

I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 1241

Chapter 1241

David's statement was like a sudden clap of thunder.

Not only did it shock Mia behind him into widening her eyes and dropping her jaw, completely unable to think, but even Emperor Nimbus sat there beyond astonished.

'How many years has it been? How many years has it been since someone talked to him like this?' a

Who was he?

He was the emperor of the Milky Way Empire and the strongest person in the galaxy that everyone acknowledged.

Now, a punk like David was calling him by name, and was even questioning if Nimbus could make him stay.

This was such a colossal joke.

Even if David had great ability, what was his difference with an ant in front of Emperor Nimbus?

Nimbus felt that he could kill David with just a finger.

He was very curious about where David got his courage from.

David never showed Nimbus any respect from the start.

'Does he have backing, or is he just ignorant?'

Nimbus laughed at himself when he thought of this.

'So what if David has backing? Everyone in the Milky Way fears me, since when have I feared anyone?'

"The young indeed grow bolder with the years. David, don't you know that you have to pay for saying that? Ask the elders in your family if they dare to call me directly by name and those things to me."

say

Despite sounding calm, Mia could feel Nimbus' anger from behind David.

She tugged David's clothes gently, trying to tell him to apologize to the emperor.

After this, she would ask Princess Astrid to be the mediator.

If not, this matter would reach an unfavorable conclusion.

How many people in the Milky Way could withstand the emperor's anger?

Nimbus was the strongest person in the Milky Way, and he had been at the top of the Milky Way food chain for so many years. Now, a young man was pointing at him and claiming that he was taking advantage of his seniority.

If he were someone with a bad temper, he would have killed David with a slap right then.

As the emperor, Nimbus could control his temper well.

Despite this, Nimbus would still give David a painful lesson so that he would learn how to act properly.

"I don't have to ask my elders, Nimbus. I will block whatever you throw at me. Coincidentally, I want to see if the emperor, the strongest person in the Milky Way, is anywhere near as good as he's made out to be and if he's worthy of the title."

After David said that, he unsheathed the wooden sword sheath next to him. A long red sword rose before stopping in front of David. After this, David grabbed it.

David's aura changed when he gripped the Evil-Splitting Sword. He looked like he was about to show off his ability.

Nimbus watched David quietly.

He was about to burst into laughter from anger.

'When has a stupid kid ever dared to challenge my authority as the emperor?

'But...'

Nimbus looked at the sword in David's hand.

This sword looked a little strange and he felt threatened by it.

Unfortunately, Nimbus did not use swords.

If not, his combat power would rise greatly with the help of this sword.

If that happened, Moe would not have been able to threaten him anymore.

“David, I don’t know why you have the confidence to think you can fight me, but your sword is pretty interesting. Unfortunately, it’s not enough. It can’t make up the difference between us.”

Nimbus got up from his seat to get ready to teach David a lesson.

Even though Wilfred asked him to not fight for the time being, David was just a kid.

Would he need to use his full strength on David?

“Really? I don’t think you can dictate this. We will only know after a duel,” David started to sound excited.

Ever since he reached partial Eternal Realm, he had wanted to find someone on his level to test his limits.

I’m A Quadrillionaire chapter 1242

Chapter 1242

Unfortunately, Nimbus was the only one at partial Eternal Realm to the Milky Way’s public eye.

David could not find anyone else to challenge.

Now, his chance had arrived.

He could have a duel with Nimbus, and while he was at it, he could find out what he was lacking.

When Nimbus was about to teach David a lesson on behalf of his family...

Creak!

The door of the courtyard was pushed open, and Princess Astrid came in.

Once she walked in, she was her father standing opposite David. At the same time, David was holding a long red sword.

“Father! Why are you here? David, why are you holding a sword? What are you doing?” Astrid asked curiously. 1

When Nimbus heard Astrid's voice, he laughed and said, "Astrid, you're here. Haha! David said I'm his idol and he's been admiring me for a very long time, so he wanted me to give him some guidance."

Astrid's arrival allowed Mia's tense nerves to relax immediately.

She exhaled in her heart.

'We managed to escape tonight.

'But can we live now that we've offended His Majesty?'

"Really?" Astrid looked at David.

David was disdainful at what Nimbus said.

'Who is admiring you? If Astrid didn't show up so suddenly, it's hard to say who would have won if we got into a fight.

'Also, you're wrong about who will admire who when I finally break through to Eternal Realm.

However, after complaining internally, David answered, "Uh... Yeah! Your Royal Highness, I wanted Mr. Barlowe to give me some guidance, but you got here before we could start."

"You can continue! Pretend I'm not here. I'm just here to look around," Astrid said.

"Forget it. We'll talk about it next time. I just remembered I need to take care of some business. Astrid, you should talk to them. I'll come to give David guidance when I'm free next time."

Nimbus purposely exaggerated the word 'guidance'.

David shrugged indifferently. Of course, he could tell what Nimbus meant by this.

However, was he scared?

So what if he was the emperor?

He was only at partial Eternal Realm, while David had an Evil-Splitting Sword that could slash all things evil. He was not inferior to Nimbus at all.

"Have a safe trip, Mr. Barlowe! I'll await your guidance. I hope you won't disappoint me."

Nimbus peered at David before disappearing from the courtyard silently.

Astrid and Mia did not see how Nimbus left.

Only David, who was at partial Eternal Realm, saw it.

After Nimbus left, David put his sword back into the wooden sheath. He said, "Please sit, Your Royal Highness."

Astrid walked over to sit where Nimbus had sat just now.

"Mia, what's wrong?" Astrid asked Mia as she looked at her.

David turned his head to see half of Mia's body drenched.

The silky long dress was wrapped around her body tightly, highlighting her seductive figure. 'My gosh!'

David's eyes widened.

'She looks so alluring when her clothes are wet!'

David quickly turned away to stop himself from staring.

If not, it would be hard for him to fall asleep tonight.

Ever since he left Earth, David had never thought about that kind of thing.

Now that Mia was like this, he could hardly hold himself back.

At the same time, he was a little speechless.

'Isn't this a bit extreme?'

It was just a short while, but Mia's sweat had soaked through her clothes.

I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 1243

Chapter 1243

Mia also noticed the condition she was in. It did not feel good to have her clothes sticking to her body.

She quickly went back into the house. While walking, she said, "I'm fine, Your Royal Highness. I was just too hot, so my clothes were soaked. You should talk first. I'll go take a shower and change into some new clothes."

'Is it that hot?'

Astrid looked at herself.

'The nighttime temperature of Planet Royal is just right.'

However, she did not look into this.

"Go ahead, Mia. We will wait for you as we talk," Astrid said.

Mia quickly ran into the house to shower and change.

David went back to his seat and asked, "Do you need anything from me, Your Royal Highness?"

"No. I was just too bored, so I wanted to come to talk to you. David, since we're friends, you should stop calling me Your Royal Highness. It makes us sound like strangers. You can just call me Astrid."

"Well, I can call you Miss Astrid," David thought about it and said.

"Alright!" Astrid agreed.

She did not think she could succeed so quickly.

As long as she took the first step, she could slowly change him in the future.

"David, did you go exploring again? I want to go see the outside world with you too. Unfortunately, my parents won't let me."

"No. I just went to carry out some business. Miss Astrid, the emperor and empress have their reasons. Recently, the Sangruil Sinners are running rampant, so nowhere is safe except for Planet Royal. You should wait for a while and only make plans to go out when it's safe again."

"Can I go exploring with you when the time comes?" Astrid asked expectantly.

"Probably not. The places I go to are too dangerous, and they won't be suitable for you. Also, the emperor and empress won't agree either," David rejected.

"Then, why can Mia go with you, but I can't?"

"Mia's identity is not the same as yours. How can I explain myself to the emperor and empress if something happens to you?"

"If I can convince my parents, will you take me?"

"Of course!" David answered.

“Really?” Astrid asked in surprise.

“Yeah, really. If the emperor and empress agree, I will bring you along.”

Astrid reached out her right hand happily and said, “Alright! It’s a deal!”

“It’s a deal!”

David also reached out his hand to give Astrid a high-five.

Smack!

The reason he promised Astrid was because he knew the result.

Judging from how he had a conflict with Nimbus and almost fought him just now, Astrid could never convince Nimbus.

That was why David dared to agree without hesitation.

He could deal with Astrid and also stop her once and for all.

Therefore, why not agree?

It was none of his business if Nimbus did not allow her to go out anyway.

Not long after the two chatted, Mia came out in a new outfit.

David turned to look at Mia unconsciously.

She had always worn loose clothes, so David never expected her to have such an enchanting figure. She might even have been able to compete with Selena. After Mia sat down, she joined in the conversation.

I’m A Quadrillionaire chapter 1244

Chapter 1244

The two women were chatting happily.

Astrid kept asking them where they went, while Mia chose some interesting experiences to tell Astrid.

Astrid felt envious as she listened.

She hoped her father would eliminate the Sangruil Sinners soon so that he would agree to let her follow David to every corner of the Milky Way.

Nimbus went back to his temporary imperial residence and Empress Gamora approached him.

“So? Have you confirmed it?” Gamora asked.

“I have. It’s unlikely that the Sangruil Sinners sent David,” Nimbus shook his head and answered.

Then, he told Gamora what happened.

“Did you say David almost fought you?” Gamora widened her beautiful eyes and asked in surprise.

“Yeah. If Astrid didn’t barge in so suddenly, I would have taught that kid some manners and taught him what he should and shouldn’t say,” Nimbus said angrily.

“H–How is he so daring? Does he have a death wish? Is he not afraid of death? How can there be such a person in this world?” Gamora was stunned.

She could not wrap her head around this.

How dare this young man act so arrogant toward her husband?

No one in the entire Milky Way dared to do that.

‘Who gave him the courage?’

‘Does that young man have no fear?’

‘He definitely has a screw loose.’

‘No! I can’t let Astrid get close to him.’

“I’m also curious. David has a lot of secrets, but unfortunately, I didn’t unearth them.”

“Since you didn’t fight, how can you be sure the Sangruil Sinners didn’t send him? He can hide the fact that he has fused with the Nine–Headed Serpent Clan’s genes perfectly if he doesn’t use the power from the clan. Also, if I take things a step further, even if he didn’t fuse with the Nine–Headed Serpent Clan’s genes, you can’t be sure that he’s not a Sangruil Sinner.” “The act of handing the Callisto family to the empire and exposing the fact that the Sangruil Sinners had infiltrated into the Callisto family is enough to dismiss him as a suspect. This is because the head of the Callisto family could perfectly fuse with the Nine–Headed Serpent Clan’s genes. This kind of person is very rare among the Sangruil Sinners. Thus, he has a very high status and is considered royalty. If this were Moe’s trap, the price would be too high.

Also, I found a very important factor.”

“What is it?” Gamora asked curiously.

“David’s sword,” Nimbus replied.

“What sword?”

“A sword that could make me feel threatened. Also, this sword has a strong and overwhelming positive energy, so it’s the mortal enemy of all things evil. If the person is evil, they won’t be able to handle this sword. Therefore, if David can use it to fight, it’s pretty self-explanatory.”

“Did you say David has a sword that makes you feel threatened and that this sword is the mortal enemy of all things evil?”

“Exactly. I don’t know where he got it from, but it’s undeniably a very powerful weapon. He must have used this sword’s power to defeat a lot of powerful enemies. That’s why he thought he could be on the same level as me. How preposterous!” Nimbus laughed.

“No matter how powerful that sword is, it’s an inanimate. Plus, it’s a foreign object. True strength comes from oneself. I think David has ventured down the wrong path.

“I’ll find a time after the state banquet to teach that kid a lesson. I want him to know that even the most powerful weapon will only ever just be an aid. When there is a huge difference in strength, nothing can make up for it. I also want him to understand the situation he’s in.”

“I am relieved now that David is not a Sangruil Sinner. However, we still have to pay attention to Astrid,” Gamora said.

“Of course! How can I let someone abduct Nimbus Barlowe’s daughter? Plus, that punk even dares to call me by name and say I’m taking advantage of my seniority. He’s so daring that it’s pissing me off!”

Nimbus still could not calm down after remembering what David said to him.

If he put it nicely, David was fearless.

However, if he was honest, David was a fool who did not know how to read the room.

‘How dare he be so arrogant with the emperor of the Milky Way Empire. What a disillusioned young man!’ man!’