Chapter 951 | [Serenity & Zachary]

Grandma May said, "They don't know what car I use, but they stopped your mother-in-law once, as well as your second aunt-in-law."

Seeing Serenity's dark expression, she quickly comforted her. "We all know what kind of people they are. They're asking for a bride price now, but their true intention is to disgust us with you so you'd have a bad time in our family."

"We can still see through those little plans of theirs. Don't worry, Seren. We didn't let them get any benefits. When they intercepted your mother-in-law's car, she called the police directly and said someone was blocking the road and trying to rob her."

"That granddad of yours is really shameless. He lay on the ground saying that he was hit, but he didn't expect the road to be monitored by surveillance. The police came and checked the surveillance, then found out that he lay on the ground himself. They criticized him and lectured him, then ordered his children and grandchildren to take him away."

"The most hateful thing was that they brought reporters to dress as their accomplices and secretly took videos, but they were also exposed. The videos they took were deleted, but news about this would get out either way. You don't have to worry about it."

"Everyone in Wiltspoon knows what kind of people they are and how they've treated you and your sister. I'm telling you this because I don't think they'll give up even after being reprimanded by the police. They might come up with some plot against you. and your sister, but mostly against you."

That was because Serenity was now the eldest missus of the York family.

Her relatives were trying their best now to break up Serenity and Zachary so she could not stay in the York family. They wanted Serenity to have an unhappy life in her husband's home.

They were punished by Zachary and lost their jobs and businesses. Now, the whole family was surviving purely on their savings. They could not go up against Zachary, so they aimed all their troubles at Serenity.

Even if Serenity was the missus of the York family, it could not erase their relationship as relatives.

No matter how amazing Zachary was, he could not eliminate a large family of dozens. As long as Zachary could not kill them, they were fearless and would seize any opportunity to pester and annoy Serenity.

Threats and warnings were useless against those people.

Even if the cops were called, they did not exactly do anything illegal, so the police could only issue them a warning at most.

It was said that it was better to offend a gentleman than a villain.

The people from her hometown were a bunch of villains. They were shameless and insidious.

Serenity said coldly, "I'm not afraid, Nana. If they dare appear in front of me, I'll chase them away with a broom. We've driven them away so many times, so they went to you to cause trouble because they know they won't get any benefits from me."

If they thought the York family would give them money because they could not stand the annoyance, they could continue dreaming!

"Nana, Zachary is still at home. I'll see you off at the stairs, and then you can go upstairs yourself. I'm going to the store."

"No need for that. You can just go to work. It's not like I don't know the way. I'll go upstairs by myself."

Grandma May refused Serenity's offer to send her to the block.

Serenity still helped the old woman to pull her suitcase, then called Zachary and told him that his nana was here.

She only left when she saw Jim and the others.

She remembered the first time she saw Jim and the other bodyguards. She had thought that they lived nearby...

After leaving Brynfield, Serenity noticed that someone was secretly following her.

She remained calm. With her familiarity with the surroundings, she did not take the open roads and instead picked small alleyways, taking left and right turns until she lost the person following her.

She thought it was the paparazzi.

Although her identity as the eldest missus of the York family was exposed, she was not disturbed by the media. She knew in her heart that it was thanks to Zachary. No one dared come up to her openly because he did not allow the media to disturb her.

However, it was hard to prevent the paparazzi from following her and secretly taking pictures of her.

Everyone in Wiltspoon knew she was Mrs. York now, but how did Zachary and her relationship start, and how did they get along in their everyday lives? That was something many people wanted to know.

If they could sneak some photos of her and Zachary's private life, they could satisfy the curiosity of the people.

When she got back to Wiltspoon School, Jasmine had already opened up the shop. Mrs. Lane was there too.

Chapter 952 | [Serenity & Zachary]

Since Serenity and Zachary lived separately, Mrs. Lane went back to Brynfield daily to clean up and water the flowers on the balcony. She was no longer staying there and instead went back to the manor, the place she originally lived.

Sam, the housekeeper who had returned from his leave, gave Mrs. Lane a car for her convenience.

"Missus."

Mrs. Lane had just finished mopping the floor when she saw Serenity coming. She greeted the latter respectfully.

“You can just call me Ms. Hunt like before, Mrs. Lane. Don’t call me Missus. It sounds weird to me.”

She did not put on airs in front of Mrs. Lane.

Mrs. Lane did not think it was appropriate and said, “Mr. Zachary will deduct my bonus if he finds out.

“You’ll get used to it after hearing it more on a daily basis.”

Serenity was speechless. All Zachary knew was how to threaten people.

She entered the store.

Jasmine saw her enter and checked her out from top to bottom.

“What? Don’t you recognize me?”

Jasmine laughed. “You look good today. You look to be in good spirits, and your mood seems pleasant. Did something happen?”

Jasmine smiled cheekily. “There’s no way that’s possible. There’s no man in Wiltspoon who’s better looking than your husband. Even Josh isn’t as attractive as he is.”

Josh was a busybody. That was one of his flaws.

However, Jasmine liked that he was a busybody. She was one herself.

When the two got together, they could talk about anyone.

“Did you make up with Mr. York? It’s been so long, and I notice your anger has subsided. Since you’re not angry anymore, just make up with him. Josh looks like he’s going to die from his headaches. He said that Mr. York torments everyone in the company till they’re about to burst into tears.”

Serenity said indifferently, “He tortures himself and others as well.”

Case in point—his gastritis.

She just sent him to the hospital to see a doctor last night.

Serenity did not tell her best friend about that.

“By the way, when is Liberty’s store opening for business? I told my family in the group chat to go to her store to support her business on her opening day.”

Serenity was incredibly grateful.

Her best friend was really impressive.

She was fortunate to have Jasmine as her best friend in her life.

“She’s opening next Monday. Her main demographic is the workers in that area, so she chose Monday. People get tired of playing over the weekends and won’t feel like cooking breakfasts at the start of the week, so they’ll choose to eat out.”

Jasmine took note of the time of Liberty’s breakfast store opening.

“I’ll be going over to help on that day.”

Jasmine said, “Of course. Do you need my help too?”

Chapter 953 | [Serenity & Zachary]

Serenity smiled. “Mrs. Lane and I should be enough.”

The store her sister rented was not large. If too many people went to help, it would look crowded with the customers coming in to have breakfast.

While the two friends chatted, two—no, three people walked in

One of them was Noah, Serenity’s youngest cousin. He tried stopping Serenity’s car in the middle of the night last year and wanted to teach her a lesson, but she sent him to the police station.

He was released after fifteen days of detention, but he did not repent and instead hated Serenity with a passion.

He dropped out of school and stopped studying. His parents spoiled him and felt that his grades were not good enough to get him accepted into a university anyway, so they let him do as he pleased.

After dropping out of school, Noah did nothing except play games.

He came along the last time his grandfather visited the store to cause trouble, but Serenity did not notice him because there were too many people.

“Let me go! I said let me go!”

Noah struggled against the two burly men who dragged him inside.

Serenity had never seen the two men before, but she could guess that they were people Zachary had arranged to secretly keep an eye on—Ahem, to secretly protect her.

The two bodyguards dragged Noah in and pushed him, and Noah fell to the ground. He quickly got up and hurriedly hid behind Serenity.

“Serenity, help me!”

Serenity ripped her punk cousin from behind her and asked with a cold face, “What did you do?”

“Missus, this kid has been following you and kept taking pictures of you. When he lost your trail, he came straight here and tried to slash your car tires when he saw no one around. We managed to stop him before he did.”

At those words, Serenity slapped Noah’s arm, causing him to jump. He wanted to cuss at her, but when he saw her frosty face, he remembered how formidable she was when she beat him up the last time. He was full of anger, but he did not dare vent it at Serenity.

He could only rub the place where she slapped while looking at her cautiously.

“I thought it was the paparazzi, but it was just you. Why are you following me? Did he use a cell phone or a camera to take the photos?”

The second question was directed at the bodyguards.

One of them answered, “He took them using his phone.”

He handed Serenity a cell phone along with a small knife. “This is his phone, and this is the knife he tried to slash your tires with.”

Serenity took the phone and knife, then stared coldly at Noah. The boy shrunk and said defensively, “I— I just took a few photos, and I didn’t slash your tires. Why are you looking at me like that? It’s like you’re going to eat me up.”

Serenity did not rush to ask him why he was following her and taking pictures of her.

he first took the knife out.

Noah must have followed her in a car. She wondered if he used his own car or if he borrowed his cousin’s car.

Although it was a new year and Noah was eighteen this year, his birthday had not passed yet, so he was still considered a minor. In other words, he was driving without a license. He really had guts!

He was spoiled by his family and did not know fear. Driving without a license was nothing for him.

Noah quickly reacted.

He immediately chased after Serenity while yelling, “Serenity. Seren, Seren! Don’t slash my tires. I borrowed this car from John. He said he’ll never let me touch his car again if I damage it.”

John’s car was a luxury ride.

Everyone wanted Noah to follow Serenity, so he took the opportunity to ask John to lend him his luxury car. Otherwise, he would not have agreed to do something like this which would only end up in him being beaten up by Serenity.

None of them had ever fought with Serenity, so they did not know how good she was at fighting.

Noah was aware too that everyone pushed him to this job because he was not a legal adult yet.

Chapter 954 | [Serenity & Zachary]

Serenity did not know which car Noah used at first, but since he volunteered the information, she managed to find John’s car. After all, out of all of the cousins,

John’s car was the best.

Serenity walked over, raised the knife, and slashed all four tires of John’s car.

The tires were punctured and deflated. Soon, all four tires were flat.

“Oh no, oh no.”

Noah looked at the flat tires and seemed frightened. “I don’t have enough money to get new tires for him. Serenity!”

He shouted at her, “You need to pay for it!”

Serenity looked at him coldly.

he walked over while playing with the knife.

Noah’s yelling became quiet.

Standing in front of him, Serenity patted his face with the knife.

Noah was so scared that he did not dare breathe. His eyes were filled with fear.

He was terrified that this damned woman would slash his face and disfigure him.

He did not have a wife yet.

“Whose idea was this?”

“W–What idea?”

“Following me, taking pictures of me, and slashing my tires. Whose idea was it? What’s their purpose?”

Did they want to sell her photos to the media for money?

Serenity did not think it was that simple.

“I–I just did it because I wanted to get back at you. I don’t have any other purpose.”

Noah did not dare reveal that his cousins were plotting something.

Everyone thought that their current predicament was caused by Serenity and her husband.

They pestered the Yorks countless times but did not get money. Old Mr. Hunt scolded Scott, who had been dead for many years, for giving birth to two unfilial girls. Serenity was rich and powerful, but she did not even bother helping her family. Instead, she caused her cousins to lose their jobs.

Old Mr. Hunt also scolded Serenity for not helping her female cousins out and letting them marry into a rich family after she married into one herself. He said that if any other granddaughter of his married into the York family, he would become in–laws with the York family and be their esteemed guest.

Just by thinking about it, everyone felt dignified and proud.

Then, John thought of a deadly plan. He said that Harriet, John’s younger sister, was close to Serenity in age. Harriet took after her father, Chris, and it was said that Chris and Scott looked somewhat similar, and Serenity mostly took after her father too.

Thus, Harriet and Serenity also looked somewhat similar.

John proposed to have Harriet change her face into Serenity's, then kidnap Serenity and send her into a deep forest so she could never come back. Then, Harriet could replace Serenity to become the eldest missus of the York family.

The eldest missus of the York family would then be one of their own. John felt that his sister would definitely side with her maiden family.

His plan was approved by everyone.

Noah looked at Serenity and thought in his heart, 'John overlooked one thing. Although Harriet resembled Serenity, even if she undergoes plastic surgery to have Serenity's face and imitate Serenity's way of doing things, Serenity knows kickboxing, whereas Harriet has been spoiled since birth. She can't even lift a bucket of water, let alone fight.

'Will John's plan really work?'

Harriet had already gone for cosmetic surgery. Noah had not seen what she looked like after the surgery, so he did not know if she really had Serenity's face now.

Chapter 955 | [Serenity & Zachary]

"Noah Hunt, you know me, right? If you don't talk, I'll slash a few lines across your face. You're already ugly enough with pimples all over your face. It'll be horrid if I add some blade scars to that. You'll never get a wife and have to stay single all your life."

Noah visibly blanched and stammered, "I-I can't say..."

With just that, Serenity knew that her relatives were planning something big to deal with her.

She said to the two bodyguards, "Bring him in for me. I'll take good care of my little cousin."

"W-Wait, I'll go by myself. Don't let them touch me. They're too rough."

Noah jumped and followed Serenity into the store.

He knew how to behave himself after falling into Serenity's hands. She would beat him into a pulp if she did not get what she wanted.

Back in the store, he moved a stool for Serenity and poured water for her to drink.

"Talk. Why did they ask you to follow me? It's fine if you don't tell me. You know my identity now. As long as I give the command, I'll soon be able to find out your plan.

"But if you tell me, I'll give you money to take a cab home."

Noah was speechless. Did he need her to pay for his cab fare?

"Are you going to talk or not?"

Serenity's hands clenched into fists.

It was clear what she meant.

“Don’t you dare... I—I’ll talk. Let’s talk nicely, okay? They told me to follow you and secretly take pictures of you to show to Harriet so she can imitate your words and actions.”

Serenity’s beautiful eyes flashed.

Jasmine and Mrs. Lane exchanged glances.

The people present here were not fools. With Noah’s words, they all guessed what the Hunt family was planning.

“And” Coronity asked indifferently

Noah refused to say more and insisted that that was all he knew.

“I’m the youngest, so they never rope me in when they discuss their plans. They only tell me a small bit when they want to use me. I really don’t know anything else.”

Serenity did not force him to talk.

She handed his phone to him.

Noah thought that she was going to return his phone and hastily took it. Just as he was about to thank her, she said, “Delete all the photos you took!”

Noah was speechless.

“Make sure you delete all of them. If you don’t, I’ll smash your phone, take out your phone card and throw it into the large river up ahead.”

Noah quickly said, “I’ll delete them. I’ll delete everything.”

He was really unlucky.

He was discovered the first time he was sent out to do detective work.

Noah cursed Serenity out in his heart. He always made a misstep every time he targeted her.

Under Serenity’s watchful eyes, he unlocked the phone and handed it back to her. He did not dare say anything and watched as she deleted all of the photos he took.

She even opened up his WhatsApp to check his chat with John and the others. They talked about how to retaliate against her, but Noah had not sent any photos. He must not have had time to send them after secretly taking the photos.

After making sure that all the photos were deleted, Serenity returned the phone to him and warned him, “If this happens again, I’ll hand you over to Mr. York to deal with. His methods are much more ruthless than mine.

“He won’t kill you, but he can make your life a living hell.”

Noah’s face went as white as a sheet.

Serenity was already terrifying, let alone Mr. York.

“I swear, I won’t do such things anymore. I won’t do it no matter what benefits they give me.”

Noah fell into Serenity’s hands twice without getting any benefits. He hated Serenity, but he could not get rid of her. He really was unlucky.

It would turn out better if he was sent to stalk and take pictures of Liberty instead.

Chapter 956 | [Serenity & Zachary]

However, Liberty was not as valuable as Serenity in the eyes of Old Mr. Hunt and the others.

One was a pitiful woman who divorced and lived alone with a child, whereas the other was the eldest missus of the York family, the richest family in the city. Even a three-year-old would know who was more valuable.

“Get out!”

Noah stammered, “My fare...”

As soon as Serenity glared, Noah scampered out.

She went back on her word!

She tricked him!

How could he have a cousin like Serenity?

Noah scolded Serenity all the way back to John’s rented house.

As for John’s luxury car, he could not drive it back because all four tires were slashed. He could only let John think of a way himself. Fortunately, he brought back the car keys.

When John found out that his little cousin not only failed and was discovered, but also left his car in front of Serenity’s shop, he was furious.

He kicked Noah and yelled, “Even if you got scared and ran away, you should have run away with the car! How could you just come back with the car keys without the car?!”

“I—I couldn’t drive it back, John.”

Noah was kicked and did not dare fight back. He said timidly, “Your tires were slashed by Serenity. I wanted to stop her, but she was too quick. I couldn’t stop her...”

John looked like he was in pain. “She slashed my tires? How many?”

Noah raised four fingers.

“It cost so much money to change just one tire, but she slashed all four of them?!”

John was furious!

“Noah, you didn’t tell her our plan, did you?” John quickly asked his younger cousin when he was reminded of their plan.

Noah said, “I didn’t.”

He indeed did not explicitly tell her everyone's plan. He just told her his purpose of secretly taking pictures of her.

John breathed a sigh of relief and said, "Only we need to know about that plan. Don't tell anyone about it. If Serenity and her husband find out, they'll be on the lookout, and it'll be impossible to implement the plan."

Noah nodded repeatedly. "I know that, John. Don't worry, I didn't tell her."

He really did not tell Serenity.

"What about my car?"

John's heart broke for his car.

He had to spend a lot of money replacing all four tires.

If it were in the past, he would not care about that amount of money. Now that he had lost his job that paid a million a year, although his life was not that affected since he had savings, he was more frugal now than before.

He did not want to spend money before he found a new job.

Furthermore, the money his family spent also came out of his pocket. He was supporting his wife, but also his parents. Furthermore, his wife just got pregnant.

He sent his wife back to her maiden home during her pregnancy so that these vexing matters did not affect her mood.

That was the reason Serenity had not seen her.

"Serenity Hunt!"

John said viciously, "Just you wait. One day, we'll make you cry!"

As long as their plan succeeded, Serenity would be left with nothing!

She would starve to death in the deep woods.

Then, his own sister would replace Serenity as the eldest missus of the York family... What a beautiful thought!

Chapter 957 | [Serenity & Zachary]

After Noah ran away, Jasmine said to her friend, "Seren, those guys might be trying to replace you."

"It's not that they 'might' but rather they're already planning it."

Serenity sat down behind the cash register looking slightly exhausted.

Her sister and she were really unlucky to have been born into that family.

To think they were related by blood!

"Is that Harriet whom Noah mentioned older or younger than you?"

“We’re the same age. I’m a week older than her.”

Serenity thought about her cousin who was only one week younger than her. She had not seen Harriet for more than ten years and had little memory of her. Did Harriet and her look similar?

When her parents were alive, she and Harriet went to school together and were in the same class. She seemed to remember her classmates mentioning that they looked alike.

Even if they did, they would only look somewhat similar. Did Harriet think she could replace Serenity by just impersonation?

Did they think Zachary was stupid?

Unless... Harriet went to get plastic surgery to change her face.

“Harriet Hunt...”

Serenity said, “I’ll go to York Corporation at noon. This matter has to be handled by Zachary, Harriet might have gone for cosmetic surgery now.”

Even if Zachary would not fall for it, Serenity did not want Harriet to have her face.

She had no ability to stop Harriet from undergoing cosmetic surgery, so she could only leave it to Zachary to deal with.

Now, the husband and wife were targets of the Hunt family, so they should work together to deal with them.

“They’re horrible. How can they think of such a vicious plan?”

They dared use Harriet to impersonate Serenity and replace her as the eldest missus of the York family. It was the same as trying to kill Serenity.

“I’m not surprised they came up with this plan. Ever since my granddad brought them over to cause trouble and demand money, I knew they wouldn’t stop at that. Even if I gave them money, they wouldn’t be satisfied. They would want more.”

Besides, she would never give them money.

Thus, they thought of another way to get benefits.

“Mr. Zachary won’t fall for it,” Mrs. Lane said confidently.

There was a saying that went “you may know a person’s face, but it’s difficult to know their heart”. Even if Harriet looked like Serenity, she would be exposed. Serenity’s words and actions were not something that could be learned in a day or two.

Furthermore, Serenity knew kickboxing. Zachary just had to test her to know if she was fake or not.

“Whether or not he’ll fall for it, this plan has to be stopped. I don’t want to see another woman with the exact same face as mine, let alone that woman being my own cousin.”

It was disgusting to say the least.

Currently, Zachary did not know that the Hunt family was planning something this horrid.

The man stubbornly lay on Serenity's bed and slept the whole night.

In the morning, he ate the food his wife personally prepared for him to nourish his stomach. Although he was forced to get another job, his heart felt sweet. He did not get angry even when he saw his grandmother move in again and become a third wheel.

Grandma May followed him back to the office.

However, she did not disturb Zachary's work. She wandered around the company when she arrived.

She was plainly dressed, but fortunately, everyone recognized her. Otherwise, they would have taken her for a janitor.

She turned around and went to Callum's office.

She pushed the door and entered before the secretary could knock on the door.

When Callum looked up and saw his nana, he immediately put down his pen, got up to walk around his desk, and greeted the old woman. "Nana, what wind blows you here today?"

Chapter 958 | [Serenity & Zachary]

"There's always wind blowing from any direction."

Grandma May slapped away Callum's hand that wanted to support her. "No need for that. I'm still hale and hearty. I won't die until I see all of you marry and have children."

"Then I won't marry and have children. I'll let you live until you're two hundred years old, Nana."

Grandma May whacked Callum.

"You little brat. I followed your big brother back to the office today to talk about your marriage."

Callum was speechless. Was it too late for him to escape now?

Of course, it was.

He hurriedly helped his nana to the couch for a seat, then knelt in front of her and helped to massage her legs. He asked a little curiously yet nervously, "Who do you have your eye on, Nana? Is it someone I know?"

He was aware that his nana had recently set her target on him.

It was because he was the second born. Since the eldest got married, it was his turn now.

"Nana, I'll say this first. I'm not interested in getting married out of nowhere. Don't lie on the ground again and let someone 'save' you, then force me to marry that person in order to help you repay her."

Grandma May grinned and said, "I used that method for Zachary, so I won't use it again for you. Don't worry."

"So, who is she?"

“Curious?”

“Of course I am. It’s you who helped me pick. I want to know which woman managed to catch my nana’s eye.”

To be honest, even now, he did not understand why his grandmother chose Serenity to be their eldest sister-in-law.

Thus, he took the opportunity to ask.

Grandma May said, “I really was uncomfortable at that time and was saved by Serenity. Don’t make it sound like I was running an insurance fraud scam. I also really like Serenity, but the reason I insisted Zack marry her was because of a fortune teller. He divined that Serenity and Zack were meant to be husband and wife.”

Callum was speechless, but went on to ask, “Nana, where did that fortune teller come from? Is he that amazing?”

“All fortune tellers can divine if a couple is meant for marriage.”

Grandma May did not expose the fortune teller’s identity.

“Pour me a glass of water.”

“Sure thing.”

Callum quickly poured her a cup of warm water.

The old lady took two sips, then slowly took out two photos and handed them to

Callum, saying, “Pick one of the two as your target. I’ll give you one year. Achieve the goal within one year.”

“What if we don’t end up together after one year?”

“Then you can get lost! You can come back when you finish the goal.”

Callum was speechless. “Nana, you’re so cruel. We’re your grandsons.”

“Grandsons are worthless.”

“I can have a sex change operation and become your granddaughter instead.”

“Be my guest, but even if you do that, you still won’t be a granddaughter in my eyes.”

Callum chuckled. “I’m just joking, Nana.”

He did not want to be a woman.

He took the two photos from her hands and looked at them. Then, he widened his eyes and pointed to one of the photos, asking, “Nana, are you sure you’re looking for a wife for me? Why does it seem like you’re looking for a brother for me instead?”

One of the pictures was of a handsome man.

Grandma May rolled her eyes at him. "Have you heard of Ms. Stoll, President of Stoll Corporation in Annenburg?"

Casey Stoll was a woman who looked like a man. If it were not for her getting married and her pregnancy being almost due, many people would have thought that she was actually a man.

Chapter 959 | [Serenity & Zachary]

Callum pointed to the handsome man in the photo. "So, he's a she?"

"She has a fraternal twin brother, but they look exactly the same. Her family raised her as a boy since childhood, so she acts like a man. People outside of her family think that she's the eldest son."

"How did you know she's actually a woman?"

Callum heard of Casey Stoll before, and he had seen pictures of her too. At first glance, she really did look like a man, but it was not because she was deliberately trying to come off as the opposite sex. She dressed androgynously, but since she was known for her power and influence, people misunderstood and thought she was a man.

The handsome guy in the photo was different from Casey. She was raised as a man and also deliberately dressed like a man. She had thick eyebrows and large eyes, looked grim and cold, and her tall figure was dressed in a suit. Anyone who looked at her would think she was a he.

Callum flipped over the photo and read the woman's profile on the other side.

"Hayden Queen, 28 years old, 'eldest son' of the chairman of Queen Enterprise in Jensburg. She is now the president of Queen Enterprise after winning the trust of her father, the chairman. She is taciturn, highly effective, and her hobbies are playing basketball and horse riding."

"Nana, is this all the information you have?"

"Yep, that's all the information I have. It's more than enough. All you have to know is her first and last name, how old she is, and where she lives. If you want to know more, you can find out for yourself."

Grandma May took back Hayden's photo from Callum's hand and said, "This isn't for you, but for Kevin. Hayden is more reticent and speaks with her actions. She's more suitable for Kevin than you.

"Kevin has a big mouth and is good at talking. If he can win over Hayden, the couple won't live a spiritless life in the future together."

Callum was speechless. "Nana, I'm good at talking too."

"Can you compare to Kevin?"

Callum was at a loss for words. Kevin was the most articulate out of all the brothers.

"Are you interested in Hayden?"

Callum shook his head. "That's not it. Since she's for Kevin, I'll take a look at the other one for now."

Only then did he look at the other photo carefully.

This one was obviously a girl, but she was wearing sunglasses, so he could not see how her eyes looked. Her small face looked even smaller after being covered by the large sunglasses.

However, he could tell that she was a delicate-looking girl. He flipped to the back to read her profile.

“Camryn Newman, 26 years old, the niece and also stepdaughter to the president of Newman Enterprise from Wiltspoon. After the early death of her father, her mother married her uncle, who is the president of Newman Enterprise. Thus, she became the president’s stepdaughter while also being his niece.”

“Nana, isn’t Camryn blind?”

Although the Newman family was from Wiltspoon, they mostly developed the company outside the city. Wiltspoon was just where Newman Enterprise was founded.

They did not dare compete with York Corporation and Stone Group in Wiltspoon, so the bulk of their business was conducted elsewhere.

In Wiltspoon, the Newmans were like a rich yet invisible family. In the eyes of others, they were simply well-to-do, but in fact, their assets also numbered in the billions.

“She’s just pretending to be blind.”

Callum paused before asking, “Does she have a story?”

“Yep. You can find out what that is by yourself.”

Callum smacked his lips and said, “I’ve heard of her but never seen her before. Blind people are very on guard against other people. I’m afraid it’ll be hard to get close to her.”

“I already told you she’s just pretending to be blind. I’ve shown you her photo, so you know what she looks like now. She opened up a flower shop in the busiest part of the city and has two workers helping her. By the way, her flower shop often buys goods from our villa. Zack even bought a bouquet of flowers from her shop for Serenity.”

Of course, Zachary did not realize that.

Serenity was the only woman he paid attention to.

“Are there any other photos, Nana?”

Gu Lingfei: Married at First Sight Chapter 960

“Since your big brother actually fell in love with Serenity. Fortune-telling is an age-old art. It’s worth believing in a little.”

After she finished speaking, she stood up. “I won’t bother you with your work. I’ll go to Liberty’s shop to have a look. I miss Sonny after not seeing him for so long. Liberty’s breakfast diner will be open for business soon, right?”

Callum said, “I didn’t hear Serenity mentioning it. ”

“Serenity and Zack have been quarreling for a long time. It’s better not to hear from her.”

Callum was confused.

It was only after his grandmother left and he thought carefully about it did he understand what she meant.

Zachary was incredibly domineering. If he found out about something before Zachary did, Zachary might start throwing knives at him.

Zachary got jealous of other women too, let alone them.

Serenity arrived not long after Grandma May left.

She sent Zachary's lunch over in advance, lest he was so busy he forgot to eat again.

When her car stopped at the gate of York Corporation, the security guard on duty was ecstatic when he saw her.

He immediately opened the gate, let her drive in, and called the front desk. When the call was picked up, the security guard said, "The CEO's wife is here."

The CEO tortured the whole company because of his wife.

Now, his wife suddenly came.

Everyone's bitter days would finally come to an end.

Although the security department was not tortured by the CEO, they knew everyone was hoping that his wife would sweep in like a spring breeze blowing away the cold winter wind. Spring, no, summer would finally come to them.

After all, it was still chilly in spring.

After the receptionist received the news that the CEO's wife had arrived, she immediately called Mr. Chaplin on the intercom and said, "Mr. Chaplin, the boss's wife is here. She just arrived at the building."

Mr. Chaplin smiled brightly. "Are you sure it's her?"

"Yes."

The receptionist saw Serenity carrying two insulated lunch boxes and heading toward the lobby.

She smiled. "I saw her. She's holding two lunch boxes. She must have brought lunch for the boss.

"We don't have to work overtime until midnight anymore."

Mr. Chaplin sighed. "Thank God."

Then, he happily hung up the phone.

Serenity felt that everyone was smiling at her and showed her great enthusiasm this time.

She thought, 'So this is how the CEO's wife is treated.'
