

Read Novel Married At First Sight Chapter 1762

Novel Married at First Sight Chapter 1762 -Camryn followed Callum's instructions.

When Callum got out of the car, he took the bouquet she was holding and put it on the car seat.

The next moment, her feet flew into the air, and he hugged her waist. Then, he hugged her in circles, shouting loudly while circling: "I have a girlfriend, I have a fiancée, Camryn, I love you! I love you! I love you!"

Some people in the York Corporation just walked out of the company now, seeing that it was Callum, everyone instinctively stopped to watch the show.

Hearing Callum's ecstatic cheers, everyone laughed. They didn't know who took the lead in applauding, but Camryn heard the applause getting louder and louder.

There were a lot of onlookers, right?

She was a bit shy, more joyful.

Fortunately, Callum didn't reject her.

He was just so happy that he couldn't believe that Camryn would agree to him and accept his feelings, so he made a series of actions that puzzled her.

At this moment, Camryn knew that his heart for her had never changed.

Ever since Callum appeared in front of her, he never disliked her for being blind.

He had better choices, but he still chose her.

Camryn also knew that from the very beginning, Callum regarded her as his wife, because she was chosen by his grandma, and his love for her also started from scratch, and now it was 100%.

Callum, who was ecstatic, hugged Camryn for countless times, and he stopped because he was afraid that Camryn would become dizzy.

After stopping, he waited for a few minutes, and when Camryn came to her senses, he gently lifted her chin with his slender fingers, carefully examining her delicate facial features.

Camryn was born a beauty and Callum was both talented and handsome, and they were a good match.

“Camryn, Camryn...” Callum’s murmur disappeared from her lips.

In front of all the onlookers, Callum and Camryn kissed affectionately. This was a heart-to-heart kiss, completely different from the first time he kissed her forcefully.

He kissed passionately, and she responded passionately.

Callum knew that Camryn was actually very shy, and dared to accept his deep kiss in front of so many people, and even responded enthusiastically to him, which showed that he had really walked into her heart.

The high wall she built opened a door for him.

He would cherish this door well, and would not let that door close again, but he would not let others open this door.

Camryn was now Callum’s girlfriend and fiancée!

After the deep kiss, Camryn leaned on his chest, smelling the scent of his body, listening to his heartbeat, her face was stained with red clouds, as gorgeous as peach blossoms in March.

“Callum.” After adjusting her breath, Camryn asked in a low voice: “Go back to the car, there are many people watching.”

Callum dotingly said: “Okay, go back to the car, and don’t let them watch any more shows.”

He let go of her, and then smiled at the crowd: “Thank you for witnessing the moment when my girlfriend and I confirmed our relationship. When I get married, I invite everyone to have a wedding wine.”

Camryn: “Alright, just wait for you to treat us to a wedding wine.”

Callum laughed haha.