I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 1186

Chapter 1186 It would be troublesome once they interfered with the Milky Way's affairs. Even her father and brothers could be in danger.

David finished reading Astrid's message.

It was exactly like he had speculated.

He knew Sangruil Sinners were up to no good when they attacked Princess Astrid.

Otherwise, they dared not act so blatantly.

His speculation was proven to be true.

Even the empire felt the danger.

Sangruil Sinners seemed to have found a strong partner, so they wanted back everything that had once belonged to them.

When it came to the Nine-Headed Serpent Clan, aside from what David had heard from Astrid, he had also learned about them from the Meteor Chamber.

However, he did not learn much about them.

The Meteor Chamber required other treasures of heaven and earth instead of Galaxy Dollars in exchange for in-depth information.

David could not help it.

Was he to trade it for the Demon-Splitting Sword?

He was not that stupid.

He would not do this unless he had lost his mind.

It was a weapon capable of slaughtering everything in the universe.

There was no way he would use something that made him stronger in exchange for something useless. He bought information from the Meteor Chamber to get lavish points.

Since he could not buy it, there was no need to do any transactions.

Therefore, he had only gotten basic information about Nine Headed Serpent. He only knew that they were a strong man eating race.

However, they were not in the Milky Way Galaxy, but the Beast Galaxy next door.

David had no idea how strong this race was and whether it was as strong as Eternal Realm.

Since Sangruil Sinners and Nine-Headed Serpent Clan were working together, they must have had a deal with each other. If Sangruil Sinners brought down the empire and took control of the Milky Way, they would have done their side of the deal. Many people from the Milky Way would die and become the Nine Headed Serpent Clan's meal.

David did not want to be a busybody, but he was human after all. He could not stand seeing the Milky Way's people become another race's food.

He would forget it if he was incapable.

However, he had the power to stop it, so he could not stand by and watch.

David, "Your Royal Highness, no need to thank me. Since we're friends, don't mention it. But since it has something to do with the Sangruil Sinners and Nine-Headed Serpent Clan's deal, I have some say in this as I've confronted them before. Don't worry! I'll be at Planet Royal in three months."

Astrid's tears turned into smiles after receiving David's message.

She knew David would say yes.

Whatever his reason for coming to Planet Royal, it was fine as long as he was here.

Astrid, "David, you're highly principled. I thank you for Father and the Milky Way's people." David, "Your Royal Highness, don't mention it! I'm human too. Of course, I don't want to see another powerful race invade our homeland. Especially if it's a Nine-Headed Serpent that feeds on humans. I won't refuse as long as I can help."

Astrid, "Thank you very much, David. I'll wait for your arrival in Planet Royal in three months."

David, "Okay! See you in three months." Astrid finally smiled brightly after texting David.

'David finally agreed. 'He'll be on Planet Royal in three months, and I'll see him then.' However, Astrid then looked a little distressed. 'There are still three months to go!

'How can I pass the time faster?

'If only time could speed up.'

Chapter 1187 While Astrid was frustrated, someone entered her bedroom.

Only one person in the Milky Way would walk into Princess Astrid's bedroom without knocking.

That person was Empress Gamora—Astrid's biological mother.

She was the only person who could do that. Even Emperor Nimbus needed to knock before entering. After all, her daughter was a grown-up now.

Forget about the others. No one would do so unless they had a death wish.

"What's on your mind, my dear daughter?" Gamora came up to Astrid and whispered in her ear.

"Ah!"

Astrid was startled by the sudden noise.

"Mother! You scared the hell out of me," said Astrid as she puffed her cheeks.

"You wouldn't even know there's someone in the room if I didn't speak. How dangerous is that? What if someone bad had come here?"

Astrid rolled her eyes. "Mother, this is my bedroom. No one but you dares to enter so quietly." "Alright, alright. I'm sorry. Tell me what was on your mind. You were so absorbed in your thoughts." "No... Nothing!"

"Were you thinking about that David kid again?"

"No... I'm not!"

"You look nervous, and you're telling me you're not. Have you invited David to the state banquet in three months?" Asked Gamora.

She was worried that David was a trap.

Therefore, she needed to confirm David's identity as soon as possible.

It would be best to intercept David outside if they knew where David was.

If not, they could lure him to Planet Royal.

After all, Planet Royal was the Barlowe family's headquarters.

"Yes!" Answered Astrid.

"What did he say?"

"David says he'll be on Planet Royal in three months." "That's more like it! I'll send someone to bring him here if he rejects my baby girl." – "Mother, will you stop being so violent? Did Father bring you back like that too?" Astrid asked curiously.

"No way. Your father and I are in love with each other. By the way, did David say where he is right now?"

"No, but he said he isn't in the Royal Region right now. He's somewhere far away."

"I see."

"What's the matter? Mother, is there a problem?"

"No, no! Everything's fine as long as he comes to Planet Royal in three months."

"He promised me, so he will be here!" Astrid said confidently. Then she recalled something and added, "Mother, why don't you tell me what happened between you and Father back then?" "What is there to tell? You're too young to understand this." Gamora shook her head and rejected.

"Oh! Mother... Tell me all about it! I'm not little anymore, okay? I'd love to hear about your history," Astrid said coquettishly as she took Gamora's hand.

Gamora rolled her eyes at Astrid and said, "Alright! I'll tell you about it. Your father was amazing back then. Over the past thousands of years, he was the most talented person in the Milky Way. He has charmed many girls, making them fall for him. I'm not bad either. I was Lunar Palace's high priestess, and many men adored me..."

Empress Gamorra Princess Astrid her and Emperor Nimbus's love story.

They went from acquaintance to lovers and then husband and wife.

They had the highest status in the Milky Way. One was the empire's prince, and the other was Lunar Palace's high priestess.

Therefore, their families did not stop them.

Both liked each other, so they naturally ended up together.

They did not experience any tumultuous or dramatic romance.

However, it was often the happiest to have a peaceful relationship.

Chapter 1188 You could see it in the way Gamora remembered it.

Astrid listened with longing.

She wished she and David could be like her parents.

Light Star. Close to the edge of Zone of Nothingness in the Milky Way.

Since the Sangruil Sinners occupied it, the humans here had been kept in captivity for food. Light Star was now a hundred times scarier than Planet Buck.

The people on Planet Buck were only abused and enslaved, and the people worked themselves to death.

However, Light Star was different.

All humans had been locked up for food. They were supplied to Sangruil Sinners with Nine-Headed Serpent Clan's genes.

You could imagine the fear people on the Light Star felt.

What was it like to wake up every day, scared it was your turn to be eaten and be treated as food when you were a high-intelligent race with consciousness, a mind of your own, and character?

Only the people on Light Star knew.

They were in a state of panic almost all the time.

That atmosphere could drive people crazy. The Sangruil Sinners could control their desire to eat humans if they were willing.

They were only part Nine-Headed Serpent, with the human genes still being the dominant part of their genetic makeup.

However, they did not restrain themselves because man-eating was a better way to trigger Nine-Headed Serpent's genes. It would quickly improve their strength.

They were also preparing for the impending war. The Milky Way Empire had been developing at high speed over the years. It had a powerful army, the Azure Dragon, White Tiger, Red Finch, and Black Tortoise halls, and the royal guards, which Nimbus trained himself.

These were powerful forces no one could ignore.

The Sangruil Sinners were no match for them.

Otherwise, the empire would not have hunted them for thousands of years.

The Nine-Headed Serpent Clan was restricted by the Universe Convention and could not send troops in large numbers.

The Sangruil Sinners could only feed on humans and activate their Nine-Headed Serpent genes to improve their strength.

In a mega-war that involved the Stella Civilization Galaxy, the strongest person would play a decisive role. Still, it would not work without a backbone force backing them up. Therefore, the Sangruil Sinners had to be well prepared. They had done everything they could to win.

They did not care what it took.

On Light Star, Sangruil's king Moe and Nine-Headed Serpent Clan's Severus discussed Nimbus's intention to hold a state banquet.

Nimbus had somewhat disrupted their plans. Moe's original plan was to dismantle the Milky Way Empire from within while improving itself before the Nine-Headed Serpent Clan arrived to back them up.

They would find ways to infiltrate the forces, starting from the weakest to the strongest.

If they could infiltrate a third of the forces, their next step would be much easier. Once their help from Nine-Headed Serpent Clan arrived, they could easily destroy the two partial Eternal Realms rankers of the Barlowe family—Nimbus and Wilfred.

Even without the Barlowe family, with a third of the force on their side, Sangruil could take control of the Milky Way in the shortest time possible, avoiding other complications. Then they could take back everything that belonged to them and enjoy their victory.

The Milky Way Empire would hold a state banquet in three months and send the army and four great halls to patrol the Royal Region.

Sangruil's plan to infiltrate it did not seem very plausible.

Even if they did not infiltrate it, Sangruil could destroy the Barlowe family and take control of the Milky Way with the Nine Headed Serpent's help.

However, this would take a lot longer, and they would face a lot of unavoidable troubles.
