

Let me go, Mr. Hill Author: Shallow South

Chapter 2851

Chapter 2851

A gleam flashed across charity's eyes.

She stared at that name for a long time, and in the end, she added that person to her contacts.

After that, she placed her phone aside.

Five minutes later, the phone vibrated.

Charity hesitated for a few minutes before picking up the phone.

Chester had sent her a picture of blue skies and green mountains.

The picture was beautiful, which reminded her of inner calmness.

Chester sent a message. [Are you doing well? I'm recuperating at this place. It's lovely. I'm greeted with the peaceful scenery outside every day when I open my eyes.]

Charity sighed and touched her forehead.

She could not ignore his greeting.

Hence, she had no choice but to reply to him. [I'm doing well. What about you? How's your injury?]

Chester: [I can stand up now. I'm trying to walk around with crutches.]

As Charity read his message, she felt a lump in her throat, she only sent a reply after some time. [It'll get better.]

Chester: [Yeah.]

The man in the faraway Country R stared at the chat, which had stopped abruptly. On his other side was a tablet displaying the trending entertainment news in Australia. [Breaking! The Past Film Empress and the Ice Prince's New Relationship.]

In the picture, Josh and charity stood side by side. Josh was handing a cat to Charity, and she had a gentle expression on her face.

One was cool and handsome, while the other was pure and beautiful.

Chester threw the tablet on the bed with its screen facing down.

Ken observed Chester's dark expression and said carefully, " Neeson Corporation has clarified the situation. They only had a meal together because the shoot ran late. Many other people eat with them as well. However, the picture just shows them both coincidentally discovering a stray cat nearby after the meal. Miss Robbins accidentally got scratched by the stray cat, so she went to the hospital to get a rabies vaccine and passed the cat to Josh for temporary care-

"Coincidentally discovering a cat after the meal and... taking care of and feeding the stray cat together?" Chester chuckled, "what a romantic encounter. What a way to start a love affair."

Ken found Chester's laughter creepy. "It's impossible. You ended up in this state because of Miss Robbins. How can she possibly be in the mood to date? Moreover... There's no way she'll date Josh. He's younger than Miss Robbins."

“That’s right. However, isn’t love between an older woman and a younger and masculine man trendy these days?” Chester mocked, “ Look at me. I’m past 30 years old.” 1

“Um...”

Ken wiped the sweat off the corner of his forehead.

He felt as if he had been treading on thin ice these days.

“Damn it.” Chester grabbed his amputated leg tightly. “Josh is a ski athlete spreading his wings, but what about me? I’m a cripple. I don’t even know when I can leave this damned place and put on a prosthetic leg.]

Ken watched Chester get irritated for a while before regaining his calm afterward. Chester’s deep-set eyes looked like a cold swamp, bottomless and unpredictable.

Ken could not understand Chester anymore as the latter seemed like he had two separate personalities.

After that, Charity would receive a picture from Chester every day. Sometimes, there would be videos too. For example, the way he looked in casual clothes and as he learned how to walk on the field with crutches.

The empty leg opening of his pants fluttering gave her nightmares at night.

However, when she woke up, she could not remember her dream. All she felt was that it was suffocating.

She turned on her phone to see that Chester had sent another message. [Charity, I managed to walk ten steps with crutches today. The doctor said I’m improving a lot.]

Let me go, Mr. Hill Author: Shallow South

Chapter 2852

Chapter 2852

Charity placed her phone on her forehead.

Chester's appearance had caused a ripple in her stagnant life.

However, she could not reject him heartlessly and tell him not to disturb her life.

If she said those words, what if he took it too hard, especially with his current condition?

Besides, seeing such a high and mighty person like Chester become a person who struggled to walk, she could not say he deserved it.

After all, he ended up like that because of her.

Charity did not know what to reply. After eating, Chester sent her another message, but he was careful with his words. [Am I disturbing you?] 1

Chester: [I'm just bored. It's just Ken and I here every day. There are mountains all around, whenever I go to the hospital's garden for a walk during the day, people look pretty scared when they see me. I don't know when I can be an ordinary person again and leave this palace.]

Charity consoled him. [Your leg isn't scary. You'll definitely recover. Don't overthink it.]

Chester: [Maybe you'll already be married when I return.] « »

Chester: [I saw your scandal with Josh, and I've met him before. He's an excellent boy, handsome, and a first-class athlete too. He's a good match for you.]

Charity: [You worry too much. The news is fake.]

Chester: [You're such a nice person. You can slowly consider suitable guys. You shouldn't be alone. I'll feel guilty and sorry.]

Charity could no longer ignore the weird feeling in her chest. [Are you Chester? It's not another person messaging me, right?]

Soon, she received a voice message in a man's deep and husky voice. Through the phone, he sounded sad but moving. "I'm Chester. I'm telling you the truth. I never thought of this before, but ever since I came here alone, I realized that a lifetime is too long. I didn't know how to love someone back then. I was too stubborn to know how to compromise. I don't mind being alone for the rest of my life with my condition, but you're still young."

Charity was stunned for some time, but she replied with a voice message. "You don't have to care about my matters. Just mind your own business."

Chester: [Okay.]

He sounded obedient.

Charity stared at her phone and was utterly speechless.

When Chester, who was far away in Country R, knew that charity might not reply, he put down his phone in a pleasant mood. Then, he glanced at Ken, who had appeared beside him at some point.

Ken's gaze was indescribable. "President Jewell, are you still... the President Jewell I know?"

After seeing Eliza's scandal, Chester was irritable and had an unpredictable mood for two days. His temper was even fiercer than a rainstorm in summer.

However, he seemed to have turned into a love saint today.

Had he learned to compromise?

To hell with that.

"What do you know?" Chester glanced at Ken coldly. "I've been doing a lot of thinking these days. I can't just give up because my leg is crippled and my face disfigured."

« »

'Wait. Isn't he going to give up, especially in this condition?'

'Who gave him that confidence?'

Ken gave Chester a thumbs up. His boss was truly remarkable.

Chester smiled. "To other people, my crippled leg is terrifying and disgusting. However, to Eliza, it doesn't seem that way. She'll only feel guilty toward me. Men must know how to show their weaknesses sometimes. I was too dominating back then, and now, the more I compromise, she might get soft-hearted."

Ken thought, 'what a cunning man.'

Let me go, Mr. Hill Author: Shallow South

Chapter 2853

Chapter 2853

“But given that you’re crippled, do you think you’ll be able to look after Miss Robbins anymore?”

Ken thought that if he himself were crippled, he might give up the person he loved instead.

That was because he would think she was out of his league.

However, he did not see that with Chester. All he could see was Chester putting on an act.

“If I could sacrifice my leg for a 10 percent chance of being with her, isn’t it worth a try?”

Chester said it so casually. It was as though he was talking about today’s weather. “Do you think I don’t know Hunter’s character?”

A hint of shock shone in Ken’s eyes as he began to put everything together in a daze. At the sight of the skinny and fragile man in front of him, Ken shuddered.

It turned out Chester had long known that Hunter would angrily cause him trouble that day.

How could Chester be so cruel that he took full advantage of himself?

“Actually, you could’ve stopped Hunter that day, right?” Ken asked in disbelief.

"If I'd begged and deceived my dad, I would surely be able to trick you and Shaun into rushing back. However, I couldn't bring myself to do that."

Chester sighed softly. "Ken, I was gambling whether she would become soft-hearted. I was gambling on a chance. If my leg heals in the future, she'll completely let go of me."

"That's why you made her feel guilty by using your crippled leg? So she'll remember you forever?" Only then did Ken get the point.

"I want my name to be engraved in her heart forever. I want her to remember me." Chester suddenly laughed like a madman. "As long as I'm here, she won't be interested in anyone else. It doesn't matter if she doesn't accept me. We can remain single this way.

Even if we can't get together, no one else can get between US."

Ken gasped.

He used to find Eliza cruel.

However, now that he thought about it, he pitied Eliza for provoking a madman like Chester.

In Neeson Corporation, ever since charity and Josh's scandal was exposed, charity became increasingly reclusive.

Apart from heading to the office and attending social functions, she hardly went anywhere else.

"Sure enough, you're a conscientious celebrity like your staff said."

Josh's teasing voice suddenly rang out above her.

Charity lifted her head. As the door of her office was open, Josh swaggered into the room in sports attire. His attire was zipped all the way below his chin, but it did not affect his handsome look at all.

"What brings you here?" charity immediately leaped to her feet and personally poured coffee for the ambassador of the company. "It's fine. I don't drink coffee. Please give me a bottle of mineral water." Josh raised his chin arrogantly. "Your company's marketing department told me to come over to sign the agreement."

"What agreement?"

"When the new product launched, I attended two of Neeson Corporation events in Brisbane and shelltown." Josh glanced sideways at her. "At first, I didn't agree, but I decided to help Neeson Corporation since you sued all the haters who spread rumors about me last time."

Stunned, Charity turned around and took a bottle of water from the refrigerator. Then, she handed the bottle to him. "That matter started because of me. If it weren't for me, you wouldn't be embroiled in the scandal. It was my duty to sue the haters."

"Alright." Josh took over the bottle and said lazily, "My competitor was the one who took the photos at the training base. During the competitions in the past few months, he had been wanting to beat and replace me."

Charity was surprised. Nevertheless, she soon understood that competition existed everywhere.