Chapter 2593

This was the package he received today.

When he helped Siena pay back the money yesterday, he asked the man surname Seguin to send her mother-in-law's bracelet to the place where he supplemented his foreign language.

After receiving the mother-in-law's bracelet today, he planned to find a suitable time to give the bracelet to Siena.

He didn't expect to see Siena and Cyrus together as soon as he came back.

'Bang bang', there was a knock on the door—

"Young Master, I cut some fruit for you, you can eat some fruit!" Siena stood outside the door, holding a dinner plate in her hand.

Inside was the fruit she had just cut.

Lucas put the bracelet in his schoolbag, walked to the door, did not open the door, and refused coldly: "I won't eat it."

Lucas knew that the fruit Siena sent was intended to be given to Cyrus.

This answer was within Siena's expectation.

Although it was expected, Siena was still a little sad.

She really wanted to have a good relationship with Lucas, but Lucas was like a hedgehog, full of barbs. Obviously knowing that he was a good hedgehog, but there was no way to get close to him.

She carried the fruit, went to the kitchen, and ate it piece by piece.

She usually didn't eat fruit.

Fruits were expensive and she couldn't afford them.

Especially durian. She knew that durian was expensive, so she bought durian specially.

The smell of durian was not very pleasant. After she swallowed the smell, the taste was unexpectedly sweet, and the smell turned into a fragrance.

She suddenly thought, why not Lucas?

Lucas looked fierce and bad, but he was actually kind.

Aryadelle.

After Avery and Elliot came to the restaurant where they had agreed to meet Eric, they began to order from the menu.

After a while, Eric arrived.

Eric was wearing a black baseball cap and a set of gray sportswear, as if he just dropped by after exercising.

Avery immediately gave Elliot a wink when he saw Eric, telling him to control his emotions later.

Elliot picked up the water glass and drank.

“There was a traffic jam on the road, so I was late.” Eric said. He sat down opposite them and took off his hat.

“How do you feel after retiring from the circle?” Avery looked at his face that had hardly changed from before, and asked with a smile, “Why didn’t you bring a bodyguard?”

“If you recognize it, it should also cause commotion! You’d better hire one or two bodyguards, anyway, you’re not short of the money.” Avery suggested.

“There are bodyguards, but they are not allowed to follow.” Eric picked up the menu, ordered a few dishes, and handed the menu to the waiter.

“When will you and Maggie get married?” Elliot asked. Avery immediately elbowed Elliot: “He doesn’t necessarily have to get married! When he decides to get married, he will naturally send us invitations.”

Not long after, the food was served.

Avery picked up the chopsticks, ready to eat.

At this time, Layla took Prince and knocked on their private room.
