eduard felt that Maximilian wouldn't last for long. He would be kicked out by the Griffith, and he would marry Victoria.

"I'm not available. I need to deal with the business in my own company, thus I don't have time for your corporation. I'm under the weather, so I'll go back to my room first." Victoria did not want to go any further, so she was very straightforward.

Jennifer and Eduard were angry because they thought Victoria went too far.

"Laura, what's Victoria's attitude? Does she regard Eduard's good intentions as a failure of consideration?" Jennifer pounded the desk and roared.

Laura shivered and was frightened by Jennifer's anger, "It's not like that. Please don't be mad. Victoria is stubborn. I will teach her a lesson."

"It seems that you cannot tell good from bad. Remember your words. Take her to make amendments to my son, or you'll see."

Jennifer burst with anger, and the superiority of the powerful family did not allow her to be neglected.

"Mom, don't be angry. Such a woman is interesting. Wild horses will always be tamed. Let me conquer her slowly." Eduard comforted his mother and he secretly wanted to tame Victoria.

Jennifer nodded slightly, "If you are in the mood, I will not interfere. You just do whatever you want. I won't get involved, or I'll be mad."

Laura flattered, "The family education is not adequate. Don't be angry. She won't act like that in the future."

"I hope so." Jennifer answered her with a perfunctory effort, and whispered to her son, "Shall we go back now or ..."

"Why are you in such a hurry? We can have lunch here. I'll teacher that loser a lesson."

Eduard's anger was directed at Maximilian, he thought that as long as he humiliated Maximilian, Victoria would notice the difference between them. Victoria would definitely make a wise choice.

Frankie was carried into the car by his men in Geeko.

"Frankie, we are ready, and we also involved, or I'll be mad."

Laura flattered, "The family education is not adequate. Don't be angry. She won't act like that in the future."

"I hope so." Jennifer answered her with a perfunctory effort, and whispered to her son, "Shall we go back now or ..."

"Why are you in such a hurry? We can have lunch here. I'll teacher that loser a lesson."

Eduard's anger was directed at Maximilian, he thought that as long as he humiliated Maximilian, Victoria would notice the difference between them. Victoria would definitely make a wise choice.

Frankie was carried into the car by his men in Geeko.

"Frankie, we are ready, and we also take Jasper's guns."

Frankie nodded slightly, and his face was smiling ferociously.

"Any news from the informer who kept an eye on that loser?"

"Yes, it's said that a Rolls-Royce Ghost arrived at his house early in the morning. The man who got off scolded the loser. According to the informer, that man seems to be interested in Victoria and want Victoria to divorce the loser."

Frankie frowned a little. Rolls-Royce Ghost was not for ordinary people. Although it cannot compete with Rolls-Royce Phantom, it was still much better than Mercedes Benz S600 or other cars.

"What did you find out about the man?" Frankie was worried about the unexpected variables, so he asked.

"Our men there are tracking him down. They say there will be news soon."

His men were reporting, and his mobile phone suddenly rung, and he quickly took out the phone.

"Frankie, our guy said he found the information through the hotel records. The man's name is Eduard. He used an overseas passport to check in. He should be a foreign citizen."

"Ah, foreigner, then don't worry about him." Frankie felt relieved.

No matter how powerful Eduard was, his influence was overseas. It was absolutely not easy to infiltrate.

"Let our guy over there keep an eye on Maximilian's movements. Let's go now."

The motorcade drove out slowly.

Frankie sat in the car and refreshed his spirit by closing his eyes. It wasn't long before the motorcade left Geeko.

As the motorcade was about to enter downtown H City, Frankie opened his eyes and asked, "Is there anything new?"

"The informer reported that Maximilian's family had left for the southern suburbs. At present, we did not know where they were going."

"Southern suburbs? What's over there?" Frankie squinted, wondering if it would be a trap.

But this time, he took all his confidants with him, and when they departed, they did not inform anyone the destination, there should not be any news spreading out.

Looking at the latest information received on the mobile phone, the guy said, "They have arrived at a place like a farmhouse, but it is more high-end and luxurious, like a private manor."

He showed Frankie the picture he just received.

In the picture, there was an antique house with a Rolls-Royce Ghost parking outside, and Maximilian was following a group of people. It seemed that he had no status.

Chapter 297 What do you think Maximilian is?

“Faye Garden?”

Frankie read out the words on the plaque of the antique house in the photo. After some reflection, he remembered what Faye Garden was.

It was created by Manager Thomas, a tycoon in the catering industry in H City. It focused on the concept of high-end private banquets, which was quite different from Lasdun.

"It's nothing more than a restaurant opened by Thomas. It will be smashed. When I enter H City, the catering industry will be mine."

Frankie was ambitious and ready to bring many industries of H City into his control. The premise was that he can eliminate Connor Davies and successfully mastered the underworld of H City.

"In the future, you will be the big boss of H City." His subordinate seized the opportunity to flatter him.

"You are a sweet talker. If I am going to be the boss of H City in the future, you will have a place too." Frankie laughed happily.

"Thank you for your cultivation. I will make great efforts." His subordinate said excitedly.

"Command them to go to Faye Garden at full speed."

With Frankie's command, the motorcade rushed to Faye Garden as quick as a flash.

Faye Garden.

The charming foreman, dressed in ancient costume, led the way in front of Eduard and Jennifer and kept introducing the restaurant to them.

"All the ornaments here are real antiques, which is a special feature that separates us from other places."

"The landscape stones, stone troughs, stone columns and so on are ancient objects, and the luxuriant cypresses and pines around them are century old transplanted from the mountains. It can be said that every single brick and tile in the Faye Garden has a sense of the times."

Marcus nodded frequently; Laura was amazed by the foreman's introduction.

"Oh, my dear, these are all antiques. How much will it cost to build them?" Laura said in surprise.

Eduard said with a smile, "What we want here is style. As long as it is elegant, plenty of people scramble for it. This is a powerful marketing planning."

"Eduard is really awesome. He can gain an insight that this is a marketing method immediately. Victoria, you should learn to do business from Eduard."

Laura led Victoria and wanted to push her and Eduard together. Victoria leaned back to resist, but Laura gouged her out with her eyes.

When they got into the box, Eduard picked up the menu and looked at it.

"Australia's top abalone, one for each. Have you ever eaten top abalone? You loser. You can have a good bite of it. The top abalone is very different from the ordinary abalone. By the way, you don't even have the chance to eat ordinary abalone, I am sure." Eduard took the ordering opportunity to humiliate Maximilian.

Maximilian sat in the corner and looked down at the tea, ignoring Eduard. When Eduard saw Maximilian's silence, he said with a smile, "Why don't you speak? If you haven't eaten ordinary abalone, I'll order another ordinary abalone for you to taste the difference."

"Why don't you answer? Eduard is asking." Laura stared at Maximilian and roared.

"I've eaten the top abalone at my father-in-law's birthday party." Maximilian said calmly.

Laura was stunned for a moment, glaring at Maximilian, "You son of a bitch, don't talk nonsense. Why do you say you have eaten when you haven't?"

"Oh, you've eaten the top abalone, and it's really beyond my expectation. I want a large portion of wagyu beef and especially Tomahawk part, I don't know if you have eaten the wagyu beef." Eduard looked at Maximilian sportively.

Maximilian said lightly, "Most of the wagyu beef sail under false colors, and the authentic wagyu beef are not for export."

Eduard squinted. Unexpectedly, the trap he deliberately set was seen through by this waste.

Whether Maximilian had eaten it or not, Eduard can find a way to humiliate him, but he made it clear that wagyu beef was not for export and failed Eduard's trap directly.

"You're a knowledgeable. Let's order a deep-sea salmon. You should have eaten it, but I don't know if what you had was authentic."

"90 percent of salmon on the market are not deep-sea, and nearly half of them are made of freshwater trout."

said Maximilian with his head down.

Marcus and Laura looked at Maximilian in surprise, wondering how he knew this.

Maximilian looked up at Eduard and said with a smile, "What else do you want? Sturgeon caviar? Black truffle? French Foie Gras? They all sound fancy, but they are not Victoria's cup of tea."

Eduard's face changed in a moment. He looked at Maximilian angrily, and he seemed to want to swallow Maximilian alive.

Seeing Eduard's face, Laura immediately scolded Maximilian, "You bastard, who allows you to talk so much? If you dare to talk nonsense any more, get out of here."

Jennifer mercilessly gouged Maximilian out with her eyes and said in a cold voice, "Eduard, continue to order. Don't lower yourself to the same level with the loser. It's just that he read something on the Internet and pretended to be knowledgeable."

Eduard held back his anger and ordered several dishes in succession. Then he threw the menu on the table.

"Just follow us. They're all good stuff you probably can't have in your whole life!" Eduard roared.

"It's no need. If this is your attitude, I will leave with Maximilian first." Victoria said dissatisfiedly.

"Victoria, how can you treat me like this? Why are you being so nice to such a waste? What's good about him? He can't offer you a quality life, but I can give you everything you want!"

Eduard looked at Victoria with a puzzled face. He can't figure out why she did not want to divorce Maximilian. Eduard felt he was much better than Maximilian in every aspect.

Jennifer rubbed her eyebrows and felt that she had made the wrong choice. What she thought could be easily done had become so troublesome now.

It is said that you can take a horse to the water but you cannot make him drink.

If Victoria was forced to marry her son, their life would not be satisfactory in the future.

Jennifer worried for a moment, and then thought of what the master said. The master said that this marriage was a perfect match, but there was no sweet before sweat. At present, it was the bitter part. If she can force the loser to leave, she can make her son's life sweet.

"Victoria, sit down first. I sincerely hope you and Eduard can have a good contact. I also hope you two can have a bright future. If you are worried about the future of this loser, our family can support him and allow him to live a more comfortable life than most people in H City."

Victoria shook her head, "Support him? What do you think of Maximilian is? "

