The closer David and Mia became, the angrier Fergus felt, and the more he wanted to tear David to pieces.

Fergus had long regarded Mia as his own, and he could not bear this.

Burke was setting a trap for Fergus to jump into.

Burke felt at ease when he thought that he would be able to see a wonderful scene in person soon.

He glanced at the old man behind Fergus.

This old man who had been following Fergus all the time was the most feared existence he was aware of.

“Burke, do you really not want to work with me?”

“Fergus, when did you become so timid? If you really don't dare to act, just wait and see. I'll make sure that kid won't ever leave Planet Boundless.”

With that, Fergus left with Heathcliffe.

In the end, he did not get the answer he wanted from Burke.

He kept feeling that Burke was triggering him to take action against David.

However, considering the actual situation, what Burke said also held some truth.

Five days passed in a blink of an eye.

David dealt with the Meteor Chamber every night.

While spending money to buy some hidden information about the Milky Way, he also gained many lavish points.

However, as there were fewer and fewer questions to ask, the lavish points David could get also decreased.

Every day, Mia would still go to David's place and stay for half a day.

Even if Fergus asked Mia out, she would decline and go to David.

This made Fergus more and more unable to control his emotions, and he was on the verge of eruption at any time.

In the courtyard where David lived.

"Master David, I'll go first. You have a good rest, goodbye!" Mia bade her farewell.

"Goodbye, Mia!" David said politely.

After Mia left, David opened his system panel.

After working hard and not sleeping for days, David finally got 1082 lavish points.

This also meant that he had spent nearly 200 billion buying information from the Meteor Chamber.

This was an astronomical number, so he was now a high tier VIP of the Meteor Chamber.

David sat on the bed with his eyes closed , recomposing himself.

Next, his lavish points would enter a slow growth period.

He was not going to buy information from the Meteor Chamber anymore.

First, he would spend his lavish points and break through partial Celestial Rank.

He had a pretty good result on the first two days, but on the last day, he only got dozens of lavish points.

David could not find anything to ask anymore.

Many questions only cost a hundred thousand or a million Galaxy Dollars. Therefore , he would need to ask more than a hundred questions to get one point.

There was no need to waste so much time.

However, it was good enough that he got nearly 2000 points just from understanding more about the popular major forces in the Milky Way.

At least, this temporarily relieved David's pressing needs. With 1082 lavish points, he could break through partial Celestial Rank and reach peak Celestial Rank.

Although he still could not fight against Grandmaster Tuffin, he was already terrifyingly strong.

Grandmaster Tuffin aside, David could already annihilate the entire Tuffin family.

Therefore, he no longer hesitated and clicked directly on the [+] button behind Body.

A window popped up.

[Host, do you confirm you want to upgrade Body? This upgrade will cost a thousand lavish points.)

David naturally chose yes.

Two hours later, David opened the system panel again.

[Lavish Points: 82]

He only had 82 lavish points now, and his combat power had reached peak Celestial Rank.

David stood up to move his body.

Crack crack crack!

His knuckles cracked loudly from the movement.

His strength increased again, and it had reached an incredible level.

David even felt he could destroy Planet Boundless with a stomp of his foot.

This was such a great feeling, but it was not enough.

This was because he learned from the Meteor Chamber that Grandmaster Tuffin was one of the oldest giants in the Milky Way.

His strength had reached Infinity Rank many years ago.

If David wanted to compete with him, his combat power had to at least reach beginner Infinity Rank.

In order to achieve this combat power, he would need 12000 lavish points.

That would be 1.2 trillion Galaxy Dollars.

‘I have to continue working hard,’ David thought sadly.

When David broke through to another realm, Burke’s communication device rang.

He took it out to take a look.

Then, he quickly chased away the woman around him before he answered it.

A tall and well-built middle-aged man appeared in front of Burke.

“Father!” Burke greeted respectfully.

At this moment, he was no longer the ruthless and irascible Lord Burke. Instead, he was a child ready to accept his punishment.

This middle-aged man looked the same as Burke.

It was Burke’s father, Ramos.

He was also an important figure in the military of the Milky Way Empire, and he was already a late Celestial Ranker.

“Burke, I heard that you are recruiting friends, and you will hold a banquet on Planet Boundless to celebrate your breakthrough.” Ramos said calmly.

“Yes, Father!” Burke replied respectfully. He wondered why someone like his father would suddenly care about such a trivial matter.

“Very good! If you can break through to Cosmos Rank before turning two hundred years old, it means there is still hope for you to go further in the future. You must not be complacent and always be strict with yourself.”

“Thank you for the compliment , Father!” Burke replied excitedly.

He was overjoyed.

One should know that Ramos had never praised Burke since childhood.

This was because he had an older brother named Malachi.

Although the two were about the same age, Malachi reached Cosmos Rank fifty years before Burke.

Now, Malachi had reached late Cosmos Rank while Burke had only just broken through to beginner Cosmos Rank.

One could imagine how much pressure Burke had with such a brother constantly hanging above his head.

Ramos also cultivated Malachi as his heir. He took Malachi with him and poured all his efforts into him.

Burke's talent was actually not poor, but unfortunately, he had a much stronger brother.

Hence, Burke was naturally much weaker in comparison.

Therefore, he was beaten and scolded by Ramos as a bad example ever since he was a child.

Therefore, Burke resolutely gave up the path Ramos paved for him to join the Milky Way Empire's military and chose to go out to gain more experience.

That way, he could escape his brother Malachi's shadow and his father Ramos's control.

A childhood like this was also why Burke was so irascible now.

He used to work really hard just to get a single compliment from his father, Ramos.

However, in the end, he only got his father's ruthless beating and scolding. As a result, his character gradually became twisted. This time, even if Ramos' compliment came many years late, it still made Burke feel very excited.

"Burke, although I've been strict with you since you were a child, it's all for your own good. Your talent is not as high as your brother's, so you can only compensate for it with sweat. This road you're taking is destined to be full of thorns, so I hope you can understand," Ramos said with a sigh.

"I see, Father," Burke replied with his head bowed.

"Burke, you cannot reveal any detail about what I'm going to say next. Otherwise, the entire Lutgen family will be affected, or even wiped out," Ramos said word by word.

Burke shuddered.

He looked up at his father, his face full of shock and disbelief.

'What is it that will exterminate the Lutgen family?'

He was in disbelief.

The Lutgen family was deeply involved the military of the Milky Way Empire.

They had contributed to the empire's military for generations, except for maybe one or two direct descendants like him.

Almost all other direct descendants of the Lutgen family had joined the military.

It was no exaggeration to say that as long as the Milky Way Empire did not fall, the Lutgen family would never be exterminated.

Now, his father Ramos told him that the Lutgen family was in danger of extermination.

There was only one possibility for this situation: the empire was taking action against them.

Burke was shocked.

'Could it be that our family is rebelling?

'No way!

'Impossible!

"The Milky Way Empire is the unrivaled hegemon of the Milky Way, so how will the Lutgen family, a family with a background like this, have this kind of idea? 'Won't it be like a firefly competing with the moon to see who's brighter?

'The Milky Way Empire will turn the family into ashes with just a sneeze.'

Burke calmed himself down slowly.

He felt that this was unrealistic.

So, it would be better for his father to tell him instead of overthinking on his own.

"Someone, come in here!" Burke roared.

Immediately, two people came in from outside and knelt on the ground with one knee.

"Lord Burke!"

"Tell everyone to get out of the vicinity of the palace. No one is allowed to come in. If anyone disobeys, kill them without mercy."

"Roger!"

After the two left the room, the people guarding the place immediately dismissed themselves. Soon, Burke was the only one left in the huge palace.

"Father, don't worry. This is about the life and death of the Lutgen family. So, I will keep it a secret and won't let anyone find out anything about this," Burke said, looking at the middle-aged man who was being channeled through the communication device.

"Very good. According to the latest news, Her Royal Highness is near the Boundless Region. Burke, what you need to do now is to postpone the banquet, increase its publicity, and attract Her Royal Highness to Planet Boundless. She likes events like this, so as long as she gets news about this, she will definitely not miss it. At the same time, you must arrange for more security. I am rushing over now," Ramos said solemnly.

Burke's mind turned blank.

'Her Royal Highness is near Boundless Region?'

'What...'

'What a great opportunity!'

Burke never thought that he would have anything to do with Her Royal Highness because he did not have the qualifications to do so.

The gap between the status of the two sides were miles apart.

If he dared to have thought like this, the Lutgen family would be destroyed. However, if he could get on Her Royal Highness' good side and have her casually mention Burke's name in front of the emperor after she goes back, Burke would thrive.

His identity and status would surpass that of his brother Malachi, who had suppressed him for nearly two hundred years.

So what if Malachi was stronger than him?

He would still need to show Burke respect when he saw him.

Burke would then shed his previous embarrassment and hold his head up high in the Lutgen family.

Burke was traumatized after Malachi suppressed him for nearly 200 years.

He needed this chance desperately.

He had been dreaming for this day.

Now, his chance was here.

If he did not seize this chance, he might never get the chance to see Princess Astrid with his own eyes again.

Burke was feeling light-headed from this free lunch.

Princess Astrid was the emperor's favorite child as well as his only daughter.

To this day, the Milky Way Empire's emperor had 19 children and the first 18 were all sons.

They were all highly gifted and outstanding.

The youngest prince was already 120 years old.

However, the emperor always had a regret.

He wanted a daughter.

However, things did not work out for him.

Nothing happened for many years until 25 years ago, when Her Royal Highness was born.

The emperor was overjoyed as he finally had a daughter.

To welcome the princess, the Milky Way Empire partied for seven days.

While the emperor was feeling happy, he granted amnesty to everyone.

That year, as long as the criminals did not commit any serious crimes, they were all released early. At the same time, all the taxes in the Milky Way Empire's vicinity were waived.

This made everyone remember the princess that the emperor doted on.

One could say that Princess Astrid was loved by many since the day she was born.
