Chapter 441 Seize the White Group

John Green, another shareholder, hesitated for a moment, looked at the crowd and said helplessly.

“Well... If Mr. Brown still insists, we can only let Gloria take the job. This is the only way. We can't give up such a big profit, can we? And we can only cooperate with the Brown Group on this project.”

Lucille frowned disapprovingly, “Do we have to work with the Brown Group? The Collins Group can also be our partner, right?”

Claude froze for an instant and looked at Lucille. Lucille also looked at him and said seriously, “Mr.

White, we actually only care about our interests. Gloria obviously wants to control our White Group. We can't let her, a young ignorant woman, decide our company's future.”

Claude nodded approvingly, “Yes, our White Group can't take any hardships, and we are making the breakthrough. We can't make any mistakes.”

Lucille nodded again, “So, we don't have to cooperate with the Brown Group. Since they disagreed, we can show our plan to the Collins Group.”

John hesitated and said, “But... will the Collins Group agree to invest in it?”

Lucille looked at him and said, “This is a very good plan, and we all think we can make a profit through it. If we invest, we can also get more shares. The Collins Group doesn't need to be the only investor.”

She said this seriously, and other people suddenly felt that what she said made sense.

Howard hesitated for a moment and said, "But... the project is an investment of hundreds of billions of dollars. We can't show our sincerity if we can't invest half of that sum in it. Even if we only invest 30% of it in the project, it will also be a large sum of money. How can our company have so much fluid capital?"

The others fell silent again and did not know what to do.

After all...

It was a huge investment.

The atmosphere in the office seemed a little grave.

Lucille paused for a moment and then said, "How can we know if we don't try? Moreover, Mr. White, your daughter and Mr. Collins will be engaged soon. If we close the deal, there will be two happy events. What do you think?"

Claude froze for a moment and looked torn.

Howard said, "Yes, if the Collins Group could invest in it alone, we don't have to negotiate with the Brown Group again and again."

John frowned and said after some deliberation, "But if we do that, we'll offend the Brown Group. Those two groups are against each other."

Then everyone fell silent again, not knowing what to do.

Lucille said calmly, "It's not about offending anyone. Gloria is inexperienced. If she is in charge of the legal work, I will have no disagreement. But we should be responsible for the cooperation, and we cooperate for profits. Mr. Brown didn't agree with our arrangement, so we have to do this for our company's interests and reputation."

What she said made sense. The others did not refute it but seriously thought about it.

Howard nodded, "You are right. We can ask Mr. Collins about it privately without alerting Gloria. And I think... your daughter can do that for us."

Then everyone looked at Claude.

Chapter 442 She Met This Bi*ch Wherever She Went!

Claude paused for a moment and nodded, "Okay, leave this to me and I'll tell Angela about it. If Mr. Collins wants us to invest, how much do you think we should invest?"

Then they had a heated discussion on this issue.

At this time...

Gloria was still in her office, waiting for Lovell to call her.

It was about time to get off work.

A few minutes later, Lovell Wilson sent her a text message.

Lovell Wilson, (Miss White, I'm Lovell. Please come to the restaurant after you get off work. I'll wait for you there.)

Gloria replied and put down her mobile phone.

Sheila rested her eyes on Gloria with admiration, "Gloria, are you working on the last project?"

Gloria nodded, "Yes."

Sheila smiled, "What are your odds? Are you confident?"

Gloria smiled, "I don't know. See if I get lucky."

"You are too modest. I'm waiting for you to show us the miracle. Now the people in our office are working hard after knowing your sensational deeds. They were inspired by you and our group even have a better performance because of you!"

Gloria smiled, "Really?"

She didn't want to continue the topic.

But Sheila went into a long monologue about it and seemed to be in a good mood. After they talked for a while, it was time to get off work.

Gloria clocked out, and left with her purse.

Just after she arrived at the restaurant, her mobile phone rang. Although it was a strange number, she recognized it at a glance. It was Lovell, and she immediately picked it up.

"Mr. Wilson."

"Yeah, have you arrived yet?"

"Yes, I'll park in the underground parking lot nearby and come to you right away."

"I'm in the parking lot. I'll wait for you at its gate."

"Okay."

After hanging up the phone, Gloria locked the car and walked to the gate. Seeing that Lovell was looking at his watch on his wrist, she stepped forward and said, "Do you have anything else to deal with?"

Lovell smiled, "No. It's just a habit. Let's go."

Gloria came at the appointed time, and he was satisfied with that.

"Okay." Gloria answered politely, and they walked towards the restaurant together.

However...

What a coincidence! They met again!

But only Gloria and Angela thought so.

Looking at the man and woman in front of her, Gloria frowned slightly and felt that she was out of luck on this day.

Angela's expression changed when she saw Gloria!

Damn it!

Why did she meet this bitch everywhere she went?

In the past, she liked to meet Gloria, because she could sow discord when she met her. But now she was afraid to meet her, because now Gloria had become the person who sowed discord!

Jordy was often misled by her!

Angela was really afraid of her!

She and Jordy would be engaged soon. She didn't want Gloria to ruin it.

Angela hurriedly looked at Jordy, and found that Jordy's cold eyes had really rested on Gloria.

It shocked her.

She really wanted to take Jordy to another place for dinner!

But they had met, what could she do?

Chapter 443 It's Just a Coincident?

Angela immediately smiled at Gloria, suppressing her anger, "Gloria, why are you here? Who is this?"

Seeing Lovell's face, Angela suddenly fell into a trance, as if her uncle had come to life.

Gloria didn't want to talk to them, but turned to Lovell and said with a shallow smile, "Mr. Wilson, shall we go in?"

Lovell didn't want to meddle in Gloria's private affairs, but nodded.

Angela's smile turned stiff, but she sneered the next moment. Good. Then Jordy could see how impolite Gloria was.

However, Jordy suddenly said after they only took one step, "Mr. Wilson," Angela looked a little shocked. He...

Lovell stopped and turned to Jordy.

"Mr. Collins, what's the matter?"

Jordy called Lovell politely.

Lovell was stubborn and had a mind of his own. Jordy once tried hard to poach him, and many people respected him very much.

He was extremely capable. He won the championship in the world competition for his country and made a lot of contributions.

Many people would call him Mr. Wilson politely when they saw him.

"Mr. Wilson" was no longer an ordinary title, but... an indelible honor.

Gloria frowned slightly and gave Jordy a stern look.

Jordy said that he would ruin her plan. She was warning Jordy that if he dared to hinder her, she would get back at him mercilessly.

However, Jordy didn't even look at Gloria but said to Lovell in a gentle voice, "It's a coincidence to see you here. Since you are also here for dinner, why don't you join us?"

Gloria's expression changed slightly! She frowned. What was this asshole doing?

Many people wanted to poach Lovell, but they had all given up, including Jordy. But what was he doing?

Angela was also a little flustered. Jordy was here to eat dinner with her, wasn't he?

But now...

He actually invited these two people?

Why did she feel that there was no such coincidence?

Women's premonitions, especially the bad ones, were always right. She felt that she was just his excuse for appearing here!

Lovell froze for an instant, and the next moment he simply refused, "No, thanks, it was me who wanted to invite Miss White to dinner. We'll eat together sometime."

Gloria looked at Jordy coldly. She didn't want to say anything to provoke him. Soon she looked away and just stood quietly beside Lovell.

Jordy was not surprised to be rejected. He tried again, "We all know each other, so we can eat together, can't we? Besides, I have something to consult with you. Your wife came to me today."

Lovell looked at him with a surprised look, "My wife?"

What was she up to?

Jordy nodded, "Yes, I need your consent before I decide whether to do something."

Angela was shocked.

Was it her illusion? Was it really just a coincidence?

Lovell frowned slightly. Although he wanted to know what his wife had done, he planned to ask his wife about it first.

The next moment, he looked at Jordy and said, "Mr. Collins, I don't know why my wife went to you, but you don't have to do anything for her. I've promised to eat with Miss White alone. I'm sorry."

Chapter 444

Chapter 444 Jordy Really Had Feelings for Her

Everyone knew that Jordy would never do others favors for free.

If he helped Lovell this time, Lovell would owe him a big favor.

Lovell had a sharp and unique eye. If there was such a person in the Collins Group, then the Collins Group would have a bright future.

Lovell rejected Jordy's invitation again. Gloria was relieved.

She really didn't want to be involved in Jordy anymore.

Jordy glanced at Gloria coldly and then said calmly, "It's okay. Can we have a talk after dinner?"

Lovell froze for an instant. After thinking about it, he nodded, "Yes, see you later."

Angela was speechless.

She wanted to spend some time with Jordy after dinner, such as watching a movie, but then...

She was so upset.

Angela didn't know that eating with her wasn't Jordy's purpose at all but his excuse for appearing here.

Lovell looked at Gloria with a smile, "Miss White, let's go."

Gloria nodded with a smile, "OK."

She didn't even look at those two people and never spoke to Angela.

Then she left with Lovell.

Jordy stared at Gloria's receding figure coldly, as if sharp eyes could almost pierce her back.

"Jordy?"

Angela grew more and more uneasy.

Jordy's attention was drawn back. He looked at her with a calm face, "Come on."

With that, he entered the elevator.

Lovell and Gloria were also in it.

Angela was annoyed but had to follow him into the elevator.

Her good mood was already ruined.

There were six people in the elevator, and two of them were the waiters who showed them the way.

Gloria stood next to Lovell and bowed her head slightly in silence.

Jordy was wrapped up in a cold aura, and his sharp eyes rested on Gloria soon.

There seemed to be an endless abyss in his cold eyes.

Angela was more flustered. She took a deep breath, raised her hand, and held Jordy's arm, "Jordy, why did you bring me here for dinner?"

Sarcasm spread across Gloria's eyes. No man could resist the temptation of such a soft voice.

She turned slightly to see if Jordy would be an exception.

But he had been in love with Angela since the beginning. Of course, he couldn't resist such a temptation. She slowly looked away.

Jordy stiffened all over for a moment and subconsciously wanted to retract his arm. But Gloria was here. He turned to Angela and said, "You don't like it here?"

His voice wasn't very soft, but it could be considered soft. He had always been indifferent after all.

Angela shook her head with a smile, "Yes, I'm just curious."

Why did he meet Gloria here? Did he come here specially for Gloria?

Otherwise, how could it be so coincident?

She could feel that Gloria no longer liked Jordy as she used to.

But!

Jordy seemed to have different feelings for Gloria!

She didn't know how she should say it, and she became more and more uneasy.

Jordy then kept silent.

Soon, the elevator opened. Jordy did not move, so Angela also remained motionless.

Lovell nodded at Jordy and stepped out of the elevator.

Gloria kept up with him without looking back.

They quickly entered a box.

Gloria could feel that the sharp eyes behind her almost pierced her back.

Chapter 445 She Didn't Know What to Say

"What would you like to eat?" Lovell rarely smiled at Gloria.

Gloria smiled, "I'm cool with anything. It's up to you."

"This is my treat, so you could order whatever you want."

With that, Lovell had already handed the menu to Gloria. Gloria smiled, ordered a few dishes, and Lovell added some.

The waiter took their order.

After the waiter left, Lovell came straight to the point, "You approached me and wanted me to invite you to dinner. I believe you miss your father, but you have other purposes, don't you?"

Gloria sighed, "Yes, I want to cooperate with you."

Lovell snorted coldly and put on an expression as if saying "I knew it".

Gloria smiled, "I guess you might be even angrier. This project happens to be the one you hate most."

Lovell was speechless.

He squinted at the young girl in front of him and looked at her wordlessly, "Are you serious?"

"Yes!" Gloria was very serious, but she didn't take out her plan immediately. She needed to take her time to talk with him, or she would only mess it up.

She didn't want her painstaking efforts to be wasted in the end.

After a pause, she looked at Lovell with a smile, "What's your greatest pleasure in these years?"

Lovell narrowed his eyes and looked at the young girl in front of him.

He knew that everything she said might be related to the cooperation.

His curiosity was roused.

He wondered what she was going to say.

Then, he said in a flat tone, "I don't have any greatest pleasure. It's probably my family..."

At this point, he suddenly remembered Gloria's situation and stopped talking.

Gloria smiled, "Yes, my greatest wish is that I have a harmony and happy family."

Unfortunately, her mother left her when she was young, and her father... was also killed by others.

Lovell pursed his lips and didn't know what to say.

Lovell pursed his lips and didn't know what to say.

Gloria suddenly changed the topic, "Then what is your hobby?"

Lovell looked at her, "I'm a boring person and have no hobbies."

"You are wrong. You have."

Lovell was speechless.

"You like to visit the House for Octogenarians, don't you?"

"Yes, of course." Lovell seemed to be reminded and suddenly agreed.

Gloria smiled, "Well, do you know what my hobby is?"

"What on earth are you up to?"

"I'm discussing the trivial things in life with you. Living the life and enjoying the life are different things."

"Living the life means we should live, but enjoying the life means we need a happy life."

Lovell sized her up and made no comments, "And then?"

Gloria smiled helplessly, "You don't have to guard against me all the time, do you? I haven't told you about the cooperation. You can decide whether to cooperate with us or not after reading our plan. You have the final say. I can't set a trap for you by talking with you, can I?"

However, Lovell immediately refuted it with a smile, leaving Gloria speechless.

"Don't say that. If you were an average person, maybe I would talk to you about everything. But you are anything but average. You are Norma, the elite lawyer. What if the words I say become evidence in your favor, and you turn them against me in the future?"

Gloria did not answer that.

She smiled bitterly and sighed helplessly after realizing that Lovell would be on guard against her, "It seems that you won't buy a word I say anymore."

Lovell did not talk in a roundabout way either, "Just tell me what your purpose is. Don't worry, I will still buy you dinners as I have promised."

Gloria heaved a sigh and said leisurely, "Calm down. Let's take our time."

"Girl, you only make it worse."

Gloria saw that Lovell had run out of patience and that what he said was the truth. She shook her head and said, "I would still talk to you about this plan. If you disagree with it after you hear it, so be it. I will leave you alone. But since you are gonna buy me dinners, I think you have shown your interest and given me the chance, right?"

Lovell remained silent.

Gloria smiled and continued, "Everyone has their family to support and you have your own cause too. I know you hate changes and new things and wanna focus on your family business. But think about the large market out there to be exploited and the future development."

Lovell narrowed his eyes and asked, "Since you knew that to develop on these projects is the last thing I wanna get myself involved and that I am as stubborn as a donkey, why do you come after me? You think you can talk me out of my decisions?"

"No, deep down you know you don't hate these projects. You are just worried that you would fail and that you would disappoint your family."

At the same time, in another box.

Jordy took his seat, ordered the food and immersed himself in scrolling on his phone after they entered.

Angela put her phone aside. She treasured every single second to be alone with Jordy.

But...

Jordy had no intention of even engaging in a talk with her. Was he really here to have dinner with her?

Angela was now sure that Jordy brought her out on purpose!

She took a deep breath and could not hold back anymore, “Jordy, you are still thinking about Gloria, aren't you?”

Jordy looked up at her, his eyes tainted with annoyance. “Angela. I don't want to hear you say that again,” threatened Jordy.

Angela's heart jolted.

Jordy had never said such cruel word to her before.

Did he...

She took another deep breath. A mixture of unspeakable irritability and reluctance filled up her heart. But she did not know what to say under the current situation.

Just while she was torn by the anxiety about how to continue the conversation with Jordy, the waiter knocked on their door.

Angela breathed, smiled and said, “Come in.”

Jordy remained silent. He was in a really bad mood at the moment.

Gloria didn't give out any response, not even caring that Angela was holding his arm.

Humph.

What a heartless woman!

He was used and ditched?!

Jordy tried his best to hold down the raging anger that could explode at any second. His mood went through strong fluctuations these two days, and his employees were terrified that they might offend him by any means.

Chapter 447 Not working Anymore

The next second, Jordy came back to himself and looked extremely awkward.

What the hell was he thinking?!

Why was it all about Gloria White?!

“Jordy...”

Angela looked apprehensively at Jordy and asked, “What’s the matter? Shall we go back?”

Later, Jordy would meet Gloria again and they would go discuss business with Lovell. together. It was the last thing Angela wanted for them to be alone. She was really scared now.

Jordy pulled himself together and lifted his eyes to Angela, saying, “Come on. Eat. These are all your favorite dishes, aren’t they?”

These were indeed all her favorite. But, she was not in the mood!

Jordy was with her right now but it was Gloria all he was thinking about. How could she possibly enjoy the food?

After a pause, she let out a sigh and said, “Jordy, you don’t seem quite yourself lately. Is it because of me...”

She bit her lip and bowed her head slightly, feeling frightened and flustered.

She did not know how to continue the conversation.

But this was the method she always liked to use by playing weak and innocent to get men’s pity and sympathy.

Jordy’s eyes flickered as he picked up his fork and said, “Go ahead.”

Angela raised her head and took an incredulous look at him. Usually, he would be patient and talk nicely to her. What was he doing now?

A whole table of her favorite food tasted like hay. Jordy didn’t even want to talk to her, not even to say some decent words.

Angela looked at him with tears in her eyes. “Jordy, if you don’t like me, you don’t have to be resign yourself to do these things for me.”

Jordy frowned, the irritation in his eyes growing stronger.

For a moment, Angela thought her ace card was not working anymore.

She forgot that this method only worked for those who truly cared about her. To someone who did not like her, it would make her look like a clown...

Angela's hands clenched into fists, her nails digging into her flesh, but she didn't seem to feel the pain.

Angela put down the fork, completely losing her appetite.

Jordy slowly lowered his fork as well.

He got up and opened the door.

If Lovell came out, he would pass by them. So that he could see him immediately.

Angela went red!

The Jealousy made her look awful. Did Jordy care so much about Gloria now?

Why did he get divorced from her in the first place if he cared about her that much?!

Suddenly, Jordy's phone rang. He put it through.

“Mr. Collins, how long would it be before you finish eating?”

“It's finished. May I come over now?” Jordy was cool and calm.

Angela took a deep breath, trying to control her anger and irritation.

“Yes.”

“See you then.” Jordy hung up the phone and looked back at Angela, saying, “I have some business to attend to. Why don't you go home without me?”

This time, he had been extremely gentle and thoughtful.

Angela gritted her teeth. No! How could she leave now?!

Should she just bear with it while Jordy and Gloria hung out together?!

She would not give them that kind of privacy!

She forced a smile on her face and shook her head, saying as if it was for their good, "I'd better stay with you. After all, this is a public place. If someone finds out that you and Gloria are still together, it will affect both of your reputations. My presence would knock them out of that meaning conjecture!"

Chapter 448 Feelings of Repression

Jordy nodded faintly, got up and walked out.

Angela followed up immediately.

No matter how unwilling she felt, she could not feel at ease unless she was there with him.

And they ordered a table full of food, which was barely touched.

Jordy lost her appetite because of Gloria, and Angela found it hard to swallow because of Jordy's absent-mindedness.

Soon they come to Lovell's box.

But...

Gloria was nowhere to be seen.

Angela was as surprised. "Lovell, Does... Does Gloria leave?"

"Yes," replied Lovell carelessly.

Jordy's brow furrowed slightly.

When Angela saw that Gloria was gone, she did not want to stay here as well. She said directly to Jordy, "In that case, Jordy, I'm going home, too."

"Okay," replied Jordy without sparing another look at her.

Angela inhaled faintly and left.

The wind at night was more aggressive than in the daytime. Angela tamed and smoothed her hair and then took out her cell phone.

She put in Gloria's number, but... before pushing the dial button, she stopped.

Gloria ignored Jordy the entire time and, knowing that Jordy would reach out to Lovell, she simply left early. Gloria had exercised great restraint, if she kept bugging her, it only made her look petty, didn't it?

Angela bit her lip. When did she become like this?

She always thought she was so much better than Gloria, but why did she do what she did now?

In frustration, Angela raised her hands, covered her head, gnashed her teeth and wondered what made her act like this!

The night breeze was chilling.

Gloria took a leisure stroll on the road. She was in a hurry to go home.

The street was ablaze with lights. Gloria's eyes narrowed slightly.

Melodious music playing gave Gloria an unrealistic feeling,

I heard

That you're settled down

That you found a girl

And you are married now

I heard

That your dreams came true

Guess she gave you things

I didn't give to you

Old friend

Why are you so shy

Aren't like you to hold back

Or hide from the light

I hate to turn up out of the blue uninvited

But I couldn't stay away I couldn't fight it

I had hoped you'd see my face and that you'd be reminded

That for me, it isn't over

Never mind

Gloria couldn't help but stop to enjoy the music.

She wondered why she could relate to the song and its lyrics so well while it meant something completely different from her situation...

She lifted her eyes slightly to see all the lights in the building. The music sounded soothing. But she only grew irritated by it. She frowned suddenly and left in several strides.

The depressing feelings made her pant.

She picked up her pace to the underground parking lot. Suddenly, her phone rang. It was from Bryson. She put it through,

"Bryson?"

What was he up to?

There was a burst of noise on the other end of the call. Gloria wondered if he had dialed her number by mistake? Or, was he calling to ask her out?

While she was still feeling puzzled, Bryson spoke up...

Chapter 449 The Man I Like is Jonathan Brown

Bryson spoke up in a sorrowful voice.

“Gloria, are you going to say yes?”

Gloria was a bit bewildered.

“Bryson, are you drunk?”

Bryson’s voice was unusually harsh and pushing.

“Gloria, answer me, Do you... Do you like Jonathan Brown?”

Gloria was taken aback. She never liked Jonathan and would never say yes to his proposal.

But...

The oddity of Bryson made Gloria wonder if she should lie to him and make him drop the idea forever.

“Yes,” she said after a second of pause.

Bryson felt a throbbing pain in his heart.

Bryson was upset when he learned that Jonathan was courting Gloria openly, but he thought Gloria would need some time to get over the distress of her divorce with Jordy and would never say yes to Jonathan. So he did not truly care at first.

But now, seeing the two of them interacting frequently, showing up in the public again and again and taking over the trending list on Twitter, he panicked.

Why would Gloria want to work with Jonathan if she didn’t like him?

Bryson kept his emotions in check. He didn’t want to act rashly and bother Gloria with his meaningless concerns.

But...

His patience and restraint did not bring him the good news.

He tried to drown his sorrow in wine but the emotion got the better of him.
He soon got drunk.

drunk.

He could not care any less about self– restraint now. He wanted to ask her the burning questions in his heart...

Bryson took a deep breath, his eyes filled with distress. “Why... Gloria, you said you weren’t going to find another man. Why didn’t you ever consider me? Am I really so awful in your eyes?”

Gloria clutched the phone tightly and said, “No, Bryson, you are a very excellent person, but we have been friends since childhood. The four of us are so close! I think of you as my elder brother. I have never considered us being together as a couple.”

Bryson laughed out bitterly. “Elder brother...”

He loathed the thought of being her brother!

He just wanted to be her boyfriend, her husband, her lover and her guardian angel.

However...

It was but his own wishful thinking.

Bryson’s voice quavered and his eyes reddened as he gripped his phone tightly and said, “Gloria, we’re not related. We have been friends since childhood.
Don’t you wanna consider it? You are the one who I truly care, the only girl I will care for in my life. Will you give me a chance?”

Gloria

said last time that Bryson always kept his thoughts at the bottom of his heart, and he really did so, but alcohol racing in his blood vein made him impulsive. Although he still had reasons remained, although he could remember every single moment of now when he woke up tomorrow, he was unable to control himself.

Gloria’s face turned pale slightly. It was impossible for her to accept Bryson as her boyfriend. She was telling the truth. Bryson was more like an elder brother to her... Moreover, she had just got divorced. It was unfair to herself and Bryson if she said yes.

Gloria collected herself and said to him word by word, "Bryson Lloyd, it is not gonna work out between you and me. The person I like is... Jonathan Brown."

And just as she finished, someone suddenly showed up.

Chapter 450 A Good Show to Watch

The man looked at her with a smile on his lips. His eyes sparkled in the darkness of the night.

Gloria's pupils constricted as she caught a glimpse of him!

She could not care any less at the moment. The breath of Bryson became deeper.

"Gloria... You literally break my heart."

Gloria took a deep breath and said guiltily, "I have got to go. Don't drink too much. You should go home."

With that, she hung up.

The man standing in front of her smiled even more broadly and wickedly.

"Gloria, I heard you."

Gloria's face twitched slightly. "Don't get me wrong. I was just using you as a shield."

Jonathan's sneer grew even wilder as he took a step forward to Gloria. "Oh? Were you?"

Gloria, backing away in horror, quickly changed the subject, "What are you doing here. Is it for business?"

Jonathan chuckled and looked tenderly at her, saying, "I just come here to hear you say with your mouth that you like me."

Gloria pulled herself together and said as calmly as she could, "I got to go."

She turned around and left. If she spent one more second with this man, she would only be hurt even more deeply by him.

However, Jonathan grabbed her wrist, at a speed so fast that had no time to react.

Gloria turned to him with a slight frown. "Isn't Mr. Brown a gentleman?"

Jonathan smiled and said, "I am only a gentleman in front of those who I do not care about. I have exercised great restraint in front of you and tried my best not to force myself on you."

Gloria was a bit speechless.

She withdrew her arm. Of course, Jonathan did not hold it back by force. He did not want to push her and irritate her.

Gloria took a deep breath and explained again patiently, "Mr. Brown, don't take this the wrong way. Now everyone on the Internet is talking about us, so I used you as a shield. I will never do such thing without your consent again."

Jonathan's smile grew deeper and deeper. His gaze fell on her cheek as he said in his magnetic voice, "You would always have my consent. It is my pleasure actually to be your shield against those courtships of the other guys. I wish I could tell the whole world that I am your boyfriend."

Gloria found herself not able to outargue this man. She took a deep breath and said, "I really have to go."

She felt tired of talking with him.

Jonathan jested, "What's the rush for? There's a good show tonight. You should join me to watch it."

Gloria looked up at him and echoed, "A good show?"

"Yes."

Gloria was doubtful.

Jonathan took her hand and said, "Come with me."

Gloria was unable to struggle herself free this time. A tender voice caught her attention at that moment.

“Jordy.”

Gloria frowned. Jordy should be discussing business with Lovell, wasn't he? Were they done discussing already?

She was led into a dark corner by Jonathan.

A big van in front covered them up so that no one would notice them.

From here, Jonathan and Gloria could see Jordy and Angela clearly.

Angela followed Jordy closely with a sense of reluctance and awkwardness in her eyes.

Jordy stopped and turned to look at her, saying, “I'm taking you home.”
