Always Been Yours Chapter 1485-Nicholas glanced at Gregory, who was standing to the side and wasn't the least bit surprised that he would expose this matter.

"I wanted to give you a surprise. Isn't it better to hear it in person than hearing it through the phone?"

Tessa couldn't refute that.

It was especially so since her heart melted the moment when she heard Gordon call her 'Mommy'. It was the best sound in the world.

Besides, this was also Nicholas being thoughtful of her, which genuinely warmed her heart.

He had always been using his way to treat her well and realize his promises to her.

"Thank you. I love this surprise a lot." Then, she stood on her tiptoes and lightly kissed Nicholas on the lips.

Gregory saw that and immediately covered his eyes with one hand as the other hand went to Gordon's eyes with a shout, "Mommy! That's naughty!"

After a while, Tessa joined them for a meal before heading to the orchestra.

She arrived at Group Two's practice room as per usual.

Everyone greeted her when they saw her, "Miss Tessa is here."

"How's today's practice?" She nodded and asked for an update.

But before they could say anything, Sofia came over with Tessa's seniors in tow.

"Miss Sofia," Tessa greeted politely.

Sofia nodded and regarded the room before announcing, "Since you're all here, I'll cut to the chase. Yesterday night's performance was a great success. So, Tessa, you'll officially be Group Two's music director from now onwards. I hope you can lead them toward a brighter future."

Tessa wasn't surprised to hear that and confidently replied, "I won't let you down, Miss Sofia."

To which Sofia nodded with a satisfied look.

Then, members of Group Two gave her their good wishes. "Congratulations, Miss Tessa!"

Tessa's seniors also teased her, "Tessa, shouldn't you treat us to something since you've been promoted?"

"Yes. You should treat us to a meal!"

Tessa laughed and nodded at their words. "No problem. Tonight's on me."

"You can't bring your family. We don't want to be forced to see you getting all lovey-dovey," Jenny teased.

Unexpectedly, her words were supported by many others.

"That's right. No family. I don't want to see that. Let me be single and happy!"

They couldn't be faulted since when Tessa and Nicholas were together. They were always so affectionate with each other.

So, Tessa laughed but still agreed to their conditions.

That night, they had a lot of fun and drank quite a bit. The smile on Tessa's face never once faltered.

She felt on top of the world.

When Nicholas went to pick her up, he saw her giggling in the room with glassy eyes. It was apparent she was drunk.

"How could you drink so much?" He walked over and helped her up, but his tone was filled with indulgent helplessness.

Tessa let him hold her and answered softly, "I'm very happy today."

He looked down at his delicate wife in his arms with loving eyes.

"You're that happy after becoming a music director?"

"No. Not just that. Gordon called me Mommy for the first time today too. I'm just so happy. This is a memorable day," Tessa drawled drunkenly.

Nicholas was dumbfounded by her reply. Nonetheless, he still carried her home and cared for her.

Two years passed, and Tessa held two solo performances that were all successful, and the tickets were always sold out.

Thus, she eventually got more famous in Vienna over time.

During this time, she composed dozens of classical violin music and landed herself a place among the maestros in the music industry.

As for Group Two, they became one of the most popular orchestras under her management.

Similarly, Nicholas also had good progress as he successfully opened up the foreign market for the Sawyer Group. As a result, the Sawyer Group was widely established internationally.

Always Been Yours Chapter 1486-Gregory was at the age to attend elementary school and was sent to study in a renowned international bilingual school in Vienna.

His favorite to do after school every day was to teach Gordon.

Now that Gordon was three years old, his features stood out more, and he perfectly inherited the best parts of Nicholas and Tessa.

One day, Tessa returned abroad after a group performance.

However, Sofia requested her presence the moment she arrived.

“You’re looking for me, Miss Sofia?”

She knocked on the office door and looked at Sofia sitting at the table with confusion.

Sofia nodded and asked with concern, “How was the performance?”

“It went well.”

Tessa nodded and briefly reported what had happened.

After the simple chat, Sofia got down to business.

“I’ve got some good news for you. A couple of days after you departed, I received an invitation from Wiener Musikverein. They have requested your presence to do a solo performance.”

Tessa was utterly stunned when she heard Sofia’s words.

“Is that true, Miss Sofia? The Wiener Musikverein sent me an invitation?”

She looked at Sofia incredulously.

Sofia fully understood how she felt at that moment and nodded with a smile. “Yes. I have the invitation right here.”

Then, she whisked out a black and gold invitation and placed it on the table.

Tessa couldn’t wait as she darted forward to pick it up. As expected, she saw the logo exclusive to Wiener Musikverein.

“I can’t believe it’s real.” She was so delighted and surprised that her hands were shaking.

Sofia watched Tessa’s reaction and couldn’t help but find it interesting.

Tessa had become more composed for the past two years as her fame grew.

So, it had been a long time since she saw Tessa emoting so openly.

Nonetheless, Sofia congratulated her, “Congratulations. You’ve finally achieved your dream.”

“This is all due to your guidance that I can be where I am today, Miss Sofia.”

Tessa looked at her with earnest gratitude.

She knew very well she wouldn’t be able to grow so fast without Sofia’s thorough guidance and teaching over these past two years.

Those words also warmed Sofia’s heart.

Although Tessa had become more well-known, she still remained humble.

They continued to chat for a while more before parting ways.

As Tessa exited the office, she couldn’t wait and called Nicholas to share the good news.

“You’re back?” Nicholas’ charming voice came through once the call connected.

Tessa nodded with a smile. “Yup. And I’ve got big news too.”

Then, she told him about the invitation from Wiener Musikverein before gushing, “I didn’t expect to achieve my dreams so quickly. I thought I would still need to wait a few more years.”

“This proves that you’re competent enough now.”

Nicholas praised her before suggesting, “Let’s go out for a celebration tonight. I’ll pick you up later.”

Tessa naturally wouldn’t reject his offer.

That night, Nicholas drove to Sofia Symphony.

When Tessa exited the building, she saw Nicholas leaning against the car, looking as handsome as ever.

Yet, she realized he was alone when she approached him and asked curiously, “Where’s Gregory and Gordon?”

“They’re at home,” he answered truthfully before pulling the car door open for her.

She assumed he came from the company and that they were going to pick up the children. So, she didn’t say anything about that and got in without another word.

As the car drove on the road, she realized something was off.

They weren’t on their way home.

“Aren’t we going to pick up Gregory and Gordon?”

She looked over in confusion.

Nicholas glanced at her and said with a deep look, “I don’t want anyone to disturb us tonight. The nanny will take care of them. You don’t need to worry.”

Tessa was dumbfounded as she stared at his handsome side profile and teased, “Haha. In that case, they will definitely cause trouble for you tomorrow.”

Always Been Yours Chapter 1487-“I don’t mind.” Nicholas honestly didn’t care at all.

Soon, the car stopped at a hot spring hotel.

Since Nicholas had already made a reservation prior to their arrival, the waiters began to serve the dishes not long after they entered the private dining room.

After their dinner, he led Tessa to the spa for some relaxation.

Since they were separated for at least half a month, there was no doubt that the two missed each other deeply. As a result, they didn't conceal their affection for one another throughout the trip from the spa to their room.

It was almost dawn by the time they were done.

Tessa was so exhausted that she couldn't even pry her eyes open. So, she just stayed in Nicholas' embrace as the latter attentively cared for her.

...

Thus, it was to no one's surprise that they only managed to wake up around noon.

Although Tessa was awake, she felt utterly lazy and had no intention of getting out of bed. Nonetheless, when Nicholas saw this, he was more than happy to help her out.

Later, the two finally arrived home and walked toward the front door while holding hands.

As soon as they stepped through the door, they saw Gregory and Gordon sitting on the couch with grim faces.

It turned out that the two little guys were well aware that Tessa had returned last night and had been waiting for her keenly in the living room.

Alas, their patience was rewarded with the news that Nicholas had taken Tessa on a trip. To the two boys that had spent their entire evening eagerly waiting for their mother, it was dreadful news indeed. Suffice it to say, Gregory and Gordon, had been sulking since yesterday.

"Meanie Daddy! You took Mommy out to have fun without Gordon and me. You've even hoarded Mommy all for yourself!" Gregory protested against Nicholas' unspeakable crime.

At the same time, Gordon, who was next to Gregory, nodded and echoed, "Daddy, you're bad. I don't want Daddy anymore!"

As for Tessa, she simply felt that both her eldest and youngest sons were extremely adorable despite their clearly sullen expressions.

So, she gloated, “Well, you started this mess, so it’s your responsibility to coax them.”

After that, she walked to the couch nearby and made herself comfortable.

Nicholas’ eyes were instantly filled with resigned fondness as he watched her cheeky demeanor.

After a moment of laughter and bickering, Gregory and Gordon eventually learned about Tessa’s upcoming performance at Wiener Musikverein.

Since Gordon was still young, he didn’t know how significant it was for a musician to perform at Wiener Musikverein. However, Gregory knew, which was why he was very excited on her behalf. “Mommy, your dream is about to come true.”

Gregory had always known the dream that Tessa was chasing and how hard she worked to achieve the said dream.

Tessa smiled and nodded. “Yeah, I’m about to accomplish my dream.”

Gregory was thrilled to bits.

Then, something seemed to have crossed his mind. He immediately rushed toward Tessa, hugged her, and asked earnestly, “Have you told Uncle Tim?”

Although Timothy had been studying abroad in the past two years, he would always send Gregory all kinds of bizarre technological inventions from time to time, and this courted Gregory’s favor.

When Tessa heard Gregory’s question, only then did she remember that she only took time to share this news with Nicholas and not her other friends and family.

“Oh, gosh. I totally forgot! I’m going to tell him right now.”

As she spoke, she took out her mobile phone to contact Timothy.

The call went through in a jiffy. At once, a handsome and sophisticated-looking young man appeared on the screen.

Timothy had changed a lot within these two years. Although he still looked as youthful as ever, there was a drastic change regarding how he held himself. He was more confident yet reserved.

“Tess, are you home?” Timothy looked at Tessa, smiling.

Nonetheless, before Tessa could reply, Gregory, who was next to her, eagerly shared the good news, “Uncle Tim, Mommy received an invitation from Wiener Musikverein, and she will be conducting a musical concert there!”

Timothy was astounded when he heard the news. “Is that really true, Greg?”

Even though he directed this question at Gregory, his gaze was entirely on Tessa.

Tessa nodded firmly with a grin. “It’s true indeed.”

“I will surely attend the concert on that evening then,” Timothy made his promise through the phone.

Of course, Tessa welcomed him. In fact, she even remembered to remind him, “Don’t forget to bring Sabrina along with you.”

“Got it,” Timothy replied with a nod.

Afterward, Tessa and Timothy chatted briefly. Their conversation mainly consisted of Tessa nagging Timothy to take care of his health and reminding him to keep to a strict dietary and sleeping schedule. She also warned him to pace himself lest he suffered burnout after working too hard.

Alas, her idyllic days with her family had to come to an end as Tessa transformed into a busy bee soon enough. In order to put on the best performance in her career at Wiener Musikverein, she immersed herself in her practice and rarely had time for anything else.

Meanwhile, the elders of the Sawyers were also delighted when they learned that Tessa would be performing at Wiener Musikverein. After all, those who were eligible to perform there were all internationally famous musicians.

That night, Stefania and Tobias waited for Kieran to return before discussing their plans with him, “Your Dad and I have already booked our flight tickets, and we will depart for Vienna tomorrow morning. On the other hand, you will stay behind, take care of the house, and manage the company during this period.”

Read Novel Always Been Yours Chapter 1488

Always Been Yours Chapter 1488-“Are you kidding me? I want to go too. Mom, Dad, why don’t you take me with you?” Kieran wailed and protested.

Tobias snorted softly, “Why do you want to go? It’s not like you enjoy such music.”

“Singles aren’t qualified to make requests,” echoed Stefania on the side.

Through this, one could tell that these two elders were highly discontent with Kieran's single status.

Although Kieran felt utterly frustrated by their treatment, he didn't dare to make a fuss any longer because he was already terrified of his parents, who kept urging him to get married.

So, he glumly finished his meal and then called to complain to Nicholas about the mistreatment he received after reporting the company affairs to Nicholas, "Mom and Dad have gone too far. How can they discriminate against me simply because I don't want to get married? I want to attend Tessa's concert too. Nicholas, please make them see reason!"

Nicholas was silent for a moment before he commented flatly, "I can't interfere with our parents' decision."

Unexpectedly, Tessa, who came into the office, happened to have overheard Nicholas' words. Hence, she was confused and inquired, "What did Mom and Dad do?"

"Tessa, please help me. Only you can help me now." Kieran interjected, cutting Nicholas off, and pitifully begged for her help.

Tessa walked over and looked amusedly at Kieran, who appeared on the computer screen. "Kieran, could it be that Mom has forced you to go on a blind date again?"

Since she was now part of the Sawyers, Tessa knew that Stefania and Tobias were often troubled by Kieran's reluctance to get married over the past two years. In addition, she also knew that the two even forced Kieran to go on a blind date almost every day.

Kieran immediately voiced his dissatisfaction about their biased treatment. In the end, he even went as far as to ask Tessa to persuade his parents on his behalf, "Tessa, tell me, aren't Mom and Dad's actions inhumane? The whole family will attend your orchestra performance, yet here I am being ordered to stay behind and look after the house by myself."

Tessa burst into laughter when she looked at the grievance in Kieran's eyes. "Actually, this orchestra performance will be broadcasted live via an online platform. You can watch it online on the day of the performance."

"But that's different. The actual atmosphere inside the concert hall itself will be far better than the atmosphere in a live stream." Kieran still wanted to get Tessa to help him.

Tessa shrugged helplessly and said, "In that case, I can't help you either. If I reason with them, thus siding with you, Mom will probably ask me to introduce my female colleagues to you. So, here's how I see it: Do you choose to come and watch me perform at Wiener Musikverein? Or would you prefer if Nicholas and I start meddling in your relationship affairs and get you a girl—”

“On second thought, I’m actually quite skilled at guarding the house. So, Tessa, you don’t have to go through all that nonsense to help me,” Kieran interrupted Tessa before she could say the word girlfriend.

Then, the three talked for a little longer and hung up.

Still, she couldn’t stop thinking of how fast Kieran changed his mind, so she amusedly wrapped her hands around Nicholas’ neck and said softly, “I wonder why Kieran is so opposed to the idea of having a girlfriend and getting married.”

As she spoke, something seemed to have crossed her mind, and she hesitated slightly, saying, “Could it be that Kieran has someone he likes but doesn’t want to let us know due to certain reasons?”

Nicholas narrowed his eyes at the possibility. The truth might really be as Tessa speculated. “I will have a good talk with him over this matter once I’m home and free.”

Tessa nodded.

At the same time, the media also reported the news about Tessa’s upcoming solo special performance at Wiener Musikverein.

When Tessa’s fans saw this report, they were stunned, which was quickly replaced by excitement. One by one, they left their comments, ‘As expected! Our Goddess is the most outstanding musician!’

The day before the performance arrived on Tessa’s doorsteps in a blink of an eye.

On that day, Timothy finally made it to Vienna with Sabrina.

“Uncle Tim! Miss Sabrina!” As soon as Gregory saw the two walking out of the airport, he immediately took Gordon’s hand and trotted over.

The two little guys hugged Timothy and Sabrina, respectively.

Timothy and Sabrina beamed and embraced the two little guys in their arms affectionately.

Tessa, who had also caught sight of them, also approached them with Nicholas in tow.

After a brief exchange of pleasantries, the group headed back by car.

After their meal, they sat on the couch in the living room, bantering harmoniously.

Nicholas and Timothy were talking about company matters while Tessa and Sabrina each held Gregory and Gordon and played with them.

As night fell, the two little guys became groggy as Sandman arrived to lead them off to Dreamland. Hence, Tessa asked the servants to take them to bed.

Whenever Timothy laid his gaze on his girlfriend, who was chatting and laughing with Tessa, it was always filled with utmost adoration.

The fondness in his gaze deepened a little after he remembered the other purpose of his visit this day. "Tess, Sabrina has always been curious about the music room you specifically used to keep your violin collections after she heard about it. Why don't you give her a brief tour?"

Read Novel Always Been Yours Chapter 1489

Always Been Yours Chapter 1489-Timothy discretely winked at Tessa when he said that.

Tessa froze for a moment before she realized that Timothy hoped that she would lead Sabrina away.

Fortunately, Sabrina didn't notice anything unusual during Tessa's momentary lapse since she did say that she was curious about Tessa's music room.

Thus, Tessa didn't say anything otherwise as she brought Sabrina to the music room.

Nevertheless, Nicholas didn't miss the sibling's silent interaction. So, once the two women had left the living room, he raised his eyebrows and looked at Timothy in amusement. "Is there something you want to tell me?"

"Nicholas, I want to propose to Sabrina." Timothy went straight to the point. "But I don't know what I should do or prepare, so I want to ask you how you proposed to Tess back then."

Nicholas was a little surprised when he heard that. Even so, he didn't hide the truth from Timothy. Therefore, he frankly told Timothy about the preparations he did for his proposal all those years ago. Toward the end, he asked, "So, that's what I did. What about you? What do you have in mind?"

"My original plan is to propose to Sabrina tomorrow evening after Tess finishes her performance while everyone is there. After all, the more, the merrier. Then, we will have a grand wedding after I graduate. She has been waiting for me for two whole years. I don't want to keep her waiting for me any longer than that." Timothy expressed his thoughts.

Timothy's well-thought-out plan surprised Nicholas. I didn't expect Timothy to have gone as far as thinking about holding a wedding. Speaking of weddings, this also reminds me that I still owe Tessa a wedding. Due to our circumstances, Tessa and I only registered our marriage license and never had a proper wedding.

A slight sense of guilt suddenly crept in as Nicholas thought of this. I can't believe I had forgotten this matter in the past two years.

Nicholas mulled over Timothy's words before finally saying, "I will ask Edward to help you make the arrangements for tomorrow's proposal. I will also be informing Tessa about it."

"Thanks, Nicholas." Timothy expressed his gratitude joyously.

Nicholas waved a hand to dismiss his thanks. "It's nothing. Besides, I have something to discuss with you."

"What is it?" Timothy asked.

"Tessa and I didn't have a wedding when we got married back then, so I want to make it up to her. I want our weddings to be held at the same time, and I plan to surprise Tessa with this matter." Nicholas conveyed his intentions.

Timothy naturally agreed to Nicholas' idea. "That is good news. Don't worry. Your secret is safe with me."

Afterward, the two began discussing the details of tomorrow's proposal and some other things about the joint wedding.

On the other hand, Tessa and Sabrina were clueless about what their significant others were planning.

Currently, in the music room, Sabrina was astounded when she saw Tessa's vast violin collection. "Tess, you probably spent a lot of time collecting these violins, right?"

"Not quite. In truth, a number of the violins in this room are my mother-in-law's previous collection, which she passed to me later. In addition, Nicholas and you all have gifted me violins from time to time in the past two years. That is why there are so many violins in this room."

In the meantime, the conversation between Timothy and Nicholas was still going strong.

After they discussed the wedding details, Timothy suddenly remembered the incident relating to Gregory.

Therefore, he stared straight into Nicholas' eyes and asked, "Nicholas, when will you tell Tess the truth about Greg?"

"I will find a chance to tell her after she realizes her dream." Nicholas already had a plan in mind regarding this matter.

Timothy nodded and didn't press the issue any further.

Then, the two talked for a while before they got up and went to find Tessa and Sabrina. After that, they went back to their rooms.

Once they were in the room, Tessa swiveled her head and looked at the man next to her. She could no longer restrain her curiosity as she questioned, "Did something happen? Why did Timothy hint me to take Sabrina away?"

"He plans to propose to Sabrina after your performance ends tomorrow, so he was asking me for advice." Nicholas was frank with Tessa and briefly told her the content of his discussion with Timothy earlier.

Tessa was initially surprised by her brother's plan since he had never told her about his plans regarding his marriage. Still, after she gave it some thought, she figured it was about time. Besides, Timothy and Sabrina have been together for three years. They should settle down and have a family of their own.

"Then, what's the plan? Do you need my help?" she asked curiously.

Nicholas nodded and said, "We do need your help with one particular segment."

Hence, he told Tessa Timothy's detailed plan regarding his proposal.

Tessa listened attentively before answering, "Got it. I will act in concert with the plan as well. I'll also inform the others to do the same tomorrow evening."

Always Been Yours Chapter 1490-Now that Tessa was made aware of Timothy's plans, she could barely wait for tomorrow's arrival.

...

Since Tessa would be performing tonight, she left for Wiener Musikverein early for rehearsals.

Currently, she was inspecting the equipment and dress backstage. Once she was sure that everything was fine and ready to go, she got ready to rehearse again.

Alas, just when she took a few steps, she found Alice, who was looking for her.

The instant Alice saw Tessa, she quickly walked up to her and reported, "There you are! Mona and Mr. Brooks are outside the theater."

Tessa was pleasantly surprised when she heard that. "Can you help me with this violin? Just place it back in its casing. I'm going to have a meal with Mona and Mr. Brooks, and I won't be back at noon."

Then, she handed Alice the violin she would use for her rehearsal before disappearing into the hallway.

Meanwhile, outside the theater, Mona, who initially stood side by side with Scott, was pushed aside when some fans recognized Scott.

Although she was frustrated at their rough treatment, she didn't voice her protest and merely gazed tenderly at the man who was giving his fans an autograph.

Such was the scene that came before Tessa's eyes the moment she came out.

She quirked her brow as she quietly approached Mona's side. "Aren't you jealous after seeing so many beautiful ladies gathering around Mr. Brooks?"

Mona turned her head and saw the mischievous look in Tessa's eyes.

"Why should I be jealous? After all, they're just fans, aren't they?" said Mona as she once again looked in Scott's direction.

At this moment, Scott had just finished entertaining his fans and finally strode toward the two women.

"It's been a while, Tessa."

"Indeed, it is." Tessa looked over with a smile.

After that, the three of them exchanged a few words and headed to a restaurant.

During the meal, Tessa realized that the relationship between Scott and Mona seemed to be the same as it was two years ago.

For that reason, she winked at Mona. Her gaze was as though she was asking Mona, "You still have yet to make your move on Mr. Brooks?"

Sure enough, Mona understood what her gaze meant, and an emotion that Tessa couldn't understand flashed across her eyes.

Just then, Scott suddenly stood up and excused himself, "I'm going to the bathroom, and I will be back later."

"Sure." Tessa nodded.

Thus, Tessa patiently waited for Scott to leave the table. Once he left, she immediately leaned over to Mona and asked curiously, "What's the situation with you and Mr. Brooks now? Why does it seem like there's no progress at all? Could it be that you haven't taken a single action in the past two years?"

"That's because I didn't." Mona nodded.

Tessa looked over doubtfully and voiced her concern, "This is a little unlike you. Did something happen?"

"Nothing happened. I was simply afraid that we won't even get to stay as friends in the future once I confessed my feelings." Mona expressed her worries.

If truth be told, Mona hid one thing from Tessa. Back when she and Scott had just gone abroad, there was a time when the atmosphere was right, and she wanted to confess her feelings but was firmly rejected. Nevertheless, she still remembered the words Scott had said to her at that time. "Mona, the most important thing for us now is to improve our respective musical ability. So, I don't want to think about other things for the time being. Do you understand what I'm trying to say?"

As Tessa had no clue about that, she was a little worried about Scott and Mona after she saw Mona being so cautious and indecisive.

After all, the two of them were her good friends. Therefore, she couldn't help instigating, "I think... Instead of worrying over nothing, why don't you just confess your love to Mr. Brooks openly? Time waits for no man. How many years do you have left to keep waiting like this?"

Mona kept quiet, but she actually felt what Tessa said was right. I'm not getting any younger, and my family keeps urging me to get married. Time truly won't wait for me if I don't confess now.

Tessa naturally noticed that Mona was somewhat swayed by her words, so she continued, "Think over it carefully. By the way, Timothy will propose to his girlfriend at the banquet after my performance tonight. I'm sure the atmosphere will definitely be good by then. You can actually try then."

"I... will think about it." Mona pursed her lips, but her voice sounded hesitant.

Tessa nodded and said no more about that issue. Well, love isn't a business for a third person like me. As a bystander, I can only support them but not meddle in their relationship. Furthermore, I genuinely hope that they will both get the happy ending they want.
