

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 2607

Chapter 2607

If she was not working yet, her parents would definitely take her to Bridgedale.

Time flies, she had been at Tate Industries for a whole year.

It was also a year of rapid growth for her.

Elliot and Avery had begun to let her go and no longer interfere with her work and life. She felt a little uncomfortable psychologically, but she also knew that this was a process that everyone must go through when growing up.

In the evening, Layla came home from work.

Originally she thought that the house would be deserted, unexpectedly, Auntie Shea brought Maria and Lilly over.

“Layla, your parents haven’t arrived in Bridgedale yet, have they? I was afraid that you would be bored when you came back from getting off work, so I brought Maria and Lilly over to play.” Shea said with a smile.

“Auntie Shea, you are so kind! My parents took Robert to Bridgedale. I was really sad in the morning, but now that I see that you have come to see me specially, I feel so happy.”

Layla stroked Maria and patted Lilly’s head again.

“Do you two have any plans for the summer vacation?”

“I follow my sister.” Maria has been Lilly’s follower since childhood.

Whatever Lilly did, she liked to follow suit.

Although they were not real sisters, they had the same feelings as real sisters.

“I don’t have any plans, I just want to stay at home and be with my parents.” Lilly couldn’t tan in the sun, so she had to be extra cautious about sun protection every summer.

“Then you can often come to eat with me!” Layla said, “Or you can just stay at my house. Although I can’t play with you two usually, I can take you out on weekends.”

Layla was very kind to her sisters. Because the younger sisters were like angels, well-behaved and sensible.

Tammy's daughter Kara was a little naughty, but she was also very good in front of Layla.

"Do you two want to live here? If so, I'll get your luggage later." Shea asked her two daughters with a smile.

Maria looked at Lilly, and Lilly looked at Maria and nodded.

"Then I'll go back and pack your luggage for you. I'll pick you up tomorrow morning to go to the mountain." Shea said.

Layla asked: "Auntie Shea, are you going to G-Temple tomorrow?"

"Yes! Lilly is usually busy with her studies, and she goes to the mountains during the winter and summer vacations." Shea said, "The teacher, who raised Lilly is retiring too soon, and I have time to go and see more."

"Well, time flies too fast. I should go and see more." Layla said, understandingly, "It's a pity that I have to go to work tomorrow, otherwise, it will be really difficult. I want to go to the mountains with you."

The next day, at 7 o'clock in the morning.

Shea came to pick up Maria and Lilly.

Originally, Wesley said that he would go to the mountain with them, but he was on the night shift last night, and Shea felt sorry for him, so she didn't call him when she got up in the morning.

After Shea received her two daughters, the car set off from Foster's house to G-Temple.

At the same time, Siena came out of the homestay at the foot of the mountain with a backpack on her back, planning to climb up the mountain on foot.

Her final test scores and the score for getting into the University of Thopiavelle were both out.

She was accepted into the University of Thopiavelle.

So she bought a plane ticket to Aryadelle and planned to visit G-Temple.

She arrived in Aryadelle yesterday. She was sleepy when she checked in yesterday, but she suffered from insomnia last night.

She didn't know why, but she felt panicked.

She wasn't sure if the teacher on the mountain still remembered her.

More than ten years, whether they were long or not, were not short.
