Madam Winters's Fight For Her Children Chapter 1143

"He can't approach people easily, and he can't handle sudden swings in his mood?" Ninian muttered, while she recalled the situations where Everett had avoided her.

"It turns out..." Was this the real reason why he had avoided her?

So he had fallen for her for a long time, but he still stayed away from her to protect her?

"Grapie, I can't agree with you being with such a dangerous person." Melody held Ninian's hand and seriously said, "You're our little princess whom we pamper. You're innocent, kind, and naive. You're not suitable for that kind of complicated guy."

"Mel..." Ninian snapped out of her daze, and she absentmindedly said, "Did you know? I took the initiative to confess to him. I pursued him, while he had been avoiding me before that. I joined the entertainment industry and got bullied. It's he who has been protecting me, but he kept staying away from me. Do you know why? "Because he couldn't let me get hurt," as Ninian spoke, the listlessness in her eyes faded, and she looked serious. "Mel, I don't know when he started falling for me, but I have a gut feeling that he fell sick three years ago because of me. He has been protecting me with his own methods, and he is reluctant to hurt me, so I believe him. Since he promises to be with me, it means he is confident. I trust him. I will stand firmly with him and accompany him to fight against anything."

Melody stared at Ninian in awe, and there was a strange look in her eyes.

Was this their obedient and soft youngest sister? Was this the little princess whom they were afraid of her being hurt, bullied, and wronged? She had already grown into an adult without them realizing it. She was tender and determined. She was kind and firm. She had her own thoughts, she was opinionated, independent, and mature.

She had someone whom she wanted, and she made her own decisions. Even after learning of the difficulty, she did not step back. Instead, she bravely stood out and was willing to bear it all and be responsible.

This bravery and steadfastness from her younger sister impressed Melody

“Grapie has finally grown up.” Melody’s gaze became tender again. She smiled in relief before her tone became serious again. “Since you’ve made your decision, I’ll unconditionally support you. But I have to be frank in advance. If I ever learn that Everett has hurt you, I’ll not be soft-hearted again. I’ll not be polite to him. Do you understand?»

Ninian nodded. “Mel, please rest assured. This possibility doesn’t exist!” After she guaranteed, she held Melody’s shoulders, kept giggling in a silly manner and said, “Mel, you’re too lovely! Aww, if I were a boy, I would’ve married you!”

Melody smiled and shook her head. She flicked Ninian’s forehead with dotting affection. “You’re naughty.” After Ninian pulled Melody into her side, she started planning George and Alden’s attentions were switched to business.

They thought that the person who attended Melody’s concert was their business competitor, so they started to focus on the investigation.

Meanwhile, Ninian was under Melody and Harold’s management.

Ninian found an excuse and said that the person who ran away with her in the afternoon was her schoolmate who had been pursuing her. When Harold heard it, he was furious. He immediately told

George and Alden, and the three of them decided to leave Ninian with Melody for the time being, and they did not allow her to go back to the school and get involved with that mess.

Melody also guaranteed that she would watch Ninian and would not let her leave.

Therefore, the next day after her brothers left, Ninian also boarded the plane back to the country in an unrestrained manner. She went back to her warm motherland!

After she got off the plane, the weather was bright, and the breeze was smooth.

Ninian was even happier. She dragged her suitcase along, stepped on her white shoes, and ran quickly.

She knew that a noble and indifferent young man was waiting for her on the other side of the airport.

Ninian walked out of the airport. She held her phone while looking for Everett's car.

"Strange. Didn't he say he's here?" Ninian muttered. When she turned around, she bumped into indifferent and warm arms.

The young man's scent was so familiar that she instantly recognized him.

"Ever..." Ninian spoke in surprise. Before she was able to finish her sentence, her mouth was covered by Everett.

He held up his finger and said, "Shh."

Ninian immediately nodded. Her eyes shone brightly as she stared at Everett's eyes.

At the moment, Everett had disguised himself. His black cap sat very low on his brow, and there was a black mask that fully covered his face.

But Ninian could still see the excitement in his eyes at the moment.

Everett was also very happy like her.

When she noticed that, her eyes crinkled, and her smile became sweeter.

"Let me take you out." Everett lowered his voice and said.

Ninian nodded. She let Everett gently hold her shoulders and protected her to walk out of the crowd. They walked toward a car that had been parked in a remote corner.

Zayn was in the driver seat, and he had not gotten out of the car. As Everett's agent, his target would be too obvious. In order to avoid being recognized by fans, he had been hiding in the car.

Everett opened the car door for Ninian before they sat in the passenger seat at the back.

When the door was closed, Everett took off his mask.

Before he was able to speak, Ninian already rushed to him. The demure girl already rushed into his arms.

Everett was stunned slightly before his eyes crinkled up with his smile.

“Everett, I missed you so much.” Ninian held his shoulders and spoke coquettishly. She never usually took the initiative like this. But when she saw that Everett went to pick her up without bothering the risk of being recognized by the fans, and how he had protected her all the way, she could no longer suppress her excitement and thoughts about him.

She did not care. She just wanted to hold her Everett and act cute.

Hmph!

Everett also raised his hand and held her. He gently stroked her soft hair and whispered, “Me too.”

His voice was so soft that it sounded trance-like.

What he had longed for actually came true. Everett even wondered if he was dreaming now.

But the soft girl in his arms was so real that he could reach her at any time.

Everett finally dared to exert a little more strength. He held Ninian in his arms tightly, closed his eyes, and softly said, “Three days. I’ve waited for you for three days.” When Ninian heard it, she instantly blushed, and she became slightly embarrassed.

After Melody’s concert ended, her brothers went back first. She had postponed it one day in order to avoid clashing with her brothers’ schedule, which made her come back so late.

Had Everett been... waiting for her?

Ninian leaned in his arms and softly said, “Sorry! I won’t let you wait for so long anymore.”

The girl was so soft and adorable like a marshmallow, which made him want to rub her in his arms.

Everett took a deep breath to suppress the emotions that were stirred in his heart. "Ahem... Mr. Craig, Miss Winters." A sound of a clearing throat was inappropriately heard at this time. Zayn said, " Do you want to reunite later? If we remain here for too long, we will draw attention. We have to leave first."

When Ninian heard it, she quickly blushed and shyly moved out of Everett's arm.

"It's okay. Don't be nervous." Everett chuckled and tussled her hair before he fastened the seatbelt for her.

Zayn looked over from the rearview mirror. He saw that Everett's expression was calm, and the gloominess and darkness in his eyes had been banished , leaving only his tender smile.

Zayn secretly sighed in relief.

Everett's condition was not as described by the doctors. They had claimed that the closer he got to Miss Winters, the more severe his stress response would be. Conversely, Miss Winters was the most effective medicine for him, which improved his condition gradually.

Zayn's expression slowly eased up. He firmly drove his car away.

In the passenger seat at the back, Ninian was slightly shy, but she still could not help but keep her eyes on Everett.

His side profile was smooth and well-defined. He was indifferent yet noble, and he was so good-looking that he would make people unable to help but scream.

Ninian nearly had stars in her eyes.

As if Everett felt her enthusiastic gaze, he turned sideways and looked at her. Ninian held her hands, covered her face, and could not help but chuckle.

She was really with Everett now!

Everett had become her boyfriend!

She could even laugh as if she was dreaming!

Ninian chuckled, and Everett also could not help but smile faintly. "What's it? Why are you so happy?"

"I'm happy when I see you!" Ninian grinned.

Everett was stunned slightly before his ears instantly turned red.

He clenched his fist and covered his lips before he turned sideways back and pretended to cough.

The redness of his ears spread across his neck to the body part that was covered by the collars.

When Zayn saw the situation at the back through the rearview mirror, he could not help but smile and shake his head.

Young people's love was so youthful, innocent, and beautiful that made him envious.

The car was driven to a private dining restaurant nearby. Zayn explained , “The privacy level here is high, so you don’t have to worry that you’ll get exposed. Besides, the food here is quite good. Mr. Craig likes it very much. Miss Winters, you can also give it a try.” “Everett also likes it?” Ninian immediately became energetic. Her eyes shone brightly and turned serious. “ Then I’ll have to make a note in my notebook.”

Zayn could not help but chuckle.

Ninian blinked, and she felt slightly strange. “Mr. Barnes, what are you laughing at?”

“Don’t bother him.” Everett tussled her hair and unfastened her seatbelt. “Let’s go inside.”

Ninian obediently said, “Okay.” After they got out of the car, the full view of the private dining restaurant was shown in front of them.

It was decorated like a pavilion. There were faux mountains and stones, and there was a small bridge and flowing water. It was like being in the floating city of Venice.

Ninian walked inside while looking around like she was doing a treasure hunt. Meanwhile , Everett stuck by her and prevented her from falling down.

It was only after they entered a private room that Ninian snapped out of her daze and asked, “Oh, where’s Mr. Barnes?”

Everett indifferently said, “He’s not joining us.”

“Why?” Ninian blinked in confusion. Her beautiful eyes were filled with loss. “Why is he not joining when he is already here? Is he not feeling well?”.

Everett firmly stared at her and softly said, “You seem to care about him very much.”

“Of course,” Ninian naturally said, “He’s your attendant.”

Everett’s expression subconsciously became softened. He smiled faintly and said, “He’s fine. He just doesn’t want to disturb us. After all, this is... our first date.”

“Da... date?” Ninian nearly bit her own tongue.

Everett’s gaze became softer. He clapped his hands.

The door of the private room was opened, and some waiters walked inside. Each of them carried a tray, and there was a box of similar size on each tray.

Ninian was shocked.

“What are these?” Ninian asked.

Everett curled his thin lips into a smile, and the indifference in his expression faded, leaving warmth on his face. It was like ice melting to give way to blooming flowers.

He looked at Ninian and whispered, “Why don’t you open them and see?”

Ninian felt nervous for some reason. She walked over, took a deep breath, and opened the first box.
