

THE VIRGIN'S REVENGE

Chapter 2 The horrendous event 2

The pain of losing her chasteness felt like a dagger was inserted and twisted in her heart.

Bethany struggled to stand up but the pain in between her thighs was so immense that she landed back on her kness.

Dizziness ofset causing her to black out.

In a store a few kilometers away, was a middle aged couple one seemed to be melancholic and lost in a trance.

"Stuart please drop that look of your's that's apparently is driving the customers away," the woman spoke out and it sounded more like a scold.

"Well can you blame me Betina our daughter didn't return home last night ofcourse i just can't sit around and pretend all is fine."

"May i remind you she turned sixteen and we all know what that means besides she's probably on her way back from Larissa's place so quit sitting around doing nothing and come help me move out the baggage for delivery."

Just then a young chubby boy with hazel eyes came running and shouting incoherently "dad....mom.... Bethany.....she....."

Stuart's heart beat surged and he stood up almost screaming out "she what Lucian."

Betina shot him a cold glare that calmed him down.

"Lucian sweetie take a few breaths slowly tell us what happened to your sister okay son."

Calming down he narrated to them how Bethany was rushed to the hospital unconscious, so they drove in a haste still dumbfounded at what could've been the cause.

On arrival they were directed to her room, seeing her on the bed unconscious they rushed towards her.

Stuart s aid in the most soothing voice "Beth princess wake up,look we are all here now."

She seemed to respond to his voice as she subconsciously moved her hands, slowly opening the pair of blue eyes that landed on her worried family.

"Mom," she called out in a faint cracked voice.

Her movement's brought a smile across Stuart's troubled face "oh princess you're finally awake wait here i'll go get the doctor," so je rushed out.

"Bethany what happened to you dear?" Betina questioned her seeing her bruised body and face.

But she was too weak to utter out a word after awhile, Stuart returned with the doctor and nurse who took her vitals.

Seeing the stabilisation of her vital signs, he invited them over to the clinical room so that he could discuss with them her situation.

Betina asked immediately she shut the door behind her "Dr.Alex what's my daughter's status?"

"Well from our examination Mr and Mrs.Rivera your daughter got a second degree perennial tear that spanned from the vaginal fourchette midway the vagina with moderate bleeding, but we repaired it under local anaesthesia and there is no need to worry," he said afraid of there reaction but he had to say it out.

Betina and Stuart exchanged confused looks and neither of them understood all that was said "wha.....what do you mean she got a tear."

"Look i'll be honest with you Mrs.Rivera this tear can occur when a person is subjected to rough sex."

It was times like these that made him hate his profession.
