Chapter 1081 God's Will

'Turns out Andrew and Ada's mom was just an unknown woman who had sexual relations with Gilbert while he was drunk. No wonder Gilbert refused to tell me who Andrew and Ada's mom was. So that's the parentage of the two kids.'

For some reason, Kisa took pity on Andrew and Ada in her heart when she learned of their parentage.

'It turns out their first existence was not recognized or expected by the Kooper family. Moreover, their mom... abandoned them for money.'

Madalyn looked out of the yard with a walking stick and sneered, "Yes. That woman was sensible. She didn't come to make trouble for so many years. As for the reason why Gilbert didn't mention their mom in front of the kids, it's probably because he didn't want to make them sad."

George nodded, "I understood." He said quizzically after a pause, "However, the day when Andrew and Ada were born was also the day Ma'am had an accident in the prison. Ma'am lost Master Gilbert's child, but Davian sent Andrew and Ada here on New Year's Eve that year. Maybe this is God's will."

Chapter 1082 He's Back

Kisa tensed up and listened carefully to the noises outside. She heard the squeal of brakes in the courtyard downstairs. The sounds were jarring and pierced through the still of the night.

'Who'd be getting home this late? Madalyn, George, and the kids are at home. No one's sick here, so it certainly won't be Kelvin. I'm sure it isn't Davian either, as Gilbert isn't here. Could it be...Gilbert?'

Kisa got up quickly when thinking of this. She had no time to put on her shoes but hurried to the window, opened the curtains, and looked down.

The lights in the yard were dim. However, with a glance Kisa could recognize that the man who got off the car was Gilbert, as she was very familiar with his figure.

At this moment, maybe because of the guilt in her heart or some other reason, she turned and ran toward the door immediately. She rushed downstairs and opened the door.

Gilbert saw Kisa appear at the door as soon as he turned around, and he was stunned. But his look of surprise soon turned into one of endless longing and tenderness.

Gilbert noticed Kisa was not even wearing shoes while looking at her belly. She had just run downstairs in her bare feet, even though it was so cold at night.

Gilbert hugged Kisa horizontally and said with a little reproach, "Why didn't you wear shoes?"

Kisa was startled, then realized she was not wearing shoes. 'No wonder I felt some pain earlier.'

"I forgot," Kisa said softly.

Gilbert looked at her. He couldn't help but smile, "Were you that excited when you found out I was back?"

"Of course not!" Kisa denied it subconsciously. "I want to ask you quickly about the contract. Do you really plan not to punish me?"

Chapter 1084 What Are You Hiding For?

Gilbert came out wrapped in a towel with a puff of warm air around his body. He took a towel and wiped his hair casually a few times, then put the towel on the chair by the window.

The man had walked over when Kisa stared at him closely and thought about how to tell him. He tore off the towel directly, then got into the bed naked.

Kisa blushed and moved to the side immediately.

The man pulled her back. "What are you hiding for? You've seen it before."

Kisa's face turned redder when the man said it so bluntly. She pressed the quilt and separated both of them with it.

Gilbert glanced at her movements and could not help but smile. He did not force her to stay close to him.

'It's okay that she's not clinging to me. If she was, I might not be able to control myself.'

Kisa opened her eyes dreamily.

She could vaguely see the man's deep and affectionate gaze, which looked sincere, especially after a whole night of not sleeping and doing the deed.

Kisa fell asleep again after opening her eyes for a moment.

Gilbert wanted to talk to her as he thought that she was awake, but she went back to sleep again.

He smiled helplessly. I wonder how tired she is.'

He brushed her hair on her cheeks gently before giving her a peck on her pinkish cheek.

Then, he said softly, "Just sleep. I really want us to have another baby. This time, we'll raise him together without missing any part of his childhood."

Kisa heard what he said through her half-asleep daze.

She was confused.

'Why did he say another baby? Have I ever got pregnant with his baby?

'I guess he probably said a baby, not another baby.

“What are you afraid of? You’ll eventually get pregnant anyway.” Gilbert gave her a piece of tuna sandwich and said unconcernedly.

Kisa frowned. “You can’t say that. You’re just lying.”

Besides, she had no plans to have a baby with him.

It was one thing to feel moved, but their complicated affairs were another. Kisa did not dare to be pregnant with his baby again at all.

“Gilbert, just be honest with your grandma. I don’t think what you’re doing is right.” Kisa said to him in a serious manner before Madalyn came back.

Gilbert grabbed her hands tightly and said with a smile, “Don’t worry. Grandma finally treated you a little better after so long. This is an opportunity for us, and we’ve got to make good use of it.”

“But she’s going out find out about it when nothing happens to my belly after some time. She’s only going to hate me more for it, isn’t she?”

She had no idea what was going on in Gilbert's head.

Gilbert saw Kisa going into her car and he strode in her direction. He shut the car door that was just opened by Kisa.

Kisa frowned and looked at him. "What are you doing? I need to go to the set now."

"I'll drive you there."

"It's fine. I can get there myself." Kisa pushed him away as she spoke.

Gilbert stood in front of her car door shamelessly.

"Come on. Let me take you there."

Gilbert smiled as he grabbed her arm and took her to another car.

Kisa turned her head and looked at him. She realized that he did not look like he cared about what she did about the contract, and he was even trying to please her.

Kisa could not help but feel guilty after seeing him like that.

She pursed her lips and asked, "Did you settle everything during your business trip?" "Kohen agreed to help me. I believe everything will be fine with his help. However..." Gilbert looked at her when he said that.

“Mrs. Kooper, I heard that Mr. Kooper made his way back here last night. Did he do that because of the baby in you?”

“Mrs. Kooper, when are you going to announce this good news now that Mr. Kooper has returned?”

The reporters scrambled among each other to throw her all kinds of questions.

Kisa took two steps back. Then, she looked at Gilbert’s car behind her and said to the reporters with a smile. “Mr. Kooper is still in the car, you guys should ask him directly if you have any questions. I need to get to work. Please let me through.”

The reporters rushed to Gilbert’s car and surrounded it after hearing what Kisa said. Kisa lifted the corner of her mouth.

‘Gilbert is going to be fully responsible for the outcome regardless of what he says to the reporters.’

Gilbert only got out of the car slowly after watching Kisa go into the set.

“Mr. Kooper, is Mrs. Kooper pregnant with your baby? When is the baby due?”

Gilbert placed his finger in front of his lips and said mysteriously. “Shh. Stop asking me about it. She wouldn’t let me tell anybody anything!”

Shaun chuckled scornfully. "Ms. Mia, when have you become so merciful? You're worrying for your enemy!"

"I'm not worried about him. I just don't want him to do something he'll regret in the future."

Jensen was the person Mia cared about the most. She was afraid that the man would be blinded by his emotions and did something irreparable just to suffer the consequences himself.

"Hmph!" Shaun scoffed. "Mr. Kooper has never once regretted anything in so many years. You'd better not spoil his plan even though you don't want to help him "

"I'll tell you what. You'd better not try to do anything to Kisa's baby too. Otherwise, your boss is going to be the one suffering the most!"

Shaun smiled noncommittally. Then, he turned around and walked out of the room.

Such an act of revenge would have been even more exciting if he had dealt with them both himself. But now, because of the appearance of this child, Kisa would not be able to go all out against Gilbert. So, he stared at Kisa's belly with an icy look in his eyes.

"Uncle Adrien." Peter suddenly called out to him.

Adrien's face changed, and the icy look in his eyes vanished with an avuncular smile in its place. What is it?" Adrien looked at him.

Peter said, somewhat annoyed with a cigarette in his mouth, "I might have to go back to Oceanville after some time. Would you like to join me and meet my father? It seems like you guys haven't seen each other for quite a while."
