Read I Am A Quadrillionarire Chapter 2356

I am a quadrillionarire chapter 2356-Therefore, he certainly would not forget to upgrade his Cloning when he had the chance.

He turned on the system and took a look at Cloning.

At present, his Cloning was at level 3; three drops of blood essence could summon three clones of the same strength.

By David's reckoning, 10 thousand lavish points were needed to advance to level 4.

Because only when his lavish points reached 10 thousand, a plus sign would appear in the Cloning column to indicate that he could upgrade.

When his lavish points were lower than 10 thousand, the plus sign in the Cloning column would not appear and upgrades were not allowed.

This showed that 10 thousand lavish points were the standard for upgrading Cloning from level 3 to 4.

Yet, it was unknown how many clones David could summon at level 4.

If it only increased from three to four, then David felt that the system was being too stingy.

After all, it needed 10 thousand lavish points.

The rest of the skills could be upgraded with only 100 points but the points needed for Cloning started at 10 thousand.

The next upgrade would need as many as 100 thousand. And the next, a million.

If David spent so many lavish points to only get one extra clone, it seemed a little unreasonable.

David supposed that every upgrade for Cloning would not only give him one extra clone.

However, that would not be known until after the upgrade was completed.

For now, his lavish points were still far from 10 thousand.

After he put away his system, he stopped worrying about Pebbles and his Cloning. Then, David contacted Beanie and Thor and asked how many days they could finish their work before heading to Amber City.

Both said three days was enough.

Since they needed three days, David did not urge them and give them enough time. He had nothing important to tend to anyway.

So, he told them that they would leave Wier in three days.

Then, David directly exited The Spirit Cage from his room.

Pebbles was gone so he did not have to run into the surrounding forest.

The best place to exit The Spirit Cage was the room in his own home.

No one would dare to come here.

Without the restraint of Pebbles, David was much freer.

He could leave and come back whenever he wanted.

There was no one here to bother him and this kind of life was David's favorite.

However, he was not used to it.

When he was with Celia and the others, his mind would often wander.

He would unconsciously wonder what happened to the girl. Was she in any danger? Did she need his help? Would she be kidnapped by the bad guys?

David would unconsciously think of Pebbles in these worrying scenarios beyond his control.

This would worry the women as they thought that something else had happened.

This had never happened to David before.

So, one by one, they gathered around to ask about him.

After a long explanation, David had to reveal to them a little about his strength.

He told Celia and the others that they did not need to worry about the Feather family.

Even if they came out in full force, they would not be able to cause any harm to Star Kingdom.

Now, he was not afraid of anything and no one could pose a threat to him.

This made everyone feel relieved.

However, they still did not dare to relax. After all, David's performance was a bit abnormal.

In those three days, David frequently traveled back and forth between The Spirit Cage and the real world.

He did that dozens of times.

Every time, he hoped that Pebbles was just playing a trick on him and would come back safely.

He was disappointed each time.

Slowly, David began to accept the reality of the situation.

It was unlikely that Pebbles will be back anytime soon.

As per the letter she left, she would come back for David after taking care of the thing that must be done.

David did not know what else he could do except wait.

'I should continue to improve my strength.

'It would be bad if Pebbles comes back and needs help but I didn't have enough strength.'

Finally, David found the motivation to move forward again!
