

Chapter 1337 No Information Found

Suzanne's encounter with Jeremy was purely serendipitous, happening just as she was stepping into entrepreneurship after parting ways with the Duncan family. ²

Those initial days were steeped in challenges. Bereft of the Duncan family's support, her entrepreneurial journey hit a series of stumbling blocks. Teetering on the brink of surrender, Jeremy materialized, bearing a remarkable solution—a miracle medication.

This medication catalyzed her transformation into a widely recognized Internet celebrity.

The revenue garnered from her Internet fame facilitated the founding of Star Entertainment, a feat that repositioned her as an influential figure orchestrating the company's moves.

Furthermore, Jeremy's revolutionary medication ensured that every influencer under her banner achieved stunning success, enabling them to relaunch their careers with radiant appearances. Star Entertainment rapidly ascended the industry ladder, nearing a monopoly within the Internet celebrity sector.

Despite growing closer to Jeremy, Suzanne couldn't comprehend the depths of his loathing. However, she was acutely aware that his animosity towards Brandon ran bone-deep, and his sadistic tendencies bordered on the extreme.

Intrigue sparked within Suzanne. She found herself eagerly anticipating the unfolding drama and its eventual winner.

Moreover, she stood to gain the most as the conflict between Jeremy and Brandon escalated.

Should she win Janet's confidence only to double-cross both Janet and Brandon later, the ensuing drama would be even more riveting...

Suzanne lounged by the window, cradling a glass of red wine. A sinister smile, mirroring Jeremy's own, played on her crimson lips.

In the tech division of the Larson Group, Brandon was ill at ease, opting to personally monitor the surveillance footage around Suzanne's company alongside Sean.

Weeks of sleepless nights spent in investigation left Brandon's eyes tinged red and exhaustion evident in his features. Yet his voice retained its characteristic calm. "Have we examined every individual entering and exiting their premises? Noticed any unusual activity?"

Sean confirmed with a nod. "Every individual has been examined. One person did stand out as peculiar. He doesn't appear to be associated with Star Entertainment's roster of Internet celebrities."

The surveillance footage zoomed in on a man, dressed in black attire and donning a hat. Sean pointed him out. "This guy is Jeremy Button, the new head of the Turner Group. I can't fathom his business with Star Entertainment."

Brandon's brow furrowed as he scrutinized the man on screen, deep in contemplation.

Jeremy had been on his radar ever since he took over Vivian's shares given by the Turner family and seized control of the Turner Group.

Initially, Brandon had dismissed Jeremy as a crafty entrepreneur seeking to amass wealth through his acquisition of the Turner Group.

However, his suspicions piqued upon learning about Jeremy's association with Suzanne and witnessing his departure from Star Entertainment.

An unsettling feeling gnawed at him.

When Vivian had set her sights on him and Janet, Jeremy had likely played a role. Additionally, the links between Vivi's demise and Jeremy seemed irrefutable. Could all of these merely be a coincidence?

Cold determination filled Brandon's narrowed eyes. Whether or not Jeremy was directly involved, these seemingly random occurrences were certainly not as innocuous as they appeared!

Jeremy might just be the key to unraveling this mystery.

Brandon immediately dispatched his team to dig deeper into any potential connections between Jeremy and Vivi. He was also keen to uncover Jeremy's activities and interactions preceding Vivi's death.

But, despite exhaustive efforts, the investigation drew a blank.

Perusing the report handed to him by his subordinates, the disconcerting sensation within Brandon amplified. "Everyone leaves a trace. How is it possible that we've found no evidence of his actions?"

Sean shared Brandon's puzzlement. "It's as though his trail has been meticulously wiped clean. Information about him is severely limited, confined to a handful of basic facts available online."

Tapping a rhythm on the table, Brandon's gaze hardened. "Continue the investigation. I refuse to believe that we can't uncover anything substantial about him."

Chapter 1337 No Information Found

Taking note of his instructions, Sean intensified the probe into Jeremy.

Brandon swiveled his chair towards the screen displaying Jeremy's image, his eyes icy.

He was intent on unraveling the enigma of Jeremy.