Madam Winters's Fight For Her Children Chapter 1081

There was only one sentence in her heart: Ninian smiled at her again!

This sentence was enough to make her scream in her mind. She could care less about what Ninian said to her.

Meanwhile, after she was done explaining, Ninian looked toward her feisty brother.

"Hal, it's been a while! You're finally willing to fetch me."

The delicate and beautiful girl wrinkled her elegant nose. Her cunning eyes crinkled up with happiness that she could not hide.

How could Harold, who had a sister complex, resist when his own sister acted so cutely?

He got out of the car quickly and opened the door for her while helping them get into the car.

"Sit tight, Ninian. I'll take you for some fresh air."

His limited-edition Silver Demon dashed down, and the sound of the car was noisy and loud.

The assistant was dazed, and before she could register why she was even in the car, she was startled by the rapidly passing scenery outside the car, and she screamed.

"Aaaahhhh help!!!"

Her screams were ear-piercing, and Lana held the car handle in a death grip. She almost burst into tears.

Ninian frowned at seeing this. "Hal!"

"Fine..." Harold pouted and quickly slowed down to a normal speed.

Lana clutched her chest and dry-heaved as she complained through her tears, "I want to sue you for kidnapping! Sob! How could you kidnap us?!"

Harold felt absolutely speechless by what she said.

"Don't be scared, Lana." Ninian held her hand and comforted her. "My brother won't hurt us."

"What? Brother?" Lana was stupefied. "You have a brother?"

In the eyes of everyone in the company, Ninian was a well-behaved and cute little beauty. She was everyone's obedient little sister.

Even Lana regarded Ninian as a sister.

But how could her sister have a brother?

This was a crime as great as patricide and abduction!

Lana immediately glared at Harold and wanted to bite him.

Harold returned her glare without hesitation. He did not act like an older brother at all. He also did not possess the maturity of his siblings, which they had since they were children.

He smiled and replied childishly, "I'm so sorry. I'm Ninian's second eldest brother, her biological brother! Aside from me, who is so brilliant I make the gods and everyone around me jealous, she also has two older brothers, and an older sister! All of us are biological siblings! Biological!"

Lana refused to listen.

"Heh, do you admit defeat?"

The triumphant Harold was filled with pride, whereas the defeated Lana hung her head.

Beside her, Ninian was speechless at their childishness. When she saw that the two of them had entered a truce, she quietly said, "Can I say something?"

The winner Harold said happily, "Go ahead!"

"Hal, you're driving on the road back to our mansion," Ninian said quietly, "I remember that George returned to Sea City over the past few days and is working from home. Are you going to get us into trouble?"

– Upon hearing this, Harold stepped on the brakes in fright.

'D*mn it! I got so excited that I didn't even look at the road and almost went to my doom.'

Harold turned around and drove the other way.

Not far off, a Winters family's business car, which looked very familiar, was heading the same way.

This car belonged to the eldest son of the Winters family, George.

The siblings looked each other in the eye, and they could see what they were thinking on their faces.

'We're done for!

Madam Winters's Fight For Her Children Chapter 1082

"What do we do, Hal?" When she saw George's car, Ninian panicked. "I can't let George find me here!" If George found out that she had sneakily returned to the country without letting him know and even went into the entertainment industry, he might just toss her out of the country again.

She could not leave at this time, she had not properly thanked Everett yet!

"Don't worry, Ninian!" Harold tried to calm her down, but he was so worked up himself, that he was about to start pulling his hair out.

If George found out Harold and the workshop had developed a new AI simulation android with Ninian's face to replace her living abroad and deceive the Winters family, George would probably skin him alive.

But now, it was too late to run. Behind them was the road to the Winters family's mansion, and in front was George's car. It was not like they could fly. "How about this?" Harold said quickly, "Ninian, hide behind my car seat, and the young lady next to you can climb up to the passenger seat and pretend that we're dating to fool George.

"Huh?" Lana's face was blank. Seeing the anxious faces of the siblings, she finally registered what Harold was saying

Outside the window, George's car was already approaching 6.6.

"Hurry!" Harold urged in a low voice.

Lana did not think too much about it and climbed forward with her petite body. When the opposite car approached, she was clearly in the passenger seat. When the fronts of the two cars were aligned, the black luxury car on the opposite lane stopped.

In the passenger seat, Lana once again saw a beautiful face that made her jaw drop!

In the humble black car sat a man with a noble and dignified appearance and a calm face. He wore a pair of silver spectacles. The man raised his eyes slightly and glanced at them with a glance so cold it was like the snow on the mountain. It brought fear to all those who saw him.

The man did not look too old, and he looked very much like Harold, who was beside Lana. But the air of superiority he gave off was much greater than many of the veterans in the entertainment industry.

Even hyperactive people would behave when they stood in front of him.

At that moment, Harold was one such hyperactive person.

His mischievous and unruly attitude disappeared, and he became an obedient boy.

“George, you’re back,” Harold greeted shyly and somewhat diffidently.

Across from him, George swept his gaze over him with cold indifference. His tone was as low as the plucked strings of a cello. “Harold, what are you running for?”

LLLLLLL

“Huh? I’m not running!” Harold pretended to look aloof, scratching his head and smiling as he said, “I just thought of something important, so I’m rushing to get it done.”

“Is that so?” His cool voice gave everyone the chills. George glanced at Lana, who was in the passenger seat, and narrowed his eyes at Harold, saying, “Aren’t you just ‘amazing’? You’d even toy with such a young girl and bring her back home? Do you want to get beat up?”

12

“It’s not like that!” Harold was so irked that he seemed ready to jump out of his seat.

“Am I that kind of person to you? I’m just... just...”

•He could not make something up.

If he really denied it, then George would interrogate him thoroughly, and he would not be able to explain it.

He could only let him get the wrong idea.

Harold shut his eyes, as though he could not bear to meet George’s gaze, then he said, “I’m not toying with her, we’re in a regular relationship!”

Meanwhile, Lana had just snapped out of her dazzled state.

...Eh?"

"Heh." George sneered. The surrounding atmosphere became even more oppressive, and Harold shrank his neck away from the cold.

"Miss," George looked at Lana and asked, "If I may be so bold, how old are you?"

Lana was dazed for a moment before stars shone in her eyes again.

Madam Winters's Fight For Her Children Chapter 1083

'Oh my god!! This drop-dead gorgeous man is talking to me!' Lana replied without hesitation, "I'm twenty this year!"

George seemed a little surprised that she was an adult. His stern brows were raised slightly, but he did not say anything

He looked at Harold again. There was an unquestionable dignity in his low and calm voice. "You are all too young and immature. This kind of relationship will not last. Consider this carefully by yourselves."

After he was done speaking, George turned his head and looked straight ahead. The window moved up and gradually obscured his noble and calm face.

The black vehicle started up and drove away from them.

Ninian stuck her fuzzy head out from the corner. Her face was full of surprise.

They had successfully evaded the clutches of the Great – Demon King!

The siblings looked at each other and clasped their hands together happily.

Beside them, Lana was more excited than both of them."

Oh god, oh god! Ninian, that was your eldest brother? How can he be so handsome ?! He's even mature , level – headed, charming, and has a great voice! I almost swooned when I saw him! Quick! I need that handsome man to give me CPR!"

Harold pouted inscrutably next to her, "Tsk, you're not jealous of him being Ninian's brother?"

"I want a brother just like him!" Lana cried.

“Ugh... women!”

V

“But why did he say that immature relationships won’t last?” Lana inexplicably said.
“Could it be that an Adonis like him has also been hurt by love?”

At the mention of George’s emotional affairs, Harold and Ninian’s expressions fell.

Ninian explained, “My eldest brother was in a relationship once, before he completely took over the family business. Unfortunately, they didn’t last and broke it off.”

“His life didn’t change in the slightest after the breakup. At one time, we thought that he had no feelings for the girl. But on the night of the inheritance ceremony, he got drunk for the first time and called out the girl’s name. “That was the first time he ever got drunk in his life, and also the first time his emotions ever leaked out. We didn’t know until then that it wasn’t because he didn’t care, he was actually deeply in love.

“He has always been introverted, and, since he grew up too quickly, he habitually hides all his emotions. Except for his family, he hardly shows his own feelings. That girl was the only thing that made him lose his composure , and she remains an untouchable existence for him.”

IL

After listening to what Ninian said, Lana only felt sorry.

LLL

“Then, why didn’t he fight for the relationship ?” Lana asked sullenly.

“I don’t know.” Ninian said, “Perhaps both of them were too prideful.”

Lana sighed regretfully.

Harold, who was letting the car coast, chuckled and said, “ Do you know why George refuses to get back together with her?”

LILIT

“Why?” Lana immediately turned toward him, looking serious and expectant.

Harold grinned, and his eyes were full of playful humor.” It’s because our surname is Winters, and ‘Winter is the season where everything dies, including love’! Hahaha...”

•Harold laughed at his own joke, and his giggling filled the entire car.

Lana was speechless. She almost believed his words.

The car drove on and the scenery outside the windows flew by quickly.

Harold seemed to remember something and suddenly said, “By the way, Ninian, you sent me a message yesterday saying that someone was watching you. What did you mean?”

Madam Winters’s Fight For Her Children Chapter 1084

Harold’s question made Ninian recall something.

She furrowed her brows slightly, and her beautiful apricot eyes looked lost for a moment.

“I don’t know either. I thought someone in our family found out about my return, but it turned out that that wasn’t the case. I also asked someone to investigate it, but they found nothing,” Ninian said. “If it weren’t for the fingerprints, or that colleague’s abnormal behavior, I would have thought it was all in my head.”

When Lana heard this, she asked nervously, “What? What happened yesterday? Someone was watching you?”

Ninian nodded and briefly explained what happened at that time.

After Lana heard this, her face became a little strange.

Harold observed the change in her emotion. His teasing eyes narrowed slightly and gained an edge that was unique to the children of the Winters family. “What do you know, girl?”

“According to the time and place you mentioned, a name does come to mind,” Lana said, then she shook her head in denial. “I must be thinking too much, he could just be passing by at the time.”

With a stomp, the car braked suddenly.

HU

Harold turned to look at her and spat out one word, "Who?"

Ninian also looked at her, but her tone was soothing. "Lana, don't be afraid. We just want to know. We won't make judgments without evidence."

Lana hesitated for a moment before she said, "Yes... Everett. At that time, I went to pour you a glass of water, and I almost ran into him when I came back. Back then, he looked awful, and his footsteps were hurried. His aura seemed cold all over, so I didn't dare to look too much."

'Everett?! Was it The Everett?'

Ninian's eyes lit up in an instant.

But when she thought about how he treated her with such cold indifference during the filming, Ninian's mood gradually calmed down, and she even became a little depressed

If the one Lana saw was Everett, then it was a blatant no. Everett must have just been passing by there. After all, she stood right at the entrance, and it was normal for the people in the set to use the entrance to go about places.

'Am I overthinking it?'

"Everett?" Harold asked, "Who's that?"

Ninian's face burned up all of a sudden, and she quickly said, "He's the male lead of the cast and basically the god in our circle. He's not close with me, and he's very aloof. He definitely wouldn't spare me a glance, so he must have been just passing by."

Seeing his sister's nervous expression, Harold rubbed his chin. He gained a profound look in his eyes.

"Really?" Harold said, "Ninian, tell me honestly. Why do you want to enter the entertainment industry so much? Could it be that... you want to meet someone?"

"W—What nonsense! I'm not like that..."

Ninian's face turned red in an instant. She stammered and glared at him angrily, like a fierce little squirrel with deadly cuteness.

"Is that so?" Harold smiled and resisted the urge to poke her cheek. He happily said, "Then why are you so nervous?"

"I'm... not nervous!" Ninian did not dare to meet his eyes, so she could only mumble, "You know that I like being in the entertainment industry. I shot an advertisement more than three years ago. At that time, Everett hadn't even debuted yet!"

"Eh? Did I really misunderstand it?" Harold finally stopped focusing on the matter, but he sighed and warned her, "You need to enjoy life while you still can, girl. The day you are found out, you would definitely be wrangled back home. When that time comes, remember to secretly let me know, I'll leave the country in advance to avoid the crossfire. Otherwise, there would be five people in the family making my life miserable, and I'd be dead by then."

"I got it." Ninian shrank behind his seat. Her eyes were evasive, yet held a crafty look, as though she was happy that she managed to dupe Harold yet again.

Only Lana, who sat in the passenger seat, could not help but look back at Ninian with a strange look on her face.

'How did Ninian know that Everett hadn't debuted yet when she shot that advertisement?'

Madam Winters's Fight For Her Children Chapter 1085

Why does it seem like she knows Everett very well?'

But seeing how Ninian was shrinking herself into a little ball and trying to make herself as inconspicuous as possible, Lana decided not to say anything.

The sky outside had turned dark.

ILL

Harold took them to dinner before he sent Ninian and Lana to the apartment where they stayed.

This was originally a place arranged by Younique Entertainment for Nerola Barlow. After Ninian returned to Sea City, she shared this place with Nerola. When she officially signed her contract with Younique Entertainment, Amber Ward reserved a room next door as a temporary residence for Ninian.

However, Ninian had been busy these past few days, so she had not had the time to move in and still lived with Nerola.

And this time, Lana, being Ninian's assistant, naturally joined her as they were inseparable.

"Hal, upstairs is where the girls live, so I won't invite you to come upstairs!" Ninian jumped out of the car and waved at Harold, and her eyes twinkled with gentle happiness. "You should hurry back. Drive carefully."

Harold played with the keychain in his hand. Then he rubbed his chin and looked at her. "Ninian, why does it sound like you're eager to drive me away?"

"Of course not." Ninian smiled. Her eyes were shining like stars. "I'm worried that you might go back too late and get interrogated by George. He's going to say, 'Are you bullying Lana again?'"

Harold had nothing to say to this.

His movements froze, and his expression became dull. He inadvertently thought about the scene his sister described...

*D*mn, this really is something George would say.'

ET

"Ahem! Be good, Ninian!" Harold hurried back to his car. He stepped on the brakes first, and said, "I'll be heading off first. I'll come to visit when I have time. Bye!"

"Bye, Hal!" Ninian tilted her head and obediently bid him goodbye. The brilliance in her eyes already betrayed what was on her mind at that moment. She said cutely, "Take good care of yourself."

LULU

Harold was so carefree that he did not notice her little trick; he just felt touched.

'My sister's such a gentle little kitten! Ahh, I'm so touched!

"Good girl! Hurry upstairs, it's not safe for girls to be outside at night!" George said, then bid Lana goodbye," Bye, little girl!

With that, he released the brakes and switched to the accelerator.

He drove under the cover of night and quickly disappeared from their sights. Ninian finally breathed a sigh of relief at this. She patted her chest lightly, wrinkled her petite nose, and said, “Wow, that was dangerous.”

George had always been a slapdash person, so it was normal for him to be fooled by her.

‘But George is at home!’

If Harold accidentally let something slip, George would know that she went back to the entertainment industry for Everett’s sake.

She was worried that Harold would get into big trouble with their Winters family.

Beside her, her assistant Lana looked at her expression and said tentatively, “Ninian, you and Everett...”

“Ah! No! I have nothing to do with Everett!” Ninian jumped in an instant when her name was suddenly called out.

Under the lighting, her face clearly showed that she was covering up the obvious!

Lana crossed her arms, hummed, and sharply said, Ninian, you... have a problem!”

Ninian was speechless

Unexpectedly, Lana, who was perplexed, looked at Ninian with a piercing gaze.

Ninian did not plan to hide it from her. After all, she was her assistant now. It would be better for her to know some things.

“Alright, alright. I’ll tell you.” She said helplessly and raised her hand, gesturing that she surrendered.

She told Lana about her brief contact with Everett and why she entered the entertainment industry. Lana gradually understood.

“Is this the legendary trope where the girl chases after the boy and promises her hand in marriage because he saved her?” Lana’s eyes lit up and said giggly. “This is just like a love story from a fairytale!”

Ninian instantly felt embarrassed.

“Lana! What are you thinking?” She blushed and rushed forward to cover Lana’s mouth.

“As I told you, I want to thank him, that’s all. I owe him that. Plus, I entered the entertainment industry just to get close to my idol, not my husband! Stop talking nonsense!”

“Aye, you’re blushing already!” Lana smiled as she held her stomach. When she saw how embarrassed Ninian was, she showed some kindness and let her go, “Alright, then. I’ll stop it. I’ll find a way to create a chance for you to be alone with The Everett when I go on set. You should take the opportunity and talk things out. What do you think?”

Ninian bit her lower lip as she hesitated.

Although she was soft-spoken, she was considered brave when she needed to spring into action. Otherwise, how would she stand up against her brothers at home?

However, when it came to Everett, she started to have doubts and hesitated.

‘Everett seems to be avoiding me all the time. If I really did have the chance to be with him alone, really find a chance to see him alone, will it bother him?’

In the end, she pursed her lips and shook her head.

“We’ll just go with the flow. You don’t have to purposely create a chance for me.” She then said, “The shooting of this drama will take a period of time. I’m sure I’ll have the chance.”

– What was more, Ninian had something in mind as well..

‘What if he suddenly remembers me in the middle of filming?’

She felt her heart skip when she thought of it.

“Okay, we’ll see.” Lana did not force her. Her big round eyes once again lit up with excitement. “I thought no one would top The Everett. Now that I see you, I feel the two of you can be the “fake” couple. I’ll totally believe it! It looks too real!”

Ninian wanted to interrupt, but Lana hurriedly said, “Don’t worry. I know, it needs to be low-key. I’m just secretly shipping both of you. I won’t make a big scene out of it.”

LL

After all, Ninian was just a low-tier newcomer, and Everett was a top actor in the entertainment industry who had won many awards.

In the entertainment industry, if a person’s tier outmatches her popularity, they would be violently attacked by the netizen. Not to mention that the other person was Everett. The fans would go all out, and the person they harass would raze to the ground.

Lana did not want Ninian to go through this.

“I’m not worried that it will affect me,” Ninian said as her eyes teared up. She looked genuinely worried, “I’m just afraid that it will bring him trouble.”

•No one knew Everett better than her.

En

He was cold, indifferent, and afraid of getting into trouble.

EL

During his shoots, he would put down everything and put all his heart into his performances. His imposing aura in dramas was very powerful. He could play different roles brilliantly as if he was the character himself.

But once he was out of the set, when he was alone, he would isolate himself from the world and seemed to enjoy the beauty of the world on the outside.

Ninian felt sorry for him.

Ninian frowned. She had always looked cheerful and carefree on the outside, but she felt worried about him on the inside. Lana’s heart tensed up when she saw her in such a state.

Madam Winters's Fight For Her Children Chapter 1087

Ninian neither looks like a regular fan who chases after her idol nor a damsel who is grateful for her rescuer.

'She looks more like a girl who is worried about her first love.

These thoughts made Lana worried even more.

II

'I can lightheartedly ship them like a fangirl, only because it won't affect anyone else. And Ninian can feel happy about it, even though it is a small thing.

But now that I see that Ninian loves Everett more than just an idol, this is getting worrisome. And she still doesn't know about it!

'Everett is great, but he should only be regarded as an idol. He's withdrawn and indifferent, and there is almost no human emotion in his deep dark eyes. This cold and aloof boy is only to be her co-actor.'

'On the other hand, Ninian is innocent and beautiful. She's meant to be doted on by everyone.

'A little princess like her should grow up carefree and meet a gentle and sensible prince when she comes of age. They'll fall in love with each other, and she'll be cared for by this prince for the rest of her life without needing to worry about anything.'

"Come on, Lana." Ninian did not know what Lana was thinking. She said with her soft and gentle voice, which was music to the ear, "It has been a long day. We should go back and get our beauty sleep." Lana forced a smile, suppressing her worries, and said, "Okay."

Once they got home, they had a good rest for the rest of the night.

Everett did not show up on set for the next two days.

As for Agnes, she has been behaving very well as she laid low and stayed quiet. Without Everett's pressure, the atmosphere of the entire crew was much more relaxed. During the studio break, Agnes once again bought everyone drinks.

No one seemed to remember what had happened two days ago. However, Ninian was still worried about him.

For the past three years, she had been following his itinerary closely. She knew that he would take a few days – off every once in a while when he was unwell.

However, he had never taken any leave in the middle of filming.

This was his first time doing it.

She could not help worrying when she remembered the state that Everett was in when he left that day.

Paul noticed Ninian was alone when he walked up to her.

The delicate and bright-looking girl was sitting quietly not far away, holding a cup of tea in her hand, as she was lost in her thoughts. The sun shone through the branches and leaves, casting silhouettes on her body.

She looked like a beautiful drawing.

He took a deep breath before walking toward her slowly. He did not want to startle her.

She already noticed him when he took a couple of steps. Her usual gentle gaze looked vigilant and sharp.

At that moment, it felt as if she suppressed the sharpness in her gaze back, looking surprised instead. “Paul?”

Ninian was genuinely surprised to see Paul here.

She purposely chose a quiet, secluded place so she could get lost in her thoughts in peace. “I’m sorry if I bothered you.” Paul was stunned for a moment before smiling. He looked graceful and amiable. “I noticed you were gone after the filming was done. So, I tried to look around for you. Is something bothering IN you?”

He approached her and sat beside her. He kept his distance as he looked at her worriedly.

Madam Winters's Fight For Her Children Chapter 1088

"Oh, nothing." Ninian smiled gently and did not talk much.

"If you have any problems with filming, you can look for me. I have a few years of experience that might be of help to you." Paul said with a smile, "And of course, if you have any problems outside of filming, you can find me, too. I'm your friend, don't hesitate to find me, alright?"

Ninian smiled when she saw how sincere Paul looked. "I know, thank you."

Paul looked a little dazed. He could not help but smile. "Why are you behaving so well?"

She looked like a sweet little princess, gentle and obedient.

She looked so adorable.

LU

"Huh?" Ninian raised her eyebrow a little, feeling amused.

'No one at home ever says that I behave well.

'Mommy and Daddy say I'm a cunning little fox, and my brothers and sister say that I'm a sweet-looking demon.

'But on the outside, there are quite a lot of people who say that I'm a good girl.

'It's just an illusion, though.'

When Paul noticed Ninian was in a good mood, he became happy and took the initiative to chat with her. The two of them chatted like they were childhood friends.

When the rest time that the assistant director had given was over, Paul said reluctantly, "I need to go get ready already. Let's talk another time."

As for Ninian, she did not feel anything. She smiled and stood up. She had been sitting for a long time and her legs felt numb. She felt dizzy when she stood up.

But in just a moment, she regained her footing. Paul, who had been watching her closely, was shocked. He instantly reached out and held her arm, like a guardian angel. When Ninian regained her balance again, she looked at him, feeling stunned. Paul came to his senses and immediately pulled back his hand. He looked awkward. "I'm..."

I'm sorry. I didn't do it purposely." "It's alright." Ninian smiled and said, "I should say thank you."

The truth was, she did not like coming in contact with outsiders. It was obvious this was an accident. Moreover,

Paul was being cautious, and she had no reason to not forgive him.

Paul nodded and took a glance at her. He pursed his lips and felt guilty when he noticed the light in her eyes fading a little.

"Go ahead. After you." Paul said , just like a gentleman would

Although this place was part of the set, it was quite remote. If the two of them were to go out together, scandals would surely arise.

In the past, Paul would not take these possibilities into consideration. But the person that he was with was Ninian.

He had a crush on her. She made him subconsciously care about all her feelings and thoughts. He just could not help but put her first and care for her.

Ninian softened when she figured out Paul's intention. This time, she thanked him a little more sincerely," Thank you for being so considerate. I'll excuse myself first, then. Don't be late."

Paul nodded with a smile.

Soon, Ninian left the area. He kept his eyes on her the whole time as he watched her leave. There were still five minutes before the shooting started.

Soon, Ninian left the area. He kept his eyes on her the whole time as he watched her leave.

There were still five minutes before the shooting started.

Madam Winters's Fight For Her Children Chapter 1089

Ninian headed to the restroom when she noticed not everyone was there yet.

The discomfort that she felt finally disappeared when she washed her arms with cold water for three minutes. No one in her family knew that ever since the assault three years ago, she had become particularly sensitive to outsiders touching her, especially men.

Her good upbringing kept her calm on the outside. But deep down, she could feel a wisp of disgust and rejection gradually growing in her heart.

Fortunately, this time it was just an accident, and Paul was a close friend of hers. Her discomfort was not too severe, and she could just barely suppress it after rinsing her arm.

Ninian returned to normalcy again when she headed back to the set.

The shooting went by smoothly.

When it ended, Ninian went to the restroom. But someone blocked her way.

When she looked up, she saw Agnes staring at her with a hint of jealousy and resentment in her gaze. Agnes' beautiful and elegant face showed a sinister and arrogant expression at the moment.

“Ninian, do you think you can make Everett stand up for you just because you have a pretty face? Do you see how reluctant he was? He took two days off already just so he could avoid you. Are you upset about it?”

TE

Before Ninian could respond, Agnes continued, “Oh, I almost forgot, a shameless person like you won’t feel sad.” She covered her mouth and said, “You’ll only start looking for and seducing your next target with your innocent face. Everett is not around, so you’re targeting Paul. You’re onto him because Paul came from a decent background, aren’t you? You’re disgusting!”

Ninian’s expression darkened.

She grew up in a loving and caring environment, and the people she met were kind and gentle.

TH

To be jealously targeted by a stranger with such intense malice for no reason was an unfamiliar situation for her.

Even so, she was not afraid. She lifted her chin up and looked at Agnes. Her initial good-girl, gentle gaze turned cold.

ILL

Those who knew the Winters siblings, they would definitely find that the gentle and charming little princess looked just like her brothers and sister when they were angry. “Ms. Mitchell.” Ninian said in a clear and calm yet cold voice, “Making wild guesses and resorting to wanton insults. Legally speaking, this will constitute legal action for defamation. If this happens again, I’ll have to meet you in court!”

Ninian left after she said it, without wasting any more time with Agnes.

Agnes was in shock, perhaps it was how intimidating she looked earlier all of a sudden.

By the time she came back to her senses, Ninian was gone.

“Stand right there!” Agnes rushed forward , wanting to grab Ninian’s hand.

Unexpectedly , Ninian’s gentle, fragile body avoided her movement in an instant. She even raised her foot and made her fall to the floor.

Agnes fell hard on the floor.

LL

Meanwhile, Ninian stood beside her and looked at her coldly. There was not even one slightest hint of gentleness in her gaze.

“I’m really curious.” Ninian said, “Why are you so mean to me?”

‘Agnes has been mean to me; in the dressing room, at the staircase, and even now, she’s still looking at me resentfully.

‘I’ve asked myself if I have had a conflict with Agnes before. Even if we’re rivals in a romance drama, I can’t compare myself to her. I’m just a small actress who plays pitiful roles, and she’s the protagonist.

‘She’s Agnes, what have I done to offend her?’

Agnes’ eyes teared up when she heard Ninian’s question. She gritted her teeth and tears started welling up in the corner of her eyes.

Agnes gritted her teeth, and did not utter a word.

‘How am I supposed to tell her I’m being mean to her because of some trivial matter?!;

‘I initially wanted to give the character “Elliot White” to my junior. But Ninian snatched it from me. That is where it all begins.’

‘The main reason why I hated Ninian so much is the first time she met Everett.

‘According to the staff, the unruly and unrestrained Abelardo Fitzgerald is a perfect match with the firm yet gentle Elliot White.

‘They said that my role as Yolanda in The Boss Lady looks way too old. I looked more like a sister with Abelardo than a partner.

They said Ninian became more popular than her. They also said that her acting skill is much better than mine too! My popularity as an actress has become an undeserved reputation.

Agnes was so angry that she wanted to smash things in the dressing room, but she could not.

'I'm an actress, I need to be gentle and dignified. I have my own pride. Ninian is just a low-tier rookie. I might ruin my reputation, even if I'm just mean to her.

So instead, I sent Lillian to give that newcomer a little warning. It was also to let the rest know that Ninian is nothing special without her makeup.

'But unexpectedly, Ninian still stands out among the crowd as if whatever I've done to her is nothing.

'How dare this rookie act so superciliously on the set? With that face of hers, once the drama is out, she'll get all the limelight!

"That's why I want her to get injured, so that she would be replaced by another person.

'This is why I want to include the scene at the staircase.

'Who would have thought the aloof and isolated Everett who has regarded the entertainment industry as a nuisance would come to Ninian's rescue!

'I still remember when I first tried to flirt with Everett. He looked disgusted. But he looked anxious when he held Ninian, and this made me furious.

'Why did he protect the rookie and look at me with such a disgusted and threatening gaze?! I was traumatized for two days! How am I supposed to get over it?

'Well, luckily Everett didn't show up for the past couple of days. It's good that the crew on set didn't look at me differently because of what I did.

'When I found out Paul and Ninian were by the little forest and had their little tryst, I became furious and jealous once again. I don't see why she deserves this kind of attention, and a sense of fear surged through my heart, making me go limp inside.

That is why I stood in front of Ninian and said those mean words.

'But she didn't get angry or embarrassed like she expected her to be. Instead, she looked at me indifferently and in disgust. She even asks me such naive questions.

She asked why am I so mean to her.

'What a funny question. 'The entertainment industry is a deep-dye vat. How are there still people who ask this kind of question?

'She's just too naive.

'So what, if Ninian is good at seducing men? She's naive and simple-minded. This is the most fatal form of stupidity in the entertainment industry! 'Perhaps I don't even need to do anything at all. That b* tch will ruin herself and get swallowed up by this big dye vat because of her pretty face and naive personality!'

Agnes started chucking. She gradually laughed louder and louder. It was shrilling as it echoed through the corridor.

"Ninian, I'll just wait and see. Muahahaha!"

Ninian frowned as she watched Agnes, who was in front of her, as she turned into a madwoman.

'Has she lost it?

'What is going on?!'

Ninian looked at her in disgust before she got away from her. 'She's mentally ill. I need to stay away from her.'
