When His Eyes Opened by Simple Silence Chapter 2406

"It's only nine o'clock. Did you stay up late last night? You are not a snooze person." Avery Putting down the coffee cup, "I drank your new coffee. Someone brought it to you when I was having breakfast. I asked Mrs. Cooper to make me a cup."

"Don't you like coffee?" Elliot lifted the quilt and got out of bed, "Avery, you can't sleep at night if you drink it carefully."

"My head hurts a little, especially after reading the resumes you sent me, I think they are all excellent!" Avery said, holding up the coffee Cup, took a sip.

"Isn't there a fresh graduate in it?" Elliot followed her words and said, "She is from Yonroeville. When the personnel manager gave me her resume, he said that if you hired her, she could make tea for you in the future."

Avery couldn't help laughing: "I don't like drinking tea. Doesn't drinking tea also affect sleep?"

"There are many kinds of tea, not all of them will cause insomnia. I haven't studied the specifics." Elliot said. and he changed the conversation, "I don't like drinking tea either."

"Haha! Hurry up and wash up! The breakfast is probably cold. I'll ask Mrs. Cooper to warm it up for you." Avery put down the coffee cup and went downstairs.

At 10 o'clock in the morning, Avery came to the company.

The HR manager immediately came to her office and asked what kind of assistant she wanted.

“After the recruitment announcement yesterday, I received hundreds of resumes. I was looking at resumes in my dreams last night.” HR manager joked, “I have already screened it, Ms. Tate, do you want to take a look?”

“Email it to me! I’ll take a look later.” Avery said, “Yesterday Sterling Group also sent me some resumes, and the resumes they received were excellent.”

“Most of the resumes I received here are also excellent. Wait for you to take a look. If you are satisfied, I can interview first.” The HR manager asked, “Ms. Tate, in addition to education and work experience, what is your most important task?”

“Why don’t I come to the interview myself! I’ll hire an assistant myself, I’m sure I’ll be able to negotiate.” Avery made a decision after thinking about it.

The HR manager: “Okay, then I’m going to screen the resume further.”

The HR manager: “Well.”

After the HR manager went out, Avery turned on the computer and logged in to the mailbox.

She scanned through the dozen resumes she read last night, and then clicked on Gloria Wiens’s resume.

Gloria Wiens looked very quiet and delicate, and had a good personality.

Avery read her resume carefully and saw that she won the Gold Award for Tea Art in Yonroeville at the age of 16. She couldn’t help but search the Internet for the gold content of the Gold Award for Tea Art in Yonroeville.

Gloria Wiens wrote this award in her resume, presumably this award has technical content.

At half past eleven, Elliot called.

Avery answered the phone, and Elliot's voice came: "Avery, what do you want for lunch? I'll give you some."

Avery was stunned for a moment: "Is it going to be lunch? So soon? I'm not hungry yet!"

She glanced at the time on the computer, a little stunned.

She didn't do anything all morning, and the time just passed!

She originally just wanted to search for the tea art competition in the Yonroeville, but after searching, she actually watched more than an hour of tea art related videos and materials.

If Elliot hadn't called to ask her what to eat, she would have continued to watch.
