

Let me go, Mr. Hill Author: Shallow South

Chapter 2893

Chapter 2893

Hugo was stunned, He said, "But FYG Videos can bring you dividends and profits."

Hugo added: "After Cindy came in, she would definitely want to interfere with FYG Videos because of her character. From my perspective as an investor, I don't believe in her ability too much."

Charity shrugged and told the truth, "Yes, I admit that she has the ability to come to this day from a poor family, but her ability is not in the shopping mall, and she is not in management or economics. It's easy to make money for college majors in the field, but it's difficult to make a lot of money to lead the company up. It's not long-term."

Hugo was a little tangled, after all, FYG Videos has brought him a lot of profits this year. Hugo said, "But KC Technology is not developing very well in her hands."

"You also said that the system is KC Technology, developed by the former boss of Campeau Group and Cindy simply coaxed Hank Jewell and his wife, took over the Campeau Group with money from them, and enjoyed the direct dividends. What has she really done for this company? Well, I just gave her an olive branch and I am willing to make war with her, but she is not willing."

Charity smiled, "She may think that she is very powerful now, but she doesn't know that if she can be a friend in the shopping mall, she will try her best to be a friend, and stay in the front line of everything. Reason, in addition, she spared no effort to suppress her former boss Shedrick, on the surface everyone will think she is powerful, in fact, smart people will think that Cindy is too cruel and ruthless, no matter what, Shedrick is regarded as her Benevolence and righteousness.”

Hugo was silent.

After being reminded by Charity, Hugo realized that Cindy had too many problems.

“Trust me, when the two companies announce their cooperation, it will be the time when FYG Videos will have the highest market value. Once I let go, you can’t sell me at such a high price. I say this because I really treat you as a friend.” After Charity finished speaking, she turned to get in the car and left.

After Charity went to the Neeson Corporation, she went home in the evening.

After the car was parked, as long as nanny was cooking at home, Sister Lane, Mrs. Robbins, and Lisa were not around.

The nanny said, “They went to grow vegetables next door.”

Charity: [? ? ?]

The nanny smiled and said: “Mr. Jewell uses the garden over their house to grow vegetables. Your mother seems to like growing vegetables. After lunch, she took Lisa there. By the way, your mother also invited Mr. Jewell for dinner.”

Charity frowned. She thought that Chester was just talking yesterday, but she didn’t expect to act so fast.

Others didn’t know it, but Mrs. Robbins did know it very well. When she lived in her hometown before, she planted a large piece of vegetables in the back and also fed chickens and ducks.

This time, Chester did what he wanted.

Charity: "I'll go take a look."

Charity had been working for a day, and she really missed her precious daughter, so she went to the next door and rang the bell.

After a while, the door opened. It was Kaiden who opened the door and led Charity to the backyard with a smile.

The yard was very lively, Mrs. Robbins was digging with great interest, Chester was holding Lisa and stood aside, the afterglow fell on his thin and tall figure, with extraordinary aura.

"Mom, didn't you say you have low back pain, you are still digging soil here." Charity said angrily.

Chester explained apologetically: "I just wanted to ask my auntie to come over and give me some advice at first. Who knew that my auntie would have to do it in person."

Mrs. Robbins hurriedly said, "Don't blame Chester, I have back pain and I am idle. It won't hurt anymore."

Charity: "..."

Co-authoring vegetable soil could also cure low back pain.

Let me go, Mr. Hill Author: Shallow South

Chapter 2894

Chapter 2894

"Mom, let's do it tomorrow." Charity persuaded: "It's getting dark, it's time to eat."

"Auntie, go back to eat first." Chester also persuaded her.

"Okay." Mrs. Robbins stood up straight and put down her hoe, "Chester, let's go, let's go to our house for dinner."

Chester quietly glanced at Charity's face that suddenly turned black, and reluctantly refused: "I won't go. Now, Eliza will be unhappy when I come to your house for dinner every day."

Charity: [? ? ?]

What did it mean?, Charity seemed to be stingy.

Besides, Chester lived next door, and he's embarrassed to come her house every day for a meal?

But Mrs. Robbins didn't look at Charity, "Don't worry about Eliza, your auntie welcomes you to have dinner anyway, and thanks to you today."

"Mom, what are you talking about?" Charity didn't understand a word.

Mrs. Robbins hurriedly said: "Chester gave me a pulse today, don't say, he can handle this medical skill."

Mrs. Robbins gave a thumbs up, and added, "When Chester touches this pulse, I usually feel uncomfortable wherever I am. He touched it out, and it was really amazing. In the afternoon, he asked Kaiden to go to the pharmacy to get me a few pairs of traditional medicine, and he didn't let me give him the money. Isn't it right for me to invite him to the house for dinner?"

"Chester, what's wrong with my mother?" Charity asked, and became nervous when she heard this.

"Osteoporosis, kidney deficiency, and insomnia are some symptoms when she gets older." Chester said with a light smile, "These problems usually seem to be fine, but if you don't treat them, the health will get worse and worse in the long run."

"Mom, Why didn't you tell me about these problems?" Charity frowned. If she knew she would have brought Mrs. Robbins for an examination.

"Hey, I thought that when you get older, you will have such problems." Mrs. Robbins didn't take it seriously before, but the elderly don't frighten them.

After all the trouble, Charity didn't want to let Chester go to her house for dinner.

However, Chester was not ashamed. As soon as the door closed, he followed a few people in a hurry.

When Liza saw her mother, she smelled the familiar smell, and subconsciously felt hungry, so she dishonestly touched Charity's chest.

Usually a few middle-aged women were at home, and Charity didn't care too much, but at the moment there was a big man sitting next to her, and her daughter's behavior made her cheeks heated up.

Charity carried her daughter upstairs to breastfeed without a single glance.

Chester probably knew what Charity was going to do. Thinking of that scene, he tightened his crutches. He really envied his stinky daughter. He wasn't doing well....

No, he couldn't think about it and couldn't control it anymore.

After finally waiting for Charity to come downstairs with her daughter in her arms, Chester couldn't help but subconsciously looked at her chest.

"What are you looking at?, ra*cal." Charity caught his gaze, blushed, and gave him a vicious look.

Seeing Charity's embarrassed expression, Chester hooked his lips, "Why are you scolding me? I didn't do anything. I know, it's your thinking too evil, tell me, just now what was in your mind? Thinking of something unclean."

"Do you still want a slap on your face?" Charity gritted her teeth, "Don't think I didn't notice you peeking at my chest."

Chester raised his eyebrows and analyzed seriously: "I'm only good at observation, just looking at your chest, it seems that your chest seems to have changed a little when you go upstairs and then come downstairs... Ah."

Before the words were finished, the intact foot was severely beaten. Step on it.

"You dare to say another nonsense, believe it or not, I'll kick you out now." Charity warned with a blushing face.