I am a quadrillionaire chapter 1831—Anders smashed every treasure in the room.

He only stopped once there was nothing intact and there was nothing left for him to smash.

If he continued, he might have turned the entire building upside down.

He stood there with red eyes.

He looked like a beast in rage, wanting to tear apart everything he saw.

“Arion, Tanner, Rooney, Domingo, Nithe, and David! And the Lightfoot family and the Fellowes family, you’re something else. You’re really something else! I will remember you all. I, Anders Palmore, will not give up if I don’t crush you to pieces in this lifetime!” Anders spat through gritted teeth.

After he vented the anger inside his heart, he started to calm down.

It had already happened, so he could not do anything more.

No matter what, he should take care of the problem in front of him first.

So many of the geniuses from Star Kingdom were waiting for him. If he did not go out, he would be the laughingstock of everyone present.

After recomposing himself, Anders pushed the door open to go out.

When all of the servants of the Palmore family saw him walking out, they bowed and called out respectfully, “Master Anders!”

“What are you doing here? Don’t you have anything else to do?” Anders asked.

Even though he did not sound angry, his tone was enough to send shivers down their spines.

They were worried that Anders would hurt the innocent.

Everyone knew Master Anders had a peculiar temper.

What could they do if he killed or crippled all of them for no reason?

“M-Master Anders, w-we’re here to get you to h-host the party,” one of the servants said while shivering.

“Did I ask you to do that? Do you think I don’t know about such a huge thing?” Anders continued asking.

“Yes! Master Anders, you’re right. We’re wrong! We’re wrong!”

“Since you’re here to get me, why are you all standing outside? Why didn’t I hear any knocking?”

“W-We were worried that we’d disturb you!”

“I think you were scared that I would vent my anger on you! Hmph! You’re just a bunch of good-for-nothings!” Anders huffed heavily and strode away.

After Anders was gone, all the servants let out sighs of relief.

That was so scary.

They thought Master Anders would vent his anger on them.

Luckily, even though he was mad, he did not lose his mind.

Anders came to the venue and found that thousands of people had already gathered there.

The people who were invited were all the outstanding younger generation of Star Kingdom.

The forces behind them were not weak.

If one were to compare them on an individual basis, they were very inferior to the Palmore family.

However, if they united, they were a very powerful force.

Therefore, Anders had no choice but to attach importance to them.

When they finally saw Anders, they stood up.

‘The star is finally here.’

Everyone knew the other five among the Star Kingdom Six were not here.

Therefore, they thought this party today would fall flat.

After all, if the five among the six were not here, how would they call this a party?

This would be such a joke if word got out.

Anders walked onto the stage and looked at the thousands of people under the stage. He endured the burning sensation on his face and announced, "Geniuses of Star Kingdom, I am sorry. Since we encountered an accident, we can't continue hosting this party anymore. As the host, I sincerely apologize to everyone here. I hope you all won't mind."

After he said that, he bowed to the thousands of geniuses below the stage.

Without attention and the other five from the Star Kingdom Six, what would be the purpose of this party?

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 1832—If Anders went ahead with the party, then he would be the joke of the entire Star Kingdom if word got out.

At least four of the Star Kingdom Six needed to be present for them to represent the entire Star Kingdom.

If not, this would be a joke.

Furthermore, Anders was not in the mood to host a party anymore.

What he did shocked everyone.

No one expected an arrogant person like Anders to apologize to them.

He was one of the Star Kingdom Six!

Plus, he was the youngest partial Saint among the Six!

This identity was a little intimidating.

The Six were like gods among the younger generation of Star Kingdom.

Anders, a partial Saint, was on the same level as the person in charge of a lot of major forces.

One must know that the head of the Palmore family and Anders' grandfather, Soren, was just a partial Saint.

He was just a little older than Anders.

If someone got into Saint Realm, they would be on the same level as a grandmaster in any force.

So, it could be said that Anders' position as the head of the family was almost unshakable unless he refused the position in favor of focusing on cultivation.

After Anders said that, someone below the stage started to suck up at him.

"What are you saying, Master Anders? We came for you. If we can see you, then this trip isn't made in vain."

"That's right! The reason I came here is to see you, Master Anders. You're the youngest partial Saint among the Six. Now that I've seen you, I realize that knowing you by your reputation can't compare to meeting you in person. I'm very satisfied."

"Me too!"

"Me too!"

The geniuses below spoke one after another.

Of course, it was unknown who was being genuine and who was lying.

Anders looked at the geniuses below speaking highly of him..

Honestly, he loved being the center of attention.

Unfortunately, he wasted a chance to surpass all of the younger generations and became the number one among them.

His hatred toward Arion and the other four, David, and the Lightfoot and Fellowes families was even more intense now

He wanted so badly to kill all of them.

Anders lifted his hands to tell everyone to be quiet.

The geniuses below the stage immediately shut their mouths.

"I am overwhelmed by your compliments. Everyone here today is my friend and if you need anything in the future, please come to me. As long as it's within my power, I will never say no," Anders said righteously.

“Thank you, Master Anders!”

“Thank you, Master Anders!”

Everyone below the stage put their hands together to show their gratitude.

Of course, they would not believe Anders. They all knew Anders was just being modest.

Anyone who believed him would be an idiot.

Now, everything was all about interest.

If there were enough interest, Anders would surely help them.

However, if there were none, he would not care even if they died.

Even so, it was good for them to show their face here.

Even though Anders would not remember all of them, it would still be beneficial to go to him in the future and tell him that they were at the party.

“Everyone, that’s the end of the party. However, I’m going somewhere else and am wondering if anyone is interested in going with me?” Anders asked all of a sudden.

“Master Anders, where are you going? I will go with you no matter where it is!”

“Me too!”

“Me too!”

“Alright, since you’re so enthusiastic about this, then let’s head to the Central Sacred Continent. That’s where all the influential people in Star Kingdom are gathering now. Let’s go and have a look to see who’s causing so much trouble!” Anders’ tone was laced with a hint of rancor.

“Everyone, let’s go to the Central Sacred Continent with Master Anders, what do you think?” Someone asked loudly.

“I agree! I heard there’s a young man whom the Lightfoot family can’t even handle. Let’s go see who he is!”

“I agree!”

“Come, let’s all go!”

“Come with me then. Our destination is the Central Sacred Continent!”

Anders waved his hand and brought thousands of geniuses from Star Kingdom to head toward the Central Sacred Continent.
