

Madam Winters's Fight For Her Children Chapter 1134-1135

Madam Winters's Fight For Her Children Chapter 1134

Chapter 1134 Alden's sentence immediately drew everyone's attention to Ninian.

George was the first to ask, "Grapie , what's going on?"

Harold and Melody also approached her with obvious worry and puzzlement in their eyes.

Ninian nervously clenched her fists under her siblings' stares and even felt like cowering a little.

'What do I do? Should I tell them my theory? That person really looked like Everett! But how could Everett have been here during the concert? If I really told them, then are they going to investigate Everett one after another? Will this give Everett more trouble?'

"Grapie, you have to tell me the truth," Alden said with a serious face, "The person just now is definitely not an ordinary person. His hacking skills are about the same level as mine, which means that he definitely has someone powerful supporting him. This kind of person has even attended Melody's concert because he has his sights set on you. I'm certain this won't spell anything good for you, and at the same time, it's not a trivial matter!"

Although Alden was warning her with objective facts, his remarks made Ninian recall something.

If anyone fits into the category of the "powerful person supporting him," that would be Everett.

Since Everett seemed to be hiding something, did that mean that he did not want his identity to be discovered?

Ninian bit her lip, and there was conflict in her eyes.

'To speak, or not to speak?'

"Ninian!" George said solemnly, with a hint of imposition.

Ninian's eyes turned red.

It was the first time she was persecuted by her family who had always loved her, and it was the first time she heard her elder brother speak in such a tone.

Ninian pursed her mouth sadly and raised her head. Tears were already gathering in her clear and innocent eyes.

George's next words instantly died in his throat.

Alden was also at a loss for a moment, and panic flashed across his brows.

Harold was so distressed that he stepped forward and shielded her behind him. He confronted George and Alden. "Why are you being so mean?! If the trail went cold, then find another one! The security footage got auto-deleted, then find a way to recover it! What use is there in bullying your own little sister?! You're crossing the line!"

Melody also looked at the two of them disapprovingly, hugged Ninian's shoulders, and said, "That's right! George, Al, you've really crossed the line! Since that person has left after listening to the concert, it proves that he has no ill will at all. Look at Grapie's reaction, it's probably a friend she knows. She must be sure that the other party won't hurt her, that's why she's not saying anything. Why are you putting her on the spot?"

Raina also shook her head. "You know why George and I separated in the first place, right? It was because he treated others unreasonably harshly, and I got pissed off!"

George was speechless.

Facing everyone's bombardment, George and Alden could only raise their hands to surrender.

"Alright, I won't ask anymore. Grapie, just tell us if you want to, it's fine if you don't," Alden said.

George also spoke up with a bit of helplessness on his stern face, "Don't cry now. It's our fault. We won't ever be this mean to you anymore."

Ninian sniffed, a little embarrassed, and her face flushed. In fact, she did not blame them for being so aggressive toward her, she just could not control her emotions, and the sadness was a conditioned reflex.

She walked out from behind Harold and raised her eyes to look at George and Alden, her blue eyes were full of solemnity. "George, Al, I know you're worried about my safety, so you got nervous. I think I know the person who came this time, but I can't reveal his identity, please forgive me. You don't have to worry about this matter, he has absolutely no malicious intent, and I'll take good care of myself. I won't get hurt again."

George and Alden looked at each other and nodded, "We believe in you."

Only then did Ninian breathe a sigh of relief. She smiled brilliantly, and even her eyes crinkled up in happiness.

When she was not paying attention, George and Alden both had a spark of contemplation in their deep eyes.

Madam Winters's Fight For Her Children Chapter 1135

Chapter 1135 Melody's concert would run for three days, and today was the first day.

Instead of staying with her family, she returned to the orchestra to practice and rehearse.

Ninian sat on the sofa in the suite while holding her chin. She watched George trying to woo Raina outside; she watched Harold fighting in an online game for glory and victory with his teammates; and she watched as Alden continued to indulge in work, unable to detach himself from it...

She sighed deeply.

'It's so boring.'

"I'm going to my Mel's place to watch her practice." After Ninian said this, she picked up her purse and walked straight out of the door.

Behind her, Alden raised his head from the document, and there was a dark gleam in his eyes.

After leaving the hotel, Ninian looked behind – no one had followed her out. She breathed a sigh of relief. Ninian immediately took out her mobile phone and started texting Zayn.

It was impossible for Zayn to be unaware of Everett being here.

At the concert, Everett must have seen me, that's why he looked at me a few times, right?'

Ninian could not wait to see him, since they were in the same country.

She did not know why, but whenever she thought of Everett, her heart beat faster.

The message was sent, but she did not get a reply.

Ninian could not wait anymore, so she sent him her location and also a message expressing her hope to invite Zayn and Everett to dinner.

Then, she received no reply, as if her messages had been sent into the void.

Ninian's mood took a fall, and she walked along the street, looking a little dazed.

The sky gradually darkened, the moon quietly revealed its face from the clouds, and the lights of the city began to flicker to life as people enjoyed the nightlife in the city. The traffic also grew heavier.

She did not know how long she had been walking on the street, her mind was in chaos.

'Why would Everett want to come here? Why didn't Zayn reply?'

Various questions flooded her mind, making her dizzy.

"Be careful!"

A car sped past and almost hit Ninian.

A pair of strong arms quickly wrapped around Ninian's slender waist and led her away from the danger.

There was a rapid and powerful heartbeat in her ears. When she looked up, she met that familiar and incomparably handsome face.

Ninian stared at him with a bit of disbelief and surprise.

The person who rescued her turned out to be Everett.

At that moment, the boy's eyes were still full of tension and fear, and those emotions were so strong that they almost drowned her.

Ninian was stunned, her mind was blank, and she could not help but breathe gentler.

The cool fragrance of the boy's body completely enveloped her, making her whole body start to feel restless. The blood under her skin seemed to flow faster, and her heartbeat thundered.

Ninian stared blankly at him. Her eyes could not help but fall on his thin and sexy lips, and an inexplicable impulse spread in her heart.

She wanted to... kiss him.