A Man Like None Other Chapter 4201-I Will Go Instead of everyone perishing there, the alchemists felt that it was better for those who could escape to do so.

Wyatt wore a troubled expression across his face. He couldn't just abandon them, yet he was powerless to stop the lightning from striking.

At that moment, Kai tilted his head back and gazed up at the lightning gathering in the sky, seemingly making a difficult decision.

"President Chance, I'll go and attract the lightning while you lead everyone else away from this area quickly!"

He made up his mind to venture into mid-air alone to draw the lightning power upon himself.

I already possess lightning nascence power now, so perhaps this lightning power for the test wouldn't be able to harm me at all!

"No, Mr. Chance! Wouldn't you be inviting death to take on the lightning power by yourself?" Wyatt hurriedly dissuaded.

Viola also paled with shock and exclaimed, "Don't mess around, Kai! How could you possibly withstand all this lightning on your own?"

"You don't need to worry about us, Mr. Chance. Just leave!" Sigurd likewise urged.

"Don't worry. I'm not going to die. Just leave this place as quickly as possible!"

After Kai had said that, he leapt up.

In mid-air, his body began to emit streaks of electricity that resembled electric eels darting around.

They spread across the sky continuously and began to draw the lightning toward Kai.

Everyone who witnessed that scene was completely stunned.

"What are you all still standing around? Let's go!" Wyatt promptly roared upon snapping back to his senses.

Kai is risking his life to buy us time. If we continued to tarry, we'd be letting him down!

Snapping back to reality, the group of alchemists hastily assisted those injured and ran desperately beyond the range of the lightning.

Boom!

A deafening boom made everyone jump in fright.

They all instinctively paused before looking up at the sky, only to see several thick bolts of lightning heading toward Kai.

In an instant, his entire body was enveloped by lightning.

At the sight of that scene, tears instantly escaped Viola's eyes.

"Kai!"

She had no idea about his condition as she couldn't see clearly at all.

All the alchemists felt their hearts clenching. They silently prayed, hoping that Kai would be fine.

"Keep going! Don't stop!"

Wyatt forcefully yanked Viola along, for stopping at that moment would be courting death.

Once again, everyone charged forward. Meanwhile, Kai teeth tightly, furthered bled lightning power filling his Raging lightning coursed through him, causing him immense pain.

Nascence space was activated. Lightning nascence star spun relentlessly, absorbing the lightning power within his body.

Boom!

Several bolts of lightning struck down once more. By then, Kai's entire body was trembling.

His face became contorted with agony as he clenched his jaw tightly.

His body began to swell visibly as if he was about to explode.

Absorb it quicker! Hurry! Kai shouted inwardly, urging his nascence star to absorb the lightning power faster.

Otherwise, it would have cause Kai's body to burst.

This is merely a test. Why on does this Medicine God have to rth make it so intense? Could it t that he doesn't want anyone to inherit his legacy?

In Finally, Wyatt led the others out of the range of lightning. Everyone collapsed to the ground, the sense of exhaustion and the feeling of having narrowly escaped death leaving them almost entirely drained of strength.

Viola looked up at the sky, staring at the sphere of light that was even brighter than the sun in mid-air.

She knew that Kai was in that sphere of light, enduring unspeakable agony.

Such terrifying lightning could obliterate a person completely.

Even an Ultimate Realm expert wouldn't be able to escape unscathed.

Having caught their breath, the alchemists also gazed at the sky anxiously, each of them beyond nervous.

After an indeterminate amount of time, the blue light in the sky gradually faded. The lightning slowly disappeared as well.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4202-A Miracle The massive sphere of light gradually began to fade until a single figure remained suspended mid-air in the end.

"Mr. Chance... Mr. Chance is there!" Sigurd shouted upon seeing that.

"This is a miracle! It's truly a miracle!" Wyatt couldn't help but exclaim.

Such lightning would have likely turned anyone else to ashes long ago. But astonishingly, Kai is still intact. I just wonder what had become of him now. Is he severely injured, or is all that's left of him a shell of a body?

As Felipe and Freya gazed at Kai in mid-air, their eyes brimmed with guilt.

He risked his life and went all out to protect us. Yet, we betrayed him and wanted him dead solely because of our interests. Are we even human?

"Kai!"

Leaping up, Viola headed toward Kai.

"Ms. Viola!" Sigurd wanted to stop her, but he was a step too late.

Without considering her safety, Viola dashed forward. At the same time, Kai plummeted straight toward the ground.

Bam!

He crashed heavily onto the ground, carving out a deep crater on impact.

With anxiety etched across her face, Viola hurriedly rushed over to check on him.

Everyone else's expressions also abruptly tensed up. They watched with bated breath, their hearts pounding in their chests.

Unaware of Kai's condition, they were all worried about him.

Viola cradled Kai. The sight of his eyes tightly shut and the scent of charred flesh emanating from him immediately had tears pour down her face like a faucet.

"Kai!"

Carrying him in her arms, she went over to Wyatt and the others.

"Mr. Chance!"

Upon seeing Kai in such a state, everyone crowded over.

Wyatt hurriedly checked Kai over. Then, he yelled, "Everyone, take out all the medicinal herbs you have on to treat Mr. Chance!"

Hearing that, everyone opened their item pouches and took out anything that could be of use unreservedly.

Wyatt began refining pills, tossing all the mystical herbs into the cauldron in one go.

He knew that Kai was very weak right then and needed a large amount of pills to replenish his spiritual energy.

That particular kind of pill didn't require any techniques to make, merely requiring a substantial amount of mystical herbs.

After Kai was fed the refined pills, he slowly opened his eyes.

"Kai, you're awake!" Viola exclaimed joyfully when she saw that Kai had regained consciousness.

"You're finally awake, Mr. Chance. If anything had happened to you, we would have felt guilty for the rest of our lives."

Upon seeing that Kai had awakened, Wyatt also let out a sigh of relief.

“As I’ve said, I wouldn’t die.” Kai rose to his feet and assessed his body. Only to that the lightning power within him had been completely worked by his nascent star.

“It was all thanks to President Chance who gathered everyone’s mystical herbs and refined pills for you that you were able to wake up!” Viola revealed.

“Oh...” Kai hadn’t expected Wyatt to actually go that far.

“You were the one who saved our lives, so giving up some mystical herbs is the least we can do, Mr. Chance!” Wyatt said with a slight smile.

“President Chance, the condition of those injured has started worsening now!”

At that precise moment, an alchemist came running over and said that to Wyatt.

Upon hearing that, Wyatt hurriedly went over to check on the injured. Kai followed suit.

Over a dozen alchemists were injured by the lightning. Although their injuries weren’t fatal, if treatment continued to be delayed in that manner, they might all end up paralyzed.

“Hurry up and treat them!” Wyatt urged.

“We’ve given up all of our mystical herbs, so we can’t treat them anymore now, President Chance!” an alchemist reminded.

Wyatt was taken aback, only then remembering that he had used up all the mystical herbs for Kai just now.

Kai examined the injuries of the alchemists before he turned to Wyatt and said, “There are mystical herbs on Cauldron Peak itself, President Chance. Bring some men with you and some back. There’s stiff time!”

“Okay, I’ll set off right away!”

Nodded, Wyatt immediately led some men away to search for mystical herbs.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 4203-Test It Out For Danger After about fifteen minutes, Wyatt and the others returned. Although they indeed brought back some mystical herbs, the amount was insufficient to treat the dozen or so alchemists. “Save as many as we can. As for the rest, it’s up to fate!” Wyatt said helplessly.

“These mystical herbs are sufficient!” Kai declared after a glance.

“They’re sufficient?” Wyatt exclaimed in surprise.

“Refining these mystical herbs into a dozen or so pills would be a challenge, no? Well, unless each one is a perfect pill. There can’t be the slightest failure either,” an alchemist chimed in.

After all, there was a certain chance of failure when an alchemist refined pills. The refined pills weren’t always perfect either, their tiers varying.

Hence, refining a single pill often required several corresponding mystical herbs, using the quantity to compensate for the low tier of the pill. For the same type of pill, lower-tier ones would require five to recover, while one of a higher-tier or perfect quality, needed only one. However, not just anyone could refine a perfect pill.

Kai didn’t utter a word. Instead, he took Divine Cauldron out directly.

By then, he no longer needed to guard against anyone.

Moreover, after the incident this time, he believed that the alchemists there wouldn’t covet his Divine Cauldron.

Upon seeing Kai’s Divine Cauldron, everyone gasped in astonishment.

They all stood frozen in place, their faces a picture of disbelief.

All of them were alchemists, so they were more than familiar with such a kind of cauldron.

When Kai took Divine Cauldron out, they could distinctly sense that it was an ancient cauldron.

Although they didn’t know that the cauldron was the legendary Divine Cauldron, they were certain that it was no ordinary item.

Kai tossed all the mystical herbs Wyatt and the others had gathered into Divine Cauldron.

As an ethereal blue flame flickered to life within Divine Cauldron, waves of intense fragrance wafted into the air.

About thirty minutes later, the flame in it went out.

Kai retrieved a dozen or so pills from Divine Cauldron.

Each one was incredibly lush, their luster absolutely dazzling.

“Perfect pills. They’re truly perfect pills!”

When everyone saw the pills Kai refined, their excitement was palpable.

“Please feed these pills to the injured alchemists, President Chance!”

Kai handed the pills to Wyatt before putting Divine Cauldron away. “Sure!” Wyatt nodded.

After the injured alchemists had taken the pills, their complexions improved significantly.

However, it was no longer possible for them to continue up the mountain anymore, for they simply wouldn’t be able to hold out if they encountered further danger.

Hence, they could only stay put or wait until they had recovered fully before going down the mountain together.

After making all the arrangements, Kai followed Wyatt and the others as they continued their journey toward the mountaintop.

But after they had traveled some distance, they surprisingly noticed that Cauldron Peak in front of them had unexpectedly turned semi-transparent.

A flight of stone steps also came into view before them. It seemed that if they wanted to reach the top they had no other choice but to take the steps. Everywhere else appeared semi-transparent, so nobody dared to take a step forward.

“It seems this is the final test. If one can climb these stone steps to the top, he uncover Medicine God’s thy,” Wyatt surmised, gazing at stone steps.

“Indeed. But this must also be the most difficult test. Let’s give it a try first. If there are any alchemists with lower cultivations, it’s best that they not ascend these stone steps,” Kai said observing the stone steps at length.

“Come, we’ll head up first to test it out. If there’s no danger, we’ll signal for the others to follow!”

Wyatt took the initiative to invite Kai to ascend the stone steps with him.

He was the most powerful right then, and although Kai’s cultivation level wasn’t the highest, his capabilities were also unparalleled. “Sure!” Kai nodded in agreement.
