The Three Little Guardian Angels Chapter 1989

Chapter 1989 Daisie was holding a skewer in her hand. She would pull her facial mask down to take a bite every other step, looking like a greedy kitten carefully stealing food from its master. Nollace looked at her and chuckled adoringly. “It seems like I didn’t feed you enough today. You’ve been eating non-stop ever since you came here.”

Daisie was stumped.

She did not know why, but she felt it was weird when he said he did not feed her enough. She covered her mouth and mumbled, "It has been a long time since I had a skewer."

As if she thought of something, she took one out of the bag and said, "Do you want to try one?"

Suddenly, he leaned forward and took a bite from her skewer.

Daisie was stunned, and it took a while before she came around to her senses. "Why did you..."

When she sensed the gaze from the crowd, she hurriedly put on her mask and said, "What are you doing? Do you want us to get caught?" She did not know why Nollace refused to wear a mask. He had attracted a lot of attention, and many women were staring at his handsome face along the way. Grinning from ear to ear, he said, "What's wrong with me eating my wife's skewer?"

The tips of her ears turned red as she bristled. "Stop it! That's so embarrassing." "Don't you think that woman looks familiar? Isn't she Daisie?"

"She's the daughter of the Goldmanns. There's no way she would come to a place like this. You must be hallucinating." <sup>1</sup> "But the guy beside her is so handsome. Well, it seems like all of the handsome hunks are taken. I'm so jealous. Do you know that I nearly went forward and asked him for his contact number just now?"

Daisie pulled her hat downward. She had a feeling that she would be busted if she kept staying here, so she grabbed Nollace's arm and dragged him away from the crowd.

There were fewer pedestrians on the street while they were on their way back. Daisie turned her head around, took her mask down after ascertaining that no one was following them, and huffed. "I thought I was going to be busted." That being said, she was very happy she could come out with Nollace like this. "Is this a date?"

Nollace walked beside her and replied, "Well, if you think it is, then it is." She turned around to face him while walking backward. "I think this is the first time we came out for a walk after so long, right?" . Ever since she joined the entertainment industry until she was married to Nollace, they had never shown up in front of the public together.

Nollace stopped walking and fixed his gaze on her face. "I'll make more time for you in the future." It felt like he was giving her a promise. She stopped walking as well and looked at him silently. The dim light cast on them, and the elongated shadows on the ground overlapped. The breeze blew by, ruffling his collar and her heart. Daisie walked two steps forward and stopped in front of him. "I hope you won't for get what you said tonight. Remember to make it up for me in the future.” A laugh escaped from his mouth. The light had covered his eyes and blurred his face “Don’t worry. I won’t forget about it.”. Daisy pressed her lips tightly and lowered her head. “Yeah, yeah, Who knows if you’ll break your promise or not.” Nollace suddenly reached out for her and scooped her up from the ground. She wrapped her arm around his neck and asked, “What are you doing?” 1 He smiled. “We’re home.”

She turned her head around and realized that they were already at the entrance of Taylorton. When she noticed the security guard’s gaze, Daisy buried her face into his neck and pitched her voice low. “Then hurry up and go in!”

She felt embarrassed being stared at by other people.

Nollace lowered his head to look at her. A smile tugged at the corner of his lips as he carried Daisy back to their house.

The light in the bedroom was switched on, and it showered on the balcony through the curtain veil.

The Three Little Guardian Angels Chapter 1990

Chapter 1990 Nollace carried her to the bed. Just when he was about to get up, Daisy pulled him downward. Luckily, he was quick enough to prop himself up by placing his arm on the bed. Looking at the woman with deer eyes below him, he gulped hard and frowned. “Daisy, you’re being a bad girl again.”

Daisy caressed his lips with her finger and said, “I’m not a kid, so why am I a bad girl?” Nollace took a deep breath and pushed her hand away. “If you don’t stop this, I _—” She smiled. “You what?”

Daisy had a sweet and alluring face. No men could resist her if she took advantage of her innocent face.

She did not have to lure or disguise herself. Her smile was her trap, and no prey could escape it.

Nollace did not say anything.

He fixed his gaze on her, and his jawline was tightly set. While Daisy was thinking about using the technique she had learned from television to seduce Nollace, he kissed her without any sign. She snapped herself back to reality and placed her hands on his chest, but he grabbed them and put them on top of her head, freezing her in place.

Nollace kissed her neck, causing Daisy to shudder and her face to turn red while she tried to get away from him.

His breathing was so hot that it scalded her skin. It was a temperature she had never felt before, and she knew what would happen next if she did not stop.

She closed her eyes and took a deep breath. Nollace stopped. He caressed her cheek with his hand and huffed heavily. "Look at me, Daisy." 1

Daisy bit her lips and opened her watery eyes.

He kissed the tear that was dangling in the corner of her eyes and said with a hoary voice, "It's not too late to regret now." Daisy stretched her arms forward to hug him and buried her head in his shoulder. "I'll not regret it."

Nollace kissed her forehead before moving to lift her chin and kiss her lips. Her fingers were trembling slightly as she gripped tightly at his clothes.

In the morning...

A ray of sunlight stopped in front of the balcony.

Daisy's eyelashes fluttered, and she felt her cheek was itchy. She opened her eyes slowly, and the first thing she saw was Nollace's face.

Nollace stroked her face with his finger and looked at her. "You're awake."

She was about to say something, but her hoary voice and physical discomfort suddenly reminded her of what had transpired the previous night. She was so embarrassed that she buried her face under the duvet.

Looking at her, Nollace chuckled. He poked her reddened ears and asked, "Will you still question me now, Daisy?" She did not dare to say anything now.

She should not have questioned his ability back then. Nollace kissed the top of her head and held back his laugh. "I'll let you off today. I'll get up first. You get some more sleep." He got up from the bed, put on his pajamas, and went into the bathroom. Daisy poked her head out of the duvet. If she had known that it would be this awkward the next day, she would have drunk herself down the previous night so that she would have forgotten everything by the time she woke up.

She remembered something and picked up her phone.

It was already 9:00 a.m.

Daisie hastily got up from the bed and put on her clothes. She then applied two layers of concealer and foundation to her neck to cover up the marks. She did not eat breakfast and left the house in a hurry. 1

While Nollace was wiping his wet hair with a towel, he stood behind the window and watched her leave in the car. He couldn't help but laugh, "She still feels shy about it." His phone on the table vibrated. He picked it up, and it was a text message.

Meanwhile, Daisie arrived at the restaurant and made a call to Shannon.

Shannon told her where they were, so Daisie asked the waiter to lead her there. They took the elevator and headed to the restaurant on the 6th floor. The waiter stopped in front of the door and smiled at her. "This is the one, Miss."
