

Chapter 859 The Golden Retriever In The Zoo

After getting out of the car, Trevor and Harmoni walked into the zoo side by side.

One would think they were a couple upon taking a cursory look at them.

However, that wasn't the case. It was all part of Harmoni's plan to create a romantic atmosphere in order to get close to Trevor.

Trevor, knowing this to be Harmoni's plan, couldn't help but sigh inwardly.

He pretended not to notice as he called Cecelia, intending to meet up with her.

"Hello Cecelia, Harmoni and I just got to the zoo. Where are you?"

Cecelia couldn't help but chuckle upon receiving Trevor's call.

"Come quickly. We are in the sightseeing passage between the lion area and the tiger area. Something interesting happened."

Trevor's eyebrows raised in confusion as he said, "Something interesting?"

"Yes, Lemuel met a friend," Cecelia said teasingly. "You'll find out when you get here. Come quick."

Trevor was surprised that Lemuel had a friend in Mordor. He was curious as to who this friend was. So he took Harmoni towards the place where lions were kept.

As soon as they approached the sightseeing passage, they heard Lemuel bragging in a loud voice.

"I've just introduced him to you. He's a native of Mordor. He's a big shot here in the city. Even the local bigwigs have great respect for Blake. Blake and my parents are close. They were classmates in high school."

Blake?

Trevor couldn't help bursting into laughter upon hearing Lemuel's introduction of Blake.

Looking into the crowd, he saw a bald figure whose head reflected the sunlight. It was none other than Blake, the leader of a local gang.

Carmelita stood next to Blake, an embarrassed look on her face.

Lemuel, still bragging about Blake's reputation, said, "Look at that golden retriever! See! Blake keeps his golden retriever in the zoo for exhibition. He plans to tame the dog in this way to make it fearless."

Carmelita seemed to recede a little more into her shell upon hearing this. Embarrassment was written visibly on her face.

Even Blake rubbed his bald head with a strange expression.

The couple knew that the crowd would be fascinated by a dog being kept among the lions in the zoo and that they'd feel only a rich and powerful family could achieve that.

However, Blake and Carmelita knew quite well that the dog's being there was as a result of Trevor's punishment.

They just went there to see their poor dog today.

However, Lemuel didn't know the truth. He just kept bragging.

He claimed that Blake was extremely powerful in Mordor in order to show he had powerful personal connections.

He turned around at that point and saw Trevor and Harmoni standing at the corner. He was taken aback.

He knew that Trevor would definitely get out of the elevator.

But he hadn't expected Trevor to arrive at the zoo so quickly. Nor had he expected him to show up with the beautiful woman named Harmoni.

Lemuel was jealous. Glaring at Trevor, he shouted boastfully, "Hey, Trevor. You've arrived just in time to see something interesting. I don't want people to say you still know nothing even after coming to Mordor."

Blake and Carmelita turned around and saw the smiling face of Trevor. Their faces turned pale with fright.

They stared at Lemuel angrily. They hoped Lemuel wouldn't get them involved in his attempt to provoke Trevor.

"Oh?" Smiling wryly, Trevor approached Lemuel slowly. "I'm curious as to what kind of interesting thing you're talking about."

As Trevor came closer, Blake and Carmelita broke out in a cold sweat. They shook like leaves in the wind while trying to maintain a facade of composure, all the while smiling uneasily.

Lemuel was oblivious to Blake's change of countenance. He thought he could capitalize on this opportunity to intimidate Trevor.