

Madam Winters's Fight For Her Children Chapter 1110-1112

Chapter 1110

"Hal, what's wrong with you?" Ninian walked forward, squatted beside him, and blinked as if she was confused.

When Harold saw his youngest sister's concern, he seemed to be touched.

Before he could speak, he heard from Ninian. "You were killing others. Why do you want to die now?"

Harold was speechless. What kind of sister was this? She was not considerate at all! "Why didn't you stop me when you knew that my violin performance was so terrible?" Harold growled. He could not wait to cover his face and roll on the carpet.

Alden at the side slowly explained, "When we were on the way back, I let him listen to his performance. He threw up."

Melody and Ninian were speechless. So heartless!

This was really awesome!

"I'll never play the violin again! I hate it!" Harold said, "My reputation as Young Master Harold is ruined in the restaurant!"

"Not only that," Alden kindly reminded him. He flashed a smirk and said, "The fact that you played the violin and hurt the violinist at this point has already made headlines in the Ganstern entertainment section. You didn't just embarrass yourself in the restaurant, but you also embarrassed yourself in Ganstern."

Harold was speechless.

"Is there a cliff here? Please don't stop me and let me jump!"

The afternoon ended with the siblings' farce.

When George's flight was going to arrive, and when being pushed by Harold and Ninian, Alden and Melody helplessly followed them. They found a safer place in the airport to wait and get ready to watch the show.

Although Melody looked helpless and Alden looked despised, the nosiness and excitement in their eyes were exactly the same as Ninian and Harold.

They were really biological siblings

Everyone was interested in George's gossip.

He was the eldest brother who was always mature and calm. In addition, he controlled his younger brothers and sisters like he was the head of the family!

"Oh yeah! It's about time. Georgie is going off the plane!" Ninian excitedly stomped. Her black grape-like eyes shone brightly. Harold also nervously rubbed his hands. "Do you think George has contacted Raina? Will she come and pick him up?"

Melody's indifferent glazed eyes were filled with hesitation. "I don't think she will. I remember when Raina broke up with Georgie, her attitude was very firm. She's not the kind of girl who will look back." "Do you want to bet?" Alden said indifferently. "I bet Raina will come." Right after he said that, the other three pairs of eyes looked over immediately. "Al, did you do something bad again?" Harold's eyes were filled with nosy excitement. "Did you spy on George and Raina's conversation?" Melody raised her eyebrows and also felt slightly surprised.

Ninian was even so excited that she almost jumped up. "That's Georgie! Oh, gosh, Al, you're so brave! What did you catch? I want to see it too!"

Alden asked, "Am I the kind of person who will simply pry into other people's privacy?"

The other three siblings nodded together. "Yes, you are!"

Alden found himself speechless. His family was so unfortunate that there were three evil members.

"Al, tell me, please. I really want to know!" Ninian held his arm and kept acting cute.

Melody did not normally act cute like her youngest sister, but she also raised her arm and pulled Alden's sleeve. Her innocent gaze was filled with curiosity, and she was staring at him.

Alden was speechless. Who would be able to bear this?

Chapter 1111

"Ahem." Alden held his forehead and said, "I didn't spy on Georgie. I just saw Raina." As he spoke, he raised his chin slightly.

They looked in the direction where he pointed, and they nearly screamed in shock.

Was the slim and beautiful figure Raina, Georgie's ex-girlfriend and first love whom he was unable to forget?

She was wearing a simple but well-cut shirt and pants. She put on light makeup, and her expression was calm and composed. Her appearance looked very decent and sensible.

At this time, she was standing in the waiting zone while holding a tablet. After she took a look at the time, she found a seat, sat down, and started working "Wow, Raina looks really charming when she's working." Ninian sighed with emotion.

"She's changed a lot. She looks more mature and rational now," Melody also looked at her and commented

Three years ago, or even earlier, Raina was nearly as bright and cheerful as the sun. She always hung around George and entered his circle aggressively, which then made him unable to forget her.

Raina was now gentle, mature, decent, and sensible, which was completely different from three years ago.

"If she is not rational, why would she take the initiative to break up with George? Besides, she left for three years, and she no longer came back." Alden indifferently said.

"Al, do you know the inside news about Georgie and Raina's breakup?" Harold looked at Alden nosily

"I don't know," Alden said indifferently, "But it's very easy to guess. With Georgie's character, it's very hard to continue being with him."

That made them fall silent at the same time.

Their eldest brother had outstanding ability and tactics on top of his great appearance and background. But his character was too indifferent and reserved. He was fine toward the siblings, but he was not too active and enthusiastic toward Raina, who was his girlfriend at that time.

Perhaps he was born to be a victor, so he was prideful. Besides, Raina, who was one year older than him, took the initiative to pursue and tolerate him. He enjoyed her kindness, but he never gave anything in return.

Their relationship ran its course, and they parted in the end.

The siblings did not know the exact reason for their breakup. But Raina left without hesitation back then, and George never went after her either.

Now, when the siblings knew that George came over in advance to meet Raina, while Raina also took the initiative to pick him up, they finally felt at ease slightly, and their eyes were filled with curiosity.

: "It looks like they'll get back together soon!"

While they came up with various guesses, they suddenly heard some exclamations in the airport. "Ah! That man is so handsome!" "He emits an aura when he walks! He looks like an elite!"

“I wonder if he’s married! I want to get his contact number!”

A burst of excitement was heard in Gansternian and Englian. Many people even exclaimed in Cairnstanian.

The Winters siblings at the remote corner raised their heads and looked over before they showed an expression like “I knew it”. The person who was surrounded by the crowd was their eldest brother, George.

George’s assistant team was protecting him in the middle to prevent strangers from approaching him.

This situation was almost identical to the scene when a local top celebrity traveled out and was surrounded by fans who had received the news.

Nearly everyone in the lobby looked over.

Raina also raised her head in the waiting zone.

The two of them stared into each other’s eyes across the crowd, and their surroundings seemed to instantly become silent.

Chapter 1112

Raina kept her tablet away and stood up. Her calm and gentle demeanor, as well as her silent expression, made George’s heart seize, and he felt irritated for some reason. He stopped walking, and his team of assistants was stunned.

He raised his hand and loosened his tie, while his handsome and calm face looked colder.

“Excuse me, everyone, I’m sorry for disturbing you.” Everyone heard him speak the Gansternian language with a low and husky voice. The man, whose presence was like a god nonchalantly said, “My wife is here to pick me up. Please move away.”

Right after he said that, his surroundings fell silent.

Then, the sounds of even more shocked people erupted. “Wife? This handsome man is actually married?”

“Let’s go. We stand no chance now.’

The crowd was then dismissed, and order was finally restored in the airport.

His assistant team sighed in relief. Before could figure out what their boss meant by “his wife being there to pick him up,” George walked out of their circle.

George then stood in front of Raina

They were both wearing business suits, and they looked like a great match.

However, the distance between them was obvious. They were even more distant than strangers.

Alter George looked at the woman for a long time, he finally forced himself to say, "It's been a while."

She smiled faintly and behaved in a gentle, polite, and distant manner. "It's been a while, Mr. Winters."

When George heard the term "Mr. Winters," his heart felt like it had been stabbed with a knife, and it started to bleed.

It felt like that day three years ago when she stood in front of him. Her eyes, which were usually filled with affection and love, looked at him with mockery and indifference. She moved her lips, sneered, and said, "Young Master George, I'm really sorry for going after you for so long."

That situation kept playing out in his dream, and it became an unintentionable disease.

At the Travelers' Cafe, Raina lowered her head slightly and ordered coffee from the menu.

George had nothing else to look at, so he observed her face carefully.

"How have you been all these years?" George could not help but ask after he held back for a long time. Raina stopped flipping through the menu. She raised her head, smiled indifferently, and said,

"Thank you for your concern, Mr. Winters. My life's been good."

George looked at her and could not help but gulp.

Since she was fine, why did she have to work so hard in her career?

Since she was fine, why had she lost a lot of weight?

Since she was fine, why did her face no longer have the most carefree smile like it did in the past?

He wanted to ask her many questions, but he did not have the right to ask anymore. There was a long pause before he asked, "How's your brother's illness?"

That seemed to stab Raina. After her expression froze slightly, she hid her initial gentle smile. Now, she just appeared calm,

"Mr. Winters, that's a personal matter. It's not convenient for me to tell you," Raina said. "If you don't have other opinions to express, why don't we start discussing our work?"

She had not taken the initiative to meet him this time

Instead, the legendary Winters Corporation suddenly had business with their small company. Her superior had requested her to come here for a business trip to deal with the CEO of Winters Corporation
