My Baby's Daddy Chapter 1293

Ruka blamed herself for angering her mother so much.

Claire held her in her embrace. Her heart ached for Ruka, and she heaved a sigh. "I don't want you ruining your life either."

Charlotte had been taken into the emergency room when Ren came. Scarlet, her husband, Richard, and Angela were waiting outside in the corridor. They looked worried as well.

"Why did she faint all of a sudden?" Ren asked Scarlet.

"I don't know. The servant called for me all of sudden. She already fainted when I got to the tea room."

Angela wanted to tell him what happened, but Richard held her back. The announcement of Ren's relationship with Ruka now would hit Scarlet like a bullet train.

The doctor finally came out of the emergency room. Charlotte had awakened, and she was lying on the bed that was being wheeled out of the room. When she saw Ren, the lady closed her eyes and sighed.

She was taken to a ward, and Scarlet went inside alone. She was worried a crowd might affect her mother's rest. Not long after she went inside, she came back out. "Mom wants you inside," she told Ren.

He nodded. The moment his mother looked at him, he knew he must be the reason why she fainted.

Ren went into the ward. Charlotte had sat up, and she was giving her son a look of complaint. He took a seat. "How are you doing, Mom?"

"Fine, no thanks to you." She turned her head away angrily.

Ren moved closer to the bed and wrapped his arm around her shoulder. He pressed his check against his mother's hair, and he cooed, "I'm sorry, Mom. Please don't stay mad at me. Tell me what happened."
