Outside Planet Boundless, the Octagon was leaving fast.

David and his party were naturally inside the ship.

In order to avoid trouble, David did not tell Burke about him saving Princess Astrid before he left. Burke stood in the void, looking at the Octagon with an unpleasant expression. He never dreamed that someone in the Milky Way would dare openly disobey and ignore the emperor's order.

David was blatantly looking down on the emperor.

David and the family behind him were doomed no matter who they were.

When the emperor pursued this matter in the future, no one would be able to protect him.

Burke had already said everything he had to say, and he also wanted to keep David to increase his chances of surviving, but David refused to listen to him and just forcibly left.

David even let out a killing intent, which turned Burke cold, making him not dare to stop David. Hence, he could only watch David leave helplessly.

"Lord Burke, David dared disobey and ignore the emperor's orders. You wouldn't just let him leave unharmed, would you? What about the majesty of the empire in the future? What about the majesty of the emperor?" Heathcliffe said from one side. "You don't need to provoke me! I know what to do!" Burke barked, suppressing the anger in his heart. "That's good!"

"You must have felt the killing intent that David just let out, right?" Burke asked.

"Of course," Heathcliffe replied.

"What do you think? Are you sure you can defeat him?" "No."

"No? Even a late Cosmos Ranker like you is not confident? Does it mean David is also at least a late Cosmos Ranker?"

"I don't think so. I think David might be a peak Cosmos Ranker."

“What? A peak Cosmos Ranker? That bastard! He left me without staying here to fight off the Sangruil Sinners with me? If Princess Astrid runs into any danger, he will not be able to absolve himself of blame even if he dies a million times! His Majesty will kill his entire family. No, I have to tell my father about this,” Burke roared.

A peak Cosmos Ranker left just like that? If David worked with everyone on Planet Boundless, they might be able to hold the Sangruil Sinners off for a few days.

After that, all their problems would be solved when Burke’s father arrived,

However, David left! Wasn’t he sentencing all of them to death? Burke felt he should report this to his father Ramos as soon as possible. Burke turned around quickly while Heathcliffe was still staring in the direction where the Octagon left. He did not tell Burke the truth.

At that time, he noticed David looking at him with murderous intent in his eyes. That glance alone made Heathcliffe feel like he had fallen into an ice cave. How could a peak Cosmos Ranker give this feeling to a late Cosmos Ranker? David was clearly a partial Celestial Ranker.

However, it did not matter now. As long as Burke told the truth to his father Ramos, David and his family would be wiped out for brazenly disobeying the emperor’s orders. It did not matter if he was a Celestial Ranker or how powerful the force supporting him was.

This was the undeniable truth in the Milky Way.

David crippled Fergus and destroyed Heathcliffe’s hopes for so many years. When David displayed his killing intent, Heathcliffe knew he did not have the power to avenge Fergus. Coincidentally, David dared to disobey the emperor’s orders.

This would be his best chance. If he missed this, Heathcliffe could not even guarantee if the Callisto family had the power to avenge Fergus, judging from the fact that David was a partial Celestial Ranker at such a young age. Meanwhile, David and the others left Planet Boundless in the Octagon, heading to the most prosperous place in the Milky Way: Planet Royal. Princess Astrid had already informed her father, Emperor Nimbus, that she was safe and he did not need to worry about her.

She also told Nimbus that she was already on her way back to Planet Royal and would arrive soon. Therefore, Nimbus could recall the people he sent. Nimbus did not ask too many questions. Instead, he just laughed and said he knew his daughter was a person with great luck and would not be caught by the Sangruil Sinners so easily.

Astrid was affected by what Sangruil Sinners said. She really wanted to ask her father if he had met the King of Sangruil and if he was injured.

However, now was not the right time.

She could only wait until she returned to Planet Royal and asked him in person.

After Burke returned to Planet Boundless, he immediately contacted his father, Ramos. When the call went through, Ramos' boorish figure appeared again. "Father! I have something to report to you," Burke said respectfully. "What a coincidence, I also have something very important to inform you too," Ramos said.

"Father, you should go first."

"I just received a notification from His Majesty that Princess Astrid is safe and is on her way back to Planet Royal. So, His Majesty asked us to go back immediately. You don't have to worry about running into the Sangruil Sinners anymore, just do your own thing." 'Princess Astrid is safe and is on her way back to Planet Royal?'

Burke's mind went blank.

He did not know if he should be happy or disappointed. It stood to reason that he should be happy. After all, the probability that he would die in battle against the terrifying Sangruil Sinners was almost 99%.

However, for some reason, when Burke heard the news that Princess Astrid was safe, he felt a little lost inside.

He had been preparing himself so long to face this. Now, he did not even have a chance to gamble.

"Father, are you telling the truth?" Burke asked.

"Of course, the news from His Majesty won't be fake," Ramos replied. "Then how did Princess Astrid escape the pursuit of Sangruil Sinners? Didn't this group of Sangruil Sinners have very powerful combat power and could easily take down a team of palace guards? There shouldn't be anyone around the princess who could compete with them, right? If there is, they wouldn't send you here and ask me to think of a way to ensure the safety of Her Royal Highness."

“I have no idea about that either. His Majesty only said that Princess Astrid was safe and let us return immediately. He didn’t tell us the specific situation, so naturally, we didn’t dare to ask. By the way, what did you want to say?” ‘Uh...’ Burke did not know what to say now. Since Princess Astrid was safe, the emperor’s order was lifted.

People on Planet Boundless could move freely now, so there was no problem with David leaving Planet Boundless. However, when David left, he had not heard that Princess Astrid was safe.

Planet Boundless was still on high alert then, so David’s departure was already a violation of the emperor’s order.

Of course, it was up to Burke to decide if this went against the law.

When he recalled the killing intent David displayed when he left, and how he even forcefully took away Mia, whom Burke invited, Burke not only decided to report this, he even decided to add fuel to the fire. ‘Since you don’t care about me, then don’t blame me for being merciless. ‘Can you fight the empire even if you or your family is bad*ss? ‘You will know the consequences of offending me when the emperor looks into this. ‘Also that b*tch, Mia. Do you think you can ignore me after you found support?

“Just you wait! ‘All of you will pay painful prices soon!’

“Father, just now, a peak Cosmos Ranker blatantly disobeyed the emperor’s order and forcibly left Planet Boundless because he heard that the Sangruil Sinners were too strong, and he was afraid that they would kill him. When I stopped him, he even attacked and injured me. I was not strong enough; in the end, I could only watch him leave Planet Boundless, and there was nothing I could do. “Cough cough cough...” . Burke coughed several times to show that he was indeed injured.

Ramos frowned.

“Are you telling the truth?”

“Father, everything I said was true, and I would never dare to lie.”

“Someone actually dares to disobey the emperor’s order? What’s this person’s name? Where does he come from? If the situation is true, we will wipe out his entire family!”

“Father, this man’s name is David…” David did not know the military had gotten their hands on his name.

Perhaps it would not be long before he became the most wanted man in the Milky Way Empire.

However, even if he knew, he would not care. Princess Astrid from the empire was in his Octagon!

If there was any problem, she could solve it with just a word.

Melodious music could be heard from inside the Octagon.

David was sipping tea in his chair while he listened to the Harp Fairy play on her harp and watched the Dance Fairy dance.

He was living a very free and easy life right now.

He was the first person in the Milky Way to watch the Harp Fairy and Dance Fairy perform together.

Many people in the Milky Way Empire could watch Dance Dairy Mia dance.

However, not many had the right to listen to Harp Fairy Astrid’s performance.

If the outsiders knew about this, they would go insane with envy.

The two fairies were collaborating!

Meanwhile, one of them was the most mysterious Princess Astrid, who held the highest status.

Even the emperor of the Milky Way Empire did not receive such treatment.

Of course, this was because he was not willing or not interested. If he wanted to, he could do anything in the Milky Way. After the performance, David lamented.

As expected of the two fairies among the four fairies in the Milky Way, their collaboration was very pleasing. One could receive the ultimate pleasure via both visual and audio stimulation. David wondered what the other two fairies were like. They should not be too bad either. Only the worthy would deserve such a reputation. If he had the chance in the future, David would get all four fairies together to perform. The effect would definitely be better than this. Clap clap clap! David clapped lightly. He was the only one in the hall, aside from the two performing fairies. Since they had huge differences in status, the others did not dare to watch Princess Astrid’s performance. Hence, they left the room conscientiously. “Spectacular! Your performance is flawless!

You could achieve this effect even though it is the first time you are working together. How surprising!" David laughed and praised them. "Thank you for your praises, Master David." "Thank you, David." Mia and Astrid said at the same time.

"You're too humble. It's my honor to be the first to watch you two working together. I should be the one thanking you two. You should be tired. Come rest and have some tea."

David got up and poured two cups of tea for the fairies. Then, Mia and Astrid walked over to sit down. "Thank you, Master David."

"Thank you, David." After they said that, they lifted the cups and took a sip.
