

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 2606

Chapter 2606

Robert was hit and did not know how to parry. Thinking about it carefully, what his sister Layla said was indeed reasonable.

“Layla, don’t worry about this matter. Take your time.” Elliot persuaded her, “Fate is sometimes magical. If you look for it deliberately, you can’t find it. If you participate in more activities, you might meet someone you like.”

“Dad, didn’t you let me come back too late at night? Everyone has to go to work during the day, and many activities start at night.” Layla couldn’t help but ask this question.

After hearing what Layla said, Avery couldn’t help laughing: “Your father is out of his mind. He didn’t have to work hard to find a wife, so he took it for granted.”

“I can see it too.” Layla laughed, “Then I’ll come back before 9:00 p.m., okay?”

“As long as you bring bodyguards, of course.” Before Elliot could speak, Avery agreed to Layla’s request.

“Then I’m going out to play tonight and will come back later.” Layla said happily, “I’m going to visit the night market. Robert, come with me later!”

Robert: “Sister, why are you taking me to Aventure? I will affect your luck.”

Layla: “..”

“I am so handsome, we stand together, and people always misunderstand that we are a couple. You take me out, no man would dare to strike up a conversation with you.” Robert continued to explain.

Robert liked to follow Layla when he was a child, and Layla also liked to take Robert with him.

So the bickering between the siblings was the quarrel, and what Layla was doing, she liked to call Robert together.

Avery “Layla, it’s not okay for you to take your younger brother! He has often helped you on blind dates, right?”

Layla: “I’d better call my best friend!”

“How is your best friend and her boyfriend? Have they decided to get married? “Avery asked, “I remember you telling me that the two of them planned to get married after graduation.”

“They broke up.” Layla said calmly, “Her boyfriend is not from the local area.”

“Region is indeed a problem. If two people can’t even reach an agreement on where to live, there will be more problems that cannot be solved in the future.” Avery said objectively, “It is rare for two people who are born to be perfectly compatible. Personally, in the process of getting along, we need to constantly adapt, make appropriate changes, and regress, and only then can we go far.”

“Well, let me see if Malcolm is free tonight.” Layla finished speaking excitedly, and put down the chopsticks, happy to go back to the room.

Avery saw that Elliot’s face was not looking well, so she held his big palm: “We protect Layla so well that she doesn’t have a life of her own. This is actually not very good.”

Elliot: “I realized the problem. So I didn’t stop it.”

Avery: “Honey, I’m glad you can think about it. The child is ours, but not our property.”

Elliot: “Go for a walk! Let’s get some air.”

Avery looked at the sky outside. It was almost 7 o’clock in the evening, and the sky was still bright.

“Do you want to change into long sleeves? There must be a lot of mosquitoes outside.” Avery stood up from the dining chair and said, “Let’s go to Bridgedale for summer vacation!”

“Okay.”

“Then you make time.” Avery went to get Elliot a long sleeved shirt.

“Honey, let’s go to Bridgedale for vacation and leave Layla at home alone.” Elliot suddenly thought of this question, “Isn’t that good?”

“Your own little home. You’d better get used to it as soon as possible!” Avery took out the long sleeves and asked Elliot to put them on.

After a month and a half,

Elliot flew to Bridgedale with Avery and Robert.

After Layla sent them to the airport, she drove to the company alone.

It's an amazing feeling.

It was the first time since she could remember that her parents had left her at home alone.
