

Read Novel Married At First Sight Chapter 1787

Novel Married at First Sight Chapter 1787 -“It doesn’t taste good to eat alone.” Serenity hugged Sonny and sat at the dining table, then took the bowl and filled it with soup first.

People in Wiltspoon liked to drink soup. If there was no soup for every meal, it would always be difficult to swallow.

Liberty cooked everyday meals. She guessed that her sister would come over for dinner, so she made four dishes and one soup. The soup was seaweed egg drop soup.

“Sonny, this is your soup, drink it first.”

After Serenity filled a bowl of soup for her nephew, she poured another bowl for her sister, and finally she served herself.

After taking a sip of the soup, she sighed and said in satisfaction: “My sister’s taste is different. At home, the soup made by the chef is also delicious, but I still like to drink the soup made by my sister the most.”

Liberty laughed: “You like to drink sister’s soup, you can come here often.”

Tired of big fish and meat, Serenity wanted to eat ordinary home-cooked meals.

“Sister, Mr. Lewis has been discharged from the hospital, will you continue to take care of him?” Serenity asked with concern.

Liberty: “I don’t think it needs to be done. His family has a lot of members. If I can take care of him well, I need to look after my restaurant. But tomorrow is my day off, and Sonny and I are going to the park to play. He is getting ready to start kindergarten.”

Serenity: “You’re right, you want to rest tomorrow too, instead of going to the park, let’s go back to the Wildridge Manor, which is much more fun than the park.”

Liberty had no objection.

The Wildridge Manor was built more beautifully than the park, and it also had a playground for children. Sonny was too happy every time he went to Wildridge Manor.

Serenity: “Sister, let’s go shopping later, I’ll buy you some small gifts to take back.”

“Okay.” Liberty readily agreed.

The two sisters were very busy now, and it had been a long time since they went shopping together.

After dinner, they went shopping again. At 9 o'clock in the evening, Serenity returned to the villa on the top of the mountain with the gift of the car.

Zachary would be home before 9:30, and he would get angry again if he went home first and didn't see Serenity there.

He wanted to wake up every morning, open his eyes, and see his beloved wife. He also wanted to come home at night and see his beloved wife waiting for him at home under the moonlight.

Zachary doted on Serenity, why didn't Serenity dote on Zachary.

Almost back to the villa, the driver slowed down the speed, stopped the car not long after, turned to Serenity and said, "Eldest young mistress, there is a car parked sideways at the entrance of the villa, blocking the way."

Hearing this, leaning on the car Serenity, who was sitting on the back of the chair, sat up straight and looked forward. She really saw a red sports car parked at the door of her house. His sports car was parked sideways, just blocking the gate of the villa.

The driver honked the horn.

The two bodyguards who followed Serenity got out of the car, walked forward, and saw someone on the sports car.

The people in the sports car opened the door and got out of the car before the bodyguards approached.

It's a strange woman.

She was wearing a long red dress and a wavy wind. She got off the red sports car like a ball of fire.

"Miss, who are you looking for? Please move the car first, you can't park like this here, it's blocking our young lady's car."

Most of the readers are now reading this novels:-