Married at First Sight Chapter 2090-Only Lucas was still naive, he was the youngest, he was not very old, he was doted on by his family, in the past he always bullied Sonny and took possession of Sonny's things.

Later, when he went to his uncle's house again, he couldn't see Sonny anymore, so Lucas would have no one to bully, let alone snatch things from Sonny.

It's been a long time since they saw each other, but when they met, Lucas's thieves were ready to move. He also thought that Sonny's clothes were very handsome, and he wanted them too.

"The children are used to calling you aunt." Chelsea took the bag of apples from Liberty's hand, and said, "You come here as soon as you come, and you also buy things, it's too polite."

She took a look, only apples.

Thinking that apples now cost several dollars a catty, and a bag of apples would cost tens of dollars, although Chelsea felt that Liberty was more stingy than when she came last time, but it was better than coming empty-handed.

The main reason was that someone treated them for the meal at noon.

Liberty nodded to Mr. Brown, Mrs. Brown, and brother-in-law George, saying hello, and then said to Sonny: "Sonny, give your father the flowers you bought."

The Brown family was very happy that Liberty fulfilled her promise and brought Sonny to visit Hank.

Hank was hospitalized and seriously injured, in Liberty's opinion, yet she was still willing to visit him despite their lengthy divorce. She was incredibly charitable and upright.

When the Brown family saw Duncan being pushed in by the bodyguard, none of them could laugh.

A bodyguard of the Lewis family was carrying two boxes of nutritional supplements in his hand. Under Duncan's signal, the bodyguard put the two boxes of nutritional supplements on the bedside counter.

Duncan greeted Brown family politely and said, "I came here to see Mr. Brown."

The Brown family looked at each other. In the end, Mr. Brown squeezed out a smile and thanked Duncan.

Knowing that his son had no chance to remarry Liberty, but seeing Liberty and Duncan coming together, Mr. Brown also felt unspeakably uncomfortable.

A daughter-in-law who could take good care of the family, their family lost.

It's hard to get it back now.

The ex-daughter-in-law already had a new suitor, who was a hundred times better than their son. As long as the ex-daughter-in-law was not blind, she would not choose their son again.

What about the adults, Sonny didn't notice that he was just a three-year-old child.

He walked to the hospital bed with the bouquet in his arms, looked at Hank on the bed, and Hank also looked at his son, and he had the illusion that it was like a world away.

He was like dead once.

After he came back to life, looking at his son again inspired his father's love.

"Sonny." Hank's voice was a little hoarse when he called his son, which was because of his excitement.

"Dad, I give you this bouquet of flowers. I bought them myself. I bought them for you with my own money." Sonny handed the bouquet to his father, feeling that his father had become a little different, he almost couldn't recognize him.

Hank lost a lot of weight, which made Sonny feel that his father had become different.

He stretched out his hand without infusion, embraced the flower bouquet handed to him by his son, and smiled brightly, "Sonny, you bought the flowers for Dad. They are so beautiful. Dad likes them so much, and Dad is so happy."

The Sonny knew to buy him flowers.
