I am a quadrillionaire chapter 1744—Instead, he was wondering what grievances the two of them had.

Bernard was Archimedes' protector, so they two were always together

Moreover, he was also a late Sovereign Ranker.

David could leave unscathed after offending Archimedes, so there might be something going on behind this

Valerio had been paying attention to David ever since he entered the room.

However, the result surprised him.

He could not see through David at all.

David seemed to have a layer of mist surrounding him, and it was covering him tightly, preventing anyone from looking into him.

Since he dared to go head-on with a Lightfoot family member, he was not a simple young man.

"You speak too highly of me, Mr. Valerio. I don't deserve such praise. May I know why you asked me to come here? I should have completed the transaction with Treasure Trove first," David said.

He was not in the mood to chat with Valerio.

Wouldn't it be better to complete the transaction, get the lavish points, and progress to Saint Realm?

"Calm down. Let's have a chat They will bring over the treasures you bid on in a while. You can just finish the transaction here."

"Well, alright! Since you want to chat, I'll chat with you."

David could not say anything more

He only hoped they would send the treasures over so he could complete the transaction soon.

David would not be free from anxiety until he got the lavish points.

It was like not getting paid after finishing a sale.

“David, may I know how you know Alba? Can you tell me?” Valerio asked.

He instinctively thought David might be the person Alba mentioned who could help the Fellowes family out of their current predicament.

As for how, Valerio did not know, so he needed to understand.

To be honest, when Valerio was making his speech before the auction, David could tell he had a special relationship with Alba.

Both were surnamed Fellowes.

One was the head of Treasure Trove while the other one was the third young mistress of Treasure Trove.

Therefore, even fools could tell they had an extraordinary relationship.

They might even be relatives.

Since Valerio asked, David briefly told him about how he met Alba

He told Valerio everything that he could, but at the same time, he also never spoke a word of what he should not, for example, their cooperation.

Valerio also knew it was impossible to find out anything from David, so he did not continue prodding.

He soon changed the topic.

“David, you’re not from the Central Sacred Continent, right?” Valerio asked.

“No. I just got here I heard this is the most prosperous place in Star Kingdom, so I came to experience it myself,” David answered

“I see! I was wondering why I never heard about you in the Central Sacred Continent before. You must know that there aren’t a lot of young people who can take out more than ten trillion Star Dollars in one go.”

“My master gave me the money I trained with him back then and I was only recently let out.” David contemplated for a while and decided to mention his master.

Valerio was obviously an important core of the Fellowes family

If David wanted the crazy plan in his heart to work, he needed help from someone like him.

“Oh? Who’s your master?” Valerio’s interest was piqued

“I’m sorry, Mr. Valerio. My teacher doesn’t allow me to mention his name.”

“I see! Where do you live then?”

David shook his head and said apologetically. “I can’t say either.

I’m sorry

I can’t disobey my master’s orders. I hope you understand, Mr. Valerio.”

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 1745—David and Valerio were chatting.

It seemed like they were chatting, but in reality, Valerio was asking David all kinds of questions.

With David’s intelligence, he naturally knew that Valerio was indirectly probing about his identity.

Therefore, he repeatedly mentioned that he had an amazing master.

He said he had always trained with his master and was only recently let out.

As for the other points, apologies, but David would only answer perfunctorily Valerio also realized he would not get the answer he wanted by asking like this. Therefore, he changed the way he asked and started chatting about domestic trivia with David.

Of course, David was not stupid.

With the increase of his mind power, his IQ and wits also increased.

No matter what Fellowes said or asked, David’s answer would be invulnerable, not exposing even the slightest bit of information about himself.

David would only let Valerio know the things he wanted him to know

As time went by, David started to get impatient.

His 110000 lavish points were right in front of him. As long as they completed the transaction, he could become a Saint once he got them.

However, he was stuck here chatting with Valerio.

This was torturous.

As David was thinking of a way to escape

Knock knock knock!

Someone knocked on the door.

David was overjoyed.

“Are the treasures here?

‘Can I complete the transaction now?’

David was ecstatic as he thought about that.

However, Valerio frowned and asked, “Who is it?”

He had ordered everyone in advance that no one was allowed to interrupt him without his permission.

Who was so bold to ignore his orders?

Then, a clear voice said from outside the door, “Grandpa Val, it’s me.”

Valerio’s anger in his heart dropped in half when he heard that voice.

“Alba! Come in!” Valerio said.

Alba pushed the door open and entered the room. Then, she spotted David and Grandpa Val

The auction was over.

When she was looking for David, she heard that Grandpa Val had taken David away.

Thus, she rushed over frantically.

She was worried that David would start an argument with Grandpa Val. David was the person that could help her family out of their predicament, so they could not offend him.

As David looked at Alba's empty hands, his heart sank.

She did not bring the treasures.

He got excited about nothing.

"Grandpa Val Master David!" Alba called out.

"Hello, Miss Fellowes," David said politely

"Alba, sit down. I'm talking to David," Valerio said with a smile.

It did not seem like there were any disagreements between the two men.

She turned to close the door and then sat down next to the two.

"Grandpa Val, Master David, what are you talking about?" Alba was curious

"It's nothing. Mr. Valerio asked me here to talk about some domestic trivia. Right, Miss Fellowes, is the auction over After David answered the question, he asked again.

"Yes, it's over. The bidding process for the final few items went smoothly and it was not as exciting as your bidding against Archimedes. Master David, you've started something new. You'll be written into the history of auctions."

"Stop mocking me, Miss Fellowes. I know what I've done. I think everyone is mocking me now. However, Archimedes is still too weak to climb over my head, I can't stand him considering himself the top dog in the world."

“Don’t misunderstand, Master David, I’m not trying to mock you,” Alba quickly explained.

“It’s fine. I never care about what people think of me. It’s none of my business what other people think or say about me. I just need to do my own thing.” David said indifferently

“You have such a good attitude, David. No wonder you have such great achievements at such a young age,” Valerio praised.

Judging from how Alba treated David, Valerio was almost sure that this young man was related to the opportunity Alba mentioned.

Moreover, David was so calm after offending Archimedes. He was not worried about the Lightfoot family seeking revenge against him and even a partial Saint like Valerio could not see through him, Valerio was sure that David was not a simple person.

“Who’s his master?”

“Could it be

“Mr. Valerio, Miss Fellowes, the auction is over, so can we complete the transaction?” David asked expectantly.

“Since you’ve said that, you must be impatient to see your treasures. Please wait, I’ll ask the staff to send you your treasures now,” Valerio said.

Thank you, Mr. Valerio. Even though I bid on the Hammer of Thunder because I was fighting Archimedes, I do like that mid-level Soulbound Weapon a lot. It’s not easy to come across something I like. You can’t get something like that no matter how much you pay for it. To be honest, the Hammer of Thunder is more important than a high-level Soulbound Weapon” about:blank

“I never expected you to be so temperamental and bold to pay such a high price for something you like. To be honest, I wouldn’t even dare to be as wilful as you as the head of Treasure Trove.”

After Valerio gave out the order, the staff of Treasure Trove brought the four treasures David bid into the room not long after.

David did not pay attention to what the previous three items were. He only figured that the price was right, and that the price was much higher than what was sold in the first phase, so he bid on them.

The three items cost 298 billion, so each of them was less than 100 billion on average.

The price of the fourth item, the Hammer of Thunder, skyrocketed to 11 trillion Star Dollars.

The four items totaled 11 trillion 298 billion.

The four items were laid on the table inside the room.

“David, please check if these are the treasures you had bid on,” Valerio looked at David and asked.

“I don’t need to, Mr. Valerio Treasure Trove is one of the top five trading companies, so I believe you won’t do anything to ruin your reputation. Plus, I’m friends with Miss Fellowes. Even if I don’t trust you, I trust her to not lie to me,” David said excitedly.

He was finally going to get the lavish points.

He could taste Saint Realm and David was ecstatic.

Valerio saw his expression and was confused.

Why is he so excited about a mid-level Soulbound Weapon with his identity?

‘Even if he likes the Hammer of Thunder, he doesn’t need to be so excited, right?’

However, Valerio did not perform an in-depth investigation.

“If that’s the case, let’s complete the transaction. David, please transfer the money to Treasure Trove’s public account. After you’re done, they’re yours.”

“Okay,” David answered quickly

He used the system to transfer 11 trillion 298 billion Star Dollars to Treasure Trove’s public account.

The transaction was completed in a blink of an eye

“You’re such a straightforward person, David. They are now yours,” Valerio said with a grin.

Even though he knew David would not bid for fun, Valerio could not help lamenting when he saw the money arriving in the account.

'This kid is so f*cking loaded.

Judging from his performance, he definitely has more than 11 trillion."
