Married at First Sight Chapter 2192-Jasmine was a native of Wiltspoon, and her family became rich because of the demolition.

Jasmine: "I don't want to go to the hotel to eat, but let's go home and eat. It's a bit far away. I'm hungry now."

Josh asked her: "Aren't there any snacks you like in the car? Didn't you say that? Prepare some snacks you like in the car, and when you go out, you can eat some snacks to pass the time, and you won't let yourself be hungry."

Jasmine: "I didn't go out much recently, I just went back to the store, so I didn't prepare it."

Josh: "I'll pass by the dim sum shop in a while, and I'll get off the car and buy you some food. Let's go back to your home to eat, it's not far away."

It's a bit far back from York Corporation to Bucham's house.

But it's not too far to go back to Sox's house.

"Alright." Jasmine happily responded.

Compared with her husband's family, which was full of delicacies, she preferred to go back to her mother's house to eat home-cooked food made by her mother.

Even if she went back to her mother's house to eat a bowl of porridge with mustard, she still thought it was delicious and comfortable.

After hearing what his young master and young mistress said, the bodyguard drove to Sox's house silently.

On the way, Jasmine suddenly sighed: "Seren is happier than me. She has a man who really understands her, and a husband who is truly enlightened."

Hearing this, Josh sat upright suddenly, turned his head to look at his wife, and asked cautiously: "Wife, what did I do wrong? I hope you can point it out, and I will correct it immediately."

Jasmine: "I understand you very well, too."

In Wiltspoon, whoever wanted to talk about the happiest women in the younger generation was her and Serenity.

Suddenly hearing Jasmine sigh like this, Josh was very nervous, and was also thinking about what he didn't do well, he might as well be Zachary.

Jasmine touched her belly, it wasn't too big, but she could tell that she was a pregnant mother.

"After Seren is pregnant, Young Master York will not force her to raise her baby at home. Young Master York understands Seren and knows that she can't stay with someone even after she is pregnant. Unless the doctor says she needs to rest at home, she will be like me. Now like this, I have nothing to do all day, and I feel like I'm wasting my time."

Josh: "...you don't have nothing to do, don't you go to the bookstore to look at the store every day?"

Jasmine was at a loss for words.

Josh took her hand and said with a smile: "I won't stop you from doing whatever you want. Sometimes I will satisfy you despite my mother's scolding. Look, my mother won't let you go out. Didn't I get scolded by my mother for a few days and still let you go back to the bookstore every day?"

Don't think about it, I mainly love you. I think that when a woman is pregnant, she needs her husband's care and company the most. So I don't socialize now, and I will go home to accompany you when I get off work. However, I really don't agree with women going to work every day after pregnancy. There is no way to do work."

Jasmine pursed her lips and said, "It's not that I don't know the blessings in the midst of blessings. I just hope that I can do whatever I want like before I was pregnant. You will support me as always."

Both her parents-in-law were very good, but they placed too much emphasis on the baby in her womb, wishing that she would lie on the bed every day and not go out and truly be a young mistress who stretched out her clothes for her hands and her food for her mouth.

Serenity: "Of course, I will focus on the child in my belly, and I will never do anything to hurt myself and the child."

Josh understood what she was thinking, kissed the back of her hand, and said dotingly: “It’s my family that puts too much pressure on you and never lets you do this or that. I’ll talk to my parents at night about the restrictions on you. Wife, I hope we can grow old together, and I hope you will be happy for the rest of your life.”
