“Avery, Robert likes to eat the dumplings you made.” Mrs. Cooper came over and smiled at Avery, “I have to add more after eating a bowl. I said that today’s dumplings are really delicious.”

Mrs. Cooper came over to tell Avery this, in order to make Avery happy.

Because when Layla was eating dumplings just now, the expressions on Avery and Elliot’s faces were apprehensive and uneasy.

People like the two of them who didn’t usually ck, could make dumplings, which was already very worthy of encouragement.

Mrs. Cooper also ate the dumplings they made. Although the taste was average, it was definitely not bad.

“Really?” Avery was attracted to the dining room.

Robert took the spoon by himself and smashed the last dumpling in the bowl into his small mouth.

“Baby eat slowly. Your kindergarten still has breakfast!” Avery walked to Robert and wiped his mouth with a tissue.

Avery looked blank: “Is it a big cold snap? Why haven’t I heard the news? I’ll check the weather forecast...”

The cold snap that Jun Hertz could make a special call to remind Elliot must be a once-in-a-decade extreme cold snap.

“I read the weather forecast, and on New Year’s Day, it will drop by about 5 degrees.” Elliot was very puzzled about the cold snap he said because of the weather forecast.

A five-degree drop in winter temperatures couldn’t be more normal!

Even if it suddenly drop ten degrees, it is a situation that can be encountered every year. This kind of drop, this tiny cold snap, is it worth making a special call to tell him not to go out?

Avery laughed out loud. After laughing, She thought it was a little weird.

“I’ll ask Tammy what’s the matter.” Avery found the phone and dialed Tammy’s number.

Tammy answered the phone quickly.

“Avery, how is Elliot’s recovery? You two have no plans to go out recently, right? It’s so cold in winter, so you two should rest at home.” Tammy said with a crackle.

Avery almost forgot that she called her on her own initiative.

Avery: "Tammy, just now your husband called Elliot and said that there will be a cold snap, and we should not go out. I just checked it, where is the cold snap coming from? Did your husband read the weather forecast differently from ours?"

"How come it's not a cold wave? It dropped 6 degrees on New Year's Day! Do you know what the 6 degrees are?" Tammy used an exaggerated tone to express her awe for the 6 degrees, "Like your husband recovering from a serious illness, these 6 degrees for him, it is likely to be a fatal blow."

Avery: "...My side shows a 5 degrees drop."

"It's 6 degrees here! No matter whether it's 5 degrees or 6 degrees, it's a big cooling!" Tammy spoke very quickly, "So before New Year's Day, don't go out for the two of you! If you're bored, I can accompany you at any time to play!"

Avery: "Tammy, you two are very strange. Elliot is not that weak, you know..."

"I know he was not weak before. But he is weak now! You should pay more attention." Tammy racked her brains in order to reassure her, "I have a relative who is in his 70s. After walking around, he got sick from the cold! he's still in the hospital now!"

Avery immediately understood their painstaking efforts: "old people in their 70s really need to keep warm. But Elliot is really not that weak..."

“Then make a plan and show it to me.” Avery didn’t want him to be too depressed.

“I’ll make a few more plans and let you and the children choose.” Elliot’s eyes suddenly gleamed.

Avery: “Okay! Don’t choose too far away.”

Elliot: “OK.”

At 10 o’clock in the morning, a bodyguard sent to a neighboring city took the ‘Siena’ hair sample back to Avonsville.

Elliot and Avery saw the hair of ‘Siena’ in the DNA identification center.

Finally, they took Avery’s hair sample and tested it with ‘Siena’.

After Elliot paid the testing fee, Avery led him away.

“When the results come out, someone else will call us.”
