

Read Novel Married At First Sight Chapter 2193

Married at First Sight Chapter 2193-Josh also admitted that since Jasmine became pregnant, his parents, even his uncles, valued the baby in Jasmine's belly and would not let Jasmine do this or that. She had to eat three meals a day according to the dietitian's requirements, and he also didn't let her go out often, worrying that she would get hurt or something.

The elders in the family wanted Jasmine to stay at home and raise the baby.

When Jasmine wanted to go shopping, the elders persuaded her in various ways and then asked Jasmine to make a list of what she wanted to buy and give it to the housekeeper, who would help her buy it.

Her life as a national treasure casts shadows even on Serenity; that's why she "negotiated" with Zachary when she was just pregnant.

There was no harm without comparison.

When Serenity was not pregnant, Josh was so kind to Jasmine that Jasmine couldn't say anything.

When Serenity became pregnant, Jasmine was envious of Zachary and Zachary's understanding of Serenity, and couldn't help complaining to her husband.

How many women look forward to resting at home after pregnancy, but in order to make a living, they have to continue to work, and some even work until the third trimester of pregnancy.

But Jasmine felt that she didn't have to go to work, it was too boring...

"Husband, thank you." Jasmine took his hand and stuck it to her face.

He was too good to her.

The thinking of the older generation was difficult for them to change. But Josh had tried his best to protect her.

"Don't take what I said just now, I just said that because of a momentary mood swing."

She knew in her heart how much Josh adored her but what she said was a kind of harm to him.

Josh: "I didn't take it to heart. If you are dissatisfied with me, you have to say it. Don't hold it in your heart and make yourself feel bad. If you don't say it, I don't know what I did wrong. It cannot be changed. I said before that I don't want you to envy anyone, even if she is your best friend. I want you to be the envy of others."

From the blind date to the marriage, the young couple went smoothly without experiencing any ups and downs or twists and turns. They may not be as good as Zachary and Serenity, but Josh worked hard to understand and tolerate his wife.

Josh: "Wife, if you have any unhappy things in the future, you have to say it."

Jasmine smiled, "Okay, as long as you are not afraid of hurting your self-esteem, I will say it."

Josh: "I'm thick-skinned and broad-minded. I'm not afraid of hurting my self-esteem. You can say that what I'm most afraid of is that you are dissatisfied with me, but you don't tell me what's wrong, so I can't correct it. I'm getting worse and worse than Zachary. Oh, I'm under a lot of pressure to have such an excellent buddy and boss."

But the wives of the two were still good best friends.

If Jasmine didn't compare Josh with Zachary, Josh would do it unconsciously.

Jasmine: "It's my fault, I put you under a lot of pressure, I just don't know the blessings in the blessings..."

Josh strangled his beloved wife's delicate body.

He did this so suddenly, Jasmine was caught off guard and plunged into his arms.

Her unfinished words were interrupted like this.

Josh: "My wife, you are not allowed to say those words. The elders in my family really have many restrictions on you. I know your personality, so it's hard for you."

When Jasmine was young, she wanted to break through and prop up a blue sky of her own.

So she and Serenity opened a bookstore together, and knowing that Serenity and Elisa wanted to invest in a vegetable and fruit company and contract a large field in the countryside to grow vegetables, she decisively joined in the investment.

It was originally a company of three people, a career of three people.

Because she was pregnant, she was asked to raise a baby at home, and to be a young grandmother who had no worries about food and clothing, and she was not allowed to interfere in anything. She must be depressed in her heart.