Chapter 3005

After reading the test results, the doctor said, "Bacterial infection. I'll prescribe some medicine, and you can take it back and give it to the child."

"Okay, doctor. Isn't the problem serious?" Joanna asked.

"Go back and give the child the medicine to see the situation. If the cough is severe, you have to go to the hospital for an examination." The doctor began to prescribe medicine.

Joanna looked at the recovered daughter in her arms, and prayed in her heart that she would recover after taking the medicine.

Ten minutes later, Joanna came out of the emergency room with the baby in her arms, and Ellis took the umbrella and medicine.

It rained much less.

After getting in the car, Joanna asked Ellis: "Ellis, how much did you spend in total? I'll transfer the money to you."

Because she was holding her daughter all the time, Ellis paid all the fees.

"It's all small money..."

"Ellis, if you're like this, I won't dare to ask you for help with anything in the future."

Joanna interrupted him, "No matter how much money it is, I will return it to you."

"All right, I'll take a look when I get home." When Ellis was waiting for the red streetlight, he couldn't help but glance at the little girl in her arms, "Your daughter's father should also be pretty, right? Your daughter is the prettiest child I've ever seen."

Joanna couldn't help laughing.

The daughter was praised, and the mother felt very proud to be a mother.

Joanna said: "Hmm. Her dad looks better than me."

Seeing her talking about the child's father, Ellis had a smile on his face, and was a little puzzled: "Did you break up with the child's father peacefully? Why did you break up? You both have a child; why can't you raise her together?"

Joanna: "Ellis, this matter is too complicated. I can't explain it clearly in a few words. I'd better not talk about it."

Ellis: "Okay! It can be seen that you don't hate the father of the child."

"Of course. I got pregnant because of an accident. It wasn't the child's father who made me pregnant, but I was irresponsible." Joanna explained clearly, "You don't think I met a sc*mbag, do you?"

"Do you believe that if you tell others about your affairs, others will think so?" Ellis smiled, "It's not as good as meeting a sc*mbag."

Joanna: "No. I should have made it clear to you earlier."

"Then do you still have contact with the child's father?" Ellis continued to ask.

Joanna struggled for a moment, and answered.

"Oh, that's good. Then since you didn't have any disagreements about the children, why didn't you get married?" Ellis didn't understand.

When Joanna mentioned the child's father just now, Ellis smiled gently when he saw the expression on her face.

Ellis felt that she had feelings for the father of the child.

“Ellis, don’t talk about me.” Joanna didn’t want to continue this topic, “Many things can’t develop as we take for granted.”

“Yes, it’s like I think I will have a good life with you, but you don’t think so.” Ellis laughed at himself, “Joanna, I’m very happy that you can ask me for help tonight.”

Joanna’s cheeks felt hot. She made a silent note in her heart that she was going to take a driver’s license test when she was free.

If the child has anything to do in the future, don’t bother others.

Now Ellis didn’t have a girlfriend, and if he ever had a girlfriend who lived with him, she wouldn’t be able to just call him up and ask for help.

When they got home, Joanna first transferred the money to Ellis before letting Ellis go.

Mrs. Picard had not fallen asleep.

After they came back, Mrs. Picard came out of the room.
