Chapter 1311 I've Been Wronged

Kisa froze, then turned to look at Gilbert.

She was lying down while he was sitting.

She could see the man's chiseled jawline and his dark eyes brimming with earnestness.

Kisa's heart trembled.

"What Did you say?" she asked in a tense voice. I'm saying our first child is still alive."

Hah! Kisa suddenly laughed sardonically. It sounded cold and ironic.

She continued, "Gilbert, haven't you hurt me enough? You're even telling me such lies.

I'm not lying to you. The child really is still alive."

"I slept with another woman and had children with her, yet you really don't mind at all?"

'How infuriating!' thought Gilbert.

The anger he had suppressed so far instantly shot up because of her.

'Ironically, she always complains to others about how quick-tempered I am and how I always have a dark expression, but does she hear herself always saying such infuriating things to me? If other men were put in my position, wouldn't they be angry too? he thought.

However, Kisa still resented him because of the child, so she looked at him and lied, "I don't mind, really. Now that I think about it, that outrageous night you had with the woman happened not long after we got married. You didn't acknowledge me as your wife back then and disliked me. That's why I don't have the right to mind you being with other women, right?"

She was purposefully saying such things to make him shut up.

Gilbert's gaze darkened further. There was evident hostility churning in his eyes.

With a tense expression, he asked angrily in an icy tone, "Did you make up what I did with that woman in your head by yourself, or did you hear it from someone?"

Right after Kisa spoke, she turned around so that her back was facing Gilbert.

Gilbert stared deeply at the back of her head and did not continue explaining himself.

'This woman's always been stubborn. Besides, she refuses to believe me, so there's no use if I don't have concrete evidence, he thought.

When he thought of Kisa's unconcerned and icy words just now, he felt angry.

He subconsciously tightened his grip on the woman's waist as he got angry. He wanted to mold her into his embrace

At first, Kisa gritted her teeth and endured his perverted way of hugging.

When she felt the pain coming from her waist, she finally lost her patience and growled lowly. Loosen your grip. Are you trying to strangle my current baby to death?"

Gilbert instantly retracted his arms as if he had touched something hot.

"You... You Did I hurt you just now?"

"Mhm!" Kisa answered quietly.

When she thought of how the man cared about the baby in her this much, she felt a mix of emotions.

"Garden? Silhouette of a woman?"

Gilbert frowned deeply. "Why'd you have such a dream? You even had the same dream twice. Have you been to that garden? Do you know that woman?"

Kisa shook her head.

"I find it odd too. Ever since I started staying at the Mullen residence, I've been having this dream. I also keep finding the Mullen residence really creepy."

Gilbert stroked her back gently, "Alright It's just a dream, not a foreshadowing Otherwise, you may as well be Superman."

The man said in a feigned light-hearted tone. He was just trying to calm the terrified woman down. Her forehead was drenched in sweat; it seemed like she was terrified by her dream.

Kisa nodded, "I also don't think it's a foreshadowing. I would think it's a coincidence if I had such a bizarre dream once since I've changed to a different place to stay and am not used to it. But this is the second time I'm having this dream, so it's really weird."

"After this, go see Kelvin."

Kisa turned to him in astonishment, "What? Does Kelvin also know neuro-hypnotism?"

Gilbert got up.

"I heard that a summer retreat was built in there; a water pipe connects to the stream of the mountain beside. The water's cool during the summer and warm during the winter. Moreover, its interior is also exceptionally stunning. I also heard there's a massive garden that looks like paradise."

A garden? wondered Kisa.

For some reason, she suddenly thought of the bizarre garden in her dream.

She could not help but shudder

Moments later, she shook her head.

It's just a dream. How could it be so coincidental? she thought.

She looked at Gilbert, "Do you really buy it? A summer retreat?"

Gilbert shook his head, "Of course not. After all, there's no need to act so mysteriously and guarded if it's a summer retreat."

Gilbert was leaning on the wall in the courtyard outside. When he heard Kisa's words, his heart clenched.

Back then, she must've had the mentality that she was definitely going to die. Thankfully, she survived. Otherwise, what would I do? he thought.

"But I... I'm worried that I'll get my hopes up for nothing, "Vivian gripped her blanket and said dejectedly. She was feeling a mix of emotions.

Just as she was about to speak, three persons entered the courtyard.

It was Mr and Mrs. Mullen Sr., and Adrien.

Seeing Adrien, Kisa got an idea. She said to Vivian, "You should give it a shot, even if it's a small glimmer of hope. Otherwise, how will you stand up and make that person pay? Go find that person and avenge yourself, right?"

Then, she subtly glanced at Adrien.

"That's... That's for Mrs. Kooper, sir. I can get you another cup if you want some."

The servant seemed really panicked and almost reached out to snatch the cup back.

Kisa stared at the servant skeptically. She had a nagging feeling something was off.

'It's just a cup of tea. Besides, Kelvin is here to treat Ms. Mullen's legs; this makes his status more distinguished than mine, so that cup of tea should be given to Kelvin first. Since Kelvin had snatched it away himself, it should be fine. Why's this servant in such a panic?' she wondered.

"I can't drink it just because it's for her?" Kelvin glanced at the servant icily.

He continued, "As a guest of the Mullen family and someone who's here to treat Ms. Mullen's legs, I can't even have a cup of tea when I'm thirsty?"

Then, he downed the entire cup of tea angrily.

'Tsk! I'm the young master of the Hoover family and have an entourage whenever I leave the house, yet here I am, being sidelined by a servant. I'm speechless,' thought Kelvin.

Mrs. Mullen Sr. was worried that Kelvin would get angry, so she quickly reprimanded the servant, "Mr. Hoover is our guest; how could you be so inattentive to him. Since he's already taken the tea, get Mrs. Kooper a new cup."

"Yes... Yes."

The tea was refreshing.

After that, Kelvin began treating Vivian with his needle technique for the first time.

Kisa was a little annoyed when she thought about how Gilbert did not stay with her after coming here together.

So, she went outside to look for him.

However, she did not see Gilbert anywhere. The only signs he had been around were a few cigarette butts around the edge of the wall.

She glanced at the logo on the cigarette butts and found out that it was Gilbert's go-to brand.

'It seems like he stayed here for some time.'

Kisa looked up and gazed around, but still could not see him anywhere. 'He probably left,' she thought to herself.

Then, she turned around and looked at Kelvin and Vivian.

Kelvin had a thin and long needle made of silver in his hand. Then, he poked it into Vivian's leg carefully.

Vivian looked very nervous and excited.

'I guess the treatment isn't going to be done anytime soon.'

Kisa thought to herself. Then, she turned around and walked toward the ancestral hall.

"What's the point of you forcing her to be with you?"

"You should know very well that everyone in your family, including you, looks down on her. None of you will ever let her be a part of the Mullen family. Why won't you just leave her alone? If you really care about her, you should've been more considerate and defended her when you had the chance, instead of treating her like trash. Not only that, why did you blame her for embarrassing you when she was the one who was mistreated?"

"Hmph. Care?" Anthony scoffed. "I've slept with so many women. She's the worst and cheapest one I've ever been with."

Kisa clenched her fists and smiled coldly. "Doesn't that just give you one more reason to leave her? None of the women you slept with had treated you genuinely other than her."

"Is it that hard for you to let go of a woman that you don't care about, yet loves you so much?"

"Shut up!"

Suddenly, Anthony yelled at her.

Then, he said to Kisa coldly with his bloodshot eyes, "You'd better stay out of this."

Kisa stared at him indifferently and said, "I don't have a choice. She just loves you too much and she's willing to give up everything for you. The way you treated her so disdainfully and heartlessly turned the feelings she has for you into a weapon against herself. So again, please let her go. I don't want you to leave her no way out."

"What do you mean I didn't pay enough attention to you? Heh. Tell me now, what did you do to care for that baby?" Kisa gazed at him deeply and spoke in a sarcastic and indifferent tone.

Gilbert got mad and said in a low voice, "Just go ahead and think whatever you want then. It's not like you'd trust anything I say anyway."

He turned around and walked back to the main building in the mansion after saying that.

Kisa tightened her fists and as she froze in place.

'Why didn't he give me another month if he really cared about that baby? Why would he be so eager to send me to prison? He only acted like this because he wanted me to tell him where Sara was, didn't he? Hmph. Now he's telling me that he cared about that baby?! As if I'd believe him!' Kisa thought to herself furiously as her eyes reddened.

Gilbert noticed that Kisa did not follow behind him after walking for a while.

He sighed soundlessly. Then, he turned around and retraced his steps.

He saw Kisa standing under that big tree with her red eyes from a distance.
