

The substitute wife: my poor husband is a billionaire

Chapter 731

Chapter 731 Tasha's Interview

“Janet?” Tasha was also surprised to see that the interviewer was Janet.

I knew Janet was designer at W Marks, but I didn't expect It was she who interviewed her.

As for why Tasha came to W Marks, she had your reasons.

After divorcing Seth, Tasha received a lot of money as a pension food and returned to the Jarvis family.

The Jarvis family had married their daughter, Tasha, to the Lester family for mutual benefit.

But now that she had been divorced and the Lester family was broke, the Jarvis family would no doubt felt ashamed.

Also, Tasha was pregnant at the time, which worsened the stuff.

Given everything that had happened, it was little likely that Tasha could remarry another rich man.

This made the Jarvis family felt that she was a burden, and even some of her relatives began to treat her coldly. Tasha couldn't take it anymore and moved out.

Though he didn't lack money, he just didn't like it be idle It just so happened that W Marks Studio was hiring at the time.

Draco was famous in the fashion industry.

Tasha wanted to at least try, so she sent her resume.

“Please take a seat.

Why didn't you use your real name?” Janet was definitely not expecting see Tasha here.

He looked at the resume and the portfolio that Tasha had sent and sure enough, this The latter had not used her real name.

Tasha smiled sheepishly and explained, “Something happened with my family, so I didn't want them to know that I am looking for a job.

Will that affect the interview from today?” Janet shook her head with a slight smile and He continued flipping through Tasha's folder.

“No, the interview will only depend on the quality of your worked”.

Dalores realized that the candidate pregnant and Janet knew each other, so He narrowed his eyes and asked,

“How come? do

you two know each other?” “We study at the same school.

Just relax.

I will conduct a fair and impartial interview.” Janet I knew the professional way to do it was judge Tasha solely on her work.

And knew that this was what Tasha really wanted. He wanted to throw off the shackles of marriage and gain recognition with their own ability to design.

Dalores rolled her eyes at Janet.

close up.

This young woman was a bad liar.

Obviously, Janet also wanted to recruit her friend, but pretended not to know her very well.

“So, let’s start the interview now.” Dalores also began reviewing the resume and Tasha’s portfolio.

In fact, the works of Tasha were much better than her friend’s In addition, he had won some design awards when I was still in school.

Suddenly, Dolores felt a little nervous.

Janet was very pleased with the excellent Tasha’s resume.

I really believed that even Dalores would also see his potential.

Then she he asked, “Well, what do you think, Dalores?” How could Dalores let this woman in pregnant and not her own friend? I had him promised her friend that she could get that will go into W Marks.

how would you explain this so? “Not bad” Dalores said with a fake smile.

“Can I ask you a few questions first?” “Of course.” Janet nodded enthusiastically. I thought very highly of Tasha.

Although there was no Been in the design industry for a few years, you could see that she was still very good. In addition, he had won many design awards even before graduating, which showed how excellent it was. As I looked at Tasha’s bulging belly, Dalores asked harshly: “You were a housewife, TRUE? That would explain the gap in your resume.

Now, after getting divorced, you are looking for worked.

Did your husband leave you? The question was deliberately rude.

He obviously wanted to irritate Tasha.

□ □ □