

the substitute wife: my poor husband is a billionaire

Chapter 662

Chapter 662 the real Janet Charis gritted her teeth and put the phone away.

Nope he could hide his jealousy and anger any longer.

“Brandon had just moved back in with Janet just spent one night and today he was late to work.” Charis took a deep breath and then proceeded to walk to the office as if nothing had happened.

But deep down, she knew things were getting getting out of control Previously, Charis was secretly elated when she saw that Janet was still bothering Brandon.

I knew that Janet's insistence only would drive Brandon further and further away.

and just like her had waited, the more Janet tried communicate with Brandon, the more evident his dislike for Janet.

Everything was going smoothly until Janet proposed divorce Brandon.

When Charis heard her Saying this, I was ecstatic.

She couldn't believe it that I was listening I hadn't even done anything separate them yet, but Janet took the initiative to leave Brandon! But when Charis regained her sense, he immediately realized that what

What Janet wanted was not so simple.

Janet I really didn't want a divorce.

she just wanted threaten Brandon with that!

During Janet's negotiation with Brandon, Charis secretly stood outside the door and heard everything clearly.

Janet threatened Brandon with the power of the White family and the potential alimony in case of divorce, as if that were not enough, asking him to fulfill his husband duties.

This move caught Charis off guard.

short.

Brandon and Janet were legally married.

It was reasonable for Janet to ask him to did his duty as his spouse.

As an outsider, Charis had no reason to to interfere.

Seeing that Brandon was going to live again with Janet, Charis became anxious, but she didn't know how to stop it.

If things continued like this, all for what he had worked for would be in vain.

At that time, Brandon married Janet, lived with her and gradually fell in love with her. By Of course, the same thing could happen once again.

After talking to Brandon on the phone After a moment, Charis became even more unsettled. Brandon had always put the company in first place.

He had only stayed with Janet one night, and yet he had already begun to change! No matter how much he racked his brains, Charis couldn't think of a good way to open a gap between Brandon and him Janet.

There was learned from their previous mistakes that if interfered too much, Brandon would see right through your intentions.

Now that things had gotten to this point, he couldn't do anything but remind himself the same one that had to be patient and not act hastily.

 After living with Brandon for a few days, Janet discovered that he seemed to have forgotten for complete the way they were carried before. But He decided not to think too much about it.

Whether Brandon will intentionally hide something or there was an inside story, she was willing to continue this act with him until the matter was cleared up.
affair.

After spending more time with him, Janet had figured out the rules for getting along good with this new Brandon.

realized that this Brandon didn't like it when he got close too much to him.

Just keeping a certain distance might hold your interest.

Until now, Janet was on leave from W Marks, so he asked if he could work remote.

His boss agreed and He immediately gave her a bunch of homework.

Since so i was too busy upset Brandon.

The design task was urgent.

Because Janet had an accident and was out for weeks, his work had been delayed.

To go back to the normally, he had to lock himself in his room every day, burying himself in work until late hours at night.

When Brandon got home from work, he didn't see Janet in the living room.

didn't think too much about it.

He just carried his briefcase into the study to continue working.

However, when he went through the bedroom, he heard a noise inside.

Brandon He opened the door a crack and peered inside.

He saw through the crack that Janet was working Lusted.

He couldn't help but stop and look at her for a moment.

time before gently closing the door.

For the next few days, although they lived under the same roof, Brandon didn't see much of Janet.

Immediately after breakfast, he left to the bedroom to work until go to bed Brandon gradually discovered that the real Janet was nothing like the Charis had said.

She was not a clingy woman and in love.

Janet was ambitious and dedicated to her worked.

After returning to his study, Brandon turned on his computer and searched for Janet White In Internet.

Brandon had secretly investigated his background and saw that the talents and abilities Janet's abilities were outstanding.

Also, once worked at the Larson Group.

And just after leaving the Larson Group, he worked at W Marks Studio as Draco's Design Assistant Wesley.

Janet threw herself into her work for days on end.

Y Brandon slowly got used to coming home every night.

He soon relaxed even when he slept in the same bed as Janet.

One day, Brandon impulsively bought two strawberry croissants when he saw them on display at through the window of the dessert shop.

On the way home, he wondered how he would feel Janet seeing such beautiful desserts.

Nevertheless, When Brandon got home, Janet didn't know found nowhere.

I wasn't in the bedroom or living room or anywhere of the house He waited for her until late at night but she It did not return.

The next morning, she still didn't I was in house.

For some reason, Brandon felt a little bad. He seemed to have gotten used to the quiet company of this woman.

Without her, I know I felt as if I had lost something very important.

☐ ☐ ☐