Married at First Sight Chapter 2477-Carrie cursed in her heart: if she took back everything from the Newman family and had plenty of money, would she still need Mrs. Janzen's monthly remuneration of one million?

But Carrie hated Serenity and wanted to see her suffer misfortune.

If someone was willing to deal with Serenity, Carrie only needed to get some information. She didn't even need to face Serenity head-on.

Carrie thought it was feasible. She said, "Mrs. Janzen, I will prove it to you, but I just came out now, and my old mobile phone and bank card are probably in the hands of Blind Camryn. As long as I can remember, she and I have never dealt with each other, and she doesn't return to me. I need some money for some activities."

Mrs. Janzen took out a bank card. She put the bank card in front of Carrie and said, "Of course it is. There is something in the card. Thirty thousand dollars were used as an activity fund for you during the period when you first came out.

Miss Newman, if you have the ability, after eating, you can go back to your Newman family and get back everything that belongs to you, then come back. I also want my bank card back."

Carrie picked up the bank card and asked Mrs. Janzen, "What's the password?"

Mrs. Janzen: "It is XXXX."

Carrie put the bank card in her trouser pocket.

Mrs. Janzen was very stingy and was only willing to give her 30,000 dollars in activity funds.

This money, which was better than nothing for her. She had just come out and was penniless. These 30,000 dollars could solve her temporary predicament.

How much money did she want when she returned to the Newman family to take back everything she owned?

Carrie didn't know how many assets her family really had, but she knew that the Newman family had assets of over $100 million, but she didn't know how many billions.

In short, she had no shortage of money since she was a child and could buy whatever she wanted.

Unlike Camryn, whose life was worse than that of a servant, if she didn't work at home, she wouldn't even have food to eat.

"This is my contact information." Mrs. Janzen handed Carrie another business card. The business card only had Mrs. Janzen's phone number and nothing else.

This phone number was a new one that Mrs. Janzen bought recently. She had only told Carrie this mobile phone number so far. She said to Carrie, "Don't let the second person know my mobile phone number. Apart from you, no third person knows what I use to contact you."

Carrie hummed, "I understand; I won't be as naive and stupid as before."

Her parents pampered and raised her. As a result, she was arrogant and domineering. Before she met Serenity and Elisa, Carrie always thought that she could walk around in Wiltspoon and everyone would give her the courtesy, and no one would dare to offend her.

Before meeting Serenity and the others, no one would say anything to Camryn, and no one would dare to help Camryn stand out.

Although she didn't actually take advantage of Camryn, she often suffered a loss. At least no one dared meddle in Camryn's affairs like Serenity, who blatantly helped Camryn.

Nowadays, her parents, who doted on her, were not around, and they were imprisoned because of Serenity. The debt must be settled with Serenity. Carrie was also much more mature, and she knew that today was different from the past. She, the second young lady of the Newman family, was here. After being imprisoned for a long time, she became the laughing stock of others in Wiltspoon.

She would no longer run around recklessly like before. Instead of hitting the enemy, she would hit herself with a bloody head.

The waiter served the food.

Mrs. Janzen said to Carrie, "Miss Newman, eat first."

Carrie was not polite.

She hadn't eaten outside food for a long time.

Although the dining environment couldn't be compared to what she had before, it was still better than prison.
