

The substitute wife: my poor husband is a billionaire

Chapter 691

□ □ □

Chapter 691: I am going to marry
After Garrett brought Laney back to Barnes, he arranged for her to live in his villa to be able to take care of her and her baby.

"You may be busy with work at these days,
so you may not come to home to see you so often. Don't worry. The nutritionist and the servants will be there for you. But if you need anything, don't hesitate to call me."

This was what he said to Laney before leaving Barnes "I'm just pregnant, not disabled."

“Can I take care of myself”

Indeed, the Laney’s belly was still flat and one couldn’t tell she was pregnant at a glance.

In fact, she was still quite thin. Garrett smiled wryly. I was determined to marry her, but first, he needed to get back with your family to get approval from your fathers.

The Harding family was a prominent family and well educated in Seacisco.

The mother and father of Garrett came from two families that had been friends for generations and practically they grew up together.

Vera Harding was the daughter of a family prominent. She had been an expert in many aspects, including music and art from the childhood.

Leo Harding, on the other hand, had a strong sense of family and was a man with traditional thoughts, almost stereotyped, however, he was not a bad person.

The couple was relatively lenient with their son, they had heard many rumors about Garrett fooling around with different women, but knowing that her son was just playing in the field, they did not correct it.

However, one thing they did care about was to marry a rescue girl as well as So.

Garrett knew that getting approval from his parents was not an easy task, which is why he did the preparations in advance.

After returning to the Harding family, he became charge of the family business and obtained several important societies.

seeing that his son was finally back to normal and even who came home from work every day time, Vera was very happy.

"Garrett has finally grown up, don't you think, Leo?"

Leo was sitting in the chair in the garden, reading newspaper. He had also noticed Garrett's efforts in the last two weeks.

He repeated: "He has certainly matured. I hope that I can keep up the good work."

Hearing this, Garrett thought it was the right time... He seized this opportunity.

Later that night, he called his parents, who they were in a good mood, to the study.

Garrett pulled a pot of freshly brewed and carefully served two cups for their parents.

Instantly felt that something was wrong, and even his smile froze Leo, who had never seen his son act before so serious, I could also tell that something was on her mind.

She took a sip of her tea and said quietly low: "If there's something you want to say, just say it."

Garrett took a deep breath and smiled.

"I'm going to marry".

Vera's hand, which held the cup of tea, it trembled, and the liquid inside rippled. took a She took a shaky

sip of her tea and looked at Leo.

Leo was also so surprised that he didn't even I didn't even know how to respond.

An awkward silence fell over the study.

"Daddy, Mommy, I'm getting married"

Garrett repeated.

Leo squeezed his eyes shut, rubbed his brow and asked, "What family is she from?"

"He doesn't have a family now, but he will have one soon. I am determined to give him a home." His voice was soft but his eyes were steady.

"Crap!"

Leo's eyes widened instantly and his face turned livid.

Vera also said earnestly, "We don't care with who you date, but marriage is something else! It I'm sorry, Garrett, but you're marrying a lady from a noble family, not with an orphan! A orphan does not deserve it.

Marry someone from Harding's family! We will never approve of this union!"

Garrett smiled. I had expected this reaction. His parents. He paused for a second and deep breath.

"She is pregnant" said without detours.

"What?!"

Leo roared in disbelief. He pointed to Garrett with a trembling finger and shouted, "What a disappointment! are!".

Vera was so angry she couldn't breathe correctly.

Breathing raggedly, he grabbed the armrests forcefully with one hand until calmed down a bit.

After a long time, finally said, "You can't marry her even if you are pregnant. Make her abort. Whether denies, she will raise the baby alone after it is born. We can give you whatever you want as compensation, but you just can't marry her. Spot!"

□ □ □