In a foreign void in the corner of the Milky Way. This was the remote area of the Milky Way. If one moved forward, they would reach the legendary Zone of Nothingness once they left the Milky Way. There was no life, no light, and nothing else. There were just countless space storms and space cracks.

Once humans reached the Zone of Nothingness, they would feel like their six senses were taken away from them. They would not feel anything.

After they passed the dangerous Zone of Nothingness, they would reach another galaxy Beast Galaxy

In the remote area of the Milky Way, an indigenous living planet was invaded a few years ago.

Countless powerful half-human, half-beast monsters invaded this place. The indigenous people on the planet could not resist them, so they could only watch in despair as their homeland was invaded.

Meanwhile, the indigenous people on this planet became the monsters' slaves.

At this moment, on this planet named Light Star.

"Hiss!"

A snake-like hiss could be heard.

Even though it was not loud, all living creatures on Light Star could hear it clearly.

The surviving indigenous people on Light Star shuddered unconsciously when they heard this voice.

They felt as if they had been punished by the Gods when they heard this hiss, their bodies going cold from head to bottom.

Meanwhile, the animals started going crazy when they heard this voice. It was as if this voice was from their natural enemies.

Countless roars resonated through Light Star.

Inside a secret room, King Moe of Sangruil was treated by a peculiar-looking man. Even though this man was thin, his head was abnormally big and disproportionate to his body. He looked very different from an average human, like a big-headed doll that was not fully developed. Not only that, but he also had vertical slit-shaped pupils. One would shiver in fright when they saw him.

Moe sat on the chair. His veins and vessels were protruding, and one could see blood flowing quickly inside them. Countless scales were showing vaguely on his skin, making him look terrifying

At this moment, Moe gritted his teeth like he was enduring intense pain. "King Moe, you're badly injured," the thin man said. His voice did not sound like it came from his mouth. Instead, it sounded like he was speaking through grinding sounds, sounding sinister and sharp. "I am. However, Nimbus is no better than me. I didn't think he could reach that stage after centuries of not seeing him. I thought I could take down the Barlowe family with incredible ease this time I come back and then take over the Milky Way. Who would expect an accident like this to happen? If my body didn't agree with your genes and perfectly go into beast mode, drastically increasing my combat and defense, I might have died," Moe said while enduring the pain.

Moe felt shocked when he recalled his fight with Nimbus not long ago. Nimbus was indeed powerful.

Moe was a peak Infinity Ranker. After going into beast mode perfectly, he would still be powerful even if he was at partial Eternal Realm. He could defeat almost everyone with his shocking defense at partial Eternal Realm.

However, he suffered a disadvantage when it came to fighting Nimbus. Nimbus' combat power should be at the peak of partial Eternal Realm, and it was close to Eternal Realm.

"Since Nimbus can injure you like this when you're in beast mode, you can't underestimate him. I thought you would become the strongest person in the Milky Way, but who would have expected Nimbus to be at this level," the thin man lamented.

Humans were the most efficacious creatures in the universe indeed. No wonder all the universe's species were trying to get close to humans and use them as examples. Not only would this be more convenient, but they could also gain more efficacious human experience.

However, among the countless races in the universe, very few people could truly incarnate into human beings.

Most of them were similar to the Nine-Headed Serpent Clan. They were incarnated into this odd appearance, which was very recognizable at just a glance.

They still had a long way to go if they wanted to incarnate into normal humans.

As the most efficacious creature, although human beings' starting point was very low and was far worse than any race of galaxy beast, their maximum limit was ridiculously high.

Their future was full of infinite possibilities.

As for galaxy beasts, there would be an upper limit for them if there were no atavism. Once they became adults, it would be difficult to improve their combat power unless they encountered a miracle.

Galaxy Beasts could only continue to increase the upper limit of their combat power when there was atavism.

However, it was rare to see such a thing. Every time this happened, they would immediately become a member of the royal family of all races and be admired by everyone.

"Nimbus is indeed my mortal enemy. He is less than a thousand years old, has already reached the peak of partial Eternal Realm, and is only one step away from the Eternal Realm. Once he truly breaks through to the Eternal Realm, our plans will be in vain," Moe said solemnly. 1

"King Moe, you can rest assured! Although Nimbus is now at the peak of partial Eternal Realm, it is not so easy to break through to the real Eternal Realm. He may not even see a chance in his lifetime. However, even if Nimbus can't break through to Eternal Realm, his current strength is already a huge threat to us. We must find a way to get rid of him before we can continue our plan," the thin man said with a smile.

Moe glanced at the Nine-Headed Serpent and did not ask why he was sure that Nimbus could not break through in a short time.

He knew the man must know something but was not telling him.

Hence, there would be no point even if Moe asked him, so he decided against it. Moe closed his eyes and continued to endure the intense pain in his body. Nimbus injured him severely.

If he took his time to recuperate, he would only be healed in a few years.

However, Moe could not wait so long.

Therefore, he chose to utilize the Nine-Headed Serpent Clan's strong healing genes to heal himself.

His body was 99.99% compatible with the Nine-Headed Serpent Clan's genes anyway, and it was so close to 100%.

One must know that between the two races, the probability of such a situation was one in a billion, and not everyone could achieve it. The process of this treatment would be excruciating. After all, not everyone could handle the fusion of the two races' genes. Plus, Moe had to monitor the changes in his body constantly. Once there was an accident, he had to take countermeasures. He could not pass out even if he was in pain. If not, all his previous effort would be in vain, and it would be unknown if he could ever wake up again.

A few days later, Moe let out another terrifying roar. His injury was almost healed. As expected of the galaxy beasts, their defense was impressive, and their healing ability was terrifyingly powerful. "How do you feel?" Asked the thin man in the form of a Nine-Headed Serpent.

"Very good! You Nine-Headed Serpent are such powerful creatures indeed. This healing ability is truly terrifying. I think I am almost healed now. If Nimbus is in front of me now, and his serious injury has not healed, I might not lose to him," Moe stood up and moved his body while saying that "Of course. The Nine-Headed Serpent Clan is the ninth most powerful race among the galaxy beasts, and our healing ability is not comparable to that of your humans," the thin man said with a smile.

“Indeed! But although we humans are not as good as galaxy beasts in all aspects, and we even have a huge gap, we humans represent infinite possibilities, which is also incomparable to you galaxy beasts,” Moe replied.

“Of course, this is the basis of our cooperation. We all have our own strengths. You want the powerful body of the Nine-Headed Serpent Clan, and we want the infinite potential of you human beings.”

Moe did not want to continue the topic. He had gone against the will of humanity by working with the Nine-Headed Serpent Clan. Once word of this got out, he would be a traitor to humanity and would be spurned by all humans in the galaxy.

However, he was on a mission to overthrow the Milky Way Empire and revive Sangruil.

As a former member of the Sangruil royal family, Moe had no choice.

After seeing there was no hope for revenge, he chose to take all the surviving Sangruilians and ventured across the void to go to the Beast Galaxy to find a partner.

In reality, the people that Moe wanted to cooperate with were not the Nine-Headed Serpent Clan because they were notorious entities listed in the human history of the Milky Way Galaxy.

As a result, as he stepped into Beast Galaxy, he unexpectedly arrived at the territory of the Nine-Headed Serpent Clan and met the Nine-Headed Serpent Clan.

In the end, they chose to cooperate for lack of a better option.

“Severus, I’m almost fine now, but Nimbus has always been an obstacle in our plan. We have to find a way to get rid of him. Originally, I made two preparations. First, I sent someone to abduct his only daughter and then went to intercept him to test his strength. If I could kill him, I would. If I couldn’t, I’d have used his daughter to lure him, and then we would have joined forces to kill him. However, not only have I been severely injured by him, but the plan to abduct his daughter has seemed to fail too. What should we do now?” Moe asked, changing the topic. “It is indeed tricky if Nimbus is so strong. Since there is an accident with the plan, let’s discuss it again and see if there is any way to save it. If nothing works, I have to go back and report to the clan truthfully,” The Nine-Headed Serpent named Severus replied.

“I told you before that the Nine-Headed Serpent Clan should have sent enough power to directly crush Nimbus and wipe out the entire Barlowe family so I can directly take over the Milky Way Empire. Won’t it be more convenient that way? Why run back and forth like this? Isn’t it a waste of time?” Moe said, feeling a little displeased.

“King Moe, things are not as simple as you think. The Nine–Headed Serpent Clan has crossed the galaxy to help you, so we have violated the Universe Convention. Once discovered, our entire tribe will be punished. This is no joke.”

“Aren’t you afraid now that you’re returning to ask for help and get more manpower? The result will be the same anyway. It’s a waste of time,” Moe sneered.

“We will come up with the exact plan after a discussion with the clan. But, King Moe, you can rest assured. Since we choose to cooperate with you, we will not give up halfway and will help you control the entire galaxy. I hope you will keep your promises at that time,” Severus said. “As long as you help me recover successfully, I will naturally abide by what I have said.” “That would be best.” While the Sangruil Sinners and Nine–Headed Serpent Clan were discussing how to deal with Nimbus...

On Blue Star in the Royal Region, David was busy exchanging various unknown items found in ruins with the bounty hunters who came. Originally, David wanted to buy these things directly at a high price. These items were unknown items with no known price, so he would decide the price.

However, David found a problem in the process. The system determined that he could not arbitrarily name a price. Although David and these bounty hunters did not know the price, the system did. If David wanted to buy an item of unknown value, the system would give a suitable price, and it would only recognize this price.

For example, the system named 100 million for an item.

Even if David offered to buy it with one billion, the system would only approve 100 million. Hence, David would only get one lavish point. The other 900 million would not give David any lavish points, so he was spending the money in vain.

This then caused a situation David had been working hard for two days to buy countless items from the bounty hunters, but he only spent a few billion and got dozens of lavish points. He was happy as he thought he could break through quickly to Infinity Rank. However, reality slapped David across the face and made him feel helpless.

Even so, he could understand this.

If the system did not limit him, David would buy any unknown item for trillions or even tens of trillions. By then, it would be too easy for him to obtain lavish points, and soon, he would be unbeatable in the universe.

After working hard for the day, David lay in bed sadly. He bought more than thousands of unknown items in two days and only got dozens of lavish points.

It was too little.

It would be hard for him to get the dozens of lavish points if it were not for the few rare items.

The system priced over 80% of the items at only tens or hundreds of Galaxy Dollars. There were even some that were just a few Galaxy Dollars.

David wanted to throw the items at the system's face.

This was so insufferable!

Could the system fool him like this? 'Fine, I'll just buy chambers of commerce. 'I can't spend much money on these items anyway. I can't make lavish points. 'I can only ask Mia to focus on purchasing chambers of commerce 'If not, I don't know when I will be able to upgrade.' David thought helplessly. The next day, David told the bounty hunters to go back and stop bringing items over. He did not need them anymore. In the end, most of them left, leaving only some of them who were reluctant to leave. They wanted to hand their things to David, so David could only take them in. Luckily, there were fewer people today, so he should be able to care for everything before the day ended.

Half a day passed, and he still did not find anything useful. "Next!" David called out helplessly. This time, the person who came in was a middle-aged man.

"Give it here," David said.

"Yes, Master David."

The middle-aged man handed David a strange-looking rock after he said that.

David took it and saw that it was pretty heavy. However, he did not look properly before he tossed it to one side. Then, he glanced at the system to name the man a price so that he could take the money and leave.

However, when he looked at the system... 'What...!

David thought he was seeing things.

He rubbed his eyes and looked closer. Suddenly, he let out an excited yell.
