

Read Novel Married At First Sight Chapter 1904

Novel Married at First Sight Chapter 1904 -A relationship ruined her and Hank, and Liberty, who was willing to end their marriage, was the winner, because Liberty got a new life.

Liberty, I'm sorry! I'm sorry!

This was Jessica's repeated words of apology.

The apology she owed Liberty was also a belated apology.

After reading Jessica's letter, Liberty was silent for a long time, and then said to the lawyer: "Hank is still in the ICU, his life and death are uncertain, and his fate is still uncertain."

Regarding what Jessica had done, Liberty also gave an answer: "I accept her apology, but I can't forgive her, at least not now. It's not because she interfered in my marriage with Hank, it's because she hurt my son Sonny. I can't forgive this person who almost killed the mother and son. If she still has a chance to correct her mistakes, let her reform inside, return to society in the future, and do more things that are beneficial to society, as atonement."

Lawyer remained silent. He silently drank the glass of warm water that Liberty gave him, and said: "Thank you, Ms. Hunt for your reply. I will bring your words to my client.

By the way, there is one more thing that My client said that if she and her husband, Mr. Brown, are gone, the house will be left to Mr. Brown's son, Sonny Brown."

Once, Jessica dreamed of having a house in the city and a home.

She took a fancy to Hank because Hank climbed to the manager's position at a young age, and also had a flat in the urban area, the location was good, and it belonged to the school district. Now, she wanted nothing but death.

If she couldn't die, she could use the little property she had to compensate Sonny, which was also her atonement.

Liberty: "We'll talk about those things later."

Hank was not dead yet.

Besides, Hank's parents were still alive. If he died, the property under his name would be inherited by his parents and spouse.

As Hank was not dead yet, Liberty wasn't willing to discuss the issue of inheriting the other party's property.

As for Hank's house, Liberty actually didn't want to fight for her son. If the Brown family agreed and Jessica gave up inheriting it, she would accept it if it was given to Sonny.

Without that house, she and her son would have a place to live.

Now Liberty was working hard to make money, and one day, with her ability, she could also buy a house, and she and her son would also have a home.

In fact, as long as she was willing, her younger sister, Serenity and her husband could give her a big villa at any time.

She didn't want to accept the gift from her sister and her husband.

She wanted to rely on her own ability to buy a house.

The lawyer nodded, "Ms. Hunt, I'm sorry to bother you, I'll go first."

Liberty sent the lawyer out.

Duncan also pushed the wheelchair out of the office by himself.

Liberty kept sending the lawyer out of the restaurant. She stood at the door of the restaurant and watched the lawyer get into the car and drove away.

After standing for a while, she turned around and walked back. Seeing Duncan pushing the wheelchair out by himself, she quickly stepped forward to help, asking, "Mr. Lewis, are you going to leave? I'll push you out."

"No, I came out to take a look." Duncan didn't get along well with Liberty yet, so he would leave now.

He planned to stay until evening, and then invite Liberty to dinner.

Most of the readers are now reading this novels:-