

I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 1266

Chapter 1266 Nimbus opened his mouth to try to tell Gamora to leave with Astrid, but in the end, it turned into a sigh.

Their opponents were five partial Eternal Realms, and they would have no chance of winning even if Nimbus and Wilfred worked together at their peaks.

Now, the two had been badly injured, and they could not even use 30% of their combat power.

In this situation, it would be better for the women in the Barlowe family to die.

Unless there was a miracle or they ran into a Universe Enforcer passing through the Milky Way, no one could save them.

However, the chances of this happening would be near zero. "Severus, let's finish this quickly. The Milky Way will be ours if we kill the Barlowes!

Moe said.

"As you wish, Moe," Severus replied.

To prevent any accidents and kill Nimbus and Wilfred in one fell swoop, the five partial Eternal Realms decided to attack at the same time.

Everyone on Gold Peak at Planet Royal was looking at the sky nervously.

The conviction in their hearts had been shattered.

Not only Emperor Nimbus was badly injured, but he might even be killed.

They would be witnesses to the death of Nimbus, an invincible legendary figure.

In a blink of an eye, the five partial Eternal Realms appeared before Nimbus and the others.

Nimbus and Wilfred would not wait for their deaths and allow these foreign races to kill them.

They had to make the foreign races pay.

The two men were uncle and nephew, but they were also master and disciple.

After looking at each other, they could understand what the other was thinking.

They shifted their eyes to the black-robed man whom Nimbus had hurt just now.

'We're going to die, so let's bring one of them with us.'

It would be easier to attack the one who was injured.

As the two were about to take action, a shocking red sword light shot up from the ground and slashed straight at Moe and the other four partial Eternal Realms.

Everyone at Gold Peak only saw a dazzling red in front of them appear suddenly. They could not see anything other than red. The red light also hurt their eyes, so they quickly closed them. 'What's going on?' Everyone was curious and they did not know what happened.

'Oh no! Not good! Moe and the four Nine-Headed Serpents at partial Eternal Realm felt an impending doom approaching them. They quickly stopped moving forward and backed away. The moment they took a step back, the red sword light slashed through where they were. If the Nine-Headed Serpents were not keen enough, they would have been severely injured even if they did not die. This was because they could feel the sharpness of the red sword light. It could easily slice their tough scales open and damage their internal organs. After the red light dispersed and everyone opened their eyes, they saw a human figure in the air.

That person was holding a long red sword, and he was standing casually between Emperor Nimbus and King Moe of Sangruil.

I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 1267

Chapter 1267 The person between the two of them was David. When Moe and his people were about to attack Nimbus, David quickly took out his Evil Splitting Sword and waved it to block Moe and the others from moving forward. At the same time, he managed to scare Moe and the others into backing away, saving Nimbus and his family.

This sword was not the same as how it used to be. Back then, David could use it casually because his opponents were too weak, and he could not be bothered to fight them seriously. However, this time was different. He was going against five partial Eternal Realms. Even if he had the Evil-Splitting Sword, a random wave would not be enough to threaten Moe and the others. Therefore, this was the first time David used one of the three top combat skills, the Evil Splitting Sword Technique, alongside his Evil-Splitting Sword.

The two combined, in addition to David's strength that was at partial Eternal Realm, was a terrifying power.

David himself was a little shocked.

It was not as easy as he imagined now.

Even Moe and the other four partial Eternal Realms had to avoid David's sword for the time being

One could imagine how powerful the sword was.

David only wanted to stop the other party and then rush over quickly.

However, he directly scared Moe and the others into backing away.

This was completely out of his expectations.

David's sword helped alleviate Nimbus and his family's crisis. Then, he stood between the two parties so easily and blocked Moe and the other partial Eternal Realms.

His appearance shocked everyone at the scene. Even though these people closed their eyes due to the pain from the red light, they eventually reopened their eyes to this scene. They were all geniuses from different major forces, so they were not idiots. They could probably guess what had happened just now.

This young man who appeared suddenly must have saved the emperor. This time, David did not wear his mask, and he took action with his real identity.

Thus, everyone could see his face.

"I- Isn't that the young man who arrived last? H-H-He saved His Majesty from the five partial Eternal Realms! Gosh! Are my eyes playing tricks on me? Who can tell me what's going on?"

Someone recognized David and exclaimed in shock. It was not just him, a lot of people recognized David. This was because he came to Gold Peak just in time and was brought to the front, so he left a pretty deep impression on all the guests. 'He is young but he is so arrogant.'

This was everyone's impression of David just now. Mia looked at the empty seat next to her and then at the tall figure in the sky with the familiar red sword.

At this moment, her mind was blank.

'Is that really David? 'How is he that powerful?' She was suspecting that David was a Sangruil Sinner spy just now, but now she was slapped in the face by reality.

"Why would a Sangruil Sinner save His Majesty from Moe?"

In that second, Mia understood a lot of things. Back then, David told her, 'I am pretty bad*ss. Don't embarrass me.' Mia was trying her best to imagine how bad*ss he was, but the person in her imagination was miles apart from David's true strength.

No wonder David was not humble at all the night the emperor came over, and he even wanted to fight the emperor. 'I see. David is already on the same level as His Majesty.

"And the excitement he showed just now was because he found a worthy opponent. 'Oh, Mia! You're such a failure. You are so lucky to be able to follow such a powerful person, but you were still suspecting him. You even measured his heart with your own mean measures. Luckily, he's the bigger person, if not, he would have abandoned you a long time ago. If that happens, you should just cry yourself blind," Mia thought to herself, Other people on Gold Peak recognized David too.

They were Grandmaster Kruz and Nelle from the Dallarosa family.

The reason they recognized David was because of the long red sword in David's hand.

I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 1268

Chapter 1268 Even though David was wearing a mask when he wiped out the Tuffin family, he had still been using this long red sword.

"Grandpa, he's the one who helped us wipe out Grandmaster Tuffin! Even if he was wearing a mask that time, I will never forget his sword," Nelle looked at David in the sky and cried.

After what happened last time, she asked the head of Lunar Palace if they knew anyone who used a long red sword.

However, the head said no.

A lot of the powerhouses of the Royal Region used swords, but none of them used a long red sword.

Naturally, Kruz would not forget about David either. If David did not show up, the Tuffin family might have destroyed his family.

It was no exaggeration to say that not only did David saved the Dallarosa family, he even gave them a chance to rise.

"Yeah. I didn't expect him to be so young and so strong. We wanted to find him and thank him, but I guess we won't have this chance anymore. After all, our strengths are too far apart," Kruz said ruefully. "Are we? Do we really not have a chance anymore?" Nelle muttered to herself.

For some reason, her heart tightened for no reason.

It was not serious, but it hurt a lot!

In the sky. As Nimbus and Wilfred were trying their best to drag one of the injured black robed men down with them, they felt a chill approaching them. However, David was not targeting them, so they did not feel any danger. The sudden red sword light did not obstruct their eyesight. However, the two were shocked by David's arrival.

'Another powerhouse at the same level as us! Furthermore, judging from how the sword just now could scare Moe and the other partial Eternal Realms back, this person was terrifyingly strong.

Nimbus was stunned.

"Hmm? Wait!

'Why is that person's red sword so familiar?

'I seem to have seen it somewhere."

Nimbus thought about it.

Then, he recalled something. His eyes widened and he blurted out, "David?" "Mr. Barlowe, you're in such a worrying state. Leave it to me. You should bring Astrid and the others down there for treatment," David said without turning his head.

When Gamora and Astrid heard David's voice, they opened their eyes and lifted their heads.

Just now, they thought they would surely die.

Thus, they had their eyes closed early on.

"David!" Astrid called out in surprise.

Gamora did not say anything. However, she looked at David with a complicated expression.

She never thought that her family's savior would be this kid whom she did not have any hopes for.

Gamora looked at Astrid in her arms, who had a surprised look on her face. 'It seems that my daughter has better vision than me.' Wilfred was also staring at David. 'So it seems the person I detected yesterday was this kid.

'It seems that he's close to Nimbus and his family. "Judging from how this kid saved us, it seems like we'll have a chance to survive today.'" "D-David, it really is you! How is that possible? H-How old are you? How can you be so strong?" Nimbus asked in shock. "Mr. Barlowe, strength has nothing to do with age. The universe is so big, how much of it can you understand? Do you think you can completely understand even this tiny Milky Way galaxy?" David answered.

Nimbus came back to his senses after hearing what David said. He felt that he had embarrassed himself as an emperor, so he smiled bitterly and replied, "David, you're right. I couldn't see the wood for the trees." "Mr. Barlowe, bring them down. I can't do anything if you stay here." "Be careful."

Nimbus did not reject. Instead, he prepared to bring his family down to Gold Peak. He and Wilfred were severely injured, so they needed serious treatment.

I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 1269

Chapter 1269 While David's appearance shocked Nimbus and his family, it also angered Moe and his gang.

They were about to succeed just now. They were about to kill Nimbus in a move that would decide their fate.

However, another person of the same rank as them appeared out of nowhere.

Moreover, judging from that blow, they could not look down on this person's strength, especially the long red sword in his hand.

They felt as if the tip of the sword was against their backs.

Moe and the other partial Eternal Realms were stunned by David's sword.

They only came back to their senses when Nimbus was about to leave.

Of course, Moe would not allow Nimbus to leave.

He finally came up with this sneak attack to severely injure Nimbus, so he could not miss out on this great chance to kill Nimbus.

If not, it would not be as easy to kill him as it was today.

As the king of Sangruil, Moe could not stand idly by even if the others could.

No matter what, he could not let Nimbus leave.

When Nimbus was about to leave, Moe's body disappeared from where he was.

However, when he was about to approach Nimbus and his family at lightning speed...

Woosh!

A flash of red light flashed in front of him, forcing him to stop immediately and show himself. David had been watching the movements of Moe and the others, so how could he let them get away with this?

"Moe, your opponent is me now. Don't be mistaken." David played with the Evil-Splitting Sword in his hand and said with a grin.

Moe looked straight at David while he hovered in the sky. He wanted so badly to devour David right now.

"Don't look at me like that. I'm shy," David mocked. "Who the hell are you? How can you exist in the Milky Way?" Moe asked, suppressing his anger.

"You don't have to know who I am. You just have to know that I'm not on your side."

"Are you sure you want to be Sangruil's enemy? No matter how strong you are, you're still only at partial Eternal Realm. Meanwhile, we have five of them here. You will hand us the Barlowes if you're smart, and I can consider sparing you." "Moe, you're so full of sh*t. Just fight me if you want. You're as talkative as a woman. Do you really call yourself the king of Sangruil?" David retorted without showing Moe any respect.

"You..." Moe glared at David. He was speechless after David's retort.

It was not that he did not want to kill David directly. Instead, he did not have the confidence.

David's sword was pretty intimidating.

Even Severus and the other Nine-Headed Serpents at partial Eternal Realm chose to stay silent.

Clearly, they were scared of the sword in David's hand.

"David, be careful. Uncle Wilfred and I will come to help you once we recover."

"Be careful, David." "Thank you, David."

Nimbus and his family descended after they said that.

Moe could only watch them leave. He knew he did not have any openings with David in front of him. However, at that moment, Severus from the four Nine-Headed Serpents yelled, "Go!" The four black-robed men attacked at the same time. Clearly, they did not want to let Nimbus go so easily. They worked so hard to create such a huge advantage, so they could not give up just because of David's appearance.

TUU

If David was at Eternal Realm, then they could not do anything.

They would have run as fast as they could. They could be lucky to escape with their lives. However, since they were all at partial Eternal Realm, why should the five of them be scared of David?

If Nimbus recovered and could use more than 50% of his combat power, it would be hard for them to seize control over the situation. They could only complete their mission if one or two of the five got severely injured or died. Among the four black-robed men, two would target David, while the remaining two would target Nimbus and his family.

At this moment, Moe returned to his senses.

He decided to take action and quickly approached Nimbus. As David faced the five's sudden attack, his expression turned solemn. However, he was not scared. On the contrary, he was a little excited.

I'm A Quadrillionaire chapter 1270

Chapter 1270 Today, he had to give everything he had to fight without restraint.

He wanted to see where his limit was.

"Evil-Splitting Sword Technique!" David growled inside his heart.

Then, he waved the Evil-Splitting Sword. The sky turned red again. With this wave, a sword light that reached all the way to heaven sliced Moe and the other two black-robed men's path. At this moment, the other two had appeared before David.

They were attacking David from either side,

They displayed their Nine-Headed Serpent claw that was covered with hard scales from under their black robe.

David did not panic as the two attacked him.

First, he waved his left fist and used Void Punch, one of the three top combat skills, to hit one of the attackers.

Boom!

At the same time, David used his mind power to put up a shield on his other side. When the other black-robed man was about to reach him, he was blocked by David's mind power. Then, the strong mind power enveloped the black-robed man quickly and restrained him tightly. However, this time was different.

Back then, David's mind power, which would be successful in every endeavor, only stopped the full-force partial Eternal Realm attack for a while before it broke.

The black-robed man managed to escape from the mind power that was restraining him after a while.

However, this also shocked the black-robed man.

'What is this?

"Now only can it block my attack, it can even restrain me.'

Even if it was just for a split second, it would determine the result of a battle between powerhouses of the same level. David's mind barrier was broken, and it also stopped the black-robed man's attack. In that second, David immediately seized the chance to use the rebound from the collision to retreat quickly, avoiding the attack. While he was retreating, he waved the Evil-Splitting Sword in his right hand.

Woosh!

An arm detached from the black-robed man's body and flew into the air. It looked like an arm, but it was actually a big claw hiding under the black robe. Blood immediately gushed out from the black-robed man's detached arm. Then, deafening pained wails could be heard. "Ah!"

The black-robed man's arm was chopped off and the intense pain overwhelmed his entire body, making him lose his mind.

He had never been injured so badly since his birth. His arm was chopped clean off. David retreated to a safe distance. Then, he stopped and hovered in the void.

Afterward, he waved his left hand. "Damn it. That claw is so f*ckig hard! 'The back of my hand is still burning from pain right now.' The person who collided with David just now also stood in the distance. He then secretly hid his shaking right hand. The intense pain crept up from his palm. It was not that easy to stop Void Punch, one of David's three top combat skills.

However, he was feeling extremely glad inside. If he traded places with Draco just now, he would be the one who had lost an arm. Even though he had no idea how David did that, if Draco could not stop it, he could not either. If one of Draco's arms was cut off, it would mean he had lost 80% of his combat power.
